ABOUT BAPUJI

Bapuji (full name Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel, also lovingly called “Dadaji” by the younger generation) was born in 1956 in the small village of Akhaj in the Mehsana district of Gujarat. He spent his childhood in another village named Ambasan, also in the Mehsana district.

In the early stages of his life, he was a highly successful lawyer. He later devoted himself entirely to realising the supreme spiritual truth and bringing that knowledge forward for the benefit of humanity. Today, his teachings serve as a guiding light for sincere seekers on their path to the ultimate destiny of the soul.

Despite being raised in very poor circumstances, Bapuji carried from childhood a deep desire to transform this world of sorrow into something better. At the age of six, he repeatedly questioned God: " Why do you remain silent while humanity suffers? This intense longing to end human suffering eventually led him to attain the highest level of spirituality later in life.

Even as a boy, he would spend hours alone in the fields, often barefoot, frequently getting pricked by thorns. On his way home after dark, he would sometimes encounter beings from the subtle world. These encounters ignited his lifelong interest in the inner dimensions of existence.

Alongside his studies in chartered accountancy, he gave private tuition classes to support himself. He later completed a Bachelor of Law degree and became a well-known lawyer in Ahmedabad.

In 1997, he established a spiritual institution called Vishwa Parivartak Ishwariya Vidhyalay in Chenpur, Ahmedabad, with the mission of transforming the mortal world into a realm of eternal divine light. Smt. Sushma Tandon, lovingly known as “Maa,” worked alongside him in this mission.

To fulfil this purpose, Bapuji worked without rest, delivering continuous spiritual discourses of up to eighteen hours at a stretch. In those discourses, he shared knowledge realised through deep meditation and direct inner vision: knowledge that lies beyond the reach of the ordinary mind.

His teachings encompass the types of celestial creators across different dimensions, the formation of our solar system, galaxy, and universe, and most profoundly, the transcendental knowledge of the multiverse and the vast creation that lies beyond it. This knowledge is intended for highly evolved seekers, whom Bapuji calls “behad souls”, whose origin lies in the limitless dimensions beyond all created structures. According to Bapuji, these souls will be the instruments of the world’s transformation.

At present, Bapuji remains in continuous deep meditation and samadhi. He does not meet anyone, as he is immersed without interruption in his transcendental work.

PREFACE

This book is about Bapuji's Life experience of meditation. It is not a philosophical text. It is not a guide to theory. It is what Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel has actually seen, felt, and experienced through more than forty years of continuous spiritual practice.

Bapuji has given thousands of hours of spiritual discourses over the years. Yet he had never, until these conversations, spoken in detail about the personal inner story of his practice. What states did his body move through? What did he actually see in meditation? How did the vision of the cosmos unfold for him? What beings did he encounter? These questions had never been answered publicly before.

This book draws entirely from those conversations. Every teaching here comes from Bapuji himself.

It is written for the reader who is entirely new to this knowledge. No prior reading is required. All key terms are explained when they first appear, and a full glossary is provided at the end. If you are encountering Bapuji's teachings for the first time, this is a good place to begin. Read slowly. Let the knowledge settle.

Chapter One

What Is Yog? The Starting Point

In everyday language, “Yog” often refers to physical exercises and postures. Bapuji uses the word in its deeper, original sense. This is important for new readers, because the term is used differently across cultures.

Yog means connection — specifically, the living connection of the soul with the Supreme Soul.

The soul, called “Atma” in Sanskrit, is the true self within every human being. We are not the body. The body is only the instrument through which the soul acts in the world. When we identify ourselves with the body and forget the soul, we lose touch with our real nature.

The Supreme Soul, called Param Atma, is the highest source of spiritual power in all of existence. Establishing a connection between your soul and the Supreme Soul is what Bapuji calls real Yog.

There is, however, one condition. Before you can connect accurately with the Supreme, you must first know yourself as a soul. A connection attempted without knowing will remain incomplete. As Bapuji states:

◆ Bapuji Insight

“Until you know yourself as a soul, remembering the Supreme will not give you accurate power. First, know yourself. Then connect.”

---

This principle — first become soul-conscious, then connect upward with the supreme - is the foundation of everything that follows in this book.

Chapter Two

How Bapuji Started: 1987

Bapuji first encountered the teaching in 1986. He came across the foundational knowledge of the Brahma Kumaris, a spiritual institution, whose central message was simple: you are a soul, not a body.

He heard it and understood it intellectually. But he was occupied with his legal career at the time, and he did not immediately apply it.

In 1987, something changed. A strong inner conviction arose; this is the only thing worth doing. From that moment, he committed his entire life to one goal: to know himself as a soul, and from that realisation, to connect with the Supreme.

The Soul and Where It Resides

To practise soul consciousness, one must first understand where the soul resides.

The soul resides in the centre of the mind, in the region of the forehead between the eyebrows, the point the tradition calls the bhrikuti. Around the soul, in layers, are three things: the mind (man), the intellect (buddhi), and the accumulated impressions of past actions (samskaras). These layers cover the soul. They are not the soul. The soul is the pure point of conscious light.

Soul consciousness, referred to as atma-swaroop in Hindi - meaning “the form of the soul” - is the direct, living awareness of being that luminous point. It is not merely a belief or a philosophy, but an inner experience to be realised.

Four Hours of Sleep, the Rest All Yog

From 1987, Bapuji has slept only for four hours a night. He would rise at two-thirty in the morning and sit in awareness of himself as a soul for several hours before the day began.

