About Bapuji

Bapuji (full name: Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel, also lovingly called “Dadaji” by the younger generation) was born in 1956 in the small village of Akhaj in the Mehsana district of Gujarat. However, he spent his childhood in another village named Ambasan, also located in the Mehsana district.

In the early part of his life, he was a highly successful lawyer. Later, he devoted his life to realising the supreme spiritual truth and bringing this divine knowledge forward for the welfare of humanity. Today, this supreme knowledge serves as a guiding light for true seekers to realise their ultimate destiny. It is a blessing of the highest divinity that the present time is witnessing the rise of this supreme spiritual knowledge, guiding souls on Earth to return to their original source.

Despite being raised in a very poor family and facing challenging circumstances, Bapuji had a deep desire to transform this sorrowful and suffering world into a better place. At the young age of six, he questioned God repeatedly, asking why God remained silent about the suffering of humanity. This intense longing to end human suffering eventually led him to attain the highest level of spirituality later in life.

Even as a child, Bapuji would spend hours alone in the fields, often neglecting his own comfort. Due to poverty, he would walk barefoot without shoes or sandals, frequently getting pricked by thorns. Many times, he would stay late in the fields and, on his way back home, encounter subtle-world entities. These experiences sparked his interest in communicating with subtle-world souls.

Bapuji was courageous from a young age, which helped him overcome many obstacles. Alongside his studies in Chartered Accountancy (CA), he gave tuition classes to support himself financially. Later, he completed his Bachelor of Law (LLB) degree and became a well-known lawyer in Ahmedabad.

In 1997, he established a spiritual institution called “Vishwa Parivartak Ishwariya Vidhyalay” in Chenpur, Ahmedabad, with the mission of transforming this mortal world — filled with suffering and disorder — into an eternal divine world of immortality. Smt. Sushma Tandon, lovingly known as “Maa,” worked alongside Bapuji in this grand divine mission.

To accomplish this mission, Bapuji worked tirelessly, dedicating all his resources to this divine purpose. During that time, he would deliver continuous spiritual discourses for up to eighteen hours without rest. In these discourses, he explained the highest dimensions of divine knowledge, which he realised through deep meditation and divine vision in a state of superconsciousness. This knowledge goes beyond the imagination of the ordinary human mind.

Bapuji's teachings cover a vast range of topics, including the types of celestial creators across different dimensions, the creation of our solar system, galaxy, and universe, and most importantly, the transcendental knowledge of the multiverse and realities beyond it. His knowledge is supremely profound and is intended for highly evolved seekers, referred to as "behad souls." According to Bapuji, these behad souls will play a key role in transforming this mortal world into an eternal divine realm.

At present, Bapuji remains deeply engaged in intense meditation and samadhi for long hours. He does not meet anyone, as he is continuously immersed in his transcendental mission in a superconscious state.

— by Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel

This book is the simple, deep, and practical form of that divine knowledge in which it is revealed that Paramshanti is not merely a word — it is the original state of the soul itself. When the soul is established in its true form, an energy arises from within that not only transforms the individual but can extend its influence to the home, the society, the nation, the Earth, and the entire creation.

According to Bapuji's knowledge, this era is not merely an age of outer change; it is equally an age of inner awakening — the age of the soul's transformation. When a human being recognises himself as a soul, he becomes capable of drawing power from the Paramatma and spreading Paramshanti. This very power then becomes the foundation of world transformation, elemental transformation, and the new divine world that is to come.

CHAPTER ONE

What is Paramshanti?

Paramshanti is not an ordinary word, nor is it merely a name for mental quiet or emotional balance. It is the most original, the most pure, and the highest state of the soul's own nature. In the state where the soul rests in its true form — free from the identification with the body, free from the weight of karma, free from the noise of scattered thoughts — that very state is the state of Paramshanti.

When the soul first came into existence, it was filled with complete peace, stillness, and light. Over time, as the soul became entangled in the experiences of body, karma, desires, and the world, this original state gradually became veiled. That is why today the human being searches for peace outside — by changing places, changing circumstances, or through various means — while the true peace is already present within.

Paramshanti is the rediscovery of this original state. It is not something new that must be brought from outside; it is the truth that the soul is simply asked to recognise once again. When the soul experiences itself not as a body but as the soul — a pure source of supreme energy — then, slowly, the same original memory and nature awaken from within, which is known as Paramshanti.

According to Bapuji's knowledge, it is essential to understand that the foundation of creation is sankalp — the vibration of thought. In its grosser form, we call these vibrations. Whatever exists — thoughts, feelings, the atmosphere, even the entire cosmos — everything is built from these sankalp / vibrations. And these vibrations arise from the thinking of the soul.

When a human being thinks negatively, negative vibrations and energies arise, and they make the atmosphere heavy, disturbed, and distorted. When the soul generates positive, pure, or supreme-level thoughts, those pure vibrations and energies make the atmosphere pure, light, and balanced. Seen in this way, Paramshanti is not only a personal experience — it is an energy that can transform the entire atmosphere.

