ABOUT BAPUJI

Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel

Bapuji (full name: Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel, also lovingly called “Dadaji” by the younger generation) was born in 1956 in the small village of Akhaj in the Mehsana district of Gujarat. However, he spent his childhood in another village named Ambasan, also located in the Mehsana district.

In the early part of his life, he was a highly successful lawyer. Later, he devoted his life to realising the supreme spiritual truth and bringing this divine knowledge forward for the welfare of humanity. Today, this supreme knowledge serves as a guiding light for true seekers to realise their ultimate destiny. It is a blessing of the highest divinity that the present time is witnessing the rise of this supreme spiritual knowledge, guiding souls on Earth to return to their original source.

Despite being raised in a very poor family and facing challenging circumstances, Bapuji had a deep desire to transform this sorrowful and suffering world into a better place. At the young age of six, he questioned God repeatedly, asking why God remained silent about the suffering of humanity. This intense longing to end human suffering eventually led him to attain the highest level of spirituality later in life.

Even as a child, Bapuji would spend hours alone in the fields, often neglecting his own comfort. Due to poverty, he would walk barefoot without shoes or sandals, frequently getting pricked by thorns. Many times, he would stay late in the fields and, on his way back home, encounter subtle world entities. These experiences sparked his interest in communicating with subtle world souls.

Bapuji was courageous from a young age, which helped him overcome many obstacles. Alongside his studies in chartered accountancy (CA), he gave tuition classes to support himself financially. Later, he completed his Bachelor of Law (LLB) degree and became a well-known lawyer in Ahmedabad.

In 1997, he established a spiritual institution called “Vishwa Parivartak Ishwariya Vidhyalay” in Chenpur, Ahmedabad, with the mission of transforming this mortal world, filled with suffering and disorder, into an eternal divine world of immortality. Smt. Sushma Tandon, lovingly known as “Maa,” worked alongside Bapuji in this grand divine mission.

To accomplish this mission, Bapuji worked tirelessly, dedicating all his resources to this divine purpose. During that time, he would deliver continuous spiritual discourses for up to 18 hours without rest. In these discourses, he explained the highest dimensions of divine knowledge, which he realised through deep meditation and divine vision in a state of superconsciousness. This knowledge goes beyond the imagination of the ordinary human mind.

Bapuji’s teachings cover a vast range of topics, including the types of celestial creators across different dimensions, the creation of our solar system, galaxy, and universe, and most importantly, the transcendental knowledge of the multiverse and realities beyond it. His knowledge is supremely profound and is intended for highly evolved seekers, referred to as “behad souls.” According to Bapuji, these “behad souls” will play a key role in transforming this mortal world into an eternal divine realm.

At present, Bapuji remains deeply engaged in intense meditation and samadhi for long hours. He does not meet anyone, as he is continuously immersed in his transcendental mission in a superconscious state.

PREFACE

“Gyan Daan Maha Daan”

(Sharing Knowledge is the highest Charity)

— Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel

The aura — known in the ancient Indian tradition as the Aabha Mandal, and in Bapuji’s own words as the “Ora” — is the living energy field that surrounds every soul. It is not a mystical concept reserved for the few; it is a scientific reality that each one of us carries, every moment of every day. It is, in the truest sense, the mirror of our soul.

The knowledge contained in this book comes entirely from the divine discourses of Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel, founder of Vishwa Parivartak Ishwariya Vidhyalay, Ahmedabad. Through decades of deep meditation, samadhi, and superconscious vision, Bapuji has revealed the mechanics of the aura in a way that no spiritual master before him has done — connecting the ancient wisdom of the Bhagavad Gita with the language of modern science.

What you will find in these pages is not theory. It is lived knowledge. Bapuji explains exactly how a thought creates a colour in the aura, how that colour attracts a corresponding energy from the atmosphere, how negative souls exploit a weakened aura, and how the simple act of saying the word “Paramshanti” can fill your aura with the highest divine vibration, protecting you and transforming the world around you.

This book is organised to take you from the foundations — what the aura is and how it is formed — through its practical dimensions: health, healing, association, karma and rebirth, the subtle worlds, and finally the supreme transformational power of Paramshanti.

Read these teachings slowly. Let them enter not just the mind but the causal body itself. As Bapuji says: the world will change when the aura changes, and the aura changes when the thoughts change.

Chapter I

What is the Aura? — Definition and Origin

The aura — called “Ora” or “Aabha Mandal” in Hindi — is the energy of the soul. It is the power of the soul that exists in subtle form within the subtle body (Sukshma Sharir) and surrounds the physical body. In the simplest terms, the aura is the soul’s electromagnetic energy field that radiates around the body.

Bapuji describes the aura as a person’s “shadow” — not the physical shadow cast by light, but the energetic shadow of the soul itself. Just as a lamp radiates light in all directions, the soul radiates its energy in all directions through this invisible field we call the aura.

♦ Insight: “The aura — Aabha Mandal — means the power of the soul. The power of the soul that exists in subtle form within the subtle body, around the body — that is called the aura.”

— Bapuji

The Soul and Its Three Bodies

To understand the aura, one must first understand the structure of the human being. Every person exists in three simultaneous bodies:

- Sthul Sharir — the Gross Physical Body, made of the five elements (earth, water, fire, air, ether).
- Sukshma Sharir — the Subtle Body, which exists within and around the physical body and is the immediate source of the aura. The subtle body is composed of three elements: ether element, air element, and fire element.
- Karan Sharir — the Causal Body, which is the deepest layer, the storehouse of all karma, sanskars (impressions), and the root cause of the subtle body's quality. The causal body is made of the ether element.

