About Bapuji

Bapuji (full name: Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel, also lovingly called “Dadaji” by the younger generation) was born in 1956 in the small village of Akhaj in the Mehsana district of Gujarat. However, he spent his childhood in another village named Ambasan, also located in the Mehsana district.

In the early part of his life, he was a highly successful lawyer. Later, he devoted his life to realizing the supreme spiritual truth and bringing this divine knowledge forward for the welfare of humanity. Today, this supreme knowledge serves as a guiding light for true seekers to realize their ultimate destiny. It is a blessing of the highest divinity that the present time is witnessing the rise of this supreme spiritual knowledge, guiding souls on Earth to return to their original source.

Despite being raised in a very poor family and facing challenging circumstances, Bapuji had a deep desire to transform this sorrowful and suffering world into a better place. At the young age of six, he questioned God repeatedly, asking why God remained silent about the suffering of humanity. This intense longing to end human suffering eventually led him to attain the highest level of spirituality later in life.

Even as a child, Bapuji would spend hours alone in the fields, often neglecting his own comfort. Due to poverty, he would walk barefoot without shoes or sandals, frequently getting pricked by thorns. Many times, he would stay late in the fields and, on his way back home, encounter subtle world entities. These experiences sparked his interest in communicating with subtle world souls.

Bapuji was courageous from a young age, which helped him overcome many obstacles. Alongside his studies in chartered accountancy (CA), he gave tuition classes to support himself financially. Later, he completed his Bachelor of Law (LLB) degree and became a well-known lawyer in Ahmedabad.

In 1997, he established a spiritual institution called “Vishwa Parivartak Ishwariya Vidhyalay” in Chenpur, Ahmedabad, with the mission of transforming this mortal world, filled with suffering and disorder, into an eternal divine world of immortality. Smt. Sushma Tandon, lovingly known as “Maa,” worked alongside Bapuji in this grand divine mission.

To accomplish this mission, Bapuji worked tirelessly, dedicating all his resources to this divine purpose. During that time, he would deliver continuous spiritual discourses for up to 18 hours without rest. In these discourses, he explained the highest dimensions of divine knowledge, which he realized through deep meditation and divine vision in a state of superconsciousness. This knowledge goes beyond the imagination of the ordinary human mind.

Bapuji’s teachings cover a vast range of topics, including the types of celestial creators across different dimensions, the creation of our solar system, galaxy, and universe, and most importantly, the transcendental knowledge of the multiverse and realities beyond it. His knowledge is supremely profound and is intended for highly evolved seekers, referred to as “behad souls.” According to Bapuji, these “behad souls” will play a key role in transforming this mortal world into an eternal divine realm.

At present, Bapuji remains deeply engaged in intense meditation and samadhi for long hours. He does not meet anyone, as he is continuously immersed in his transcendental mission in a superconscious state.

Gyan Daan Maha Daan

(Sharing Knowledge is the highest charity — share to the maximum extent with all.) — Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel

This book began as a live morning discourse by Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel on the Paramshanti Meditation channel. It is part of a 10-day course called Behad Ka Param Gyan — Supreme Knowledge of the Boundless.

What you hold is a written form of that living knowledge — organised for clarity, ready to be read and revise to again and again.

This is not ordinary spiritual knowledge. It begins where all spiritual teachings culminate — beyond the concept of universe. It speaks of the soul's origin, various dimensions of subtle creation, which science has not yet thought of. This is ultimate Supreme Reality so vast that even the word "infinite" falls short.

Bapuji's teachings did not come from books or traditions. They are rooted in direct spiritual experience through deep samadhi and superconscious meditation. That is why this knowledge feels different.

"Know yourself... everything is already recorded within."

This first book — Day 1: Who Am I? — is the starting point. Before we understand the cosmos, we must understand the one who asks about it. Before we speak of God and creation, we must ask: What am I?

Read slowly. Let each idea settle. Each chapter builds on the one before. The full picture appears at the end — but every piece matters.

Behad Ka Param Gyan · Day 1

May this knowledge awaken what was always present but forgotten. May it bring you closer to Param Shanti — Supreme Peace — your soul's truest home.