Another deep aspect of Paramshanti is that it is not only peace, but also the nature of supreme light. In Bapuji's words, “Within the very word Paramshanti, the energy of Param Prakash is contained.” This means that when the soul experiences Paramshanti — or when a sankalp of Paramshanti arises within — it is not merely stilled; a divine supreme light, a pure consciousness, also becomes active within it, purifying, awakening, and expanding the inner being.

Paramshanti has a direct connection with Paramdham — the supreme abode where only pure peace, silence, and divine consciousness are experienced. This is why the word Paramshanti is not regarded as a mere sound, but is explained as an extremely pure sankalp or vibration, which has the capacity to connect the soul back to its original home.

When a soul repeatedly forms the sankalp of Paramshanti — whether in words or in the mind — it slowly begins to fill its subtle body, causal body, and aura with the same energy and vibration. In the beginning, this effect is felt only inwardly, but as the practice deepens, the same vibrations begin to spread outward into the atmosphere.

This is where the true science of Paramshanti begins. It is not only a process of meditation or chanting; it is the process of transformation of consciousness. When the soul, established in atmaswaroop, remains steady in the sankalp of Paramshanti, its aura no longer remains ordinary; it is transformed into a powerful field of energy. This very energy first transforms the soul's inner being, then the surrounding atmosphere, and finally has the capacity to influence the world at large.

To understand Paramshanti, therefore, is not merely a spiritual topic; it is the study of the fundamental laws of life, consciousness, and creation. It is the very foundation through which the soul recognises itself, draws power from the infinite source of behad, and ultimately becomes the means of the transformation of itself and of the world.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

“Paramshanti sabse uccha kampan hai, aur yahi kampan po brahmaand ko badal sakta hai.”

“Paramshanti is the highest vibration, and this very vibratio power to transform the entire cosmos.”

CHAPTER TWO

The Deep Connection Between Soul and Paramshanti

The relationship between the soul and Paramshanti is extremely deep, natural, and fundamental. It is not an external or artificial connection; it is the very foundation of the soul's existence. In truth, Paramshanti is not a state the soul must acquire from outside; it is the soul's own original nature. Just as the nature of fire is to burn and the nature of water is to cool, the nature of the soul is Paramshanti.

The soul is the source of consciousness — a subtle, luminous point that is neither body, nor name, nor merely a flow of thoughts. It is the original being that governs body, mind, and intellect. Within it are stored the impressions, karmas, and memories of many births, which influence its present life. When the soul enters a body and becomes entangled in worldly relationships, desires, and atmospheres, it gradually forgets this original peace. This very forgetfulness becomes the cause of unrest.

When the soul rests in its original state — pure, free from distortions, and beyond body-identification — it naturally experiences Paramshanti. In that state, there is no unrest in the mind, no conflict in the intellect, and no pressure of distorted gross impressions. But the moment the soul begins to live in body-consciousness, its sankalps also become disturbed, unstable, and scattered. In contrast, when the soul is established in atmaswaroop, its sankalps become pure, stable, and powerful, and from there the true experience of Paramshanti begins.

Paramshanti is not only an experience, but also an energy. When the soul is established in the sankalp of Paramshanti, it is no longer only a thought; it becomes the source of a pure vibration. This vibration first influences the inner subtle levels of the soul — such as the subtle body and the causal body — and then spreads outward into the atmosphere through the aura. This is why the peace of the soul does not remain merely personal; it begins to descend into the atmosphere, into relationships, into behaviour, and into one's actions.

This state of Paramshanti becomes still more stable and powerful when the soul establishes its connection with the Paramatma. The soul is itself the source of supreme peace, yet when it connects with Paramatma, it experiences that peace with greater depth, stability, and strength; in that union it takes on the very form of Paramshanti. Through this Paramshanti Yog practice, the effects of the soul's old karmas gradually begin to dissolve, and its condition becomes more pure and balanced.

Thus, the relationship of the soul and Paramshanti can be understood on three levels. First, Paramshanti is the soul's original nature. Second, the soul experiences it when established in atmaswaroop. Third, by connecting with Paramatma, the soul makes that state permanent and powerful. When this relationship awakens, the soul does not merely remain peaceful in itself; its thoughts, sankalps, and very presence begin to radiate Paramshanti energy — and this very condition makes the soul a medium for its own transformation as well as the transformation of the world.

CHAPTER THREE

The Secret of Vibrations and the Science of Paramshanti

Sankalp or vibration is the original foundation of this creation, and it is directly connected with the thinking of the human being. Whatever the soul thinks arises within it as vibration and energy, and then the same vibration begins to spread outward into the atmosphere through the aura. Every thought, desire, emotion, impulse, and sankalp of a human being functions as a subtle vibration. These vibrations, in turn, shape and influence the atmosphere.

Seen in this way, the atmosphere is not merely a mixture of air or physical substances — within it is also stored the subtle record of human thought. When a human being generates positive, pure, and peaceful thoughts, the atmosphere becomes light, clean, and balanced. On the contrary, when thoughts are negative — anger, fear, hatred, or agitation — those very vibrations make the atmosphere heavy, disturbed, and unbalanced. Thus, vibrations are not confined to personal experience; they are the foundation upon which collective creation is shaped and transformed.