The aura is ultimately generated by the subtle body. The subtle body is generated by the causal body. The causal body is shaped by the mind and its thoughts. Therefore: what the mind thinks, such is the causal body; what the causal body is, such is the subtle body; and what the subtle body is, such is the aura.

The Aura is Not Static

The aura is not a fixed field. It is in constant flux, changing moment to moment in response to the soul's thoughts, emotions, and intentions. A person prone to anger will have a red aura at that moment. A person in deep, selfless meditation will have a white or golden aura. A person thinking for the welfare of the entire world will have an aura that expands to extraordinary dimensions.

♦ Insight: “Change your thoughts and you change your aura. Change your aura and you change your world.”

— Bapuji

Chapter II

How the Aura is Formed

The process by which the aura is formed begins with the most fundamental act of the soul: thinking. Every thought — every sankalp — creates a specific type of energy within the soul. This energy flows from the soul into the causal body, from the causal body into the subtle body, and from the subtle body it radiates outward as the aura.

The Chain: Mind → Causal Body → Subtle Body → Aura

Bapuji explains this chain clearly: when the mind thinks, it creates a certain quality of chaitanya shakti — conscious energy. This conscious energy first acts upon the Karan Sharir (Causal Body), changing its quality. The causal body in turn shapes the Sukshma Sharir (Subtle Body). And the subtle body radiates the aura.

This is not merely a philosophical description — it is a description of the very flow of energy from the soul itself.

♦ Insight: “Man jo sochta hai waise aura banta hai.”

Whatever the mind thinks, such is the aura that is formed.
— Bapuji

The Electromagnetic Nature of the Aura

Bapuji describes the aura as the soul's electromagnetic power — its electromagnetic field. When the soul creates a sankalp (thought-intention), the chaitanya shakti (conscious energy) within the soul generates an electromagnetic wave. The colour and frequency of this wave depends entirely on the quality of the thought.

Just as different radio frequencies carry different types of broadcasts, different qualities of thought create different coloured electromagnetic fields around the body. These colours are not imagined or symbolic — they are real, energetic frequencies that can be perceived by those with developed subtle vision.

This is why the aura is called the “electromagnetic field of the soul.” It is the soul’s own energy, expressed outward through the subtle body, in the language of colour, frequency, and light.

Chapter III

The Colors of the Aura and Their Meanings

One of the most remarkable aspects of Bapuji's teachings on the aura is the precise mapping of aura colours to states of mind and soul. Each colour corresponds to a specific quality of thought and inner state. Understanding these colours is the first step toward consciously working with and improving your own aura.

Red Aura — Anger

When a person becomes angry, red cosmic energy is created within the subtle body. The electromagnetic waves emanating from the soul at that moment are red in frequency. Therefore, the aura becomes red.

The effect of a red aura extends beyond the individual: the entire atmosphere around an angry person becomes charged with red cosmic energy. Anyone who comes near that person may themselves begin to feel irritated or angry — this is the direct influence of the red aura on the surrounding atmosphere and on the auras of nearby people.

Black Aura — Negative Thoughts and Vice

When a person thinks negatively — harbouring ill will, indulging in vices, entertaining impure desires — black cosmic energy is formed within the subtle body. The aura becomes black. The black aura is the most dangerous and the weakest of all aura types, and its consequences are deeply serious, as Bapuji explains in later teachings.

Interestingly, a black aura is not visible to the naked eye precisely because it absorbs all light rather than radiating it — just as a black object absorbs all colours of light. This makes it difficult for others to perceive, yet its effects on the person and their surroundings are very real.

Green Aura — Good Thoughts and Creativity

When a person thinks genuinely good thoughts — with care for others, a desire to help, and a creative and constructive mindset — the soul generates green electromagnetic waves. The aura becomes green. This is the aura of a healthy, positive, creative, and compassionate person.

Bapuji specifically notes that when a person dedicates themselves to bringing happiness and peace to others — when their work is truly for the benefit of those around them — a green aura is formed. Green is associated with growth, healing, and genuine goodwill.

Blue Aura — Creative and Higher Thought

When a person's soul thinks truly creative thoughts, performs constructive work, and seeks to contribute positively to the world, the electromagnetic waves within the soul become green or blue in colour. A blue aura is associated with creativity, clarity, higher intelligence, and constructive contribution.

Blue cosmic power attracted by a blue aura from the atmosphere increases the person's capacity to perform good work. One day such a person will actually perform great works and become a truly elevated human being.

Pink Aura — Love and Gentleness

The pink aura is associated with love, warmth, and gentle positivity. Bapuji mentions the pink aura in the context of how it interacts with the atmosphere: if someone has a pink-coloured aura, then the pink atoms present in the atmosphere enter into that person and help and support them.

White Aura — Soul Consciousness and Supreme Peace

The white aura represents the highest positive state accessible through personal effort. When a person becomes completely thoughtless (nisankalp), established in soul consciousness (atmaswaroop), and remembers the Supreme Father with full awareness and deep feeling, then a completely white aura is formed.

The white aura of good saints and sages has been depicted in art across all traditions — the halo of light around the head of a saint is the white aura, made visible by their elevated state of consciousness.

Golden Aura — Yog with the Infinite

The golden aura represents the highest state — the result of deep yog (connection) with the Infinite Father (Behad ka Baap) and the absorption of Param Tatva (Supreme Divine Element) into the soul. Bapuji explains: when with your intellect you remember the Supreme Father in Param Dham (the Supreme Abode) and receive the power of the Supreme Element from there, your aura becomes golden cosmic, a white-golden aura is formed. This is the aura of the truly illumined soul.

