ABOUT BAPUJI

Bapuji (full name: Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel, also lovingly called “Dadaji” by the younger generation) was born in 1956 in the small village of Akhaj in the Mehsana district of Gujarat. However, he spent his childhood in another village named Ambasan, also located in the Mehsana district.

In the early part of his life, he was a highly successful lawyer. Later, he devoted his life to realizing the supreme spiritual truth and bringing this divine knowledge forward for the welfare of humanity. Today, this supreme knowledge serves as a guiding light for true seekers to realize their ultimate destiny. It is a blessing of the highest divinity that the present time is witnessing the rise of this supreme spiritual knowledge, guiding souls on Earth to return to their original source.

Despite being raised in a very poor family and facing challenging circumstances, Bapuji had a deep desire to transform this sorrowful and suffering world into a better place. At the young age of six, he questioned God repeatedly, asking why God remained silent about the suffering of humanity. This intense longing to end human suffering eventually led him to attain the highest level of spirituality later in life.

Even as a child, Bapuji would spend hours alone in the fields, often neglecting his own comfort. Due to poverty, he would walk barefoot without shoes or sandals, frequently getting pricked by thorns. Many times, he would stay late in the fields and, on his way back home, encounter subtle world entities. These experiences sparked his interest in communicating with subtle world souls.

Bapuji was courageous from a young age, which helped him overcome many obstacles. Alongside his studies in chartered accountancy (CA), he gave tuition classes to support himself financially. Later, he completed his Bachelor of Law (LLB) degree and became a well-known lawyer in Ahmedabad.

In 1997, he established a spiritual institution called “Vishwa Parivartak Ishwariya Vidhyalay” in Chenpur, Ahmedabad, with the mission of transforming this mortal world, filled with suffering and disorder, into an eternal divine world of immortality.

Smt. Sushma Tandon, lovingly known as “Maa,” worked alongside Bapuji in this grand divine mission.

To accomplish this mission, Bapuji worked tirelessly, dedicating all his resources to this divine purpose. During that time, he would deliver continuous spiritual discourses for up to 18 hours without rest. In these discourses, he explained the highest dimensions of divine knowledge, which he realized through deep meditation and divine vision in a state of superconsciousness. This knowledge goes beyond the imagination of the ordinary human mind.

Bapuji’s teachings cover a vast range of topics, including the types of celestial creators across different dimensions, the creation of our solar system, galaxy, and universe, and most importantly, the transcendental knowledge of the multiverse and realities beyond it. His knowledge is supremely profound and is intended for highly evolved seekers, referred to as “behad souls.” According to Bapuji, these “behad souls” will play a key role in transforming this mortal world into an eternal divine realm.

At present, Bapuji remains deeply engaged in intense meditation and samadhi for long hours. He does not meet anyone, as he is continuously immersed in his transcendental mission in a superconscious state.

Preface

In an age captivated by the promise of instant manifestation, the idea that human thought alone can shape destiny has gained extraordinary popularity. The concept commonly known as the “Law of Attraction” has inspired millions to believe that by focusing on desire with clarity and emotion, one can draw success, health, and happiness into life. This idea was further popularised by the movie and the book “The secret”. While this belief carries a fragment of truth, it often presents an incomplete understanding of the deeper spiritual mechanisms governing existence.

This book invites the reader to look beyond the surface of this popular philosophy and enter a more profound dimension of knowledge. Here, thought is not denied its power—but it is placed within a larger framework: the eternal journey of the soul, the law of karma, and the unseen impressions carried across lifetimes. It reveals that true attraction does not arise merely from desire, but from the inner strength of the soul, purified through spiritual discipline and awakened through connection with the Supreme Source.

Through the wisdom shared by Param Pujya Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel, the reader is gently guided to understand that without inner purification, even the most persistent thoughts may remain fruitless. The soul’s capacity to attract is directly linked to its spiritual state—its karmic balance, its sanskars, and its living connection with the Almighty Authority.

This is not merely a philosophical exploration, but a practical path. It leads from illusion to clarity, from effort to understanding, and from fragmented seeking to inner completeness. The teachings contained within these pages aim to restore the seeker to their original state of peace, purity, and power.

May this book serve not only as knowledge, but as an awakening—guiding each reader toward the highest truth: the rediscovery of the self and its eternal relationship with the Supreme.

CHAPTER 1

The Question of Our Time

In every age, certain teachings rise to capture the imagination of the world. In our own time, no spiritual idea has spread more widely than the so-called Law of Attraction. The film The Secret and the books surrounding it have entered millions of homes. Speakers from many lands have offered personal testimonies — “I thought of this, and it came to me; I imagined that, and it appeared.” Many of these stories are sincere, many are uplifting, and a great deal of inspiration has flowed from them.

And yet, when these teachings are placed beside the eternal truths of true spirituality, a number of serious questions arise. The presentation of the Law of Attraction in modern self-help is, in many of its essential points, not aligned with what the great spiritual sciences have always taught. Certain claims, if accepted without examination, can lead a sincere seeker in an unhelpful direction.

