About Bapuji

Bapuji (full name: Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel, also lovingly called “Dadaji” by the younger generation) was born in 1956 in the small village of Akhaj in the Mehsana district of Gujarat. However, he spent his childhood in another village named Ambasan, also located in the Mehsana district.

In the early part of his life, he was a highly successful lawyer. Later, he devoted his life to realizing the supreme spiritual truth and bringing this divine knowledge forward for the welfare of humanity. Today, this supreme knowledge serves as a guiding light for true seekers to realize their ultimate destiny. It is a blessing of the highest divinity that the present time is witnessing the rise of this supreme spiritual knowledge, guiding souls on Earth to return to their original source.

Despite being raised in a very poor family and facing challenging circumstances, Bapuji had a deep desire to transform this sorrowful and suffering world into a better place. At the young age of six, he questioned God repeatedly, asking why God remained silent about the suffering of humanity. This intense longing to end human suffering eventually led him to attain the highest level of spirituality later in life.

Even as a child, Bapuji would spend hours alone in the fields, often neglecting his own comfort. Due to poverty, he would walk barefoot without shoes or sandals, frequently getting pricked by thorns. Many times, he would stay late in the fields and, on his way back home, encounter subtle world entities. These experiences sparked his interest in communicating with subtle world souls.

Bapuji was courageous from a young age, which helped him overcome many obstacles. Alongside his studies in chartered accountancy (CA), he gave tuition classes to support himself financially. Later, he completed his Bachelor of Law (LLB) degree and became a well-known lawyer in Ahmedabad.

In 1997, he established a spiritual institution called “Vishwa Parivartak Ishwariya Vidhyalay” in Chenpur, Ahmedabad, with the mission of transforming this mortal world, filled with suffering and disorder, into an eternal divine world of immortality. Smt. Sushma Tandon, lovingly known as “Maa,” worked alongside Bapuji in this grand divine mission.

To accomplish this mission, Bapuji worked tirelessly, dedicating all his resources to this divine purpose. During that time, he would deliver continuous spiritual discourses for up to 18 hours without rest. In these discourses, he explained the highest dimensions of divine knowledge, which he realized through deep meditation and divine vision in a state of superconsciousness. This knowledge goes beyond the imagination of the ordinary human mind.

Bapuji’s teachings cover a vast range of topics, including the types of celestial creators across different dimensions, the creation of our solar system, galaxy, and universe, and most importantly, the transcendental knowledge of the multiverse and realities beyond it. His knowledge is supremely profound and is intended for highly evolved seekers, referred to as “behad souls.” According to Bapuji, these “behad souls” will play a key role in transforming this mortal world into an eternal divine realm.

At present, Bapuji remains deeply engaged in intense meditation and samadhi for long hours. He does not meet anyone, as he is continuously immersed in his transcendental mission in a superconscious state.

Preface

DNA is often discussed as a scientific code, but its deeper meaning is rarely understood. Science usually studies DNA at the gross physical level, while spirituality looks at the hidden source behind the body itself. This book brings both perspectives together and shows that DNA is not merely a biological structure; it is also connected to consciousness, Ether Body (karan sharir), and the soul's journey.

According to the teachings of Bapuji, every human existence is composed of three interconnected bodies: the physical body (Sthool Sharir), the subtle body (Sukshma Sharir), and the causal body (Karan Sharir). Among these, the causal body plays the most profound role because it contains the root causes of our experiences, life patterns, and karmic records. Understanding the causal body is essential for anyone who seeks inner transformation, spiritual growth and liberation.

The purpose of this book is not to create confusion, but to open a wider understanding. When the soul, the body, karma, and divine power are studied together, DNA becomes much more than a biological or genetic subject. It becomes a key to understanding the soul, inner transformation, spiritual renewal, and the hidden history of consciousness.

Overview

This book moves step by step from the physical understanding of DNA to its spiritual meaning. It explores the body, coma, preservation traditions, mummies, ancient stories, angels, deities, divine light, meditation, inner renewal, and the role of supreme power in spiritually purifying the deepest impressions within the soul. It also shows why science alone cannot explain everything unless it is joined with spirituality.

Chapter I

What is DNA?