Chapter IV

The Black Aura — Dangers, Possession, and Effects

Of all the aura types, the black aura is the one Bapuji warns about most strongly. The black aura is the weakest of all — it offers no protection, attracts the worst energies from the atmosphere, and opens the person to a grave danger: possession by earthbound spirits.

Note to the reader: The following teachings describe Bapuji's spiritual perspective on the subtle world. They are shared as a contemplative framework for understanding inner states and the soul's journey, and are not offered as a diagnosis, treatment, or therapeutic prescription for any physical or mental condition. Readers experiencing emotional, psychological, or behavioural distress should consult a qualified medical or mental health professional.

Possession by Earthbound Spirits (Pret Pravesh)

Bapuji explains with great clarity: a person with a black aura is highly susceptible to possession by Pret — earthbound souls (ghosts and spirits) who have not moved on to higher dimensions and who still carry strong unfulfilled desires from their past life.

These spirits enter a person with a black aura and then experience, through that person's body, whatever unfulfilled desires they carry. For example, a spirit who had a strong desire for alcohol, non-vegetarian food, or sensual indulgence can enter the body of a black-aura person and experience those desires through them. The possessed person may find themselves drawn to habits and behaviours they did not previously have, without understanding why.

◆ Insight: “The person with a black aura is so weak that spirits can easily enter and, through that body, fulfill their own unfulfilled desires.”

— Bapuji

Attraction of Atmospheric Negativity

Beyond possession, a black aura operates by the universal law: like attracts like. Just as the aura is, so does the atmosphere send energy into it. The negative atmosphere contains black cosmic energy — and a black aura continuously attracts and draws this negative energy into the person.

The result is a reinforcing negative cycle: the person thinks negatively, the aura becomes black, the black aura attracts more negative energy from the atmosphere, this increases the person's negative thoughts and desires, which further darkens the aura. Bapuji says: one day, such a person becomes a complete “Shaitan” — a fully negative, demonic consciousness.

How the Black Aura Forms Through Karma Over a Lifetime

If a person does bad things for 60 to 70 years of their life, there is a steadily accumulating deficit and negativity in their causal body. The causal body turns dark. The subtle body, formed from the causal body, also turns black. As a result, the aura is black.

This is not merely a temporary state — it is a deep karmic condition that resides in the causal body itself. The causal body is the storehouse of all one's karma across this and previous lifetimes. Therefore, the quality of one's aura is not just a reflection of today's thoughts, but of the cumulative quality of a lifetime — and in some cases, of many lifetimes — of thoughts and actions.

Chapter V

The White and Golden Aura — The Path to Positivity

If the black aura represents the soul's lowest state, the white and golden aura represent its highest. Bapuji teaches clearly and practically how every person can work to build a positive, elevated aura — not through rituals or external means, but through the inner practice of thought transformation and soul consciousness.

Step One: Transform Your Thoughts

The first and most fundamental step is simply: think positively. If you think negatively, a negative aura will be formed. If you think positively, a positive aura will be formed. This sounds simple, but it is the core of everything. Every moment, you are creating your aura through your thoughts.

Think good thoughts. Harbour good intentions toward others. Wish for the wellbeing of those around you. Engage in creative, constructive work with a genuine desire to contribute to the happiness of others. These thoughts generate green and blue cosmic energy, building a healthy, positive aura.

Step Two: Practice Soul Consciousness (Atmaswaroop)

Beyond good thoughts, Bapuji teaches the practice of Atmaswaroop — soul consciousness. This means repeatedly reminding yourself: I am a soul, not a body. I am a point of light, residing in the forehead between the eyebrows. I am not this physical form — I am the conscious energy within it.

By becoming soul-conscious — by knowing and experiencing oneself as a soul — the chaitanya shakti (conscious energy) of the soul becomes active. The soul's power increases. And this increased soul power directly elevates the quality of the aura.

Step Three: Remember the Supreme Father in Param Dham

The third and most powerful step is to connect with the Infinite Source. Bapuji says: with your intellect, remember the Supreme Father (Behad ka Baap) in Param Dham (the Supreme Abode), many crore kilometres above the earth. From that supreme dimension, the power of Param Tatva — Supreme Divine Element — flows into your soul.

As soon as your subtle body receives this supreme energy, your aura becomes golden cosmic, transformed into a white or golden aura of extraordinary purity and power. This charged subtle body then charges the gross physical body. The body — in mind, words, and action — becomes pure. And a deep sense of inner wellbeing is naturally experienced.

♦ Insight: “When you become soul-conscious and remember the Supreme Father in the Supreme Abode, the power of the Supreme Element comes from there. Your aura becomes golden cosmic, white. Your subtle body becomes charged, and through it your gross body becomes charged and purified.”

— Bapuji

Chapter VI

Aura Therapy — Supporting the Body Through the Aura

Bapuji's teachings on the aura are not only spiritual — they have direct and practical implications for overall wellbeing. This understanding forms the foundation of what is today practised as Aura Therapy.

The Aura-Body Connection

The gross physical body is sustained and governed by the subtle body. The subtle body, in turn, is the source of the aura. When the aura is strong, healthy, and positively charged, it directly supports the health and vitality of the physical body. When the aura is weakened, damaged, or negatively charged, the physical body begins to suffer.

Bapuji says: a truly healthy person — one who is positively oriented in their thoughts and lifestyle — will have a healthy green aura. When such a person thinks positively, their aura becomes completely positive and beneficial. The body thrives.

How Aura Therapy Works

Aura Therapy works on exactly this principle: by giving power to the subtle body through work on the aura, the gross physical body is supported and strengthened. Rather than focusing only on outer symptoms, Aura Therapy addresses the energetic root cause — the quality of the subtle body and its aura.