This book is therefore offered as a careful, respectful, but truthful comparison. We ask the deeper question that every honest seeker must eventually face: Can a human being truly transform their life by following these few simple principles alone? And where, precisely, does the teaching of The Secret fall short of the soul-science it claims to represent?

The answer, as Bapuji explains throughout these pages, is that the modern Law of Attraction is missing its very foundation: the science of the soul, the law of karma, the mechanism of past-life impressions and the indispensable role of the Almighty Authority. Without this foundation, the entire structure rests upon sand.

Let us begin, then, at the beginning — with the source of attraction itself.

CHAPTER 2

What Truly Powers Law of Attraction?

There is, indeed, a truth in the saying: “As you think, so you become.” Yet a deeper question must be asked at once: From where does the power of attraction itself arise?

When a person thinks the same thought repeatedly — I want a car, I want a house, I want wealth — does it always become reality? Observation alone gives the answer. It does not.

Bapuji explains this with examples. A poor man who wakes up every morning with the same wish: Let me have a car, let me have a bungalow. Day after day, year after year, he turns the same desire over in his mind. Has the car arrived? Has the bungalow appeared? The same family, generation upon generation, repeats: Let our son become a doctor, let him become an engineer. The boy studies, struggles, attempts again and again — and yet many such children do not become what was endlessly imagined for them.

Why?

Because the power of attraction belongs to the soul, and when the soul itself is without power, the thought has nothing to draw upon. The Law of Attraction is, at its root, an attribute of the Atma. If the soul is weak, the thought is weak. If the soul is depleted, the so-called power of thought is hollow. Therefore, no matter how many times a depleted soul repeats a desire, that desire cannot manifest. Bapuji explains because The soul lacks power due to multiples lives, power is lost hence most thoughts are powerless. Law of attraction without soul power is ineffective.

Modern teachers of the Law of Attraction overlook this completely. They invite the seeker to think, to repeat, to affirm — without ever asking whether the soul that is doing the thinking has any power within it at all. It is as though a man were told to send a powerful broadcast from a transmitter that has no electricity. He may turn the dial, he may speak into the microphone, but no signal will go forth.

This is the teaching that must come first. Before any thought can attract, the soul itself must be charged. And how the soul becomes charged is a science of its own — a science we shall unfold step by step in the chapters to come.

CHAPTER 3

The Forgotten Law: Karma Across Many Births

Even when the Law of Attraction is taught alongside spirituality, modern presentations almost always omit the great companion-law without which it cannot operate: the Law of Karma also referred as Theory of Karma in Bapuji's teachings however contrary to this truth The movie claims that all individual can attract anything—money, health, happiness.

A soul who has spent many lifetimes performing harmful actions — a soul who has carried within itself the residue of cruelty, violence or destructive deeds across many births — cannot simply walk into a temple, repeat a list of desires, and have those desires fulfilled by a divine power. To suggest such a thing is to contradict the very order that the Supreme has established within creation.

Consider this carefully: to claim that a person can commit any action—even the most harmful—and still attract every blessing merely by thinking the right thoughts afterward is to stand in direct contradiction to the Law of Karma established within Creation. Such a belief cannot be reconciled with the universal spiritual law that governs every soul across all births.

The Law of Karma is unequivocal: actions rooted in harm return as harm, and actions rooted in goodness return as goodness. There are no shortcuts, no bypassing the consequences of one's past. To suggest otherwise is to misguide the sincere seeker.

This does not diminish the value of good thoughts. Pure thinking is natural to the soul—even a child instinctively understands, “I should not hurt, I should not speak harshly, I should not harm another.” Yet, when a soul carries deep-seated impressions accumulated over many lifetimes—patterns shaped by repeated acts of aggression or wrongdoing—mere repetition of positive thinking cannot dissolve those inner imprints.

What is stored within cannot be transformed by words alone; it requires deeper purification and true spiritual power.

The soul's deep nature cannot be changed by a slogan. It can only be changed by the science of true spirituality, by yog with the Almighty Authority, by the gradual purification of the Causal Body (Karan Sharir) itself.

This is why many people, even after reading countless self-help books, see little real change. Their wealth, health, and relationships follow the same patterns, wounds, emotional rides. They are told to think differently, but not how to gain the inner power that makes new thinking truly possible. Bapuji confirms firmly that Karma (All deeds, Past lives, current) Governs Result

Causal Body, Storage House of Karmic Records

To understand why mere positive thinking is insufficient, the seeker must understand the nature of the Causal Body, the deepest of the soul's three coverings, in which every impression of every birth is recorded.

Every action a soul performs, every thought it entertains, every word it speaks, every emotion it experiences — every one of these leaves a mark. That mark is recorded in the Subtle Body and stored in the Causal Body. Across many lifetimes, these accumulated impressions, called sanskars, become the very substance of the soul's character.

This is why two souls can meet for the first time in this life and feel an immediate response to one another — affection on one side, aversion on the other — though neither has any conscious memory of a prior meeting. The soul has not forgotten. The Causal Body remembers. Wherever there is a positive past connection, love rises spontaneously, and the soul moves toward an embrace. Wherever there is a negative past connection, repulsion arises spontaneously, and the soul moves away. The recordings within the Causal Body are silently shaping every encounter, every preference, every reaction.