Vibrations are also deeply connected with the five elements (panchtattva). In particular, the air element (vayu tattva) plays the primary role in the spread of vibrations, for it is the medium through which these waves travel from one place to another. Yet vibrations are not confined to air alone. When thoughts are negative, the intensity of the fire element (agni tattva) joins with air, giving rise to heat, unrest, and instability in the atmosphere. Conversely, when thoughts are pure and positive, air combines with the subtle quality of the ether element (akash tattva), and the atmosphere becomes lighter and more balanced.

Bapuji's knowledge also explains that the atmosphere of the Earth is relatively heavy, for here negative and mixed vibrations are present in greater quantity. As we ascend toward the higher realms, the dominance of the ether element increases, while the balance of air and fire changes. Above Earth, gravity's pull decreases and subtlety increases, and therefore the vibrations of the higher realms are experienced as more peaceful, stable, and subtle.

In this context, the importance of Paramshanti becomes profoundly deep. Paramshanti is not merely a thought or a feeling; it is the highest level of energy or vibration, directly connected with the original state of the soul and the consciousness of Paramdham. When the soul, established in atmaswaroop, remains steady in the sankalp of Paramshanti, it produces an extremely pure and powerful energy. This vibration or energy is far more subtle and effective than ordinary thoughts.

These Paramshanti energies first calm and balance the inner levels of the soul — mind, intellect, and impressions. Then, influencing the subtle body and causal body, they spread through the aura and finally flow outward into the atmosphere. When such vibrations are produced continuously, they gradually reduce the negative energy accumulated in the atmosphere and establish purity and balance in its place.

Thus, the science of vibration does not merely explain how thoughts leave their effect; it also makes clear how, through the sankalp of Paramshanti, the vibrations of this gross creation can be raised to the highest level, bringing positive transformation to the entire atmosphere and creation. This is why Paramshanti is not considered only an experience of peace, but a transformative force that can influence the individual, the world, and even the cosmic realms.

CHAPTER FOUR

Paramshanti, Param Prakash, and Param Mahashanti

Paramshanti and Param Prakash are not separate. Where there is true Paramshanti, Param Prakash is naturally present. The very word Paramshanti holds a light within itself. Param Prakash is the supreme power of the soul that awakens the soul's original memory, purifies its inner being, and expands its intellect. The more powerful the soul, the more widely the light of Paramshanti spreads.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

“Paramshanti shabd hi aisa hai ki uske andar Param Prakash

“The very word Paramshanti is such that within it resides P Prakash — the supreme light.”

The levels of Paramshanti are also described in this knowledge.

Paramshanti — peace at the level of the individual and the home.

Behad ki Paramshanti — peace that expands beyond all boundaries.

Behad ke Behad ki Param Param Param Mahashanti — the supreme peace that spreads into the infinite directions, through infinite realms, across the boundless creation.

CHAPTER FIVE

From Which Elements Are Vibrations Formed?

Bapuji's knowledge also makes clear that vibration is deeply connected with the five elements. In particular, the air element (vayu tattva) plays the primary role in the spread of vibrations, for it is the medium through which these waves travel from one place to another. Yet vibrations are not confined to air alone. When thoughts are negative, the intensity of the fire element (agni tattva) joins with air, giving rise to heat, unrest, and instability in the atmosphere. On the other hand, when thoughts are pure and positive, air combines with the subtle quality of the ether element (akash tattva), and the atmosphere becomes lighter, more balanced, and more peaceful.

The atmosphere of the Earth is relatively heavy, because here negative and mixed vibrations are present in greater quantity. As we move toward higher dimensions, the dominance of the ether element increases, while the influence of the air and fire elements decreases.

CHAPTER SIX

Mantra Japa, Contemplation, and the Power of Atmaswaroop

In Bapuji's knowledge, the essence of this mantra is expressed in one simple yet profoundly deep sentence:

BAPUJI INSIGHT

“Behad ki Paramshanti socho, bolo — Paramshanti mil jaay

“Think and speak the Behad ki Paramshanti — Paramshanti attained.”

This mantra returns the soul to its true identity and awakens the peace, light, and power hidden within. Paramshanti is not something far away; it is already present within the soul, and through right sankalp, right remembrance, and right practice, it can be experienced.

The process of mantra japa can be understood on three levels — vocal, mental, and atmaswaroop. Vocal japa is that in which the soul repeats the word Paramshanti aloud. This is the preliminary level; it gives the mind a direction and helps bring thoughts under control. Next comes mental japa, in which the soul remembers Paramshanti silently within the mind. This level is more subtle and draws the mind inward.

But far more powerful than either of these is the japa performed while established in atmaswaroop. When the soul experiences itself not as body but as a point-form source of pure consciousness, and in that very state remains steady in the sankalp of Paramshanti, the japa is no longer merely thought; it is transformed into a powerful energy. This is the state in which true practice begins.