About This Series

This book is part of a 10-day spiritual journey designed to expand human consciousness beyond limits. Each day reveals deeper layers of truth, guiding the reader from self-awareness to universal understanding.

Based on the Divine Knowledge of

Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel

This book is a structured presentation of spiritual knowledge shared through discourses.

How to Read This Book

This is not just a book to read. It is knowledge to experience.
Read slowly. Reflect deeply. Let each thought transform your inner state.

Introduction

Day 1 — Who Am I?

Of all the questions you can ask, none is more powerful than this: Who am I?

Not your name. Not your job. Not your religion. But the one who exists beneath all of these — the unchanging presence behind every thought and every breath.

This question echoes through the Upanishads, the Vedas, the Gita, and every great tradition. Yet in our daily rush, we rarely pause to answer it.

Bapuji teaches that this inquiry is not just philosophy. It is the most powerful act a human being can perform. When you truly know what you are, every other truth begins to reveal itself.

♦ Insight: “Khud ko jaanoge, tabhi khuda ko jaan paoge.”

“Know yourself, and only then will you know the Divine.”

Day 1 begins not with the cosmos, not with God — but with you. With the soul. With the light you already are, buried beneath layers of habit and forgetfulness.

Chapter I

Why Must We Seek Ourselves?

Why is self-inquiry necessary? If life is already happening, why stop to ask who we are?

Because everything in this world changes. People, relationships, wealth, health — nothing stays. The fabric of material existence is built on constant change.

The human being alone has a rare gift: “divine intelligence” (viveka) — the power to think, reflect, and ask: Why am I here? What lies beyond this body?

Bapuji teaches: if you do not use this lifetime to know yourself, this precious opportunity is lost. Without self-knowledge, you remain in jeevatma consciousness — caught in endless cycles of birth, death, pleasure, and pain.

The mind chases happiness outside, but finds only fleeting satisfaction. Nothing lasts. This is not a flaw — it is the design of this world. It was never meant to give permanent happiness. It was meant to push you toward the real.

♦ Insight: “Gyaan saagar mein doob jao.”

“Dive deep into the ocean of knowledge.”

Every great text — the Upanishads, the Vedas, the Bhagavad Gita — places self-knowledge at the centre of human purpose. The atma is the one constant in an ever-changing universe. To know it is to find solid ground.

Param Gyan — Supreme Knowledge — is that which goes beyond name, form, and everything visible.

Chapter II

The Four Great Proclamations

The ancient Vedic tradition gave us four supreme statements — Mahavakyas — pointing directly to the nature of the self. These are not slogans. They are born from the deepest states of inner realisation.

1. Prajnanam Brahma — Consciousness Is Brahman

From the Rig Veda. Pure consciousness — the awareness presence behind all experience — is itself the Absolute. It is not made by the brain. It is the very foundation of existence.

2. Tat Tvam Asi — That Thou Are

From the Chandogya Upanishad. The ultimate truth — the Absolute — is what you are. The difference between the individual and the Supreme is not one of substance, but of awareness. Remove the coverings of illusion (maya), and the soul realises: it was never separate. Brahman is indivisible.

3. Ayam Atma Brahma — This Soul Is Brahman

The atma within you is not a fragment of something greater. It is the full expression of Brahman in individual form. This resolves the appearance of duality.

4. Aham Brahmasmi — I Am Brahman

The most direct statement. When self-inquiry does its work, the experience becomes: I Am Brahman. Not as a concept — but as direct, living realisation. This is Advaita — non-duality.

◆ Insight: “Jab parda hata, tab pata chala — jiva aur Brahman mein koi fark nahi.”

“When the veil lifted, the truth was clear — the soul and Brahman are one.”

These four proclamations move from recognition, to declaration, to identification, to direct realisation. Each step brings you closer to the truth that the soul already is.

Chapter III

The Soul and the Jiva

Many traditions blur the difference between the soul (atma) and the living being (jiva). Bapuji makes it very clear.

Who Is the Jiva?