Throughout the day, in the office, in the courts, walking, eating, in every activity, he maintained that same inner soul awareness. The worldly actions were carried out through the body, but his consciousness remained anchored in the identity of the soul.

This continuous practice of soul consciousness within everyday life is called karmayogi life. A karmayogi is someone who performs all actions while remaining inwardly connected to the Supreme. Action and inner awareness proceed together, without contradiction.

Chapter Three

Yog in Everyday Life: The Karma Yogi

What happens when soul consciousness is maintained while working? Bapuji's experience from 1988 to 1989 gives a clear and practical answer.

He was managing complex income tax cases, which are detailed and time-consuming. When he worked from within soul consciousness, the work moved with unusual clarity and ease. He describes the experience as effortless: insights and solutions seemed to arise on their own, as though understanding were arriving directly.

In contested income tax tribunal hearings, he would sit in his soul-conscious state and hold a quiet inner intention before entering the courtroom. He recalls the period as one in which his professional work felt unusually supported by his inner state.

Effects on the Body and the Environment

The inner state also changed his experience of the physical world. Walking out in the intense summer heat of Gujarat at two in the afternoon, he felt no discomfort. The heat seemed unable to affect him. His aura — the energy field that emanates from an established soul — was so charged that ordinary environmental conditions did not penetrate him.

He describes the experience plainly: "Like a living form of light moving through the world. That was how it was in 1988, 1989." Soul consciousness, when genuinely maintained, extends through whatever environment one enters. The environment responds to it.

The Sunday Sessions

On Sundays, he would go to his centre and enter the meditation room at eight in the morning , remaining there until eight in the evening — twelve continuous hours of practice, sustained with only a sip of water.

By evening, his experience of the physical body had receded so deeply that he could neither drive a car nor walk in his usual way. He would sit outside the room and wait until enough body awareness returned before making his way home.

This state is the natural consequence of deep soul consciousness. Body-consciousness, called dehbhaan in Hindi, is the ordinary sense of being identified with the physical body. When the soul's experience deepens sufficiently, dehbhaan temporarily withdraws. For Bapuji, this was not a difficulty. It was confirmation: the inner experience had genuinely exceeded the ordinary boundaries of physical life.

Chapter Four

What Deep Practice Does to the Body

As the years of practice deepened, the experience of the body itself began to change.

The body becomes lighter — not in weight, but in quality. There is a sense of luminosity replacing density. Bapuji calls this the light body: the body experienced not as solid physical matter but as something closer to a form of light.

In this state, the ordinary awareness of body sensations - heat, cold, hunger, pain withdraws. The physical instrument is still present and functioning, but the awareness of being inside it diminishes greatly.

The Heartbeat in Deep Practice

Bapuji was once asked: When you are in deep meditation, does your heartbeat continue?

Bapuji answered: The heartbeat continues, but there is no awareness of it. A doctor examining the body at that moment would find it functioning normally. Yet from within the experience, there is simply no sense of the body at all.

The intellect(buddhi) is fully absorbed in the higher dimension and is no longer engaged in observing the body. Bapuji describes this state as buddhi uparam - the intellect at rest, wholly absorbed elsewhere.

Diet During Deep Practice

In the deep, subtle state, the body's ability to digest heavy food is reduced. If a heavy meal is taken and then enters a deep absorption, digestion may not occur properly, leading to discomfort when ordinary awareness returns.

For this reason, during the years of most intense practice, Bapuji ate a single simple meal in the afternoon and perhaps a little fruit in the evening. The body in deep practice functions through a different order of energy. It requires very little gross physical nourishment.

Illness and Its Resolution

In the late 1990s, alongside the intensity of his spiritual work, Bapuji also faced challenges to his physical health. He continued under qualified medical care throughout this period.

The ashram had opened in 1997 and faced intense opposition. Many people with negative tendencies entered the work. The pressure of managing that conflict while sustaining intense inner practice took a physical toll.

What he describes as transformative was the inner steadiness that the deepening of soul consciousness brought to his daily life. As the practice went deeper, as the knowledge expanded, as absorption in higher dimensions increased, his inner state stabilised, and the strain of those years gradually eased. Throughout, medical guidance continued to be followed.

♦ Bapuji Insight

“When I stabilised in soul consciousness with the light body and maintained that with courage, the inner pressure of those years gradually eased.”

Chapter Five

How the Inner Eye Opens

The power that allows Bapuji to perceive the cosmos, galaxies, universes, and higher dimensions beyond is what the tradition refers to as the third eye. In popular language, this is treated as something mysterious or rare. Bapuji, however, explains it in a direct and grounded way.

The third eye is not a separate organ. It is the natural state of soul consciousness (atma-swaroop) when it becomes fully established. When soul consciousness fully blooms, the inner eye opens automatically. Bapuji uses the term Brahmastra for this state: the ultimate inner power of the soul, which is nothing but pure, unwavering soul consciousness. When one becomes truly soul-conscious, the Brahmastra is activated.

Reading Scripture in the Soul-Conscious State

Between 2001 and 2004, Bapuji began reading ancient Hindu scriptures, but in an unusual way. He would sit in atma-swaroop and read. In that state, the words did not remain words. They opened into direct inner vision.

One passage became the great turning point. He was reading a text on the afterlife and rebirth when he encountered the phrase ananta koti bramhand - meaning “infinite universes.” Another passage described how Maha-Shiv, the creator of the galaxy, becomes Maha-Kaal (the lord of time) and absorbs infinite universes into every pore of his being; simultaneously, new universes are created and dissolved.