DNA is usually understood by science as the physical code inside the body. Science states that DNA exists inside the cells of the body and determines physical characteristics such as facial features, structure and biological tendencies. DNA is not merely a biochemical molecule but a manifestation of deeper causal forces. But in Bapuji's explanation, that is only one side of the truth. On the physical level, DNA is a gross thing in the body, yet on the spiritual level, DNA is connected to the soul itself because the body exists only due to soul-power. Body is connected to the soul, mind, sanskars (impressions), karma and the causal body (Karan Sharir). In this sense, DNA is not the whole truth of life; it is only a fraction of the soul's larger reality.

This is why no two human beings are exactly the same, even twins. The body is shaped according to the soul's sanskars. A person's inner pattern becomes visible in the outer form. What the mind thinks, what the intellect decides, and what the soul repeatedly records eventually appear as physical uniqueness. DNA, therefore, is not merely a chemical identity; it is also an expression of the soul's hidden history.

“वास्तव में DNA आत्मा का केवल एक अंश है।”

Chapter II

Where Does DNA Exist?

DNA exists in the body, however in Bapuji's framework it is not limited to the visible flesh. The human being is made of three bodies: the physical body, the subtle body, and the Causal Body. The physical body is made of water and earth. The subtle body is formed from air and fire. The Causal Body is the body of ether, the subtlest of the five elements.

This means that DNA is present not only in the visible body but also in the layers that precede it. Every cell carries information, and every layer of existence carries a record. The Causal Body is therefore the hidden root of the physical form, and DNA is its outward expression. When the Causal Body is disturbed, the subtle body and physical body begin to reflect that disturbance.

♦ Insight: “Body made out of thoughts created in our mind is causal body.”

“मन में बने विचारों से जो शरीर बनता है, वही karan sharir है।”

Chapter III

Causal Body (Karan Sharir) and Three Bodies

The Causal Body is the most important bridge between the soul and the visible world. According to Bapuji, sadness, disappointment, and inner weakness are first recorded here. The mind creates a thought, the thought becomes repeated, the repeated thought creates a pattern, and that pattern becomes part of the causal body. Later, this impression moves into the subtle body and finally into the physical body.

This is why every physical condition is viewed in this framework as having more than just a physical layer. The body shows the result later, but the actual cause has already started earlier in the inner layers. A person who is emotionally broken, under stress, or living in sorrow places pressure on the mind, and that pressure enters the Causal Body. Over time, the same record reflects in the body's state.

In this system, the Causal Body is the memory-body of the soul. It is the place where power is lost, retained, or restored. Understanding it is necessary because it explains why the same person may keep repeating the same inner patterns and emotional tendencies across life situations and even across births.

Chapter IV

The Relationship Between Causal Body (Karan Sharir) and DNA

The relationship between karan sharir (causal body) and DNA is one of the deepest links between spirituality and the physical body. In ordinary science, DNA is understood as the genetic code present in the cells of the body. It is seen as the blueprint that determines physical structure, inherited traits, and many biological functions. But according to Bapuji's knowledge, this is only the gross or outer understanding of DNA. The deeper truth is that DNA is not merely a physical code — it is connected to the soul through the karan sharir.

Bapuji explains that the human being is not made of only one body. There are three main layers of embodiment: the gross physical body (sthul sharir), the subtle body (suksham sharir), and the causal body (karan sharir). The gross body is made of the denser elements and is visible to the eyes. The subtle body is made of finer elements and carries emotions, sensations, and energetic impressions. But deeper than both lies the karan sharir, which is the storehouse of causes — the body in which the soul's impressions, karmic records, thought-patterns, and subtle tendencies are preserved.

According to Bapuji, the karan sharir is formed through the soul's inner faculties. The mind first creates thoughts. From repeated thinking and observation, the intellect (buddhi) develops the ability to discriminate between right and wrong. Repeated actions based on these choices create sanskar — deep impressions and tendencies within the soul. Over time, these sanskar and thought-patterns create the karan sharir. In this way, the causal body is not something separate from the soul's journey; it is the accumulated inner record of how the soul has lived, thought, acted, and responded over time.

This is where DNA comes in. Bapuji clearly says that DNA is directly related to the karan sharir. In his explanation, each cell of the causal body can be understood as carrying a deeper energetic record, and DNA is the physical reflection of that record. In simple terms, what exists in the karan sharir eventually expresses itself through the subtle body and then appears in the physical body. This means that DNA in the physical body is not just a random biological code; it is the outer manifestation of deeper causal impressions already present within the soul's inner structure.

