About Bapuji

Bapuji (full name: Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel, also lovingly called “Dadaji” by the younger generation) was born in 1956 in the small village of Akhaj in the Mehsana district of Gujarat. However, he spent his childhood in another village named Ambasan, also located in the Mehsana district.

In the early part of his life, he was a highly successful lawyer. Later, he devoted his life to realizing the supreme spiritual truth and bringing this divine knowledge forward for the welfare of humanity. Today, this supreme knowledge serves as a guiding light for true seekers to realize their ultimate destiny. It is a blessing of the highest divinity that the present time is witnessing the rise of this supreme spiritual knowledge, guiding souls on Earth to return to their original source.

Despite being raised in a very poor family and facing challenging circumstances, Bapuji had a deep desire to transform this sorrowful and suffering world into a better place. At the young age of six, he questioned God repeatedly, asking why God remained silent about the suffering of humanity. This intense longing to end human suffering eventually led him to attain the highest level of spirituality later in life.

Even as a child, Bapuji would spend hours alone in the fields, often neglecting his own comfort. Due to poverty, he would walk barefoot without shoes or sandals, frequently getting pricked by thorns. Many times, he would stay late in the fields and, on his way back home, encounter subtle world entities. These experiences sparked his interest in communicating with subtle world souls.

Bapuji was courageous from a young age, which helped him overcome many obstacles. Alongside his studies in chartered accountancy (CA), he gave tuition classes to support himself financially. Later, he completed his Bachelor of Law (LLB) degree and became a well-known lawyer in Ahmedabad.

In 1997, he established a spiritual institution called “Vishwa Parivartak Ishwariya Vidhyalay” in Chenpur, Ahmedabad, with the mission of transforming this mortal world, filled with suffering and disorder, into an eternal divine world of immortality. Smt. Sushma Tandon, lovingly known as “Maa,” worked alongside Bapuji in this grand divine mission.

To accomplish this mission, Bapuji worked tirelessly, dedicating all his resources to this divine purpose. During that time, he would deliver continuous spiritual discourses for up to 18 hours without rest. In these discourses, he explained the highest dimensions of divine knowledge, which he realized through deep meditation and divine vision in a state of superconsciousness. This knowledge goes beyond the imagination of the ordinary human mind.

Bapuji's teachings cover a vast range of topics, including the types of celestial creators across different dimensions, the creation of our solar system, galaxy, and universe, and most importantly, the transcendental knowledge of the multiverse and realities beyond it. His knowledge is supremely profound and is intended for highly evolved seekers, referred to as “behad souls.” According to Bapuji, these “behad souls” will play a key role in transforming this mortal world into an eternal divine realm.

At present, Bapuji remains deeply engaged in intense meditation and samadhi for long hours. He does not meet anyone, as he is continuously immersed in his transcendental mission in a superconscious state.

Preface

This book is a humble offering of the divine knowledge shared by Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel on one of the most profound spiritual questions ever asked — The Question Of Time.

From the moment a soul descends, it becomes bound by the clock. Day and night, months and years, youth and old age — all of these arise because the world we live in is a world of birth and dissolution. But Bapuji reveals a secret that has not been written in any scripture: there exist worlds beyond this one — vast multiverses where time does not exist, where the soul is never bound, and where no dissolution ever takes place. These are the Timeless Worlds.

The purpose of this book is simple. It is to place before the sincere seeker, in clear and gentle English, the exact knowledge Bapuji has given in his discourses. Nothing has been added. Nothing has been reshaped. Only the rhythm of speech has been softened into the rhythm of a book, so that each teaching can be read calmly, absorbed deeply, and carried in the heart.

May this knowledge awaken in the reader a longing to return to that which is eternal. May the soul, once it understands, no longer feel content in the mortal world, but begin its silent inward journey toward the Almighty Authority — the supreme source of all creation — whose abode lies in the Behad ki Kala ka Paramdham, far beyond the reach of time.

Chapter I

The Question of Time

From the moment a human being becomes aware of himself, he becomes aware of time. The sun rises and the sun sets. A day passes. A season changes. A body grows, ages, and one day is no more. Nothing on this Earth seems able to escape this silent, flowing river that carries everything forward.

Modern science tells us that time is not under anyone's control. Time, the scientists say, simply flows on its own. It cannot be bound. It cannot be held. It is an unstoppable force that moves forward whether we wish it or not.

And yet, from the ancient scriptures — from the Vedas, from the Shastras of Sanatan Dharm — a very different voice has come down to us. This voice whispers something astonishing. It whispers that time itself is an illusion. Jagat mithya, the scriptures say — this world is a myth, a deception, a great show of appearances.