Reading this in soul consciousness, Bapuji did not merely understand it. He felt the reality behind the words begin to open.

The Powerful Intention: Show Me

He then formed a sankalpa — a powerful inner resolve in his meditation. A sankalpa is not a casual wish. It is a determination placed with the full force of the established soul. The resolve was this: “If there are infinite universes, let them become visible to me.”

He calls this a zordaar sankalpa — a powerful and forceful determination. Gradually, the vision began to unfold. At first, it appeared as a subtle inner knowing: yes, infinite universes exist. Over time, the full structure revealed itself with increasing clarity.

Yog During Sleep: Nindra Yog

Much of Bapuji’s deepest inner work has taken place not in formal sitting meditation but during sleep. He calls this nindra yog — the yog of sleep.

The practice is simple. Before falling asleep, he places a sankalpa, a clear intention or question in the mind, and allows sleep to come. During deep sleep, the unconscious mind is active and open. When soul consciousness has been developed to a sufficient depth, this layer of the mind becomes accessible. When it opens, the records held in the soul throughout its journey through dimensions and time begin to surface.

The early morning hours, from roughly two-thirty to seven, were when this inner work was most intense. Material gathered during sleep would rise into conscious awareness, and he would hold it, understand it, and integrate it.

No Room for Doubt

Bapuji was once asked: When he began seeing infinite universes, galaxies, and higher dimensions, did he ever doubt his experiences?

Bapuji replied: “When you see the same reality every day while eating, drinking, sleeping, always in the upper world, it becomes as real as anything else. How can doubt arise when you are continuously seeing it?”

For Bapuji, the upper world was not an occasional experience. It was his constant environment.

Chapter Six

Seeing the Universe: 1998 Onwards

From 1998, the inner vision became stable enough to work with and to teach.

Our solar system, called a bramhand in Sanskrit, contains fourteen layers or dimensions. Seven are below the earth; seven are above it. At the summit is paramdham, the supreme abode. Beyond the solar system lies the galaxy, or maha-bramhand — the great universe, which contains hundreds of solar systems. Beyond the galaxy lies the universe, called param maha-bramhand, containing billions of galaxies. And beyond many universes lies the multiverse: a vast structure of one hundred kala (units of spiritual power).

Bapuji began teaching this structure on a whiteboard to students at his centre. But something remarkable was happening. He was not drawing from memory or from prior study. He was looking at what he was describing.

Here and There at Once

His physical body stood at the whiteboard. His awareness was simultaneously present inside the cosmos he was describing — seeing its actual structure from within, while narrating it. Both were happening at the same time.

He would perceive the solar system and its fourteen layers as a complete living structure. He would see galaxies billions of light-years away as clearly as objects in the same room. He would witness galaxies in collision. He would see the oval shape of a universe, that shape arising from its rotation.

◆ Bapuji Insight

“I was there and here at the same time. Looking at the universe and teaching from the whiteboard.”

---

Few people could follow what he was saying at that time. “People would listen briefly, call it vague talk, and leave. Bapuji was cautious about speaking further.” Science had not yet developed enough to make such knowledge receivable. That changed gradually over the following years.

The Colour of the Upper Worlds

Bapuji was asked whether higher realms - galaxies, universes, or other higher dimensions- are seen in colour or in black and white?

He explains that each universe has its own distinct colour combination. Each galaxy has its own. When viewed from the higher perspective of the Great Universe, the rotating inner universes present an almost limitless variety of colour.

Pure Param Prakash — the supreme divine light is different. It has no colour at all. It is pure white: undivided, undifferentiated, complete.

The Multiverse: Clear by 2012

By 2012, the full inner vision of the multiverse had become clear to Bapuji. He did not release this knowledge publicly until 2016. The knowledge waited until there were souls ready to receive it.

The Multiverse is the hundred-kala structure containing our universe and countless others. Beyond it lies the Great Multiverse, the Great-Great Multiverse, and further dimensions of ever-increasing spiritual power, extending without limit.

Chapter Seven

The Subtle Form: The Akari Roop

Among the most remarkable aspects of Bapuji's account is his description of the Akari Roop - his subtle, luminous form.

Every soul in Bapuji's teaching has three possible stages of existence. The Sakari stage is the fully physical, embodied state of the ordinary human condition. The Akari stage is a subtle form made of energy rather than physical matter: it has a recognisable shape, but it is not a gross body. The nirakari stage is the formless, pure light state of the soul, its original and most powerful condition.

Bapuji's akari roop is his subtle stage form. It exists independently at the level of the universe, while his physical body continues to function on Earth. This is not an out-of-body experience, in which the soul temporarily vacates the body. His soul remains fully in the body. The akari roop is a distinct form that has always existed at that higher level, operating there independently.

How He Discovered It

For many years, Bapuji was unaware that this form had an independent existence. When he perceived himself to be present in the universe during meditation, he assumed it was simply his own consciousness extending outward. Only over time it became unmistakably clear: there is a form at that level. It has its own existence. It is distinct from him yet always connected.

What It Looks Like

Bapuji was once asked: What does it look like?

He describes it as identical in appearance — the same face, the same clothes. "Whatever I wear here, it wears there. If I change, it changes too." Yet its substance is entirely different and pure param prakash- supreme divine light. Not of the five physical elements, not even of the three subtle elements. Pure luminous energy.

Its kala (level of power) is ten. Bapuji explains why it was maintained at this level: a higher frequency would have demanded greater effort from him on earth to sustain the connection. Ten kala kept the work manageable.

