About Bapuji

Bapuji (full name: Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel, also lovingly called “Dadaji” by the younger generation) was born in 1956 in the small village of Akhaj in the Mehsana district of Gujarat. However, he spent his childhood in another village named Ambasan, also located in the Mehsana district.

In the early part of his life, he was a highly successful lawyer. Later, he devoted his life to realizing the supreme spiritual truth and bringing this divine knowledge forward for the welfare of humanity. Today, this supreme knowledge serves as a guiding light for true seekers to realize their ultimate destiny. It is a blessing of the highest divinity that the present time is witnessing the rise of this supreme spiritual knowledge, guiding souls on Earth to return to their original source.

Despite being raised in a very poor family and facing challenging circumstances, Bapuji had a deep desire to transform this sorrowful and suffering world into a better place. At the young age of six, he questioned God repeatedly, asking why God remained silent about the suffering of humanity. This intense longing to end human suffering eventually led him to attain the highest level of spirituality later in life.

Even as a child, Bapuji would spend hours alone in the fields, often neglecting his own comfort. Due to poverty, he would walk barefoot without shoes or sandals, frequently getting pricked by thorns. Many times, he would stay late in the fields and, on his way back home, encounter subtle world entities. These experiences sparked his interest in communicating with subtle world souls.

Bapuji was courageous from a young age, which helped him overcome many obstacles. Alongside his studies in chartered accountancy (CA), he gave tuition classes to support himself financially. Later, he completed his Bachelor of Law (LLB) degree and became a well-known lawyer in Ahmedabad.

In 1997, he established a spiritual institution called “Vishwa Parivartak Ishwariya Vidhyalay” in Chenpur, Ahmedabad, with the mission of transforming this mortal world, filled with suffering and disorder, into an eternal divine world of immortality. Smt. Sushma Tandon, lovingly known as “Maa,” worked alongside Bapuji in this grand divine mission.

To accomplish this mission, Bapuji worked tirelessly, dedicating all his resources to this divine purpose. During that time, he would deliver continuous spiritual discourses for up to 18 hours without rest. In these discourses, he explained the highest dimensions of divine knowledge, which he realized through deep meditation and divine vision in a state of superconsciousness. This knowledge goes beyond the imagination of the ordinary human mind.

Bapuji’s teachings cover a vast range of topics, including the types of celestial creators across different dimensions, the creation of our solar system, galaxy, and universe, and most importantly, the transcendental knowledge of the multiverse and realities beyond it. His knowledge is supremely profound and is intended for highly evolved seekers, referred to as “behad souls.” According to Bapuji, these “behad souls” will play a key role in transforming this mortal world into an eternal divine realm.

At present, Bapuji remains deeply engaged in intense meditation and samadhi for long hours. He does not meet anyone, as he is continuously immersed in his transcendental mission in a superconscious state.

— Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel

The Himalayas have always been revered as the most sacred mountain range on Earth. Pilgrims, seekers and saints have been drawn to these mountains for thousands of years, sensing a power and presence that goes far beyond the physical beauty of snow-capped peaks and ancient forests.

In this book, Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel shares what he has witnessed in the Himalayas through direct experience in the atma swarup — the state of soul-consciousness. He describes a vast, living world of subtle souls engaged in deep tapasya across the entire range, from Haridwar and Rishikesh to Badrinath, Kedarnath, Gangotri, Amarnath, Pashupatinath and the sacred heights of Mount Kailash and Mansarovar.

What unfolds in these pages is not theory or speculation. It is alaukik darshan — otherworldly vision — recorded in Bapuji's own words and arranged by the Paramshanti Team for the benefit of sincere seekers.

The book describes the realms of Vishnupuri and Shivpuri, the higher abode of Paramdham, the spheres of souls following many spiritual traditions, the role of Char Dham in the subtle world, the eternal mystery of Mount Kailash, the hidden centre of knowledge called Gyanganj, and even the meeting of souls from other star systems above the Himalayas.

It also offers a deeply practical conclusion: when the body is light, the mind is light, and the buddhi is pure, the soul naturally ascends to the higher realms.

The Great Masters of the Himalayas · Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel

May these pages awaken in every reader the longing to know what lies beyond — and the strength to begin the journey within.

Chapter I

The Extraordinary Secrets of the Himalayas

When one becomes established in the atma swarup — the state of soul-consciousness — and observes the Himalayas, a magnificent and deeply beautiful reality becomes visible. The entire Himalayan range, from end to end, is filled with extraordinary spiritual secrets. These are not the secrets that the physical world already knows. These are the alaukik — the otherworldly — mysteries of the subtle dimension.