In this state, the effect of Paramshanti unfolds progressively. First, it calms the mind, slows the movement of thoughts, and reduces unrest. Then it grants clarity and stability to the intellect, and decisions become more correct and balanced. Finally, it begins to work at the level of sanskars — old negative patterns begin to weaken, and in their place new, pure, and divine impressions begin to form.

This is why the Paramshanti mantra is not merely a means of bringing peace; it is a deep medium for the transformation of sanskars. It gradually reshapes the old records settled in the inner being of the soul and turns its direction toward positivity and purity.

Moreover, these vibrations of Paramshanti do not remain confined within the soul. When the soul performs the japa of this mantra, the vibration begins to fill its causal body and subtle body, then spreads through the aura, and from there flows into the atmosphere. Gradually, this influence can extend to the home, the family, the society, and finally to the wider world.

Thus, the japa of the Paramshanti mantra is not an ordinary process but a deep inner journey — where the soul, recognising its true form, awakens its own power, and through that same power becomes capable of transforming both itself and the atmosphere around it.

CHAPTER SEVEN

Effect on the Body, Cells, Aura, and Causal Body

Section 1 — Effect on the Subtle Body, Cells, and Causal Body

The vibration of Paramshanti works at an extremely subtle level. When the soul, established in atmaswaroop, remains steady in the sankalp of Paramshanti, these vibrations first enter the subtle body and then begin to spread through the aura. Through continuous japa and sankalp, this energy gradually reaches the gross body, and every cell of the body begins to receive it. In particular, the five elements — water, air, earth, fire, and ether — are influenced by these vibrations and become purified and balanced, giving the body an experience of lightness and peace.

The deepest effect of Paramshanti falls upon the causal body (karan sharir), where the record of sanskars and karmas of many births is stored. When the vibrations and light of Paramshanti reach this level, the old sanskars begin to loosen, the weight of karma lightens, and the process of vikarm vinash — the destruction of wrong actions — begins. Thus, Paramshanti is not merely a feeling, but a purifying power that works in the depths of the soul.

Section 2 – Aura, Protective Shield, and the Soul's Safety

When the soul continuously remains established in atmaswaroop and steady in the sankalp of Paramshanti, its aura gradually begins to fill with light and supreme power, and takes the form of a subtle protective shield (raksha kavach). In this state, the soul is safe not only inwardly but also outwardly. If anyone sends a negative sankalp toward such a soul, that energy does not reach the soul; it is stopped at the level of the aura itself.

What is remarkable is that this negative energy does not merely stop. Under the influence of the high vibration of Paramshanti, it is gradually transformed into positive energy and returns to its source. This also leaves an effect on the consciousness of the one who sent the negative sankalp, and their thoughts, too, begin to turn toward the positive.

Thus, the sankalp / vibration of Paramshanti not only protects the soul, but also holds the power to convert negativity into positivity. This is what gives it the form of a deep mechanism of energy transformation.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

“Jab atma Paramshanti ke vibrations phailati hai, to uska a shaktishali ho jaata hai ki koi bhi negative sankalp us tak p sakta, balki vo badalkar sakaratmak ban jaata hai.”

“When the soul spreads the vibrations of Paramshanti, its a becomes so powerful that no negative sankalp can reach it that very sankalp is transformed and becomes positive.”

CHAPTER EIGHT

Effect on Home, Family, Society, and Earth

When a soul, established in atmaswaroop, begins to radiate the energy of Paramshanti, the first effect is seen in its own home. The atmosphere of the home gradually becomes peaceful, stable, and light. Where earlier there was tension, disturbance, or heaviness, there now arises ease and balance. The same vibrations reach the other members of the family and positively influence their minds, thoughts, and behaviour. Step by step, this influence moves out of the home and has the capacity to spread to the society, the city, the state, the country, and ultimately the entire Earth.

When the japa, contemplation, and heartfelt remembrance of Paramshanti is done continuously and deeply, the atmosphere of the home can truly become like a temple. Every person who enters experiences that peace and sanctity, whether they understand its cause or not. In this way, Paramshanti is no longer only a personal experience; it becomes a force that transforms the collective environment.

According to Bapuji's knowledge, the sankalp or vibration of Paramshanti is not confined to the gross world; it also deeply influences the subtle world. Negative or disturbing subtle beings present in the home and surrounding atmosphere — such as ghostly presences — cannot bear these high vibrations and begin to move away. Similarly, ancestral souls who are in a disturbed state begin to experience peace from these Paramshanti energies, and are inspired to move onward toward higher realms.

Along with this, when the soul's aura is strengthened by the sankalp / energy of Paramshanti, a subtle protective shield is formed around it. In this condition, if anyone sends a negative sankalp or energy, that energy cannot pierce the shield to reach the soul. Under the influence of Paramshanti, the same negative energy is transformed into a positive form and returns to the one who sent it, leaving a positive impact on their thoughts and consciousness.

Thus, the vibrations and energy of Paramshanti not only transform the individual and their environment, but also establish balance and purity at the subtle level. This is why, wherever Paramshanti is practised, the atmosphere — both gross and subtle — begins to become peaceful, safe, and sacred. Ultimately, Paramshanti is a power that, beginning in the home, can bring balance and transformation to the entire world.