What the Akari Roop Does

The akari roop is the primary means through which deeper cosmic knowledge reaches Bapuji. From 1998, it guided him through the structure of the universe and through the multiverse. It does not teach in words. It “emerges” the knowledge, unlocking what is already recorded in the soul’s own deeper layers and making it visible.

It also gathers current information. If Bapuji wishes to know what is happening in the brahmapuri (the realm of Brahma), the vishnupuri (the realm of Vishnu), or the shivpuri (the realm of Shiv) within our solar system, the akari roop goes there and returns with the report. The connection takes one second, no more than switching on a television.

Its Limit

The akari roop showed Bapuji up to the level of the Great Multiverse and the hundred-kala domain. Beyond that, the two-hundred-kala worlds, the thousand-kala worlds, and further still, the knowledge came not from the akari roop but from within his own soul’s records.

Every soul carries the complete record of its journey from its original home dimension down into this material world. As soul consciousness deepens, those records open like curtains drawing back one by one. The knowledge was always there. The practice reveals it.

Chapter Eight

Visitors from Other Worlds

From 1998 onward, during Bapuji's classes at the Chenpur ashram, he describes perceiving additional presences in his deep meditative state. Alongside the human students and the subtle-world beings who, in his inner perception, also gathered to listen, he describes other presences — souls whose origins, in his spiritual vision, lay beyond our solar system, in other galaxies and other dimensions of the cosmos.

Within Bapuji's spiritual framework, these are not “aliens” in the popular cinematic sense. They are described as souls from other dimensions of the cosmos, perceived through deep inner vision. In his account, their forms are not made of the five gross elements; they are described as composed of subtle luminous matter, and as moving in vehicles of that same substance.

Why They Came

At the time, Bapuji was teaching the structure of the universe and the multiverse at a depth available nowhere else in the world. For beings who had come from other galaxies, this knowledge concerned their own worlds and their own origins directly.

They would arrive, listen to the complete class, and depart when class was over. They did not speak or intervene. They came as receivers, not as teachers. He said nothing to anyone at the time. “In 1999 and 2000, who would have believed it? It was a different era.”

Their Form and Vehicles

These beings did not appear in the humanoid form that popular imagination assigns to extraterrestrial beings. They present as spheres, orbs of luminous matter whose size can change according to intention: ten feet, five feet, one foot. A single vehicle may carry many such beings.

Their vehicles are also spherical, made of light. A sphere creates the least resistance when moving through any medium. A sphere of one-hundred kala param prakash can, in his vision, travel from one universe to another in a single second. In Bapuji's perception during the classes from 1998 to 2000, such vehicles appeared at distances of approximately fifty to two hundred kilometres above the ashram in his inner vision, drawing closer during the class and departing when it ended.

Contact with Higher-Dimensional Beings

Beyond these visiting beings, Bapuji describes contact with beings of far greater dimensional power. He speaks of a direct exchange with the overseer of the 2,100-kala dimension — a being governing a creation more than twenty times more powerful than our entire hundred-kala multiverse.

This contact took place in meditation, in the nirakari state. One sankalpa, one intention — and the connection was immediate.

The 2006 Visit

Around 2006 or 2007, during a night meditation, Bapuji had a different kind of encounter. Five crore (fifty million) luminous beings of two-hundred-kala power came to him. These beings — called param param param mahashaktiyan — are souls of extraordinary luminous capacity from the Great-Great Universe.

They took his swapna shareer — his dream body, the subtle form active during deep sleep — and transported it to their domain within the third-kala level of our universe. There, his complete luminous form was present. They were paying reverence to it.

He asked them to help him change the world. They replied, gently: “Who can help you? You yourself can do whatever you wish.” At that time, he did not yet fully understand what they meant. His own capacity was still unfolding.

Chapter Nine

With Whom Does Bapuji Connect?

One of the most common questions people ask about Bapuji's practice is simple: With whom does he connect? From where does the power come?

The answer is: "I connect with the Almighty Authority — the one who resides in the highest eternal abode, far beyond all created dimensions, who has created infinite multiverses. That formless supreme divine light — that is what I remember."

The Almighty Authority — called Behad ka Baap in Hindi, meaning the Father of the Boundless — is the supreme creator of all existence. He is beyond Shiv (the creator of a solar system), beyond Maha-Shiv (the creator of a galaxy), and beyond Param Maha-Shiv (the creator of a universe). He is the ultimate source.

Different Souls, Different Sources

Bapuji is careful to explain that not every soul connects with the same source. Every soul originated from a particular level of creation, and its natural range of connection corresponds to that origin.

He illustrates this with a clear analogy. Some light bulbs are ten volts. Some are fifty, a hundred, five hundred. Each bulb functions best when connected to the right power station. Similarly, a soul that originated at the level of the solar system will naturally connect with Shiv. One from the galactic level connects with Maha-Shiv. One from the universe level connects with Param Maha-Shiv. And a behad soul — a soul whose origin lies in the limitless dimensions beyond the multiverse — connects with the Almighty Authority, the highest source of all.

♦ Bapuji Insight

“Some bulbs are ten volts. Some a hundred. Some a thousand. Each connects to the powerhouse that matches it. The connection determines what power flows.”

---

Love Is the Bond

Bapuji offers a beautiful and simple key: when you love someone deeply in ordinary life, you never forget them. At every moment, in every activity, that person is present in your awareness — naturally, without effort. The soul’s connection with the Supreme works the same way.