This also explains why no two human beings are exactly alike, even identical twins. Science may say that DNA patterns are unique, but Bapuji takes this further by explaining that the body is created according to the sanskar of the soul. The kind of tendencies, karmic records, and impressions a soul carries influences the kind of body it receives. Therefore, physical uniqueness is not just genetic variation; it is also the visible expression of the soul's invisible history.

Bapuji also explains that weakness in DNA begins as weakness in the karan sharir. When a person repeatedly lives in fear, sorrow, anger, stress, negativity, or performs harmful actions, these patterns first weaken the causal body. The damage does not begin in the physical body; it begins in the deeper record. As the karan sharir becomes weak, its effect is transmitted to the subtle body, and from there it reaches the physical body. Over time, this is reflected as fatigue, emotional instability, a sense of imbalance, or a general loss of vitality.

This is why Bapuji's teaching emphasises that the physical body alone is not the complete picture of a human being. Medical care continues to serve the gross body, and emotional support continues to serve the subtle body — and seekers are encouraged to use both as appropriate. Alongside that, the spiritual framework looks at a deeper inner layer. If the karan sharir remains weak, the same inner patterns can keep returning. Therefore, inner transformation requires purifying the causal body itself.

Bapuji further clarifies that positive thinking alone cannot fully purify the deeper pattern of DNA. Positive thoughts can stop new damage from accumulating, but they cannot by themselves erase the deeper negative records already stored from past actions and even past births. For real purification, the soul needs power — specifically param prakash (divine light or supreme power). This power enters the soul through true spiritual connection and accurate remembrance of the Supreme. As the soul becomes powerful, the karan sharir begins to recharge, old negative impressions weaken, and the deeper DNA-pattern starts moving back toward its original pure state.

Bapuji uses a simple analogy: just as a bulb cannot light up unless it is connected to the powerhouse, the soul cannot fully draw spiritual power unless it connects to the true source of supreme power. In this understanding, spiritual upliftment is not a biological process — it is the restoration of the original purity and strength of the soul's inner record.

In essence, the relationship between karan sharir and DNA reveals that the body is the final expression of a much deeper inner process. DNA reflects the soul's stored impressions, and the karan sharir acts as the bridge through which thought, karma, and consciousness shape inner life. To understand the soul, inner renewal, and spiritual upliftment, one must therefore look not only at the body, but also at the soul and its causal record.

Chapter V

How Thoughts Create DNA Patterns

The mind is the beginning of the pattern, the intellect refines it, and repeated action turns it into sanskar. Bapuji explains that at the time of a soul's early existence the mind is pure and sattopradhan, but with time the intellect forms through discrimination of good and bad, and repeated action produces sanskar. These sanskar then shape the causal body, and from there the influence reaches the subtle and physical bodies.

This means DNA is not simply inherited biologically. It is also shaped by internal life. The more a thought is repeated, the more it becomes permanent. The more a pattern is repeated, the more it becomes visible in the body. That is why negative thoughts do not remain harmless; they slowly enter the body's record.

♦ Insight: “The mind thinks, the intellect decides, and sanskars record.”

“मन सोचता है, बुद्धि निर्णय करती है, और संस्कार रिकॉर्ड बनाते हैं।”

Chapter VI

Why DNA Patterns Weaken

DNA patterns become weakened when the soul accumulates negativity (vikarma or sinful actions). Negative thoughts, stress, sadness, fear, emotional shock, bad company, and repeated wrong action all weaken the causal body. Bapuji explains that if someone remains unhappy for a long time, that pressure sits in the mind, and the pressure of the mind eventually affects the karan sharir. When this record becomes weak, that weakness is reflected in the subtle body and then in the physical body. In this framework, these impressions are described as shaping the DNA pattern as the visible outer expression of the soul's inner record.