A jiva is a soul that has forgotten its true nature. It identifies only with the body, desires, and the material world. Among all life forms, only the human being has the intellect to ask: Am I truly just this body?

When a person lives only in body-consciousness — chasing pleasure, avoiding pain — that person remains a jiva. The jiva is not separate from the atma. It is the atma in a state of forgetfulness.

From Jiva to Atma

When the jiva begins to shed its identification with the body and recognise its true nature as pure consciousness — it awakens. This is Atma Bodh: the soul waking up to its own identity.

This journey does not require leaving the world. It requires changing the quality of awareness — from body-centred to soul-centred.

“Shift from creature-consciousness to Brahm-consciousness — that is Atma Bodh.”

Chapter IV

Where Does the Soul Reside?

Many traditions have given different answers. Bapuji gives a clear one.

The soul resides at the centre of the forehead — the Ajna Chakra, also called the Third Eye. This is the seat of divine awareness. The ancient practice of applying the tilak on the forehead points to this very spot.

Here, the soul exists as a point of light. It is not the brain. It is not the mind. It is a luminous point of consciousness that uses the brain and mind as instruments.

What Does the Soul Look Like?

It cannot be seen with physical eyes. No technology can detect it. It is a point of pure, white radiance — like a glowing star in the night sky. Small in appearance, but infinite in nature.

Around this point of light is a subtle energy-field. In Param Gyan, the inner light is called “Light” and the surrounding energy is called “Might” or Prakriti. The soul can only be experienced through Atma Sakshatkara — direct realisation through steady meditation.

♦ Insight: “Atma ek jyoti bindu hai — chhoti si dikhe, par aseem hai.”

“The soul is a point of light — it looks small, but it is limitless.”

Chapter V

The Three States of the Soul

The soul passes through three fundamental states of being.

1. Nirakari — The Formless State

This is the soul's original nature. Beyond form, beyond qualities. Pure Being — untouched and unlimited. Only Param Prakash — Supreme Light. Here the soul is truly immortal, eternal, indestructible. No mind, no intellect, Just divine glow (Param Prakash).

2. Akari — The Subtle Form

As the soul moves away from its origin of formless state, it enters a state with a subtle form — no physical body, but a refined subtle pure energy form, beyond our physical senses.

3. Sakari — The Physical Form

This is where all of us are now. The soul dwells in a physical body. Body-consciousness takes over. The soul forgets it is divine light and begins to think it is the body.

The path of Param Gyan leads from Sakari — back through Akari — to the remembrance of Nirakari: the formless, timeless, original self.

“You are in the physical form — but your true home is the formless.”

Chapter VI

The Five Bodies

Most traditions mention three bodies. Bapuji reveals five — the vehicles through which the soul experiences different dimensions.

1. Sthool Sharira — The Physical Body

Made of five elements: Earth, Water, Fire, Air, and Space. When it dies, it returns to nature. Entirely material. Entirely temporary.

2. Sukshma Sharira — The Subtle Body

When the physical body dies, the soul continues in this subtle body. It carries everything in inner consciousness: all karmas, knowledge, memories, and unresolved desires in three elements Ether, Air and Fire. No data of karmic account is lost during process of cycle of birth and death.

3. Karan Sharira — The Causal Body

Made of the Ether element. It holds an incredible archive — every experience, every karma from every lifetime. This is what science calls the Akashic Record. It determines the soul's next birth.

4. Mahakaran Sharira — The Great Causal Body

Made of Param Tattvas (Supreme Elements). Exists in a dimension far more subtle. Explored further in later days of this series.

5. Param Mahakaran Sharira — The Body of Supreme Light

The highest body — the body of Param Prakash. This is the soul in its most original, limitless expression.

◆ Insight: “Sharira paanch hain — lekin tum in sab se pare ho.”

“There are five bodies — but you are beyond them all.”

Chapter VII

The Five Koshas

Like layers of an onion, five sheaths cover the soul and hide its true radiance. The spiritual journey is about seeing through each one.

1. Annamaya Kosha — The Food Body

The outermost layer. What you eat becomes this body. “As the food, so the mind.”