The whole of the Himalayas is saturated with the presence of subtle world souls. Good and elevated souls gather in groups, forming spheres of light at various heights above the mountains. Within these spheres, they engage in deep tapasya — spiritual practice and penance — with the singular aim of rising to the higher realms.

This is true not only across the Indian Himalayas but also in Nepal, where above the sacred Pashupatinath Temple, subtle spheres of souls exist one, two, three and even five kilometres above the temple, practising and progressing on their spiritual journey.

Wherever there are sacred sites — temples, pilgrimage centres, ancient seats of devotion — there are also corresponding gatherings of subtle souls above them. This is one of the reasons temples have always been built on elevated ground and mountain peaks. The higher one goes, the less the negative vibrations of the earthly world can reach. Above ten kilometres, the negative vibrations of the people on the surface of the Earth do not reach at all. This is why the mountains have always been the chosen place for meditation, yog and tapasya.

Chapter II

The Four Dhams and the Subtle World

The Char Dham — Badrinath, Kedarnath, Gangotri and Yamunotri — are not merely physical pilgrimage sites. In the subtle dimension, they are powerful centres where elevated souls gather in spheres and perform tapasya to ascend to the higher realms.

Those who worship Bhagwan Vishnu are drawn to Badrinath. In the subtle spheres above Badrinath, these souls worship and perform penance with the goal of reaching Vaikunth — Vishnupuri. When their tapasya reaches maturity and sufficient spiritual power accumulates within the group, the entire sphere gradually rises, leaving Bhulok, bypassing Swarg Lok and the intermediate realms, and ascending directly to Vishnupuri.

Similarly, those who follow Shankar-Parvati are drawn to Kedarnath and Amarnath. Their spheres of subtle souls are found in great numbers across the Himalayas, especially above the peaks that are ten kilometres or higher. These souls practise intensely, and when they are ready, they ascend to Shivratri.

At Gangotri and its source, there are also large gatherings of souls in subtle spheres, practising tapasya and preparing for their onward journey.

In the subtle world, there is a beautiful tradition of service. Good souls from the higher spheres descend to the towns, villages and cities of India. They move through the lanes and streets, reaching out to subtle world souls who are still attached to their former homes and families. These elevated souls invite them with great love, saying: 'You could not complete the Char Dham Yatra during your physical life — come, let us guide you on that sacred journey now.’

Souls who have become free of attachment — who are nashto moha, free of worldly illusion — accept this invitation and travel with them. But those who are still attached to their homes, their families, their former lives, are afraid to leave. They fear that if they go to the Char Dham, they will never return to their old home. This attachment keeps them bound.

Those who have done sincere bhakti in their lifetime, and who have earned some spiritual merit, are gently taken by these elevated souls to the four sacred sites. Sometimes these souls complete the pilgrimage and stay for tapasya. Other times, they return to their familiar surroundings. The entire process mirrors the physical Char Dham Yatra that people undertake in the physical world — but it happens in the subtle dimension, guided by compassionate souls who wish to help others progress.

Even when accidents occur in the mountains — when vehicles fall from the high roads and people lose their physical bodies — the subtle souls of that region come to help. They guide the newly departed souls, take them on the pilgrimage, and work for their spiritual welfare. There is a remarkable spirit of mutual help and service in the subtle world of the Himalayas.

Chapter III

The Higher Realms — Vishnupuri and Shivpuri

Vishnupuri — the realm of Bhagwan Vishnu — is vast beyond imagination. Within it, there are separate and distinct spheres for every form and incarnation of Vishnu. There is a sphere for Shri Ram and Sita Ram. There is a sphere for Radha Krishna. Each of these spheres is immense.

The souls who worship Sita Ram go to the Sita Ram sphere within Vishnupuri. Those who worship Radha Krishna go to the Radha Krishna sphere. Those who worship other avatars of Vishnu go to their respective spheres. All of them regard these forms as incarnations of Vishnu, and through their devotion, they reach these exalted regions.

To understand the scale: the seven lokas from Bhulok up to Brahmaloak, taken together, represent a certain measure of space. Vishnupuri is double that space. Shivpuri, which lies above Vishnupuri, is double the space of Vishnupuri. And Paramdham — the Supreme Abode — is many times greater than all of them combined.