In this spiritual framework, the deeper cause of imbalance is considered to be karmic patterns stored within the causal body. Outer states are seen as having both an inner karmic dimension and a physical dimension. Weakened DNA patterns are therefore viewed, in this perspective, as outer reflections of karmic impressions accumulated across lifetimes. This is why many physical states do not appear suddenly. They are often the final outcome of long inner patterning. A person may feel fine outwardly because the body has not yet reflected the inner pattern, but according to this view the root may already be present in the inner layers. According to this framework, many physical conditions can have a hidden karmic and causal background — though, importantly, this is a spiritual interpretation and is not offered as a medical explanation or as a substitute for medical care.

A negative environment also matters. Wrong food, wrong associations, unhealthy conversation, and emotional disturbance all push the mind in the wrong direction. When the mind becomes disturbed, the karan sharir weakens. When the karan sharir weakens, the subtle body weakens.

And when the subtle body weakens, the physical body eventually reflects that inner imbalance.

According to Bapuji's teaching, weakened DNA patterns are linked to weakened impressions in the causal body, which arise due to karma. Negative actions (vikarma or sinful actions) create negative impressions in the causal body. In this spiritual framework, these impressions are described as shaping the DNA pattern, which the framework views as the outer reflection of the inner record. Thus, in this perspective, the deeper cause of inner imbalance is considered to be karmic patterns stored within the causal body. Weakened DNA patterns are therefore viewed, spiritually, as outer reflections of karmic impressions accumulated across lifetimes.

Chapter VII

Coma, Soul Departure, and the Invisible State of Life

From this spiritual framework, coma can be understood as a state where the gross body is still present, but full soul-awareness is not functioning in an ordinary way. The body may still be alive, yet the connection between the soul and body has become weakened or diminished. This is an interpretation based on the structure of physical, subtle, and causal bodies described by Bapuji.

When the soul leaves the body at death, the physical body remains behind, but the subtle body and karan sharir go with the soul. That is why the body by itself cannot continue. Bapuji also explains that in a deeply powerful state, such as samadhi, a soul can leave the body consciously. In such a state, the soul is not helpless; it can depart with awareness when its inner charge is complete.

♦ Insight: “When the soul leaves, the subtle and causal body go along with it, but the physical body remains here.”

“जब आत्मा निकलती है, तो सूक्ष्म और कारण शरीर आत्मा के साथ चले जाते हैं, लेकिन स्थूल शरीर यहीं रह जाता है।”

Chapter VIII

DNA, Inner Energy, and Divine Light

DNA pattern purification, in the spiritual sense described in this book, is not simply about thinking positively. Positive thinking can stop further damage to the inner record, but it cannot remove all the deep records stored from many births. For real inner purification, the soul needs param prakash — divine light. Bapuji's teaching is that the causal body is approached through the soul's own spiritual effort, because the causal body sits at a deeper level than the gross or subtle bodies. The karan sharir needs power and divine light.

This divine light is not ordinary light, not sunlight, and not electricity. It is supreme power received through direct connection with the Almighty Authority. Bapuji uses a very clear analogy: if a bulb is not connected to the powerhouse, it will not light up. In the same way, if the soul is not connected to the Supreme Powerhouse, the causal body cannot be truly energised.

DNA pattern renewal, in this understanding, means returning the weakened inner record to its original pure form. That happens through meditation, soul consciousness, knowledge, silence, and connection with nirakar Param-Pita / Almighty Authority in the supreme abode. As the soul receives power, negative inner energy gradually weakens, the mind becomes calmer, and the inner experience feels lighter. This is described purely as a spiritual experience and is not presented as a medical claim of any kind.

◆ Insight: “Medical care addresses the gross body; emotional and devotional support helps the subtle body; the causal body is approached through divine light and spiritual power.”

“दवा स्थूल शरीर के लिए है, दुआ सूक्ष्म शरीर को सहारा देती है, और कारण शरीर शक्ति एवं दिव्य प्रकाश से जुड़ता है।”

Chapter IX

Egyptian Mummies and Body Preservation in Sanatan Wisdom

The preserved bodies of Egypt, the idea of mummies, and the wish to preserve DNA are reflected upon in this book as part of an ancient belief — across many cultures — that the body carries an inner record. In the same way, the scriptures of different traditions describe symbolic ideas about awakening, judgement, and the soul's continuity. Bapuji's spiritual reflection on this is that the body, in principle, carries the soul's DNA information as part of the soul's wider record, viewed here purely as a spiritual reflection rather than as a physical or scientific claim.