Now, can such a soul, by sheer effort of will, decide not to feel the negativity that arises? It cannot. It may try — it may resolve a thousand times not to think a particular way — but it cannot overcome the recordings within itself by will alone. These subtle impressions continuously influence our present experiences and interactions. Its very nature, its very swabhava, has been formed by these sanskars over countless births

This is why we see, again and again, that families that listen daily to the Ramayana and the Mahabharata nevertheless quarrel within their own walls. They have heard the stories; they believe the stories; yet the inner negative recordings rise up unbidden, and the household dissolves into conflict. The intellect has heard one thing; the Causal Body holds another. And in the struggle between the two, the Causal Body wins.

The remedy, therefore, cannot be another resolution on top of the existing layer of pain. The remedy must reach the storehouse itself — the Causal Body. And this is precisely what the discipline of yog with the Almighty Authority is designed to do.

The flame of soul-power, lit through divine remembrance, slowly burns away the accumulated negative impressions. As the Causal Body is purified, the rising thoughts themselves change in nature. The soul begins, gently, to think differently — not because it has forced itself to do so, but because the source from which thoughts arise has been cleansed.

This is the true transformation. This is the work of lifetimes — and it is possible, in this very birth, through the right method.

CHAPTER 5

The Driver's Faith: A Living Illustration

There is no teaching so powerful as a teaching demonstrated by life itself. In one of these dialogues, a sincere devotee shared a personal experience that beautifully illustrates the inner law we have been describing.

For more than five years, A seeker on Path of Knowledge, had driven regularly between Ahmedabad and Delhi — a journey he had now completed some thirty-five times, accumulating roughly seventy thousand kilometers on the road. In all those journeys, no harm had ever come to him. No accident; not even a punctured tyre. Why? Because his trust in the Supreme was complete. Each time he sat behind the wheel, his consciousness rested in the remembrance of the Almighty Authority. Physically, vehicle moved on the road however the soul stationed in Almighty's memory and love. When a soul is established in true knowledge, when it is in genuine yog with the Supreme, when it drives or works or speaks or moves — while inwardly remembering the Almighty Authority, the soul itself remains charged with energy. The Causal Body is being silently cleansed. The protective field around the soul is strong.

This is the very promise made in the Gita: “Remember Me Always, and nothing shall happen to you.”

This is also the precise teaching that the modern Law of Attraction overlooks. The Secret teaches: think of what you want. The Gita teaches: remember the One who is the source of all that is. The first ideology puts the small mind at the centre. The second fact puts the Supreme at the centre. The first depends on a fragile, fluctuating thought. The second draws upon the infinite. Only the second can truly protect, truly heal, and truly fulfil.

The devotee's experience was not the result of repeating affirmations about safe travel. It was the result of inner connection. The soul that walks with God walks differently in the world.

CHAPTER 6

The Illusion of Mere Positive Thinking

Let us now look directly at one of the central claims of the modern Law of Attraction — that a person can transform their entire life simply by maintaining good feelings and good thoughts. The sincere seeker may ask: If I cultivate good feelings — joy, enthusiasm, gratitude, love — will I not begin to attract everything good into my life?

Bapuji explains this with honest and loving approach.

Imagine such a person sitting and repeating to themselves: I am wealthy, I am a billionaire, my body is in perfect health, I am surrounded by peace and happiness. Will the simple act of repeating these statements produce the results they claim? Without the foundation of soul-power and the law of karma, such a teaching has no real basis.

Look at the world. Hundreds of thousands of people walk into temples each day repeating their requests; many sincerely follow the religious practices; many maintain their feelings carefully. Out of all these countless seekers, perhaps one in many thousands, experiences the result they desired that too in limited quantity or quality. That one then comes forward and tells the story; the story is broadcast; and a vast multitude believes that the technique has been validated. But what of the thousands and thousands for whom nothing changed? Their silence is the bigger witness.

The fortunate few who do receive their desired result, achieves because of the bhagya, the destiny, that their previous karmas had already established in earlier life time. The fortune was waiting; the affirmation was at most the gentle key that turned in a lock that was already prepared to open. Where there is no such fortune in store, no amount of affirmation will create it from nothing.

Consider also the test that history places before any such doctrine. Suppose a soul has lived previous lives committing immense harm — wars, mass killings, betrayal, oppression. The Theory of Karma states that such a soul, in its next birth, must reap a corresponding harvest.

Now, can that soul, simply by being told to “think well, feel good, expect blessings,” undo the accumulated weight of those past actions? It cannot. The power required for such transformation does not lie in repetition. It lies in spiritual purification — and that purification, in turn, requires the power that only the Almighty Authority can give. Good thinking is good. Cultivating positive feelings is good. No one denies this. But to present these alone as the complete spiritual path is to mislead the seeker into believing that the deepest work of lifetimes can be accomplished through the surface of the mind. It cannot.