CHAPTER NINE

Vibrations in the Higher Realms and the Subtle World

In the subtle world too, there are vibrations of sankalp. The subtle souls living there are also influenced by the vibrations of sankalp. Some souls are peaceful, some disturbed; some are rising upward, others are sinking downward. Just as the thinking of human beings influences the atmosphere of this world, the thinking of souls influences the atmospheres of the subtle realms.

As the soul moves toward the higher realms, the gravity of the Earth exerts less and less influence upon it. After approximately two hundred kilometres, the effect of Earth-gravity begins to diminish and the dominance of the ether element begins to increase. Then, moving onward through Brahmapuri, Vishnupuri, Shivpuri, and finally Paramdham, the soul's experience becomes ever more peaceful, more subtle, and more concentrated and still. In Paramdham, the soul's final level is utterly peaceful, pure, and free from thought.

CHAPTER TEN

Atmaswaroop and the Third Eye

To be established in atmaswaroop is, in the truest sense, the opening of the third eye. This has no connection with any external eye; it is the divine vision that awakens within the soul. When the soul experiences itself not as body but as a conscious being, its eye of knowledge opens. This is why the state of atmaswaroop is linked with deep insight, clarity, and detachment — for in this state the soul rises above external illusions and begins to see its own true, luminous, and divine form.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

“Swayam ko pehchaanna hi atma-gyan hai.”

“To recognise the self — that itself is atma-gyan, the knowledge of the soul.”

When the realisation of atmaswaroop arises, the mind naturally becomes still, the intellect becomes pure and steady, and the soul's true yog with Paramatma is established. This yog gives the soul power and carries it toward its original state — Paramshanti. Without knowledge, the soul cannot recognise itself; and without recognition, true yog is not possible. Therefore, atmaswaroop is the very doorway through which the soul connects with both Paramshanti and Paramatma.

In this context, Bapuji's knowledge points to an extremely deep instruction from the Bhagavad Gita, where Bhagwan Shri Krishna shows the soul the path to return to its original identity:

BAPUJI INSIGHT

“Gita mein Bhagwan Shri Krishna ne kaha hai — Tu deh aur sarv sambandh bhoolkar Atma-swaroop ban, mujh Paramatkar. Main tere saare paapon ko nasht kar, apne saath oonchi Paramdham le jaaunga.”

“In the Gita, Bhagwan Shri Krishna has said: Forget the body relations of the body; become Atma-swaroop, remember Me Paramatma. I shall destroy all your sins and carry you along to the highest Paramdham.”

The essence of this sentence is that as long as the soul remains bound in the memory of the body and its relations, it cannot connect with its true form or with Paramatma. But the moment it rises above these limits and is established in the pure, conscious atmaswaroop, its path naturally opens toward Paramatma.

Thus, atmaswaroop is not merely an idea; it is a state — an experience in which the soul recognises itself, becomes stable, and, abiding in that very condition, experiences Paramshanti. It is this state that awakens the soul from within and lifts it to the height from which it becomes capable of influencing not only itself but the entire atmosphere around it.

CHAPTER ELEVEN

The Kala of the Soul and the Expansion of Paramshanti Vibrations

It is essential to understand that the effect of Paramshanti does not depend solely on the utterance of the word; it rests, at a far deeper level, on the state of the soul and its inner power. Every soul is not the same; each soul, according to its journey, its sanskars, its karmas, and its level of awakening, holds a certain “kala” or power. This very kala determines how much power a soul can hold and how far it can extend.

When a soul is established in the sankalp of Paramshanti or utters the word, it is not merely producing a sound; it is activating its own inner consciousness. The deeper this activation, the more powerful the waves it generates. If the soul is still caught in body-consciousness, unsteady, or carrying many impure sanskars within, the energy of its Paramshanti sankalp will be weak and will influence only a limited area. Such vibrations may briefly calm the immediate surroundings, but their effect will not be extensive.

In contrast, when the soul is established in atmaswaroop, when its consciousness is stable, pure, and connected with Paramatma, the same word “Paramshanti” is transformed into a tremendously powerful energy. The vibrations produced by such a soul are not confined to its body or its home; they spread far, crossing many levels of the atmosphere. As the kala of the soul grows, the reach of its sankalp energy also grows — first the home, then society, then the country, and onward up to cosmic levels.

Therefore, it would be more accurate to say that the effect of Paramshanti does not lie in the word itself, but in the original state of the soul that holds that word. The word is only a medium; the true power resides in the consciousness and kala of the soul. This is why the same word, spoken by different individuals, produces different effects. Where a soul in an ordinary state brings limited peace, a soul in a high state can, with that very same word, set in motion a process of transformation at a vast scale.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

“Atmaswaroop mein rahkar Paramshanti ke vibrations phaila-“Remain established in atmaswaroop, and from there spread vibrations of Paramshanti.”

The essence of this knowledge is that the practice of Paramshanti must not remain limited to utterance; the soul must be raised to such a level that its kala becomes so developed that every sankalp and energy it produces is, in itself, a transformative force.