2. Pranamaya Kosha — The Life-Force Body

The energy body that keeps you alive. When Prana withdraws, the body dies.

3. Manomaya Kosha — The Mental Body

The realm of thoughts, emotions, desires, and fears. Most people live mainly in this layer.

4. Vijnanamaya Kosha — The Wisdom Body

The layer of higher knowing and discernment — Divine Intelligence (Viveka). It separates the real from the unreal through divine intelligence.

5. Anandamaya Kosha — The Blissful Body

The innermost sheath. In deep meditation and pure love, you touch this layer. It is the threshold of the true self.

The soul is not hidden because it is far away. It is hidden because it is covered. Remove the coverings — and you find you were always there.

Chapter VIII

A Revolutionary Truth: The Soul Loses Power

Here comes one of Bapuji's most groundbreaking teachings.

We are told the soul is immortal and indestructible. This is true — but in which state? In the Nirakari state, the soul is indeed all-powerful. But when it enters the cycles of birth and death, it loses power.

The Loss of Power of Soul (Shakti)

The soul loses power during its journey. As it travels into denser dimensions, takes on many bodies during soul journey, and accumulates unlimited karmas. This results in diminishing of soul power (Shakti). Like a lamp that dims in the wind, the soul's light weakens in the turbulence of material existence.

How to Restore It

The soul cannot recharge its power from insentient material things. It must reconnect with its source: Param Pita Paramatma — the Supreme Father, the Ultimate power house. Just as a battery recharge from a power source, the soul regains its power (Shakti) through sustained, conscious connection with the Supreme Divine.

This is the deepest purpose of meditation but not only for relaxation or stress relief. It is the process of restoration of the soul's original power. The outcome of real meditation is complete relaxation and stress relief.

“The soul's power has diminished — Yoga is the path to reclaim it.”

Chapter IX

Types of Souls: Had and Behad

Bapuji challenges perhaps the most widely accepted spiritual belief: that all souls are the same.

He reveals: souls are of different types. They come from different sources. They carry different levels of power.

Had and Behad

Had means limited. Behad means boundless. Two types of souls exist:

Had Souls — Souls whose origin is within the boundaries of the known cosmos. Their potential is bounded that is limited.

Behad Souls — Souls from beyond the cosmos itself, from the Behad Param Dham — the Supreme Abode beyond all universes. Made of Param Prakash — Supreme Light. Their potential is limitless.

If you feel drawn to this knowledge — if it resonates deeply within — Bapuji says you are a Behad Soul. The knowledge calls to you because it is your own memory awakening.

Why So Many Religions?

If all souls had the same source, all of humanity would naturally arrive at the same understanding of God. There should be one God, but now there are many Gods many religions prevalent on earth. The diversity of spiritual traditions reflects the diversity of soul-origins. Every tradition holds a partial truth. Param Gyan offers a framework large enough to contain all of them.

◆ Insight: “Tumhari atma Behad se aayi hai — tumhara ghar in sab se pare hai.”

“Your soul has come from the Boundless — your home is beyond all of this.”

Chapter X

The Coverings Upon the Soul

If the soul is light and power — why doesn't it feel that way? Why do most people feel timid, limited, and anxious?

Because the soul is covered by many layers of consciousness and in due course of journey, the soul lost all memory of its original divinity.

How Coverings Accumulate

As the soul descends from higher dimensions into the material world, it passes through many planes. The energies of each plane attach to the soul — like dust on a traveller. By the time it reaches Earth, it carries layers upon layers of coverings in the form of many dimensions of consciousness in the form of ego over soul.

These internal coverings are in the form of: Avidya (ignorance), Maya (illusion), Ahamkara (ego), Kama (desire), Krodha (anger), Lobha (greed), Moha (attachment), and Mada (pride). Ignorance (Avidya) is the prime cause of all other disorders like anger, greed, desire etc.

The work of the spiritual journey is to dissolve these coverings — not to destroy the person, but to reveal the limitless soul that was always there.

♦ Insight: “Parde hatao — jo tumhara asli roop hai, woh apne aap chamakne lagega.”