“You reach the Great-Great Grandfather — the Almighty Authority. From a grandfather, inheritance flows. And what does he hold? Param Prakash — supreme divine light. That light flows to you.” This is not a technique. It is a relationship sustained through love. Whoever you remember, you receive what they have. Connect with the highest, and the highest power flows.

Chapter Ten

The Method: Step by Step

Everything described in this book flows from a specific, consistent inner practice. Bapuji describes it clearly enough for anyone to begin.

Step One: Establish Soul Consciousness

Begin by resting in the awareness that you are a soul. The soul is a point of pure luminous energy at the centre of the mind, in the region of the forehead. Hold this awareness: “I am not this body. I am the soul within it. A point of white light. Conscious and Self-aware.”

If the experience is not initially clear, Bapuji suggests an external support: look at a white light, then shift the focus inward to the forehead region and hold the knowing: I am that light. I am the soul. Repeat this gently and steadily. Over time, the inner experience stabilises.

Step Two: Release Body-Identification

At the same time, set aside the sense of being the body — the roles, the relationships, the name and form. This is not a rejection of life, nor does it interfere with daily functioning. Rather, within the space of practice, allow the weight of body-identity to fall away.

As this becomes natural, a process described in ancient texts begins: nashto moha, smriti labdha — when attachment (moha) dissolves, true memory (smriti) returns. The soul begins to remember what its true nature. A natural inner turning away from limited worldly attractions arises alongside this. This is vairag — detachment. It is not forced. It is the natural fruit of finding something more real than what the world offers.

Step Three: Connect with the Supreme

From soul consciousness, orient the awareness toward the Almighty Authority — the supreme divine light in the highest eternal abode. Visualise: a pure white light, vast and formless, infinitely powerful, the creator of all that exists. He is the Great-Great-Great Grandfather of your soul.

From soul consciousness, connect with that light — not with effort, but with love and knowing. One thought, and the connection is made. When this connection is made from the nirakari state — the formless, seed-like, most powerful stage of the soul — power flows fully. The causal body (karan shareer), which holds the imprint of all past actions, begins to be purified. The bonds of past actions gradually dissolve.

Carry It into Every Moment

Bapuji's practice has never been confined to a dedicated session. It has been continuous: in the office, in the courts, while driving, cooking, eating, sleeping. The soul is always present; awareness of it can always be held quietly beneath whatever activity is happening.

When learning happens in soul consciousness, the knowledge prints directly into the soul. When work is done in soul consciousness, it completes faster and with greater precision. The outer life continues as normal, but the inner quality of the one living it transforms.

The Three Intentions for World Transformation

For those who wish to extend this practice beyond personal transformation, Bapuji teaches three intentions to be held together in the nirakari state:

First: "Throughout the entire Multiverse, there is supreme peace."

Second: "Throughout the entire Multiverse, there is supreme happiness."

Third: “Throughout the entire Multiverse, there is supreme bliss.”

These are not prayers or wishes. They are the soul’s own power, directed outward. When a soul holds these intentions in the nirakari state, the vibrations of param shanti — supreme peace — radiate into the world and gradually and practically begin to change its quality.

Chapter Eleven

What He Has Witnessed

Over the decades, Bapuji has not only seen the living cosmos. He has witnessed its dissolution.

The Great Cosmic Dissolution

In 2004, he wrote a book titled “Ananta Koti Bramhandon ka Mahakaal Pralaya” — The Great Dissolution of Infinite Universes. The knowledge in that book came from direct inner perception, not from study.

The scriptures describe a process called mahakaal pralaya — the great dissolution — in which Maha-Shiv becomes Maha-Kaal, the lord of time, and absorbs infinite universes back into himself. Bapuji has seen this. He sat in soul consciousness, placed the sankalpa “show me” — and vision unfolded: the dissolution of infinite universes, witnessed from perfect stillness.

♦ Bapuji Insight

“I have seen the Mahakaal Pralaya — the great dissolution of infinite universes. I sat in soul consciousness, placed the sankalpa: show me. And it was shown.”

The Structure of Divine Administration

Our solar system has one Shiv (creator), one Vishnu (sustainer), and one Shankar (dissolver) — the divine triad governing it. But our galaxy contains around eight hundred billion such solar systems. Each has its own triad. And 16,108 mahashaktiyan — great luminous beings of high power oversee the entire galaxy, coordinating all those individual systems.

The universe contains countless galaxies, overseen by nine lakh (900,000) param mahashaktiyan. And there are infinite universes, each with its own full structure of divine administration. Bapuji has seen the Brahmas, Vishnus, and Shankars of countless worlds — of infinite kinds, in infinite configurations.

Before This Birth: One Thousand Years of Observation

Bapuji describes a period that preceded his present human birth. In a previous existence, he was in akari form — a luminous sphere of ten-kala power — hovering above this earth for one thousand years, without a physical body, simply observing.

He observed the earth, the human world, and the cosmic layers above it: the heavenly realm (swarg loka), the realms of Brahma, Vishnu, and Shiv, and the supreme abode (paramdham). After a thousand years of observation, he took human birth for the first time. This is his first incarnation in a physical body. He came to know the mortal world from within — what poverty is, what suffering is, what it means for a soul to have forgotten its true nature.

At the time of the Mahabharata, five thousand years ago, he was in paramdham — the highest abode of our solar system — in nirakari form. That realm was then one light year above the earth. Today, with the expansion of the universe, it is 1.6 light-years.

Chapter Twelve

What It Is All For

From childhood, Bapuji was troubled by the world's suffering. Walking barefoot through the fields of Gujarat at the age of six, he questioned God: Why does a world created by the divine contain so much pain?