CHAPTER 7

The Three Steps of The Secret Examined

The film The Secret offers a simple three-step formula. It is worth examining each step honestly, with neither hostility nor naïveté.

The first step is to ask the Universe. The seeker is told to make a list of desires and to send it forth, with the assurance that the “Universe” will deliver. The seeker is encouraged to picture the Universe as a kind of cosmic genie that fulfils whatever is requested.

The second step is to believe. The seeker is told to live as if the requested thing has already arrived. Doubt must be cast aside, certainty must be cultivated, and the desired reality must be felt as already present.

The third step is to receive. The seeker is told to act as if the desired thing has already entered their life — to test-drive the car they wish to own, to walk through the kind of house they wish to live in, to feel within themselves the texture of the desired future. The teachers of The Secret refuse to fix any time within which fulfilment must arrive; they ask only that the seeker continue without doubt.

These three steps are presented as the complete law. Reality is completely opposite.

Consider this. There are over eight hundred crore (eight billion) souls upon the earth. If this teaching were truly the universal law, then the homeless would need only to think of homes to receive them; the hungry would need only to feel themselves fed; the sick would need only to claim their wellness. Yet the world is not so. Why? Because the Theory of Karma and the law of the Causal Body do not permit it. Each soul carries within itself the recordings of many lifetimes, and these recordings are what shape what is possible for that soul in this birth.

If this teaching were sufficient, every Prime Minister of every country would already have made it national policy. Hunger would end overnight. World suffering would dissolve in a single decade. But thinking does not by itself overcome the structures of karma; only the power that transcends karma can do that. And that power has a specific source.

There is a further confusion in the teaching: which “Universe” is the seeker asking? The cosmos is vast beyond imagination — infinite creations. To say “ask the Universe” without naming the One who governs the entire creation is to offer a vague sentiment, not a true direction. Many forms of the divine are revered across the world — in countless holy places, by countless devoted hearts — and yet sorrow continues in the human experience. Bapuji explains that the seeker must rise to the recognition of the One Supreme Father beyond all limited forms. It is therefore not enough to say ask the Universe. One must know whom to ask, and how, and from what inner state.

True yog answers this directly: there is One Almighty Authority, the Supreme Father of all souls, the formless Light, the Power beyond all limited beings. To know that One, to remember that One, to draw soul-power from that One — this is the true direction in which the seeker must turn.

CHAPTER 8

Does Gratitude Work In Manifestation?

The film also teaches that one's present situation is the result of one's past thoughts and actions, and that to change the present, one must change the inner orientation. Lists of gratitude are recommended; thanks is to be offered to all things and to the Supreme; positive feelings are to be cultivated; trust in the "Universe" is to be deepened.

Here, too, there is partial truth. Gratitude is indeed a sacred practice. To remember the Source with thankfulness is a beautiful discipline. The cultivation of positive feeling does subtly affect the inner climate of the soul. But once again, the teaching stops short of real truth.

Bapuji refers to the familiar pattern of those who, having repeatedly visualised a worldly target and eventually attained it, attribute their result entirely to the power of thought. Such accounts are inspiring on the surface, and they are often presented as proof of the Law of Attraction. Yet the deeper question must still be asked.

Such stories are inspiring on the surface. When such teachings invite the seeker to "remember the Universe" or "remember the higher power," they leave open the question of which higher power is being remembered. In Bapuji's teaching, the Almighty Authority alone is the eternal Supreme Father, beyond birth and death — the unchanging source from which all souls descend and to which all may return.

The Gita is precise on this matter. Lord Krishna says: "Whoever remembers the ancestors will go to the ancestors. Whoever remembers the deities will go to the deities. Whoever remembers Me will come to Me." In this sense, there is indeed a Law of Attraction at work — but it is the soul's attraction toward whatever it remembers most deeply.

Remember anger, and anger will come. Remember desire, and desire will come. Remember the eternal Supreme, and the Supreme will come.

This is the true science of attraction. It is not about gathering objects of the world. It is about drawing toward oneself the very Source of all existence.

CHAPTER 9

Placebo Effect And Thought Limitation

The film also speaks of healing — of the placebo effect, of the body being shaped by the mind, of those who have apparently improved in well-being through the cultivation of positive feeling. Such stories, often dramatic in their telling, are presented as evidence that mind alone can resolve every physical condition. The conclusion offered is that all illness is, in the end, in the mind, and that mind alone is the answer to it. Once more, the seeker must reflect carefully.

It is perfectly true that mind influences body. It is true that bringing attention away from the disease, releasing fear, cultivating equanimity, and refusing to surrender to despair all support healing. It is true that the placebo effect is real. Yet to make a universal teaching out of one or two extraordinary cases is to ignore the suffering of multitudes for whom such methods have not produced cure.

The truth is that whenever such a recovery occurs, what has actually happened is that a particular karmic account has reached its conclusion. The illness, which was the unfolding of certain karmic recordings, has completed its course. The cheerful state of mind may have been the gentle accompaniment of that conclusion, but it was not the sole cause of it. For every one such case, there are hundreds of thousands of equally cheerful souls whose illness did not reverse, and whose stories are not told.