“Remove the veils — your true form will shine on its own.”

Chapter XI

The Soul's Journey After Death

What happens when we die? Bapuji answers this with extraordinary clarity.

What the Soul Carries

The soul leaves the physical body behind. But in the subtle body, it carries everything stored in consciousness: all karmic accounts, all sanskaras (impressions and habits), all knowledge, all unfulfilled desires. The quality of consciousness at the moment of death decides the direction in which soul will travel. That means the picture in the intellect of soul will decide the soul's future course after death.

Nothing is lost except physical body after death. Everything continues in consciousness.

What the Soul Does Not Carry

Wealth, status, possessions, relationships — all left behind. All physical attributes are left with physical body. Only the inner consciousness travels forward. This is why Bapuji says: the most important investment in this lifetime is in the quality of your inner life, that is quality of your thoughts and affirmations created inside you.

The Next Life

The conditions of the next birth are determined by your karmic accumulations during many cycles of birth and death. But the cycle of 84 lakh rebirths is not an eternal sentence. It has an exit — through self-knowledge and divine connection.

With whatever desires you leave this world, so shall you return. The choice of what you carry is made here, now, in every moment of this life.

Chapter XII

The True Purpose of Human Life

All this knowledge leads to one point: what is the purpose of this life?

Bapuji's direct and clear message, the purpose of human life is:

To know yourself. Through self-knowledge, to know the Supreme Father. And through that knowing, to break free from the cycle of birth and death — and return to your original, limitless state.

This does not require leaving your family or career. It is a shift in awareness — from living unconsciously as a body, to living consciously as a soul that inhabits a body.

Most people spend life pursuing what cannot last. Not because these things are evil — but because seeking permanent happiness in an impermanent world is the greatest illusion.

Your soul's original nature is Sat-Chit-Ananda: Existence, Consciousness, Bliss. Not something to acquire. Something to remember and realise at every moment.

The Window Will Not Stay Open

Human birth is rare. Only the human being can ask: Who am I? This window of possibility will not stay open forever. This body will age. This mind will slow. Ultimately a time will come when, we all have to leave this mortal coil.

Bapuji urges: do not waste this lifetime. Begin now. The path does not require a monastery. It requires only sincerity — a genuine desire to know what you truly are.

◆ Insight: “Ye mauka phir nahi milega — ab jaago.”

“This opportunity will not come again — awaken now.”

Chapter XIII

Inner Contemplation

Sit quietly for a few moments after reading. Do not rush to the next page. Let the question settle within you: Who am I?

This is not a question for the intellect alone. It is an invitation to turn inward — to feel, beneath every thought and every role, the silent presence that is always watching.

What We Have Understood on Day 1

- ★ The soul is real. It is a point of light at the centre of your forehead.
- ★ In its original Nirakari state, the soul is pure, powerful, and limitless — but through its journey into matter, it has lost power.
- ★ The soul exists in three states: Nirakari, Akari, and Sakari. Most of us are in the Sakari state — body-conscious and covered with multi-layer of consciousness.
- ★ The soul expresses through five bodies and is veiled by five Koshas.
- ★ Not all souls are the same. Some are souls of lower power called Had (bounded). Others are powerful souls Behad (limitless).
- ★ The soul carries its karmas, knowledge, and impressions along with it in subtle form at death. Nothing in inner consciousness is lost.
- ★ The purpose of this human life is to know the soul, connect with the Supreme, dissolve karmic coverings, and return to freedom.

These are not ideas. They are truths. Explore them through self-inquiry, meditation, and divine connection.

The journey has begun.

Glossary

Atma — The soul — the eternal, conscious self beyond body and mind. The true 'I' that journeys through births and dimensions. In its original state, the atma is formless divine light (Param Prakash) and the source of all life-energy.

Paramatma — The Supreme Soul — the creator of souls. In its formless divine light state, a soul has tremendous power to create many souls through sankalp (affirmation), and is then called Paramatma. In Hindu scripture, this state is described as 'Satyam Shivam Sundaram'.