Sanatan examples are equally inspiring. The sons of King Sagar were turned to ashes, yet when Ganga descended, their remains were spiritually uplifted. Ahilya was turned to stone and regained her form by Rama's touch. Indra was cursed and became a worm, and through Narad's reminder and spiritual power, he was reminded of his original form again. These are presented in this book as devotional and symbolic illustrations from Sanatan tradition of how, in spiritual narrative, divine remembrance is described as touching the inner state of a soul. They are shared with respect for the tradition and are not offered as scientific or literal claims.

These stories, in this book's framework, are devotional reflections on how inner consciousness is described in scripture as having a profound influence on the soul's state. They are spiritual reflections, not medical or scientific claims, and are not offered as guidance for any physical condition.

Chapter X

Body Structure

The soul's journey does not stop with the body. Bapuji explains a layered universe where beings exist with different types of bodies and different levels of access. Deities in swarglok are described as having three-element bodies, namely ether, air, and fire. Angels or farishta are presented as beings of a higher etheric category, with a supreme ether or param akash body.

Above swarglok is Vaikunth, which in this framework cannot be reached by ordinary three-element bodies. Above Vaikunth is Shivpuri, and above Shivpuri is Paramdham. The soul that becomes powerful through knowledge, soul-consciousness, and divine remembrance can move upward through these levels. The fully incorporeal state is reached only when all karmic bondage dissolves.

This hierarchy shows that DNA is not just physical. The body is linked to levels of existence that science usually does not measure. The soul's power determines the kind of body it carries and the realm it can reach.

♦ Insight: “Those who remember nirakar Shiv in the supreme abode receive power from the powerhouse itself.”

“जो nirakar Shiv को परमधाम में याद करते हैं, उन्हें power powerhouse से मिलती है।”

Chapter XI

Positive Thinking, Power, and the Limits of Psychology

Positive thinking is helpful, but it is not enough. Positive thought can prevent further damage; it can stop new negativity from growing. But the old damage stored from many births cannot be removed by thought alone. That is why the soul needs power, not only attitude.

Bapuji repeatedly emphasises that the soul becomes powerful through soul-consciousness, solitude, silence, and connection with the Almighty Authority. He advises a life where one speaks less, thinks less in unnecessary ways, and remains inward. When the mind becomes quiet, the soul becomes stronger. When the soul becomes stronger, the karan sharir begins to charge.

♦ Insight: “Those who go inward are always happy; antarmukhi sada sukhi.”

“जो भीतर जाते हैं, वे हमेशा सुखी रहते हैं; antarmukhi sada sukhi !”

Lifestyle and the Protection of the Causal Body

Bapuji advises that the first step in protecting the causal body is changing one’s lifestyle. Key principles include:

- Avoid Emotional Disturbance: Repeated emotional suffering places pressure on the mind and damages the causal body.
- Avoid Stressful Living: A life filled with tension gradually weakens the mind and creates negative impressions.
- Remain Mentally Stable: Mental stability prevents further damage to the causal body.

The Power of Thoughtless Silence

One of Bapuji's most powerful teachings is the importance of mental silence. He explains that soul energy is preserved when the mind becomes thoughtless.

Practical guidance includes:

- Speak less, Live in solitude, Avoid crowded places, Maintain inner silence

According to Bapuji: “Antarmukhi sada sukhi” — One who turns inward always remains happy. When the mind becomes silent, Akash Tatva (ether element) increases, strengthening the causal body.

♦ Insight: “Those who go inward are always happy; antarmukhi sada sukhi.”

“जो भीतर जाते हैं, वे हमेशा सुखी रहते हैं; antarmukhi sada sukhi !”

Chapter XII

Science Without Spirituality Is Incomplete

Science studies the visible world with gross instruments. It can detect matter, measure cells, and explore physical processes. But according to Bapuji, science by itself is incomplete because it cannot fully touch the supreme element or the hidden power behind the soul. Spirituality is needed to understand the deeper cause, not just the outer result.

This is why he says that if humanity had access to supreme-element instruments, many things would be possible that are currently unimaginable. He also explains that spiritual knowledge and scientific knowledge should move together, because one handles the surface and the other handles the source. Without spirituality, science remains limited to the gross level.