Even devotees of Krishna in the Hare Krishna tradition — including sincere seekers from Western countries such as Europe, America and Russia — who have worshipped Krishna with devotion in their lifetime, come to Badrinath in the subtle world after leaving their physical bodies. They regard Krishna as an avatar of Vishnu, and so they come to the Vishnu centres in the Himalayas for tapasya and eventual ascent to Vishnupuri.

Among the different spiritual traditions observed in the Himalayan subtle world, souls following Shankar-Parvati are the most numerous. The entire Himalayas is filled with their presence. Whether at Amarnath, Kedarnath, Kailash or countless unnamed peaks, the devotees of Shankar-Parvati are found in great abundance.

Through sustained tapasya, these souls gradually ascend to Shivratri — the abode of Shiv-Shakti. From there, some eventually reach Paramdham itself.

Chapter IV

Kailash, Mansarovar and Mount Amarnath

Mount Kailash remains one of the greatest mysteries of the Himalayas. No human being has ever climbed to the summit of Kailash, and according to Bapuji, no human ever will. This is because of the extraordinary spiritual energy field that exists there. Mahadev — Shankar-Parvati — resides on Kailash even today, in their akari form, their subtle embodied form. Their presence generates a field of divine energy so powerful that physical approach becomes impossible. Climbing Kailash is also held as forbidden out of reverence by every faith for whom it is sacred — Hindu, Buddhist, Jain and Bon — and the authorities of the region have respected this prohibition for centuries.

Only the souls of the subtle world can reach the summit of Kailash — and only those who are true, sincere devotees of Mahadev Shankar-Parvati, who have dedicated their entire lives to their worship and remembrance. As the Gita says: at the moment of death, whatever you remember, that is what you ultimately attain. So those who have spent their whole life remembering Shankar-Parvati, and who are spiritually powerful and free from attachment, can reach Mahadev after leaving the body.

Souls that are still caught in maya — worldly illusion — and who have not attained the state of nasht moha, cannot reach Kailash even in the subtle form.

Mansarovar, the sacred lake near Kailash, was once visited even by the apsaras — the celestial beings of Indralok. They would come down from the higher realms, bathe in Mansarovar, and return. In ancient times, the entire region from Kailash to what is now Myanmar — once known as Brahmadesh — was a place where Brahma, Vishnu and Shankar together performed a great yagya for the creation and welfare of the world. Devtas and devatas from the higher realms would descend to this region.

Even today, regardless of the political boundaries that exist on the surface of the Earth, the subtle world above these sacred peaks remains alive with the presence of elevated souls from the ancient spiritual traditions of the Indian subcontinent. The subtle dimension does not recognise the borders of the physical world — in that realm, the sacred geography of Kailash and Mansarovar continues to be a centre of intense tapasya, just as it has been for thousands of years.

Chapter V

Gyanganj — The Treasury of Knowledge

Gyanganj is a name that many saints and seekers of the bhakti tradition have spoken about. It is described as a hidden centre of spiritual knowledge within the Himalayas, where elevated souls operate in the subtle form, guiding and teaching those who come to them.

In Gyanganj, souls offer knowledge to one another. They guide newcomers through bhakti and tapasya. Some practise the worship of Shankar-Parvati, others the worship of Vishnu, and still others worship different devtas and devis. It is a place of tremendous spiritual learning and growth.

Across the Himalayas, there are countless spheres of varying sizes. Some contain a few hundred souls, others contain thousands — five hundred, one thousand, two thousand, five thousand, ten thousand, and some of the larger spheres, positioned fifteen, twenty, twenty-five or even fifty kilometres above the peaks, contain up to a lakh of souls.

These souls seek silence. They rise to great heights because the vibrations of the earthly world do not reach there. Just as seekers in the physical world go deep into forests and mountains for solitude and silence, these subtle souls rise to altitudes where the negative vibrations of Earth's population cannot disturb their practice.

All of these souls are preparing for their onward journey to the higher realms. Slowly and steadily, as their power grows, they ascend to the second lok, the third lok, the fourth lok, and beyond. The Himalayas serve as a great spiritual launchpad — a platform from which souls rise through the layers of the cosmos.

Other Traditions in the Himalayan Subtle World

Among the many spheres in the Himalayas, Bapuji also observed groupings belonging to different spiritual traditions. Souls following the Jain tradition were seen practising in spheres at altitudes of around five to six kilometres above the peaks. Souls following the Buddhist tradition were observed in spheres at the two-to-three-kilometre range, in areas of the Himalayas where the mountains are of that height. The altitude of each sphere corresponds to the specific practice and lineage of the souls within it — not to any ranking of one tradition above another. Every sincere path is honoured equally in the subtle world, and each tradition rises through its own sacred discipline.