Maya — The grand illusion — the veil that hides the soul's true nature and creates attachment to body, relationships, and the visible world. Maya operates in subtler forms even in the higher lokas; only in Paramdham does it cease.

Karma — The universal law of cause and effect — every thought, action, and intention generates a corresponding result. Karma is not punishment or reward but the precise response of existence to every vibration the soul releases.

Jiva — A soul in body-consciousness, forgetful of its true nature. When the divine soul falls into deep identification with the gross body and uncontrolled desires, it lives like an ordinary creature on earth, bound in the cycle of birth and death.

Jeevatva — The state of being merely a living creature — the soul forgotten of its divine origin, identified entirely with body, breath, and survival, lost in the round of births and deaths.

Viveka — Power of discernment — the ability to distinguish the real from the unreal, the eternal from the temporary, the soul from the body. Viveka is the inner sword that cuts through illusion and reveals truth.

Samadhi — The deepest superconscious state of meditation — complete absorption in the Divine. In samadhi, the soul rests in its original incorporeal state and receives knowledge directly without thought. Bapuji's revelations come from years in deep samadhi.

Sanskaras — Impressions and habits carried by the soul — every thought, action, and feeling leaves a trace in the karan sharir. Across countless births, sanskaras accumulate, shaping personality and karmic patterns.

Nirakari — Formless — the original divine state of the soul as pure Param Prakash (supreme divine light). In this incorporeal state the creator is called 'Satyam Shivam Sundaram'; this is the soul's truest and ultimate nature.

Akari — The subtle form state — a form not made of physical matter but of energy, like the shape created when fire burns. When a soul makes affirmations, it loses energy and descends from Nirakari into the Akari subtle form constituted of supreme elements.

Sakari — The physical form — when a soul's energy degenerates further, it acquires a gross material body. This is the visible form of the five gross elements (earth, water, fire, air, space) that we experience on earth.

Mahavakya — Great proclamation — the four mahavakyas of the Vedic tradition (Tat tvam asi, Aham Brahmasmi, Prajnanam Brahma, Ayam atma Brahma). Each is a one-line declaration of the soul's identity with the Supreme.

Brahman — The Absolute — Supreme Reality. In Vedic philosophy, the unconditioned ground of all being. In behad ka gyan, this corresponds to the various levels of Brahm — Shiva, Mahashiva, and beyond.

Advaita — Non-duality — the philosophical recognition that the soul (atma) and the Supreme (Brahman/Paramatma) are not two but one. The aim of gyan marg.

Prana — Life-force energy — the subtle vitality flowing through breath that keeps the physical body alive. Prana is the bridge between the soul and the body, sustaining all functions of life.

Kosha — A sheath or covering over the soul. The five koshas — annamaya, pranamaya, manomaya, vijnanamaya, and anandamaya — wrap the atma like layers, hiding its true light.

Shakti — Spiritual power — the active creative force; energy. In a brahmada, Akari Shiv first creates Akari Shakti as his counterpart; together Shiv and Shakti carry forward all creation. The same applies at galaxy and universe levels as Maha Shakti and Param Maha Shakti.

Ajna Chakra — The Third Eye — the energy centre at the point between the eyebrows where the soul resides as a point of light. Meditation focused here reveals the soul's true seat in the body.

Param Prakash — Supreme Divine Light — the energy of a soul in its incorporeal form. The original luminous substance from which all souls first emerged and which fills the Paramdham. Power inherent in Param Prakash is measured in kala.

Param Pita Paramatma — The Supreme Father — the highest Divine; the ultimate source from whom all souls and all creators originate. In Behad Ka Param Gyan, this refers to the Almighty Authority beyond every dimension of creation.

Param Shanti — Supreme peace — the highest state of absolute stillness beyond happiness and sorrow. The original frequency of the soul when it first emerged from Param Prakash; the goal of every spiritual seeker.

Behad — Boundless, infinite, unlimited — that which has no limit. Used to describe dimensions, knowledge, or souls beyond ordinary cosmic boundaries; the space where the word 'infinite' itself becomes meaningful.