Every religion that has come upon the Earth has tried, in its own way, to bind time. Each religion has predicted the end of time in its own manner. Some say time will end in a particular century. Some say time will end after a certain age. Some speak of a final day of transformation. Each religion has drawn its own lines around this strange river and said, “Beyond this, time will no longer flow.”

But this raises a profound question, one that every sincere seeker must eventually face:

If time is real, then why is it called an illusion?

And if time is truly an illusion, then what is the reality behind it? Where does time come from? Where does it end? Is there any place in the entire infinite creation where time simply does not exist?

Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel, through his divya drishti — his divine inner vision — has answered these questions with a clarity that has not been given anywhere else. In the discourses that form the basis of this book, Bapuji lifts the veil on the true nature of time, and reveals an immense secret: there exist worlds beyond this one, vast multiverses, where time has never been born, where dissolution has never occurred, and where the soul dwells in a state of supreme peace.

This book is a humble attempt to place that knowledge before the seeker in the calmest, simplest form possible. In the chapters that follow, we shall walk — slowly, step by step — through Bapuji's revelations. We shall see why time is called an illusion. We shall see where time exists and where it does not. We shall see how the soul itself can rise above time, become timeless, and at last return to the Behad ki Kala ka Paramdham — the Supreme Abode of the Almighty Authority.

Let us begin.

Chapter II

Why Time is an Illusion

Time is Measured by a Man-Made Clock

The first thing to understand is very simple. The time that we follow on Earth — the hours, the minutes, the seconds — is measured by a clock. And the clock has been made by man.

If we look carefully, we notice that the time on this Earth is not even uniform. It is different in America. It is different in Britain. It is different in India. The lines drawn across the Earth — the lines of longitude — decide the local time of each country. Based on these human-made divisions, each country runs on its own time.

If time were truly one and absolute, it would be the same everywhere. But there is so much difference across the Earth itself that each region runs on its own measurement. This alone is a first clue that the time we experience here is not an ultimate reality but a human-made arrangement.

♦ Insight: “Ghadi toh manushya ne banayi hai.”

“The clock has been made by man.”

The World of Five Elements is Maya

Our Earth is made of five elements — earth, water, fire, air and ether. This is a gross physical world, what the scriptures call sthool — the coarse, visible world of dense matter. And it is precisely about this world that the ancient scriptures declared:

Jagat mithya.

The world is an illusion. This world of five elements is called maya, because everything in it is perishable. Nothing here is eternal. Bodies are born and bodies die. Mountains rise and mountains fall. Rivers are formed and rivers dry up. Even the Earth itself changes in size — in the early ages it was larger, and slowly it has become smaller over time.

This world is a mortal world — a mrityu lok. It is not an amar lok, an immortal realm. Wherever there is birth, there must eventually be death. Wherever there is creation, there must eventually be dissolution.

Time is Born Out of Change

Now let us understand carefully where time actually comes from. Time arises wherever there is day and night, wherever there is change, wherever something comes into being and then passes away.

On Earth, we have bound time in many ways. We have bound time into day and night. We have bound time into months. We have bound time into years. Because the Earth itself keeps rotating, time keeps flowing with it. The Earth moves, the Sun appears and disappears, and from this motion we construct the calendar of our lives.

But the Earth itself is a changing thing. In the four yugas — Sat Yug, Treta Yug, Dwapar Yug, and Kali Yug — the very duration of a day shifts by small amounts. The atmosphere changes. The quality of the five elements changes. The elements move from satopradhan — their pure state — gradually down through sato-rajo, rajo-tamo, and finally to tamopradhan, the darkest state.

Even the lifespan of the human being changes from yuga to yuga. Even the human body itself — its height, its form, its vitality — alters with each age.

♦ Insight: “Jo cheez ek tarah avastha nahi hai, parivartansheel hai, woh sab maya hai.”

“Whatever does not remain in one state, whatever is changeable — all of that is maya.”

Wherever There is Dissolution, There is Time

This brings us to the heart of the matter. Bapuji gives a very clear principle:

Wherever there is creation and dissolution, there is time. Wherever there is no dissolution, there is no time.

This single principle unlocks the entire mystery. Time is not some independent substance floating through the universe. Time is born out of change. Time is born out of destruction. Wherever things are being created and then destroyed, time will inevitably be present. And wherever things remain in a single eternal state — where nothing is created and nothing is destroyed — there time cannot exist.

This is why the scriptures call this world maya, illusion, jhooth. Because whatever is perishable is, by its very nature, unreal. It is a passing show. It is a dream that one day will dissolve. And that which is dissolvable — however grand, however magnificent — can never be called the eternal truth.