If joyful viewing were truly sufficient by itself, every place of healing in the world would prescribe comedy films and dismiss everything else. The world's wards would empty overnight. They have not, because reality is more complex than this.

The genuine spiritual approach lies in another direction altogether. It lies in awakening the soul, in the inner purification through yog of the recordings carried within the Karan Sharir, and in drawing soul-power directly from the Almighty Authority. Comedy may amuse the surface; only divine remembrance reaches the depths of the soul.

CHAPTER 10

The Real Solution: Connecting with the Almighty Authority

Having examined the limits of The Secret, we now turn to the positive teaching — the true direction in which the sincere seeker must turn.

The first foundation is the acceptance of rebirth. The soul has lived many lives. Its present circumstances were shaped before this birth, by the karmic accounts carried within its Causal Body. Even an infant in the cradle, who has performed no action in this life, may suffer grave illness — and this is clear evidence that something from before has come into the present. The Theory of Karma is real. To deny it is to misunderstand the very ground on which we stand.

The second foundation is the awakening of self-knowledge. Know yourself as the soul — not the body, not the mind, not the emotion, not the role, not the name — but the eternal point of consciousness. Establish yourself in this awareness. Take in the knowledge of the Gita. Become a karma-yogi — one who does all worldly duties while remaining inwardly anchored in the remembrance of the Supreme.

The third foundation is yog with the Almighty Authority. Slowly, steadily, through daily practice, deepen your connection with that One who is Supreme, who is the Supreme Father of all souls, who governs all creation, who is the very source of soul-power itself. Only the Almighty Authority can give you the power that will transform your soul. The deities of human history cannot. The constellations cannot. The impersonal “Universe” cannot. Only the Supreme — the eternal, the unchanging, the formless Light beyond all limited beings — can.

When this connection is established, soul-power begins to flow. The Causal Body is gradually charged. The negative recordings of many lives are slowly burned away. The very nature of the rising thoughts begins to change. And as the soul itself is purified, what it attracts into life is purified along with it.

This is the true Law of Attraction.

The world is governed by a profound and harmonious order. It rests upon the interplay of the soul, the Supreme, and nature—guided by laws of energy, elements, and consciousness, all intricately connected and upheld by the ultimate authority. Until the seeker comes to understand these deeper laws, they remain drawn to surface-level teachings that offer promises but yield little transformation.

The era of partial understanding is fading. A new age of direct connection has arrived. Move beyond methods that remain only on the surface — and turn toward the direct experience: the soul's connection with the Supreme through silent, loving remembrance.

This is the simplest path, the most direct path, and the most authentic path.

CHAPTER 11

Fortune, Misfortune and the Path to True Change

Many will ask: if my present condition is the fruit of past karmas, then must I simply accept it? Is there nothing I can do?

Indeed, there is everything one can do — but it must be done in the right place.

When a person wins a great prize, it is easy to say “fortune favoured them.” But where did that fortune come from? It was earned in earlier lives, by acts of kindness, generosity and self less-service. The blessing did not appear from nowhere; it returned to the soul that had once given.

In the same way, what comes to us tomorrow or next birth depends entirely upon what we are doing now — in this very moment, in this very breath. If from this moment we begin to remember the Supreme, to walk in awareness of the soul, to act from a place of inner anchoring — then from tomorrow itself, the unfolding of our life begins to change.

The accumulated negative karma of many lives cannot be undone by another worldly action; another worldly action only adds another karmic account. The accumulated misfortune can only be undone by a force that transcends karma itself — and that force is the soul-power that flows from the Almighty Authority.

Therefore the path is clear. Set aside everything else. Remember the Almighty Authority. Practise yog with sincerity. Allow the soul to return to its original state of fullness — Atma-pradhan, soul-conscious, charged with light. As the soul rises, the negative recordings of many lives dissolve. The state of karmatit — beyond karma — begins to take form. And when the soul finally lays aside the body, it returns home, to Param Dham, the Supreme Abode of the Father.

Whomever you remember at the end, you shall reach. This is the deepest law. Choose, then, with utmost care, what you remember.

CHAPTER 12

From Sankalpa to Nishkalpa: Awakening the Power Beyond Thought

A profound paradox lies at the heart of true meditation, and it must be clearly understood.

The teachers of the modern Law of Attraction tell the seeker: think continually of the desired object; repeat it; visualise it; fill your mind with it. Yet the masters of true meditation teach the very opposite: become thoughtless; enter the state of nishkalpa; let the storm of thoughts settle; let the soul return to its silence.

Why this contradiction?

Because the more the soul thinks, the more its energy is dispersed. Every thought consumes a portion of soul-power. A mind churning constantly with desires is a soul depleting itself moment by moment. Such a soul, however much it repeats its affirmations, cannot manifest, because its very capacity to manifest is being eroded by the thinking itself.

The path of yog teaches the opposite. Stop the thinking. Enter silence. Remember the Supreme. In the love of that remembrance, an inner state of absorption arises — lavlin — in which the soul becomes one-pointedly absorbed in the Beloved. In that absorption, nishkalpa is born naturally. The soul rests; the connection deepens; soul-power begins to be restored.