When the subtle body is charged with positive, pure energy — when the aura becomes bright, clean, and strong — this vitality flows naturally into the physical body. The body's own natural balance and resilience are supported, and a sense of overall wellbeing often follows.

Practical Application

The most powerful practical application of aura therapy, according to Bapuji, is not an external technique but an internal practice: become soul-conscious, think positively, remember the Supreme Father, and receive the energy of Param Tatva into your soul. Let your subtle body charge. Let your aura become white and golden. From this state of elevated aura, a natural sense of wellbeing in the gross body follows.

This is why Bapuji says so simply and powerfully: “Build a good aura — and live a life of inner wellbeing.” The path to a balanced life passes directly through the quality of your inner world.

Chapter VII

The Aura and the Atmosphere — The Law of Attraction

One of the most illuminating aspects of Bapuji's teachings on the aura is the explanation of how the aura interacts with the surrounding atmosphere (Vayumandal). The law that governs this interaction is simple and absolute: whatever your aura is, that is what you attract from the atmosphere.

The Atmosphere Contains Energy of Every Color

The atmosphere around us is not empty. It is filled with atoms and energies of every colour and quality — positive and negative, pure and impure. These coloured atomic energies exist throughout the atmosphere, invisible to the gross physical eyes but very real at the subtle level.

When your aura is of a particular colour and quality, the atmosphere automatically sends atoms of that same colour and quality into your aura. Like a magnet, your aura attracts from the vast atmosphere the exact energy that matches its own frequency.

- If your aura is pink — the pink atoms present in the atmosphere enter into you and help and support you.
- If your aura is white — the pure white atoms present in the atmosphere enter your aura. These are the best, most positive atoms in the air element. Negative energy cannot enter a white aura.
- If your aura is green or blue — corresponding positive, creative energies from the atmosphere are drawn into your field.
- If your aura is black — black cosmic energy from the atmosphere is continuously drawn into you, darkening your inner world further.

Negative Cannot Enter a Positive Aura

This is a truth of extraordinary practical importance: negative atoms and negative energy cannot enter into a white aura. The positive frequency of a clean, elevated aura naturally repels negative energies. They are incompatible — they cannot coexist in the same field.

This is why spiritual practice — especially the practice of soul consciousness and yog with the Supreme Father — is ultimately the most powerful protection one can have. By elevating your aura, you naturally become immune to the negative energies present in the atmosphere.

Chapter VIII

How Negative Souls Damage a Positive Aura

Even a positive aura is not invulnerable under all circumstances. Bapuji teaches an important and nuanced truth: while negative energy from the atmosphere cannot directly enter a positive aura, negative souls can — under certain conditions — still damage it from the outside.

Surrounding and Absorbing

When negative souls (those in the subtle world who carry heavy negative energy) surround a person with a pink or positive aura from all sides, they cannot enter the aura directly. However, they can press against it from all sides and gradually absorb its power.

These souls surround the person from all four sides and absorb power from their aura. Gradually, they damage the aura. Through the aura, they damage the subtle body. Through the subtle body, they affect the causal body and ultimately the physical body and mind of the person.

The Power of a Strong Aura as Protection

However, Bapuji also makes it clear: a sufficiently powerful aura is immune even from this external attack. Negative souls simply cannot reach a truly powerful aura — they cannot even come near it.

Some souls — especially ascetics and those of great renunciation — have auras that extend 10 to 20 feet away from the body. Such an expansive, powerful aura is a complete shield. Negative entities cannot penetrate, press upon, or influence it.

In the subtle world, advanced souls spread their aura even further — surrounding their entire subtle world ashram with their aura, so that no negative souls, ghosts, or spirits can enter their sacred space. This is a conscious, deliberate spiritual practice in the subtle dimensions.

Himalayan Ashrams and High Altitude Purity

This principle also explains why great ashrams have historically been located high in the Himalayas and at great altitudes. Negative souls — earthbound entities and lower astral beings — rarely travel above 5 to 7 kilometres in the atmosphere. The higher the altitude, the less negative the atmosphere.

As souls move higher into the atmosphere, their quality naturally improves — a difference occurs in their thinking, in their aura. The atmosphere extends up to 200 kilometres. Above 200 kilometres, negative atmospheric energy decreases. Above 500 kilometres, it is almost negligible. Above 1,000 kilometres, there is no negative atmosphere whatsoever.

Chapter IX

The Aura and Association — Sang ka Rang

One of the most practically important of all Bapuji's teachings on the aura is this: your aura is profoundly affected by the people you associate with. The ancient Sanskrit saying "Sang ka Rang" — you take on the colour of your association — is not merely a moral proverb. It is an energetic law operating through the aura.

The Bhagavad Gita's Teaching

◆ Insight: "Lord Krishna explained in the Bhagavad Gita: whoever thinks about worldly subjects — whoever thinks about negative things — attains those very negative energies. The energy about which we think is exactly the energy we attract and receive."

— Bapuji, citing the Gita

This principle operates through the aura. When you think negatively about others, speak negatively, listen to negative things, or dwell on vice and sensual pleasures, your aura becomes negative and black. The black cosmic energy present in the atmosphere then enters your aura, passes through your causal body into the subtle body — and your inner desires for negativity keep increasing. One day you become a complete negative entity.

The Aura Effect of Physical Proximity

But the effect of association goes beyond mere thinking. It operates through physical proximity as well. When you sit near a person with a negative or black aura, you enter within their aura's field. Their black cosmic energy — the negative aura — begins to influence your own aura. Your thoughts begin to change. You begin to become like them.