The Buddhist tradition once had a powerful subtle-world presence across the Tibetan plateau. However, when the spiritual atmosphere of the region changed and material-only worldviews became dominant in the physical world, a similar shift gradually took place in the subtle dimension as well. Over time, the Buddhist subtle-world communities migrated towards the Indian side of the Himalayas, where they continue their sacred practice today.

Good souls from any tradition — Jain, Buddhist, Christian or any other — are received with love in the subtle spheres of the Himalayas. There is no discrimination in the subtle world. If a soul sincerely seeks higher knowledge, it is welcomed and guided, regardless of which path it followed during its earthly life. Bapuji even observed that sincere seekers from many traditions, including Christian devotees and seekers from the Hare Krishna movement in Western countries, are received with love at the subtle centres of the Himalayas for tapasya and learning.

The principle is simple: the atma is the atma. A soul that has renounced worldly attachment is simply a soul — free of labels, free of boundaries.

Chapter VI

Souls from Other Stars

At an altitude of approximately fifty kilometres above the Himalayan range, Bapuji observed a remarkable sphere. This was not an ordinary gathering of earthly souls. This sphere contained souls that had arrived from other star systems — from other bramhands, other solar systems entirely.

These are what some traditions call star children — souls with an origin beyond our Earth and its immediate cosmos. On the physical plane, such souls sometimes take birth as human beings with extraordinary spiritual abilities. In the subtle world above the Himalayas, these star-origin souls had gathered in a sphere near the region associated with Shankar-Parvati's higher realm.

Their purpose was to share knowledge with the most powerful and advanced souls of Earth's subtle world. They were teaching these souls about other stars — how to travel to them, what pathways exist in the subtle dimension to reach other star systems. They offered guidance and methods for journeying to the stars that are visible in the sky above.

This is a dimension of knowledge that goes far beyond what is ordinarily understood — even by the most advanced seekers. It points to the vastness of existence and the interconnectedness of subtle life across the cosmos.

Chapter VII

The Path Within — Lightness of Body, Mind and Soul

Bapuji shares that when one is established in the atma swarup and witnesses the subtle realities of the Himalayas, the upper realms, the galaxies and the vast multiverse, the experience is so profoundly blissful that the limited world of everyday life loses its grip. One does not wish to return to the ordinary awareness. The desire to remain immersed in the higher worlds becomes very strong.

Yet the body must be maintained. For this, Bapuji advises simplicity: eat simple food — dal and roti — and keep the body light. When the body is light, the mind becomes light. When the mind is light, the buddhi — the intellect — becomes pure. And when the buddhi is pure, it naturally ascends to the higher realms.

In that elevated state, there is no desire to see, meet, or think about anyone in the limited world. The awareness shifts entirely. One sees without seeing, hears without hearing, and moves beyond the reach of speech and sound. This is the stage described as being beyond vaani, beyond awaaz — beyond words, beyond noise.

Bapuji reminds the behad children to also listen to the teachings of Maa — Smt. Sushma Tandon — on her channel, Maa Ka Divya Sandesh. Her discourses contain priceless spiritual wisdom. As Bapuji says: those who follow Maa's heart will naturally reach Bapuji's heart. In the Indian spiritual tradition, the feminine principle has always been honoured first — Sita-Ram, Radha-Krishna, Lakshmi-Narayan. Prakriti is always placed before Purush. The worship of Lakshmi brings wealth, the worship of Durga brings power, and the worship of Saraswati brings knowledge.

Bapuji concludes with a universal spiritual truth: if you wish to ascend to Bapuji's heart, first walk the path of Maa's heart.

THE GREAT MASTERS OF THE HIMALAYAS

Timeless Wisdom · Eternal Journey

What lies beyond the snow-capped peaks of the Himalayas? Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel reveals the alaukik — the otherworldly — dimension of the world's most sacred mountains.

In atma swarup, the state of soul-consciousness, Bapuji witnesses spheres of elevated souls performing tapasya across the entire Himalayan range — from Char Dham and Pashupatinath to Kailash, Mansarovar, Amarnath, and the hidden centre of Gyanganj.

This is a journey into Vishnupuri, Shivpuri and Paramdham — the supreme realms beyond all creation — guided by one who has seen.