It is much like an electrical connection. If the wire is loose by even one percent, no current will flow. The connection between soul and Supreme must be one hundred percent — full love, full trust, full knowledge, full method, full surrender. Then and only then, does the current of soul-power flow into the soul. Then the karmic recordings begin to dissolve. Then the very basis of attraction is purified at its source.

Repetition without power is shouting through a broken microphone.
Silence with power is broadcasting from the central station of the cosmos.

Choose silence. Choose the Almighty Authority. Choose the direct path.

CHAPTER 13

When Spirituality Turns into Indulgence: A Seeker's Caution

There is a sober warning that must be sounded for every sincere seeker, and it is this: many who begin upon the path of yog eventually fall back into the path of indulgence. The yogi becomes the bhogi. Why does this happen, and how can it be avoided?

The answer lies in motive.

When a soul comes to spirituality with worldly desires hidden inside — a quiet wish for wealth, for status, for the satisfaction of long-buried longings — that soul approaches the Supreme in order to fulfil those desires. Knowledge is received; yog is practised; some inner connection is made; some soul-power begins to flow. With that small power, the buried desires are at last fulfilled. And then — the seeker abandons the path. It is said that Maya has caught them. They have reached the limit of what they came for, and they have no inner pull to go further.

This is why, in our tradition, we do not pursue every soul that approaches the path. We know what often happens. The soul tastes a little of the sweetness, fulfils its small desires, and returns to the world it came from. The yogi, having received what they secretly wanted, becomes the bhogi once again.

The genuine path is not for the gratification of worldly desires. The genuine path is for the realisation of the soul and its purpose, the transformation of the Causal Body, the dissolution of all karmic accounts, and the eternal return to the Almighty Authority. Whoever walks the path with this great purpose at heart will not turn back. Whoever walks the path with small purposes at heart will find that the small purposes consume them.

There is a further teaching here for the sincere yogi. The truly powerful yogi is careful about their company. This is why the great realised souls of history have so often retreated to mountains, to caves, to the silence of unfrequented places. They know that wherever a soul of strong inner light meets a soul of heavy negative recordings, an exchange takes place within the meeting of their auras. The pure soul's power flows into the troubled soul; the troubled soul's burden flows into the pure soul. The pure soul, having spent its accumulated power on others, finds itself diminished and contaminated.

Therefore the great yogis withdraw — not from coldness, but from wisdom. For those of us who must remain in the world, the practical guidance is gentle and clear: speak less, speak sweetly, walk quietly. Carry the inner state with care. Do not waste it.

CHAPTER 14

Closing Words: The Direct Path Home

Let us close where we began, with a single appeal to every reader.

Step away from the endless circles of the modern spiritual marketplace. Step away from the techniques that promise much and ask little. Step away from the methods that flatter the surface mind and leave the depths untouched. Know the One who is beyond all limited beings — the Almighty Authority — and hold fast to that One.

When the Almighty Authority is held, every other circle dissolves. The need for intermediaries falls away. The dependence on uncertain methods falls away. The anxious search through countless teachers and traditions falls away. There is one Father; there is one Light; there is one Source; and that One can be remembered directly, here and now, by any soul that turns inward with sincerity.

Take in the knowledge of the soul. Establish yourself in soul-consciousness. Remember the Formless Almighty — the One who governs the Maha Bramhand, the Param Maha Bramhand — the One who is your own Great-Great-Grandfather, the eternal Father of every soul. The power that flows from that remembrance enters the soul directly. The Causal Body is charged. The recordings of many lives are erased. And at the close of this body, the soul ascends to Param Dham — the Supreme Abode — to rest in eternal Light.

This is the Secret beyond all secrets.

This is the Law of Attraction in its truest, deepest, most complete form.

Whomever you remember, you shall reach. Choose, therefore, the One worth remembering.

~ Param Shanti ~

Bapuji's Insights

with English Meanings

The following are key utterances from Bapuji's discourse, preserved in their original Hinglish flavour for the seeker who wishes to hear the teaching in its native voice. Each is followed by its meaning in English.

1. "Jab tak aatma me power nahi hai, tab tak tumhare attraction ki shakti, tumhari thought power me bal nahi aayega."

Meaning: Until there is power within the soul itself, neither the force of attraction nor the strength of thought can carry any real weight.

2. "Law of Attraction kiska hota hai? Aatma ka. Aatma me hi power nahi hai, to tumhare sochne se kya hoga?"

Meaning: To whom does the Law of Attraction belong? To the soul. If the soul itself is without power, what fruit can mere thinking bear?

3. "Garib subah-shaam sochta rehta hai — 'mere paas gaadi ho, banglow ho' — kya use mil jaata hai?"

Meaning: The poor man thinks morning and evening — "Let me have a car, let me have a bungalow" — and yet, does he ever receive them by thinking alone?

4. "Spirituality ke saath-saath Theory of Karma bhi hai. Yeh dono ko jodo, tabhi sach samajh me aayega."

Meaning: Alongside spirituality stands the Theory of Karma. Join the two, and only then will the truth become clear.