Bapuji says: do not take the shadow of negative souls. Do not even look at them. Do not even think about them. This is not a matter of judgment or social avoidance — it is a matter of energetic self-protection. Just as you would not sit in a room full of toxic smoke, do not sit in the energetic field of a heavily negative aura.

Television and Media — The Modern Aura Danger

Bapuji extends this teaching powerfully to the modern context. Today, people watch television and film for hours. They think about the characters and celebrities they see, all day long. What they may not realise is that these negative auras — the characters filled with violence, vice, negativity, and conflict — are entering their energetic field through their sustained attention.

Through television, negativity is spreading at an enormous rate today. Negative content — merely by being watched and thought about — changes the viewer's own aura. The atmosphere of the home becomes charged with this negativity. Quarrels, lack of peace, and mental disturbance increase.

The Solution: Conscious Association

The solution is equally simple and profound: associate with what is good. Watch good things. Think good thoughts. Speak good words. Perform good actions. The good aura you cultivate will attract corresponding positive energies from the atmosphere, and you will ascend.

If you want to live the Art of Living — associate with good people, think good, speak good, do good. That is all. That “Sang ka Rang” — the colour of good association — will become your aura, which will attract all positivity from the atmosphere.

Chapter X

Karma, the Causal Body, and the Aura Across Rebirths

The aura is not merely a reflection of today's thoughts and feelings. It is also the living record of the soul's entire karmic history — across this life and previous lives. This is one of Bapuji's most profound teachings on the aura: its deep connection to karma and the continuity of the soul across lifetimes.

How Karma Shapes the Aura

Every action — every thought, word, and deed — leaves an impression in the causal body (Karan Sharir). The causal body is the soul's memory — the storehouse of all its experiences, tendencies, desires, and karmic debts. If a person spends 60 to 70 years of their life in negative thinking, negative actions, and immoral conduct, their causal body accumulates a profound negativity. The causal body turns dark. The subtle body, formed from the causal body, also turns black. And the aura — the outer expression of the subtle body — becomes black.

This is not merely a temporary state — it is a deep karmic condition that resides in the causal body itself. Each negative action, each indulgence in vice, each hateful thought or harmful deed — each one adds to the darkness of the causal body. And each one deepens the black aura.

Aura Across Rebirths

When such a person dies and takes a new birth, the causal body — which contains all the karmic impressions — carries forward into the new life. The new body is formed around a causal body that is already dark, already carrying the imprints of decades of negative karma. Therefore, the new body will naturally manifest a black or dark aura from birth.

This explains many phenomena of life that otherwise seem inexplicable: why some people are born with extraordinary intuition and spiritual sensitivity; why others seem to struggle with negativity and destructive tendencies from an early age; why some people naturally gravitate toward spiritual life while others seem to be drawn toward darkness. The aura — and the causal body behind it — carries the history of the soul.

♦ Insight: “According to your karma, your subtle body turns black. When this person is reborn and gets a new body, that new body will also carry the darkness. The aura you build in this life follows you.”

— Bapuji

The Good News: Karma Can Be Transformed

However, Bapuji also teaches the great hope: karma can be transformed. The causal body can be purified. Through genuine spiritual practice — soul consciousness, yog with the Supreme Father, the practice of Paramshanti, and a disciplined life of positive thought and action — the karmic impressions in the causal body can be gradually cleared. As the causal body purifies, the subtle body brightens. And as the subtle body brightens, the aura elevates. The process is real, it is achievable, and it is the highest purpose of human life.

Chapter XI

The Size and Power of the Aura

Not all auras are the same size. Bapuji teaches that the extent of the aura — how far it radiates from the body — is directly proportional to the quality and expansiveness of the soul's thoughts and its level of spiritual development.

From Two Inches to Infinite Space

Some people have an aura of only two inches. Others have an aura of two feet. Those who think great thoughts — those whose concern extends to the wellbeing of all people, all of life, all of creation — have auras of extraordinary size.

The measurement of the aura corresponds exactly to the reach and quality of the soul's sankalp (intention). A person who thinks only of themselves and their immediate desires has a small, contracted aura. A person who thinks for their family and community has a somewhat larger aura. A person who meditates with the feeling of “May the entire world be blessed” has an aura that can extend for hundreds of feet.

Bapuji's Own Experience

♦ Insight: “Once, someone measured my aura — it extended up to 100 feet. At that very moment, I was giving divine energy (saka) to the entire world — I was radiating the feeling: May the entire world be blessed, may the entire world be uplifted. The entire aura — 50 feet, 100 feet, 200 feet — extends outward when you carry the feeling of universal wellbeing.”

— Bapuji

Bapuji further explains: if with your intellect you travel many crore kilometres above the earth and from there receive power from the Almighty Authority — and then send that divine energy to the entire earth, with the intention that may the entire earth be transformed and uplifted — then through this feeling and this power combined, the entire world's aura also gets affected. Your aura at that moment becomes as vast as the distance you have travelled in your intellect. Many crore kilometres of aura.

The World Can Be Changed by One Soul

This is perhaps one of the most extraordinary statements in all of Bapuji's teachings: a single soul, with a sufficiently expanded aura and the right quality of intention, can change the aura of the entire world. This is not hyperbole. It is the practical principle behind the great Rishis and Munis of ancient India who, sitting in deep meditation, radiated positive energy that transformed entire civilisations.

Therefore, the development of your aura is not merely a personal matter. It is a contribution to the world. Every time you elevate your aura — every time you raise your thoughts to a higher level — you are adding positive energy to the collective atmosphere of humanity.

Chapter XII

Healing Others Through the Aura

The aura is not only a shield and a measure of spiritual development — it is also an instrument of sending positive vibrations. Bapuji teaches that a person with a strong, positive, and expanded aura can send vibrations of upliftment to others at great distances, simply through the power of their focused, loving intention.