The answer he eventually found was not an accusation. It was an understanding. The world was once constituted of param tatva — supreme luminous matter. Its first inhabitants were seven param-purush — beings of the highest order of light. Over vast spans of time, as their inner luminosity gradually diminished, the quality of existence also declined: from supreme matter to subtle three-element matter, and eventually to the five-element physical world we now experience. The cause of that decline and of all suffering is agyaan — ignorance. The ignorance of souls that have forgotten what they truly are. The solution is the reverse process: remembrance.

How the World Actually Changes

Bapuji is precise about the mechanism of transformation. It does not happen through dramatic external events. It happens through the quality of consciousness that inhabits the world.

When souls practise atma-swaroop and radiate param shanti vibrations, those vibrations enter the atmosphere. The first change is in the vayu tatva — the air element. As param vayu (supreme air) begins to replace the negative quality of the current atmosphere, the pranmaya shareer — the vital energy body, the subtle layer most directly connected to the air we breathe, is positively affected.

As the pranmaya shareer shifts, the karan shareer — the causal body, which holds the soul's accumulated records begins to awaken. People become quieter inside. The grip of negative thought loosens. Consciousness becomes more permeable to truth. They begin to experience param shanti — not necessarily through study or deliberate practice, but through the transformation in the subtle environment itself.

The Responsibility of the Soul

This is why practice matters. Each soul that establishes itself in soul consciousness and radiates param shanti contributes, directly and practically, to this process. The effect is not limited to those nearby. Through the atmosphere, it extends. Through the subtle world, the invisible dimension filled with souls without physical bodies who are also suffering, it extends further still.

♦ Bapuji Insight

“Your power, when it comes fully, will reach the entire galaxy. Think about how much power that is.”

---

Bapuji’s final message is simple. Time lost is everything lost. Yet the ability to begin is always present. The soul already possesses what it seeks. The knowledge has been given. The path is clear. Begin now and sustain it.

Param Shanti.

BAPUJI INSIGHTS

The following are direct distillations of Bapuji's spoken words from these discourses, preserved as closely as possible to his original expression.

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

“Until you know yourself as a soul, remembering the Supreme will not give you accurate power. First, know yourself. Then connect.”

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

“I rose at two-thirty in the morning. I sat in awareness of myself as a soul. Only that. The rest of the day, the same awareness continued — in the office, in the courts, everywhere.”

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

“When working in soul consciousness, even demanding tasks moved with unusual clarity. The professional work of those years felt deeply supported by the inner state. You cannot imagine.”

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

“The entire body becomes like light. Then I cannot drive. I cannot walk. I sit outside the room and wait for body-consciousness to return.”

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

“I placed a powerful inner resolve in meditation: if there are infinite universes, let them become visible to me. And gradually, slowly, they became visible.”

---

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

“I was there and here at the same time. Looking at the universe and teaching from the whiteboard. Both are happening together.”

---

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

“The third eye is not something separate. It is what soul consciousness becomes when it is fully established. Become truly soul-conscious — and the Brahmastra opens.”

---

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

“The akari roop is separate from me. Its own existence. Pure supreme divine light. Whatever I wear here, it wears there. If I change, it changes.”

---

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

“From 1998 onwards, in deep meditation I perceived souls from other galaxies present at the ashram. In my inner vision, they sat in the back during the class. I told no one at the time. Who would have believed it?”

---

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

“Some bulbs are ten volts. Some a hundred. Some a thousand. Each connects to the powerhouse that matches it. The soul is the bulb. The connection determines what power flows.”

---

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

“When you love someone deeply, you never forget them. Every moment, in every activity, they are present in your awareness. Hold the Supreme with that same love. That is how the connection is sustained.”

---

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

“I have seen the Mahakaal Pralaya — the great dissolution of infinite universes. I sat in soul consciousness, placed the resolve: show me. And it was shown.”

---

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

“Before this birth, I was in akari form — a sphere of ten-kala power — for a thousand years above this earth. Observing. Then I took human birth for the first time.”

---

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

“Nashto moha, smriti labdha: when attachment dissolves, true memory returns. The soul begins to remember what it truly is.”

---

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

“Time lost is everything lost. But the soul is already what it needs to be. The knowledge has been given. Begin now.”

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

“Gyan Daan Maha Daan — Sharing Knowledge is the highest Charity. Share this to the maximum extent with all who are ready.”

---

GLOSSARY OF KEY TERMS

This glossary explains the Hindi and Sanskrit spiritual terms used in this book. Most of these terms appear across Bapuji's other books and teachings as well. New readers are encouraged to refer to this glossary alongside the main text.

Agyaan

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

Ignorance. The state of a soul that has forgotten its true nature and its connection to the Supreme. Agyaan is considered the root cause of suffering in this world.

---

Akari

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

The subtle form. Not a physical body, but a form made of energy and light. Akari is the intermediate stage of the soul — between the fully physical (sakari) and the fully formless (nirakari).

---

Akari Roop

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

The subtle luminous form. Bapuji's akari roop exists independently in a higher dimension while his physical body remains on earth. It gathers and transmits cosmic knowledge to his earthly awareness.

---

Almighty Authority

♦ Bapuji Insight

The supreme creator of all existence — all solar systems, galaxies, universes, multiverses, and the limitless dimensions beyond. In Hindi, called Behad ka Baap (Father of the Boundless). He is the ultimate source, beyond all lesser creators such as Shiv, Maha-Shiv, and Param Maha-Shiv.