Spiritual knowledge describes the existence of subtle elements beyond physical atoms. Just as atomic refinement produces enormous energy, refinement of consciousness produces spiritual energy. The concept of supreme element suggests a higher level of energy beyond physical matter. Spiritual practice is considered, in this framework, to awaken inner awareness of the soul's deeper layers — described here purely as a spiritual reflection on inner consciousness, not as a biological claim. Without spiritual knowledge, science operates only at the surface level of existence.

Role of Music and Mantras

Many people believe: Listening to certain music frequencies can influence inner energy. Spiritual knowledge explains that music alone cannot provide spiritual power. Music can influence emotions but cannot replace connection with the Supreme Source. In higher spiritual dimensions such as Vishnulok or Vaikunth, subtle divine music exists naturally within the atmosphere. However, on Earth: Negative thoughts of humans influence the environment. Negative vibrations affect: Air, Water, Earth, Fire, Space. When collective human thinking becomes negative, the five elements also become disturbed. Thus, the root cause of global imbalance is collective negative thinking.

Chapter XIII

The Hidden Record of the Soul in DNA

According to the source, DNA carries the history and geography of the soul from the time of its existence. Every record of the soul's journey, including the rise of mind, intellect, and sanskar, is held in the deeper coding of the being. This means that DNA is not just about physical inheritance; it also carries the soul's record.

Because of this, future science may one day read the history of the soul from a single strand of DNA, especially from preserved bodies or ashes. The source also says that each particle of ash can carry DNA information as part of the soul's wider record. This is offered purely as a spiritual reflection on the mystery of body, soul, and inner continuity.

Understanding DNA from both scientific and spiritual perspectives reveals that the physical body is only the final expression of deeper metaphysical structures. Each individual's DNA is unique. The spiritual explanation for this uniqueness is that every soul carries different sanskars (impressions), karmic records, and mental tendencies, which influence the formation of the body.

Thus, the sequence of manifestation is described as:

Soul → Mind → Intellect → Karma → Sanskar → Causal Body → Subtle Body → Physical Body → DNA

The body forms according to the sanskars, and the DNA reflects the impressions stored within the causal body.

Chapter XIV

The Future of DNA, Human Cloning, and Global Peace via Spiritual Power

The source suggests that human cloning and DNA renewal at the soul level are reflected upon in this book purely as spiritual ideas, not as practical, scientific, or medical proposals. Even where physical science can copy outer forms, the spiritual framework of this book describes the soul-linked record as something approached only through inner consciousness. Spiritual practice is described here as working from the soul outward rather than from matter inward.

Root Cause of Global Problems: All souls must transform their thoughts collectively. Negative thinking affects Society, Environment, Natural elements, Human relationships, Global peace. Truth is one. God is one. Differences exist between religions and sects, but the ultimate source of all souls is one Supreme Authority. Only Soul Power can elevate collective karma to a higher state and bring positive change.

Future Change in the World

According to spiritual knowledge: The world is going through transformation. Signs of global change are becoming visible. Positive changes are expected in human consciousness. It is believed that large-scale destructive conflict such as world war can be avoided through transformation of human consciousness. Spiritual vibrations influence global events. Collective positive thinking can change the future direction of humanity.

Bapuji also explains that high-quality souls are not ordinary. Some souls come from very far away, some are world transformers, and some are rare enough to follow this knowledge deeply. In this vision, the human life is a training ground for awakening power, clearing the causal body, and eventually moving beyond birth and death.

Chapter XV

Conclusion

Spiritual connection with the Almighty Authority's Soul is described in this book as providing the inner strength to purify sanskars and bring inner balance to the soul's pattern. Science provides knowledge of structure, while spirituality, in this view, provides reflection on inner cause. Integration of scientific research with spiritual wisdom is described as offering a wider understanding of consciousness, the self, and human evolution. Outer techniques alone are not, in this spiritual view, the complete picture.

The State of Karmatit: The highest stage described by Bapuji is the Karmatit Awastha.

In this state:

- the causal body becomes 100% charged
- all negative karmic impressions are burned
- the soul becomes extremely powerful

At this stage, the soul becomes free from the cycle of karmic suffering.

True transformation occurs when the soul gains knowledge, connects with the Supreme Source, gains spiritual power, the sanskar changes, karma improves, and life transforms.