The Principle: Thought Reaches Its Object

Just as your thoughts create your own aura, your thoughts also reach the auras of those you think about. The electromagnetic waves generated by the soul travel through the subtle dimension and touch the subtle body and aura of the person you are directing your attention toward.

This is why Bapuji says: if you have good thoughts, power, and the power of the aura — good thoughts meaning power, electrons — then even if a person is sitting in America, by remembering their face and sending them energy with the thought “May your wellbeing happen, may you be uplifted” — they too will receive that positive vibration and may feel supported in their journey.

How to Send Vibrations of Wellbeing

Bapuji describes the process: become soul-conscious. Sit in a state of Atmaswaroop — aware that you are a soul, a point of light. Connect with the Supreme Father and receive Param Tatva power. Then, holding in your mind the face and form of the person you wish to uplift, send a clear, loving intention: “May your wellbeing happen. May you be at peace. May Paramshanti fill your life.”

Even a single concentrated sending of this positive intention can offer support. Repeated practice, over time, may carry deep vibrations of wellbeing — even across vast distances.

The Ancient Tradition of Distant Healing

This is not a new idea. The ancient Rishis and Munis of India practised exactly this. Sitting in deep meditation in the Himalayas, they could perceive the suffering of people across the world and send vibrations of peace and upliftment to them. Their auras, developed through decades of spiritual practice, were so powerful and so expansive that their benevolent intention could reach across all distances and bring positive influence into the world.

Bapuji is reviving this ancient understanding in a clear, practical, and accessible form for the modern seeker. Strengthen your own aura first. Then let it radiate positive vibrations for the upliftment of the world.

Chapter XIII

Subtle World Globes (Gola) and Their Auras

The aura is not only a phenomenon of embodied, earthly souls. In the subtle dimensions above the earth, large groups of subtle souls also live together in organised structures — and these structures too have their own collective auras. Bapuji calls these structures “Gola” — Globes.

The Subtle World Above the Atmosphere

The earth’s atmosphere extends to approximately 200 kilometres. Above 1,000 kilometres, there is no negative atmosphere whatsoever. In this pure, high-altitude dimension of the subtle world, thousands of elevated souls reside together and perform spiritual practice (tapasya).

Just as on earth, human beings live in the gross body within a physical world that is like a globe — similarly, in the subtle world, approximately 10,000 subtle souls reside together in one globe and perform renunciation and penance. Bapuji calls this globe a “Gola”.

The Aura of the Gola

The entire Gola has an aura. The colour and quality of this aura depend on the collective Oj (inner spiritual power and energy) and Tej (brilliance and radiance) of all 10,000 souls residing within it — their penance, their thoughts, their actions.

Different Golas have different coloured auras: blue, pink, light blue, green, and various other colours. Where truly elevated souls reside who perform only positive, constructive work, their globe is white. Where souls of extraordinary renunciation dwell, the golden Gola shines.

The Purpose of the Gola

These subtle-world Golas are not passive resting places. The souls within them are actively engaged — some working toward ascending to higher realms; some directing their spiritual energy downward toward earth, working to influence the atmosphere of the earth in positive ways.

Their collective aura surrounds the Gola on all sides, keeping negative souls, ghosts, and spirits from entering. This is the same principle that operates in the Himalayan ashrams on earth — the collective positive aura of the residents forms an impenetrable shield.

Whether it is the aura of an individual human soul or the aura of an entire Gola in the subtle world — the fundamental principle is the same. Auras of all kinds, at all scales and dimensions, are formed from the quality of thought: negative thoughts create negative auras, positive thoughts create positive auras.

Chapter XIV

The Decline of the World's Aura — From Satyug to Kaliyug

The condition of the world today — its violence, its suffering, its degradation of values and its environmental destruction — is not an accident, nor is it inevitable. It is the direct result of the progressive darkening of the collective human aura across the four great Ages: Satyug, Tretayug, Dwaparyug, and Kaliyug.

Satyug — The Golden Age of the Pure Aura

In the age of Satyug, there was no negative thinking among human souls. Everyone was positive. Therefore, everything was positive. The collective human aura was pure, bright, and powerful. Nature itself was positive — it responded to the soul's needs with abundance. The Kalpa Vriksha (wish-fulfilling tree) was real: one could obtain whatever was needed simply by the power of thought (Sankalp Matra se). No hard labour was needed. The atmosphere was pure, and disease was rare.

The Gradual Descent — Tretayug and Dwaparyug

As humanity moved into Tretayug, the purity of the aura began to diminish. Some effort was then needed to obtain the fruits of life, but the collective aura was still largely positive. Nature was still benevolent. The atmosphere was still relatively clean.

In Dwaparyug, conflict began to emerge. Wars started. The followers of different sects began fighting with one another. Religious leaders clashed. The collective human aura began to darken with the energy of conflict, pride, and division. Negative cosmic energy began to accumulate in the atmosphere.

Kaliyug — The Iron Age of the Darkened Aura

Today, in Kaliyug, the collective human aura is at its lowest. Across the world, sectarian conflict and division continue to rise, and the spirit of unity among souls has weakened. The atmosphere is saturated with negative energy. And through the modern instrument of television and digital media, this negativity is being amplified and spread at an unprecedented rate.

Television — Bapuji points out — is a primary mechanism by which the collective aura of humanity is being darkened today. When people watch violent, sensual, or conflict-filled content for hours each day, they are continuously feeding negative energy into their own aura and into the collective atmosphere. The atmosphere of their homes becomes negative. Their family life suffers. Their mind loses its peace.