Amarlok

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

The immortal realm. A dimension of existence not subject to creation and dissolution cycles. Made entirely of param tatva (supreme elemental matter). There is no birth or death there.

---

Ananta Koti Bramhand

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

Infinite universes. A phrase from Hindu scripture indicating the boundless number of created worlds.

---

Atma

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

Soul. The true self within every living being. The soul is not the body; the body is merely the instrument. The soul is the conscious, self-aware point of light that animates the body. In its pure state, the soul is a form of supreme divine light.

---

Atma-Swaroop

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

Soul consciousness. The direct, felt awareness of oneself as a soul rather than as a body. Atma-swaroop is the foundation of all spiritual practice in Bapuji's teaching.

---

Avyakt

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

The invisible world. The dimensions of subtle and supreme subtle existence, not perceptible to the physical senses.

---

Behad

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

Without boundary. Limitless. Boundless. Behad refers to the vast dimensions of creation that lie beyond the multiverse — genuinely without any boundary or limit. The opposite of had (within limits).

Behad Gyan

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

The knowledge of the limitless. The supreme spiritual knowledge taught by Bapuji covers the full structure of creation from this solar system all the way to the limitless dimensions beyond the multiverse. This knowledge is not found in any other book or tradition.

---

---

Behad ka Baap

---

♦ *Bapuji Insight

Father of the Boundless. Another name for the Almighty Authority. The supreme creator of all existence.

---

Behad ki Atma

---

♦ *Bapuji Insight

A soul of the boundless. A soul whose origin lies in the limitless dimensions beyond the multiverse, constituted of param prakash and param maha tatva. Such souls carry the potential to connect with the highest source of spiritual power.

Bhakti Marg

---

♦ *Bapuji Insight

The path of devotion. One of the traditional approaches to spiritual realisation is in which the soul surrenders to its chosen deity through worship, chanting, and ritual.

---

Bhrikuti

---

♦ *Bapuji Insight

The point between the eyebrows. In spiritual anatomy, this is where the soul resides within the physical body, at the centre of the mind.

---

Bramhand

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

Solar system. The smallest complete unit of cosmic creation. Each bramhand has its own creator (Shiv), sustainer (Vishnu), and dissolver (Shankar), and extends through fourteen dimensions (lokas).

---

Brahmastra

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

The supreme inner power of the soul. In Bapuji's teaching, the Brahmastra is fully established soul consciousness (atma-swaroop). When this state is complete, the inner eye opens, and direct perception of the cosmos becomes possible.

---

Buddhi

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

The intellect. The discriminating, deciding aspect of the mind. In spiritual practice, the buddhi is oriented toward the Supreme through deep meditation.

---

Dehbhaan

♦ Bapuji Insight

Body-consciousness. The ordinary state of identifying with the physical body rather than with the soul. Deep practice gradually reduces dehbhaan and increases genuine soul consciousness.

---

Gyan Daan

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

The gift of knowledge. Regarded as the highest form of charity (Maha Daan), because it benefits the soul far beyond any single lifetime.

---

Gyan Marg

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

The path of knowledge. A spiritual approach in which the soul seeks to understand the truth about itself and its creator through deep contemplation and sustained study.

---

Had

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

Within limits. Bounded. Had refers to the dimensions of existence that have definable boundaries, including our solar system, galaxy, universe, and multiverse. The opposite of behad.

---

Ishwar

♦ Bapuji Insight

The master or owner of creation. The incorporeal creator (Shiv) of a solar system.

---

Jeevan Mukti

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

Liberation while living. The state in which a soul is free from all karmic bondage and lives in blissful awareness of its creator, while still present in the world.

---

Kala

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

A unit of spiritual power or luminous capacity. Just as electricity is measured in watts, kala measures the power of a soul, a creator, or an entire dimension of existence. Lord Krishna is described in scripture as having sixteen kala. The multiverse has one hundred kala.

---

Karan Shareer

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

The causal body. A subtle layer of the human being, deeper than the gross physical body and the subtle energy body. The karan shareer holds the accumulated record of all past actions. Sustained connection with the Supreme in meditation gradually purifies it.

---

Karmatit

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

Beyond karmic bondage. The state in which a soul has been completely freed from all effects of past actions across every dimension of creation.

---

Karmayogi

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

A karma-yogi. Someone who performs all the actions of daily life while remaining inwardly connected to the Supreme — maintaining soul consciousness in the office, in the courts, while eating, driving, and in every moment.

Loka

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

A dimension or layer of creation. Each bramhand (solar system) contains multiple lokas. Our earth is Bhu-loka. Above it are Bhuvan-loka, Swarg-loka, Maha-loka, Jana-loka, Tapa-loka, and then the divine realms of Brahma, Vishnu, and Shiv.

Maha-Bramhand

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

Galaxy. The great universe. A galaxy contains hundreds of bramhands (solar systems). Our galaxy contains approximately eight hundred such solar systems, each with its own creator.

---

Mahakaal Pralaya

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

The great cosmic dissolution. The process in which Maha-Shiv (the creator of the galaxy) becomes Maha-Kaal (the lord of time) and absorbs infinite universes back into himself. Bapuji has witnessed this process directly in meditation.

---

Maha-Shiv

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

The incorporeal creator of a galaxy (maha-bramhand). He resides in the supreme abode of the galaxy.

---

Man

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

The mind. In this teaching, the mind is not the brain. It is the subtle field of consciousness that envelops and animates the physical body. The soul resides at the centre of the mind.