5. "Anek janmon ke negative sanskar aatma ke andar pade hain. Hazaar baar bolo 'achha soch, achha soch' — kya uske sanskar badal jaayenge?"

Meaning: The negative impressions of many lives lie deep within the soul. Tell that soul a thousand times, "Think well, think well" — will its impressions truly change?

6. "Karan sharir me sab kuch record hota hai. Saamne aate hi positive ya negative, andar padha hua, baahar aa jaata hai."

Meaning: Everything is recorded within the Causal Body. The moment another soul appears before us, the inner recording — whether positive or negative — rises immediately to the surface.

7. “Tu meri yaad kar, tere ko kuch nahi hoga — yeh Gita ka vachan hai, aur yeh sach hai.”

Meaning: “Remember Me, and nothing shall happen to you” — this is the promise of the Gita, and it is true.

8. “Drive karte time bhi Parmatma ki yaad me raho — to aatma me energy bani rehti hai.”

Meaning: Even while driving, remain in the remembrance of the Supreme — the soul will then remain charged with energy throughout.

9. “Sirf ‘Universe se maango’ bolne se kuch nahi hota. Universe me to anek koti Bramhand hain — kis ko maangoge?”

Meaning: Merely saying “Ask the Universe” accomplishes nothing. The Universe contains many crore Bramhands — to whom, exactly, will you direct your request?

10. “God is one. All things one. Itna to kam-se-kam samajh lo.”

Meaning: God is one. All creation is one. At the very least, understand this much.

11. “Bhagya bhi anek janmon ke karmon se banta hai. Iss janm me usse badalna hai, to gyan aur yog chahiye.”

Meaning: Even fortune is built up from the karmas of many lives. To change it within this birth, both knowledge and yoga are required.

12. “Sochne se nahi, sochna band karne se aatma me power aati hai. Parmatma ko yaad karne se hi yog hota hai.”

Meaning: Soul-power does not arise from thinking; it arises from the cessation of thinking. True yoga is born only in the remembrance of the Supreme.

13. “Sankalp poora hone ke liye sankalp me shakti chahiye, aur sankalp me shakti aatma se aati hai.”

Meaning: For an intention to be fulfilled, the intention itself must carry strength — and that strength can only come from the soul.

14. “Aatma-Parmatma ka 100% connection chahiye. Plug me dheelapan hai, to current nahi aayega.”

Meaning: A one-hundred-percent connection between soul and Supreme is required. If even the plug is loose, the current will not flow.

15. “Jisko yaad karoge, usko paaoge. Antim me yahi sach hai.”

Meaning: Whomever you remember, you shall ultimately reach. In the end, this alone is the truth.

16. “Kam bolo, meetha bolo, dheere chalo — yeh bhi yog hi hai.”

Meaning: Speak less, speak sweetly, walk gently — this too is yoga.

17. “Almighty Authority ko pakdo, saare chakkar khatam ho jaayenge.”

Meaning: Hold firmly to the Almighty Authority, and all other entanglements will dissolve of themselves.

18. “Aatma ko pehle jaano. Mai aatma hoon, bhrukuti ke beech me rehta hoon. Yeh anubhuti karo.”

Meaning: First, know the soul. “I am a soul, seated between the brows.” Realise this directly within experience.

19. “Yogi bhogi kyun ban jaata hai? Kyunki andar vaasna padi thi. Thodi shakti aayi, vaasna poori hui, aur woh raasta chhod gaya.”

Meaning: Why does the yogi become the bhogi? Because hidden desire was already within. The moment a little soul-power arrived, the desire was satisfied — and the seeker abandoned the path.

20. “Param Dham me bethe Almighty Authority ko yaad karo. Wahi tumhara asli Pita hai.”

Meaning: Remember the Almighty Authority who is seated in Param Dham. He alone is your true Father.

Glossary of Spiritual Terms

Aatma (Atma) — The soul; the eternal point of conscious light that is the true Self of every being.

Almighty Authority — The Supreme, formless Power; the Father of all souls; the source of all soul-power; distinct from all limited deities and human teachers.

Anek Koti Bramhand — Many crore (countless) Bramhands; the vast multiplicity of cosmic systems within the totality of creation.

Atma-pradhan — Soul-conscious; the original, pure state of the soul, charged with its own innate light.

Avaran — Covering or veil; the layers of past impressions and karmic residue that obscure the soul's original light.

Bhagya — Fortune; the favourable circumstances that arise as the fruit of positive karmas from previous lives.

Bhogi — One who is absorbed in worldly enjoyments and sensory indulgences; the opposite of yogi.

Bhrukuti — The space between the brows; the seat of the soul within the body, the focal point of yogic concentration.

Bramhand — Cosmos; the structured field of creation. (In Bapuji's teachings, the form Bramhand is always used.)

Causal Body (Karan Sharir) — The deepest of the soul's three coverings; the storehouse of all impressions, sanskars, and karmic accounts across all lifetimes.

Dharma — Righteous duty; the natural law of being.

Dushkarma — Negative or harmful karma.