CHAPTER TWELVE

From Self-Transformation to World Transformation

Self-transformation is the original and foundational law of world transformation. This is not merely an inspiring idea but a deep spiritual principle governing the functioning of creation. According to Bapuji, the world changes not from the outside but from within. When the soul emerges from body-consciousness and is established in atmaswaroop, the sankalps arising from within it change. This very power, sankalp shakti or vibration, first influences the soul's own mind, intellect, and impressions; then the atmosphere of the home; and gradually spreads to society, the nation, and the entire world.

Human beings often believe that the problems of the world are external; but in reality, their root cause is the “negative vibrations accumulated in the atmosphere.” The thoughts, feelings, and sankalps of every individual combine to form a collective energy-field. When this field becomes negative, the same energy manifests as war, unrest, disease, and natural imbalance. Events, therefore, are only results; behind them, the subtle energies of sankalp are at work.

This is why, in the present time, the practice of Paramshanti becomes essential for every soul. When the soul, established in atmaswaroop, remains steady in the sankalp of Paramshanti, it does not merely calm itself; it flows a pure and stable energy into the atmosphere. This energy gradually weakens the negative recordings in the atmosphere, just as clean water, when added to turbid water, slowly purifies the whole.

According to Bapuji, when Paramshanti sankalps spread continuously and collectively, they begin to purify the atmosphere. The atmosphere is not only physical; it is also a carrier of consciousness. As it becomes pure, the five elements — water, air, fire, earth, and ether — come into balance, and this “elemental transformation” eventually becomes the basis of world transformation.

At the end time, when negative vibrations rise to an extreme, their result appears as war, natural calamities, and widespread instability. This does not arise from external causes alone, but from the imbalance of subtle energy. When the atmosphere becomes too heavy, destructive events occur for the sake of rebalance.

But the solution is equally clear — Paramshanti. It is a force that can neutralise negative energy. When a great number of souls together become steady in the sankalp of Paramshanti, this collective energy brings positive transformation to the atmosphere and begins to weaken the destructive waves.

“Swaparivartan se hi vishwaparivartan hota hai.”

“World transformation happens only through self-transformation.”

BAPUJI INSIGHT

“Samay ko badalne ke liye atma ko badalna padta hai.”

“To change the time, the soul itself must be changed.”

It is therefore said that if human beings collectively spread the energy of Paramshanti, even large-scale conflicts — even situations like world war — can be prevented. This is not a spiritual fantasy but a real possibility, based on the science of sankalp shakti.

Ultimately, the path of world transformation begins from within. When a soul, established in Paramshanti, radiates its energy, it itself becomes a medium of transformation. And when many souls together do this, the same collective consciousness lays the foundation of a new, peaceful, and balanced world.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

War, Natural Calamities, and the Decisive Role of Paramshanti

According to Bapuji's knowledge, the time ahead is not ordinary; it is a period of transition in which the world is to pass through a great transformation. The unrest, conflict, wars, and natural calamities that are visible today are not only outer events; behind them a deep subtle cause is at work — the negative vibrations accumulated in the atmosphere. The thoughts, feelings, desires, and sankalps of human beings together create a collective energy-field; and when this field fills with negativity over a long period, it eventually reaches a stage where it becomes explosive. This “explosion” sometimes takes the form of war, sometimes of natural disasters, and sometimes of social instability.

Seen in this way, war is not the fault of any one country or individual; it is the result of the collective consciousness of the whole human society. When the atmosphere becomes dense with negative thoughts — such as anger, fear, hatred, selfishness, and violence — all of these combine to produce a subtle energy that finally gives birth to destructive events in the gross world. Bapuji therefore makes clear that to understand war and calamity, we must look not only at outer causes but at the nature of the subtle vibrations behind them.

Along with this, the solution is also stated with equal clarity — the energy of the Paramshanti sankalp. Paramshanti is not merely an emotional peace; it is an extremely high level of energy, directly connected with the consciousness of Paramdham. When the soul, established in atmaswaroop, forms the sankalp of Paramshanti, the energy that arises from within is not ordinary; it is extremely subtle, powerful, and pure. As it spreads into the atmosphere, it gradually dissolves the negative energy that is the root cause of war and destruction.

“Paramshanti ke vibrations se vayumandal badalta hai.”

“Through the vibrations of Paramshanti, the atmosphere is transformed.”

This process is not immediately visible, because it works on the subtle level; but its influence is very deep. As the vibrations of Paramshanti grow in the atmosphere, the intensity of the negative waves begins to lessen. The atmosphere becomes lighter and more balanced, and a change begins to appear in the thinking of human beings as well. Those who were filled with anger, fear, or hatred begin to move gradually toward peaceful and positive thoughts. Thus, the energies of the Paramshanti sankalp transform not only the outer atmosphere but also the inner consciousness of human beings.