The Solution: Elevate the Collective Aura

The solution to the world's condition is not political, economic, or technological. It is spiritual. It is the elevation of the collective human aura. When enough souls elevate their auras — through genuine spiritual practice, soul consciousness, and the vibrations of Paramshanti — the collective atmosphere will change. And when the atmosphere changes, the world will change.

This is the deepest purpose of all of Bapuji's teachings: to guide souls to elevate their individual auras so that, collectively, the aura of the entire world is transformed.

Chapter XV

Paramshanti — The Ultimate Aura Transformation

Bapuji teaches that among all the methods for elevating the aura, the most powerful of all is the vibration of the word “Paramshanti.” This is not merely a word. It is a divine frequency — the vibration of Supreme Peace itself — and when spoken, felt, and internalised with genuine intention, it has the power to transform the aura from within at the deepest level.

How Paramshanti Transforms the Aura Through the Five Elements

Bapuji describes the precise scientific mechanism by which the word Paramshanti acts on the aura through the chain of the five elements:

When we speak, think, or — while established in Aatmswarup (soul consciousness) — utter “Paramshanti,” the light of the soul spreads in all directions within our aura, filling it completely with radiance.

Along with this, more than 70% of our body consists of the water element (jal tatva), and the water element is very quickly influenced. The effect of water then passes onto the earth element (prithvi tatva). The combined effect of water and earth immediately influences the air element (vayu tatva). The air element’s effect then reaches the fire element (agni tatva), and from fire it extends to the space/ether element (aakash tatva). This aakash tatva is itself the causal body (karan sharir), and through the causal body, the effect directly reaches the aura — and the entire aura becomes filled with the vibrations of Paramshanti.

When one speaks while established in Behad ki Paramshanti (the infinite Paramshanti) in the state of Aatmswarup (soul consciousness), the aura expands further — first to 10 feet, then 20 feet, then even up to 50 feet — and the vibrations of Paramshanti spread all around.

And when someone remembers you, the vibrations of their thoughts reach you. If the vibrations of Paramshanti are within you, then your Paramshanti vibrations will travel to them too — and they will also receive Paramshanti.

Through this complete elemental chain, the word Paramshanti — spoken and felt with genuine intention — reaches directly into the aura and fills it with the vibration of Supreme Peace.

The Expanding Aura of Paramshanti

When your aura is filled with the vibrations of Paramshanti, it expands. Your aura can extend to 10 feet, 20 feet, even 50 feet. The vibrations of Paramshanti radiate in all directions from your body. Everyone who comes within your aura field receives the vibrations of Supreme Peace, whether they are aware of it or not.

The Protection Shield

Bapuji also teaches that an aura filled with Paramshanti becomes an automatic protection shield. Even if an enemy or a negatively-oriented person sends negative sankalps (negative thoughts or intentions) toward you, your aura — filled with Paramshanti — is so powerful that their negative intentions cannot penetrate to your soul or your mind.

♦ Insight: “When a negative sankalp comes toward you and touches your aura — and your aura is filled with the vibrations of Paramshanti — that negative sankalp, upon receiving the vibrations of Paramshanti, returns to that person along with Paramshanti. And that person also begins to say Paramshanti — their negativity becomes positive.”

— Bapuji

Transforming the World Through Paramshanti

The ultimate teaching is this: even just a few souls with auras filled with Paramshanti can change the entire atmosphere of the world. As these auras radiate Paramshanti into the Vayu Tatva (air element), Paramshanti begins to spread throughout the atmosphere. The negative effects all around gradually diminish. The vibrations of Paramshanti touch the entire world, and the entire world begins to change.

This is the one and only process through which the world can truly be transformed, Bapuji declares. No other process — no political movement, no economic system, no technological fix — can bring about genuine, lasting world transformation. Only the transformation of the human aura through Paramshanti — combined with soul consciousness and yog with the Infinite Father — can achieve this.

Start with yourself. Fill your own aura with Paramshanti. And the world will change.

Paramshanti! Supreme Peace pervades the Infinite of Infinite Creation.

BAPUJI INSIGHTS

Behad Gyan — Wisdom on the Aura

♦ Insight: “Aura maana aatma ka electromagnetic power.”

Aura means the electromagnetic power of the soul.

♦ Insight: “Aatma mein alag-alag sankalp karne se, alag-alag sochne se, iske electromagnetic power ka colour badalta rehta hai.”

By forming different thoughts and intentions within the soul, the colour of its electromagnetic power keeps changing.

♦ Insight: “Jab manushya aatma gussa karti hai, toh aatma mein se electromagnetic power red colour ka nikalta hai, isliye uska aura red ban jaata hai.”

When a human soul becomes angry, the electromagnetic power emitted from the soul is red in colour, and therefore the aura turns red.

♦ Insight: “Gusse waale ka poora vaayumandal red colour ka aura ban jaata hai — paas mein koi aa jaaye toh woh bhi gusse waala ban jaata hai.”

The entire atmosphere around an angry person becomes a red-coloured aura — if anyone comes near, they too start feeling angry.

♦ Insight: “Achcha sochne waale ki aatma creative work karti hai, toh usme se nikalne wali electronic wave green ya blue colour ki hoti hai, isliye uska aura green ya blue ho jaata hai.”

The soul of a person who thinks positively engages in creative work, so the electronic waves emitted from it are green or blue in colour, and therefore the aura becomes green or blue.

♦ Insight: “Jab manushya aatma samast vishwa kalyaan ki bhaavna se sochti hai, tab aatma mein se chaitanya shakti ekdum white nikalti hai, isliye uska aura ekdum white ho jaata hai.”