---

Moha

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

Attachment. The sense of being bound to people, objects, or situations in a way that creates dependence and suffering. The dissolution of moha (nashto moha) is a pivotal step in spiritual progress.

Mrityu-Lok

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

The mortal realm. The world we currently inhabit is composed of the five gross elements: earth, water, fire, air, and ether. All things here are subject to birth, growth, decay, and death.

---

Mukti

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

Liberation. Freedom of the soul from the cycle of birth and death.

---

Nashto Moha, Smriti Labdha

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

A phrase from the Bhagavad Gita: when attachment (moha) is dissolved (nashto), true memory (smriti) is obtained (labdha). As soul consciousness deepens, the soul begins to remember its true nature.

Nirakari

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

Formless. The pure, incorporeal state of the soul. In the nirakari stage, the soul exists as a point of pure divine light, without any form. This is the soul's original and most powerful state. The Almighty Authority always exists in nirakari form.

---

Nindra Yog

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

The Yog of sleep. The practice of placing a clear spiritual intention (sankalpa) in the mind before sleep allows the unconscious mind to process and reveal deeper knowledge during the night.

---

Param Atma

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

The Supreme Soul. A soul of the highest order with the power to create other souls through intention. Shiv, the creator of a solar system, is a Param Atma.

---

Param Maha-Bramhand

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

Universe. The structure contains billions of galaxies, each of which contains many galaxies and bramhands (solar systems).

---

Param Prakash

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

Supreme divine light. The form in which a pure soul exists in its nirakari (formless) state. The Almighty Authority is pure Param Prakash.

---

Param Purush

♦ Bapuji Insight

The first creation of a formless supreme creator in any dimension. The Param Purush has a subtle (akari) form and is the highest-energy being in that dimension, second only to its formless creator.

---

Param Shanti

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

Supreme peace. The original state of the pure soul. Param Shanti is also the vibration that radiates from a soul established in soul consciousness and connected to the Supreme. Bapuji teaches the spreading of Param Shanti vibrations as the primary means of world transformation.

---

Param Tatva

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

Supreme elemental matter. The luminous substance of existence in the highest dimensions. Unlike the five gross elements of the physical world, param tatva is far finer and more luminous. The immortal realm (Amarlok) is made of param tatva.

---

Paramdham

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

The supreme abode. The highest dimension of a solar system (brahmhand), where Shiv, its creator, resides. The term is also used more broadly for the highest abodes of the galaxy, the universe, and beyond.

---

Peedi

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

Generation of creators. The first generation of creation is the first peedi (101-kala level). The second is second peedi (201-kala). As one moves to higher dimensions, both the generation number (peedi) and the power level (kala) increase.

---

Pranmaya Shareer

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

The vital energy body. The subtle layer of the human being is most directly connected to the air and atmosphere. When Param Shanti vibrations enter the atmosphere, the pranmaya shareer is the first layer to be positively affected.

---

Pralaya

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

Dissolution. The process by which a creation ends. Types include: kala pralaya (dissolution of a solar system) and Mahakaal Pralaya (dissolution of infinite universes).

---

Purusharth

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

Spiritual effort. The sincere, sustained inner work a soul makes to understand itself and connect with its source.

---

Sakari

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

Physical form. The state in which the soul is fully embodied in a gross physical body composed of the five elements.

---

Samskaras

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

The accumulated impressions and tendencies carried by the soul from its past actions across lifetimes. These impressions form a layer around the soul and shape its current thinking and behaviour.

Sankalpa

♦ Bapuji Insight

An intention or inner resolve. In spiritual practice, a sankalpa is not a casual thought. It is a determination placed with the full force of the soul's will. A zordaar sankalpa is a particularly forceful resolve.

Shiv

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

The incorporeal (formless) creator of a solar system (brahmahand). Shiv resides in the paramdham (supreme abode) of the solar system. He is pure Param Prakash.

---

Sukshma Jagat

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

The subtle world. The invisible dimension of existence that interpenetrates the physical world. Souls without physical bodies inhabit the subtle world.

---

Vairaag

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

Detachment. A natural inner turning away from limited worldly attractions that arises as soul consciousness deepens. Vairaag is not forced renunciation. It is the natural fruit of finding one's own true nature more real than anything the world can offer.

Vikarm

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

Sinful or negative karmic action. The accumulated record of past negative deeds that creates bondage in the soul. Through sustained soul consciousness and connection with the Supreme, vikarm is gradually dissolved.

---

---

Vishwa Seva Dhari

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

World servant. One who uses the power of spiritual practice not for personal gain but for the benefit of all souls in the world — radiating Param Shanti, spreading knowledge, and contributing to world transformation.

Vyakt

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

The visible world. The five-element physical world that can be seen, touched, and experienced through the senses.

---

Yog

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

Connection. In Bapuji's teaching, real yog is the connection of the soul (atma) with the Supreme Soul (Param Atma). It has nothing to do with physical postures. It is the establishment of a living inner relationship between the soul and its source.

Yugas

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

Time cycles. On earth, time repeats through four cycles: Satyug (the golden age), Tretayug, Dwaparyug, and Kaliyug (the current age). Together, these are called Chaturyug. This cycle repeats within the lifetime of a bramhand.

---

Zordaar Sankalpa

---

♦ Bapuji Insight

A forceful, powerful inner resolve. The type of unwavering determination with which Bapuji requested the vision of infinite universes. Zordaar means strong or forceful; sankalpa means intention or resolve.