According to Bapuji, if this process is carried out collectively across the entire world — that is, if a great number of souls together, established in atmaswaroop, spread the energy of the Paramshanti sankalp — its effect multiplies. It is then no longer limited to personal or local change, but begins to act at the global level. This is the point at which it is said that world-level conflicts, and even possible world-war situations, can be prevented. This is not a fanciful idea; it is a real solution based on the science of subtle energy and vibration, in which the collective power of positive energy can balance the flow of negative energy.

Another important point at the end time is that reliance on external means alone will not be sufficient. Physical security, technology, or resources can protect only up to a limit; when the atmosphere itself becomes unbalanced, true safety is possible only through the power of the soul. This is why Paramshanti and Param Prakash are called true protection. When the soul is established in Paramshanti and Param Prakash becomes active within, it enters a subtle protective field where no outer negative influence can harm it.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

“Ant ke samay mein shanti chahiye to Paramshanti bolni ho

“If peace is desired at the end time, then Paramshanti must

Thus, the message of Paramshanti is not confined to spiritual practice or devotion alone; it is, in a sense, a “science of future protection.” It tells us that, in the time ahead, human beings must attend not only to outer means but also to their inner state. When souls, awakened and aware, practise Paramshanti, they not only keep themselves safe but also contribute to the balance of the entire world.

Ultimately it becomes clear that the future is built from the sankalps of the present. If negative sankalps increase in the present, destruction will increase in the future; and if Paramshanti sankalps spread in the present, peace, balance, and the establishment of a new divine world will become possible in the future. Therefore, the greatest need of this time is not merely to try to prevent events, but to change the subtle causes that give rise to them — and that change is possible only through Paramshanti.

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

The Sadhana of the Paramshanti Maha Mantra

According to Bapuji's knowledge, this sadhana can be practised on three levels — vocal, mental, and atmaswaroop. In the beginning, when the soul clearly utters Paramshanti, it gives the mind a direction and helps slow the movement of thoughts. Next comes the mental level, where the soul continuously remembers Paramshanti without speaking, so that the mind becomes steady and turns inward.

But the real effect of this sadhana appears when the soul, established in atmaswaroop, remains steady in the sankalp of Paramshanti. In this state, japa is no longer mere words; it becomes a powerful vibration working deeply within the soul. In the early practice, when japa is done fifty to a hundred times, the mind begins to quieten and thoughts become stable. As the practice grows into continuous and deep remembrance — for instance, a lakh times of japa or heartfelt manan — its influence extends to the atmosphere of the home, and a stable peace begins to be established there.

Beyond this, the sadhana becomes even more subtle and vast when the soul makes the sankalp of “Behad ki Paramshanti” and “Behad ke Behad ki Param Mahashanti.” The vibrations arising in this state are not confined to any limited region; they begin to spread far and wide. The deeper and steadier the soul's sankalp, the more intensely and extensively these energies influence the atmosphere.

The true purpose of this sadhana is not merely to increase the count of the mantra, but to establish the soul in its original identity. When the soul, established in atmaswaroop, forms its relationship with Paramatma, it receives the supreme divine power; and that power spreads into the atmosphere in the form of Paramshanti. This is the true sadhana of the Paramshanti Maha Mantra — where japa is no longer only an action, but becomes a medium for the transformation of consciousness and the spreading of power.

Paramshanti Vibrations and the Multiverse Effect

The vibrations of Paramshanti are not confined to the Earth; their expansion is far wider and deeper than this. According to Bapuji's knowledge, when the soul, established in atmaswaroop, forms the sankalp of Paramshanti, it influences not only its immediate atmosphere; the subtle waves arising from within it pass through many levels and spread far outward. This expansion can move progressively from the Earth to the Brahmand (solar system), the Maha Brahmand (galaxy), the Param Maha Brahmand (universe), and even higher levels.

Here, "Brahmand" is not merely physical space; it is a complete system of creation that includes various realms, planets, energy-fields, and levels of consciousness. Beyond this comes the concept of "Maha Brahmand," a vast grouping of many Brahmands — a level at which the structure of creation becomes still larger and more complex. Beyond this is the state of the "Param Maha Brahmand" or multiverse, where innumerable creations, innumerable Brahmands, and infinite levels of consciousness exist together. Bapuji's knowledge makes clear that creation is not limited to one Brahmand; it is a living, conscious system of infinite expansion.

When the sankalp of Paramshanti arises in the soul, its expansion depends on the soul's inner power, stability, and “kala.” If the soul's state is limited, the effect of its energy will fall only on the surrounding area — its body, home, or immediate atmosphere. But when the soul is in a high state, connected with Paramatma, and its consciousness is expanded, the same energy becomes tremendously powerful and begins to spread far. In such a state, the sankalp energy of the soul is not confined to the Earth's atmosphere; passing through subtle levels, it can reach the cosmic and higher dimensions.

It is therefore said that the effect of Paramshanti rests not in the word but in the state of the soul and its capacity. The more developed the soul's kala, the more extensive the influence of its sankalp energy. A soul in an ordinary state may bring limited change, while a soul in a high state has an influence that is profoundly wide and far-reaching. This expansion is not only of distance but of levels of consciousness — the more subtle and powerful the consciousness, the deeper the levels it can reach.