Had — Bounded — the limited, the finite, the realm of cosmic boundaries within ordinary creation. Used in contrast to behad to mark everything within the conventional dimensions.

Moksha — Liberation — final freedom from the cycle of birth and death. In behad ka gyan, moksha (also called atyantik pralaya) is the soul's complete merger back into Paramatma.

Sat-Chit-Ananda — Existence-Consciousness-Bliss — the soul's true nature. The atma in its original state is sat (eternal), chit (aware), and ananda (blissful) — these are not three qualities but one undivided reality.

Atma Bodh — Awakening of the soul to its own identity. The moment when the soul recognises itself as a point of pure consciousness — separate from the body, mind and senses — and remembers its eternal divine nature.

Behad Ka Param Gyan — The Supreme Knowledge of the Infinite — the complete knowledge given by Bapuji through divine vision (divya drishti) in deep samadhi. This 10-day course is the systematic presentation of that knowledge.

Avidya — Ignorance — the root cause of all spiritual bondage. The forgetting of one's true nature as a soul, leading to identification with body, mind, and the world of names and forms.

Ahamkara — Ego — the false 'I-maker' that identifies the soul with the body, name, status, and possessions. Ahamkara is the root of bondage; only when it dissolves can the soul see itself as pure light.

Prakriti — Nature — the feminine creative principle and the creative energy surrounding the soul. Prakriti is the matrix in which all forms appear; it is governed by the three gunas — satva, rajo, tamo.

Atma Sakshatkara — Direct realisation of the soul through meditation. Not intellectual understanding but the lived experience of the soul knowing itself — an inner illumination that transforms consciousness permanently.

Tilak — The mark on the forehead — placed at the bhrikuti, the seat of the soul. The tilak is a constant reminder that the soul lives at this point and that the body is only its temporary house.

Param Gyan — Supreme Knowledge — knowledge beyond name, form, and the visible. The direct realisation of the soul, the creators, and the entire architecture of cosmic creation.

Sthool Sharira — The physical body made of the five gross elements (earth, water, fire, air, space). The outermost vehicle of the soul; visible, mortal, and subject to birth and death.

Sukshma Sharira — The subtle body that operates the physical body — composed of ether, air, and fire elements. It carries karmas, memories, desires, and impressions, and accompanies the soul at death into its next form.

Karan Sharira — The causal body — composed of ether (akash) element alone. Also called karan sharir, it is the storehouse of all karmic accounts of a soul. Cleansing the karan sharir is essential for controlling the mind, since mind and karan sharir are virtually one.

Mahakaran Sharira — The Great Causal Body — a still subtler vehicle of the soul existing in the supreme-subtle dimensions, made of param tatva. Higher than the ordinary causal body, it belongs to powerful souls operating in higher lokas.

Param Mahakaran Sharira — The Body of Supreme Light — the soul's most original expression, made of pure Param Prakash. This is the form of the soul in its highest, most powerful state, beyond all coverings.

Annamaya Kosha — The Food Body — the outermost physical sheath, sustained by food and made of the five gross elements. Annamaya kosha is the body we see and touch.

Pranamaya Kosha — The Life-Force Body — the energy sheath that animates the physical form. Pranamaya kosha is the layer of breath, vitality, and bio-energy that keeps the body alive.

Manomaya Kosha — The Mental Body — the sheath of thoughts, emotions, and sense-impressions. Manomaya kosha is where moods, attachments, and reactions arise.

Vijnanamaya Kosha — The Wisdom Body — the sheath of higher discernment, intellect, and spiritual understanding. Through vijnanamaya kosha the soul exercises viveka and grasps eternal truths.

Anandamaya Kosha — The Blissful Body — the innermost sheath before the true self. Anandamaya kosha is the layer of pure causal bliss in which the soul rests in deep sleep and samadhi.

Behad Param Dham — The Supreme Abode beyond all universes — the paramdham of the infinite creation, where the Almighty Authority resides. Far above the paramdhams of solar systems, galaxies, and universes.

Param Tattvas — Supreme Elements — the finer elements from which the higher bodies of advanced souls are made. These are the building blocks of the dimensions above the gross five-element world.