When a human soul thinks with the feeling of welfare for the entire world, the conscious energy (chaitanya shakti) emitted from the soul is pure white, and therefore the aura becomes completely white.

♦ Insight: “Saadhu-santon ka jo crown hota hai, woh safed hi hota hai.”

The crown (halo) seen around saints and sages is always white.

♦ Insight: “Aura maana electromagnetic field — jaisa sochoge waisa aura banega, isliye achcha socho.”

Aura means the electromagnetic field — whatever you think, your aura will form accordingly, so always think positively.

♦ Insight: “Aura maana kaaran shareer.”

Aura means the causal body (kaaran shareer).

♦ Insight: “Kaiyon ka aura do inch ka hota hai, kaiyon ka aura do foot ka bhi hota hai; jo saare vishwa ke liye sochte hain unka aura bahut bada ban jaata hai.”

Some people's aura is only two inches wide, others' may extend up to two feet; but those who think for the welfare of the entire world develop a very vast aura.

♦ Insight: “Buddhi se karodon kilometre upar jaakar, Almighty Authority se power lekar dharti par sankalp daalne se tumhara aura karodon kilometre ka ban jaata hai.”

By rising crores of kilometres above the earth through your intellect, drawing power from the Almighty Authority, and sending intentions down to the earth, your aura expands across crores of kilometres.

♦ Insight: “Aura mann ki soch hai.”

Aura is the reflection of the mind’s thoughts.

♦ Insight: “Aura badalne se tumhare jeevan mein shanti aur kalyaan ki anubhuti hoti hai.”

By changing your aura, a deep sense of peace and inner wellbeing arises in your life.

♦ Insight: “Door baithe-baithe bhi tum doosron ke jeevan mein shubh sankalp aur shanti ki vibrations bhej sakte ho — jaise pehle rishi-muni ek doosre ko door se hi positive sankalp bhejte the.”

Even while sitting far away, you can send positive intentions and vibrations of peace to others — just as the ancient sages (rishi-munis) used to send positive sankalps to one another from a distance.

GLOSSARY

Key Terms and Their Meanings

Aabha Mandal — The aura; the energy field or electromagnetic field that surrounds the subtle and gross body.

Agni Tatva — The fire element; one of the five primary elements that constitute the gross physical world and the lower subtle layers.

Akash Tatva — The ether/space element; the subtlest of the five gross elements, associated with the causal body.

Asuri Vritti — Demonic tendency; a state of mind and soul dominated by negative qualities, vice, and destructive tendencies.

Atmaswaroop / Atmaswaroopsthiti — Soul-conscious state; the practice and experience of knowing oneself as a soul, not as a physical body.

Aura — The electromagnetic energy field of the soul. See Aabha Mandal.

Behad — Infinite; boundless; that which cannot be comprehended or measured.

Behad ka Baap — Father of the Infinite; the Almighty Creator of all infinite universes and dimensions, the Supreme Source.

Causal Body (Karan Sharir) — The deepest layer of the human being; the storehouse of all karma, impressions, and the root cause of the subtle and physical bodies.

Chaitanya Shakti — Conscious energy; the living, aware energy of the soul that generates all thoughts and all aura colours.

Gola — Globe or sphere; the term Bapuji uses for the collective dwelling of approximately 10,000 subtle souls in the higher dimensions, which has its own collective aura.

Gross Physical Body (Sthul Sharir) — The physical body made of the five elements (earth, water, fire, air, ether).

Jal Tatva — The water element; one of the five primary elements.

Nisankalp — Thoughtless state; a state of complete inner stillness in which the mind generates no new thoughts; the highest state of meditation.

Oj — Inner spiritual power or energy; the subtle vitality of the soul expressed through the aura.

Param Dham — The Supreme Abode; the highest dimension, the dwelling of the Almighty Father (Behad ka Baap), the source of all Param Tatva energy.

Param Tatva — Supreme Divine Element; the purest and highest form of elemental energy, existing in dimensions beyond the gross world, and received through deep yog.

Paramshanti — Supreme Peace; the original and highest nature of the soul; the vibration that transforms the aura and the world.

Prithvi Tatva — The earth element; one of the five primary elements.

Pret — Earthbound soul; a subtle soul that has not moved on to higher dimensions after death and remains near the earth, often carrying unfulfilled desires.

Sang ka Rang — The colour of association; the principle that a person takes on the energetic quality (aura colour) of those they associate with.

Sankalp — Thought; intention; the soul's act of thinking, which creates the electromagnetic waves that determine aura colour.

Satopradhan — Elevated and pure state; the highest quality of soul energy, associated with the Golden Age (Satyug).

Subtle Body (Sukshma Sharir) — The energy body within and around the physical body; the immediate source of the aura.

Tamopradhan — Degraded, low-energy state; the lowest quality of soul energy, associated with Kaliyug (Iron Age).

Tej — Brilliance; radiance; the outward luminosity of the aura, reflecting the soul's spiritual development.

Vayumandal — The atmosphere; the energetic environment surrounding the earth, which contains atoms and energies of all colours and qualities.

Vayu Tatva — The air element; one of the five primary elements, which carries both physical air and subtle energetic influences.

Yog — Connection; meditation; the practice of connecting the soul's consciousness with a higher Source to receive power and elevation.

“Gyan Daan Maha Daan”

Sharing Knowledge is the Highest Charity

Based on the divine discourses of Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel, this book presents the complete science of the aura — what the Aabha Mandal is, how it is formed, what the different colors represent, the dangers of a black aura, the path to a white and golden aura, and the supreme transformation of the aura through ‘Paramshanti’. The deeper mysteries of the Bramand, the Sukshma Sharir, and the Karan Sharir are explained in simple, accessible language.