To understand this subject in greater depth, there is an extremely important book — Life in Multiverse — available in many languages, including Hindi and English. In this book, the structure of creation, the arrangement of the different realms, and the journey of the soul are explained in detail.

Finally, it is important to understand that the practice of Paramshanti is not only for personal peace; it is a means by which the soul can expand its energy so greatly that it can bring positive transformation at many levels of creation. When many souls arrive in this state and spread the energy of Paramshanti together, its effect becomes far more powerful; and this very collective consciousness becomes the basis for the formation of a new, balanced, and divine world.

Conclusion

This book shows that Paramshanti is not a mere concept but the real power of the soul. When the soul is established in its own true form, its words, thoughts, and sankalps become vibrations and begin to spread. These vibrations calm the mind, lighten the body, sanctify the home, transform the atmosphere, and open the way to the new world of the future.

In the end, if peace is truly desired, then Paramshanti must be spoken; and if world transformation is desired, then self-transformation must come first.

Glossary

Throughout this book, Hindi and Sanskrit spiritual terms have been retained in their original form and italicised. The following glossary provides simple, beginner-friendly meanings for each term, so that readers new to Bapuji's teachings may follow the book with ease.

Atma

The soul; a point of conscious energy, distinct from the body. The true self.

Paramatma

The Supreme Divine Being; the source and power of all pure consciousness.

Paramshanti

Supreme peace; the original, pure, and still state of the soul.

Param Prakash

The supreme divine light; the highest power of the soul that awakens its original memory.

Behad ki Paramshanti

The peace that expands beyond all boundaries, limits, and conditions.

Behad ke Behad ki Param Param Param Mahashanti

The supreme peace that spreads into the infinite directions, through infinite realms of creation.

Paramdham

The supreme abode; the pure, incorporeal, and thought-free dwelling of the soul at its highest state.

Behad

Boundless, limitless, infinite; refers to creation beyond ordinary limits.

Had

Limited; refers to creation or states bound within boundaries.

Atmaswaroop

The state of experiencing oneself as a soul, not as a body — a pure, conscious, point-form being.

Sankalp

A powerful thought, firm determination, or affirmation arising in the soul's mind.

Sankalp Shakti

The inner power that makes a thought effective; the potency behind a sankalp.

Kampan / Vibration

The subtle waves that arise from thoughts, feelings, and consciousness and influence the atmosphere.

Spandan

A finer synonym for vibration; subtle pulsation of consciousness or energy.

Aura

The subtle field of energy that surrounds the soul and the body.

Raksha Kavach

The subtle protective shield of energy that forms around the soul through Paramshanti sankalp.

Kala

The unit of spiritual power or capacity held by a soul or creator.

Sukshm Sharir

The subtle body, composed of ether, air, and fire elements; it carries vibrations and records.

Karan Sharir

The causal body, made of the ether element; the storehouse of sanskars and karmic records of many births.

Maha Karan Sharir

A still subtler conscious structure beyond the causal body.

Sthool Sharir

The gross physical body.

Sanskar

The deep impression or character-record of the soul, stored in the causal body.

Karma

Action; the consequences of past and present actions that bind the soul.

Karmabandhan

The inner binding or grip that arises from karmas.

Vikarm Vinash

The dissolution of wrong actions, impure impressions, and karmic bonds.

Panchtattva

The five elements: earth, water, fire, air, and ether.

Vayu Tattva

The air element; the primary medium for the spread of vibrations.

Agni Tattva

The fire element; the element of energy, transformation, and change.

Akash Tattva

The ether element; the subtle element of expansion and receptivity.

Jal Tattva

The water element.

Prithvi Tattva

The earth element.

Paramtattva

The supreme, refined form of an element; finer and more powerful than tattva.

Yog

The inner connection with Paramatma, established through knowledge and stillness.

Dharana

The stabilised stage where the soul's sanskars are transformed and divinity steadily emerges.

Sadhana

Spiritual practice; sustained inner effort toward realisation.

Mantra Japa

The repetition of a mantra — vocally, mentally, or in atmaswaroop.

Manan

Deep, heartfelt contemplation and remembrance.

Bhulok

The realm of the Earth.

Swarglok

The subtle realm above the Earth.

Brahmapuri

The higher realm connected with Brahma.

Vishnupuri

The higher realm connected with Vishnu.

Shivpuri

The higher realm connected with Shiva.

Brahmand

A solar system; one complete creation-system with its own realms and layers.

Maha Brahmand

A galaxy; a vast grouping of Brahmands.

Param Maha Brahmand

A universe; the grouping that contains many galaxies.

Multiverse

Innumerable universes existing together across infinite levels of creation.

Sukshm Jagat

The subtle world; the world of subtle beings and subtle vibrations beyond the physical.

Sthool Jagat

The gross physical world of five elements.

Teesri Aankh

The third eye; the divine inner vision that awakens in atmaswaroop.

Sat-Chit-Anand

The soul's nature of truth, consciousness, and bliss.

Gyan Daan Maha Daan

The highest form of charity — the sharing of divine knowledge.