Gita — The Bhagavad Gita; the discourse of Lord Krishna, frequently cited by Bapuji as a touchstone of soul-knowledge and yoga.

Gyan-marg — The path of knowledge; the spiritual path that begins with the realisation of the soul's true nature.

Karma — Action; also the law by which every action returns its corresponding result to the soul that performed it.

Karma-yogi — One who acts in the world while remaining inwardly anchored in soul-consciousness and divine remembrance.

Karmatit — Beyond karma; the state of a soul whose karmic accounts have been completely settled and who is no longer bound by the cycle of action and reaction.

Kalpa — A cosmic age; one full cycle of the world-drama.

Kalpa Pralaya — The dissolution that occurs at the end of a kalpa, in which all forms — including the deities of the age — are dissolved.

Lavlin — A state of loving absorption; the inner condition in which the soul becomes one-pointedly merged in the remembrance of the Beloved Supreme.

Maha Bramhand — The great cosmos; the totality of countless Bramhands.

Maya — Illusion; the field of attachments, desires, and surface appearances that draws the soul away from its true nature.

Mukti — Liberation; release from the cycle of birth and death.

Jeevanmukti — Living liberation; liberation realised within this very life, while still in the body.

Nishkalpa — The thoughtless state; the inner silence in which the soul rests beyond the movement of thoughts and is therefore able to receive divine power directly.

Param Dham — The Supreme Abode; the formless region of pure light beyond all physical and subtle worlds, the eternal home of the soul.

Param Maha Bramhand — The Supreme Great Cosmos; the vastness within which the entire creation is contained.

Param Pita — Supreme Father; one of the names of the Almighty Authority.

Param Shanti — Supreme Peace; the goal of the spiritual journey and the inner state of soul-realisation. In Bapuji's tradition, also used as a sacred greeting and as a verbal seal upon spiritual writing.

Paramatma — The Supreme Soul; another name for the Almighty Authority.

Pranam — Reverent salutation.

Pavan — Pure; cleansed.

Pitru — Ancestor; departed forebear.

Prabhu — The Lord; the Supreme.

Punarjanma — Rebirth; the soul's repeated taking of a new physical body across many lifetimes.

Sanskara — Impression; the residue left in the soul by every thought, word, and action, accumulated across many lives and stored within the Causal Body.

Sankalpa — A thought, intention, or resolve.

Satopradhan — The pure, sattvic state of the soul; the original nature of the soul before the descent into negative impressions.

Shanti — Peace.

Shaktis — Divine powers; the inherent capacities of the soul, awakened through yoga.

Subtle Body (Sukshma Sharir) — The middle of the soul's three coverings; the body of mind, intellect, and impressions, more refined than the physical body but more concrete than the Causal Body.

Swabhava — One's nature; the deep character formed by accumulated sanskars.

Swayam — One's own self.

Tamopradhan — The state of a soul heavily covered by negative impressions and depleted of its original light; the opposite of Satopradhan.

Theory of Karma — The universal law by which every action of every soul produces a corresponding result, returning to that soul across this life and future lives.

Universe — In modern Law-of-Attraction usage, an unspecified higher power. In true spirituality, the term must be replaced by the precise designation: the Almighty Authority.

Vasana — Hidden desire; the buried inclinations within the soul that pull it back toward worldly fulfillment.

Vikarma — Negative karma; harmful action that produces karmic burden.

Vishva Parivartan — World transformation; the great change of consciousness for which Bapuji's mission was established.

Yog (Yoga) — Connection; in Bapuji's teaching, the conscious linking of the soul with the Almighty Authority through inner remembrance, by which soul-power is restored.

Yog-bal — The power gained through yogic connection with the Supreme.

Yogi — One who has united the soul with the Supreme through the practice of yoga.

About Bapuji and the Paramshanti Mission.

Param Pujya Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel is the founder of Vishwa Parivartak Ishwariya Vidhyalay (the Divine University for World Transformation), with its headquarters at Paramshanti Bhawan, Chenpur, Ahmedabad, Gujarat — 382470, India.

For decades, Bapuji has offered the world the teachings of Atma Vigyan (Soul Science), Param Shanti (Supreme Peace), and Vishwa Parivartan (World Transformation). His discourses, made available through books, video, and spoken satsang, draw seekers from across India and from many countries beyond.

The Paramshanti mission rests upon a few simple but world-altering principles:

- Every being is, in essence, a soul.
- The soul has lived many lives and carries the recordings of those lives within its Causal Body.
- True transformation is impossible through worldly methods alone; it becomes possible only through direct yoga with the Almighty Authority.
- The recognition of one Supreme Father, beyond the many limited deities, is the foundation of true spirituality and the only firm basis for world peace.

Through written works, recorded discourses, and a worldwide digital presence, Bapuji's teachings are reaching hundreds of thousands of seekers in Hindi, Gujarati, and English. The mission continues to expand, by the grace of the Almighty Authority, in the service of every soul that longs for Param Shanti.

*To learn more, to receive further teachings, or to support the mission:
toward the Almighty Authority. From that single turning, the journey home begins.*