Chapter III

The Five Elements and the Mortal World

The Earth is Bound by Its Five Elements

Our Earth belongs to the world of five tattvas — the five elements. Earth, water, fire, air, and ether together form the fabric of everything we can see and touch. Anything that is made of these five elements is, by nature, perishable.

That's why Earth is called mrityu lok, the mortal world. This is a world where birth and death follow one another without pause. Wherever the five gross elements are present, there will be decay. Wherever there is decay, there will be time. And wherever there is time, there will be bondage.

Souls are Pressed Down Under the Weight of the Elements

In the original state, souls were light, pure, and made with supreme light or supreme element. In Sat Yuga, at the very beginning, the five elements themselves were in their purest form — sato pradhan. The physical bodies of beings were light. The atmosphere was light. Everything was closer to its original divine essence.

But as the yugas rolled forward — from Sat Yuga, into Treta, into Dwapara, and now into Kali Yuga — the five elements themselves became heavier due to negative and innumerable sankalps. The atmosphere thickened. The body of the human being, which is called the pind, became heavy. And what is in the pind, is also in the brahmand. As the great cosmos around us grew heavier, so too did the small cosmos within each body.

As a result, the soul became pressed down inside the body. The soul, which in its original nature is pure divine light, began to be buried beneath the weight of the five elements. The intelligence became clouded. The mind became jad — inert, dull, mechanical — and the soul started to wander in the endless cycle of birth and death.

◆ Insight: “Buddhi jad ban-ne ke karan aatma janam-maran ke chakkar me aati hai.”

“Because the intelligence has become inert, the soul comes into the cycles of birth and death.”

The Soul is Not the Body

The first truth that the seeker must realise is this — you are not the body. You are a soul. The soul is the one that drives the body. The soul is the one that knows, that feels, that desires, that remembers. The soul is the very source of everything.

When a human being identifies himself with the body, he becomes confused. A body belongs to the world of five elements. The body will age, decay, and one day be left behind. If you identify with the body, you identify with time, with decay, with dissolution. But the soul itself — in its original, pure state — is eternal divine light. It is not made of the five gross elements. It is of a far higher nature.

This is why Bapuji insists again and again — become atma-swaroop. Establish yourself in your true form of soul-consciousness. The moment the soul remembers what it is, a great shift begins to occur. The weight of the elements begins to lift. The mind begins to clear. And slowly, the soul begins to rise above time itself.

Chapter IV

Layers of Creation and Their Times

Time is Not Only on Earth

One of the most important teachings Bapuji gives us is that time is not a feature of Earth alone. Time flows in many worlds. As we travel higher dimensions of creation we find that each layer of creation has its own time.

Within our own Brahmand — our solar system — there are many lokas, many dimensions of creation stacked one above the other. Above Bhu-loka, which is our Earth, lies Bhuvar-loka, the subtle world. Above that are Swarg-loka, Mahar-loka, Jana-loka, and Tap-loka. Still higher comes Brahmapuri, the abode of Brahma. Above Brahmapuri is Vishnupuri. Above Vishnupuri is Shivpuri. And at the very top of our Brahmand lies the Paramdham — the supreme abode where the incorporeal Shiv, creator of our solar system, resides. All these dimensions in our one solar system have different timelines. Then comes Galaxy, Universe, Great Universe, Great Great Universe, and so on. Everywhere timelines are changing.

Wherever Sunlight Reaches, There is Day and Night

Bapuji gives a very beautiful and simple principle for understanding where time exists. Wherever the light of the sun reaches, there will be day and night. Wherever there is day and night, there will be time.

The sunlight reaches on Earth. That is why we have day and night here. The sunlight also reaches Bhuvar-loka, which lies about one lakh yojans (1 yojan = 12–16 km) above this Earth. That is why there too, day and night are experienced. The same is true of the higher lokas. Even in Swarg-loka, day and night exist — although here one must note a marvellous fact:

One day in Swarg-loka is equal to one full year on Earth.

Even Brahmapuri has its day and night, because even there the light of the sun reaches. And the famous statement that “one day of Brahma equals one thousand Chatur Yugas on Earth” shows that time is slower there, but time still exists.

Where Time Begins to Disappear

Now let us rise further. Above Brahmapuri lies Vishnupuri — also called Vaikunth, also called Akshay Dham, the abode that does not decay. Here, the sun's light no longer reaches in the same way. Here, the world is not made of the five gross elements. Here exists the world of param tattva — supreme elements. And because there is no day and night, time begins to fade away.

Above Vishnupuri lies Shivpuri, the supra-causal world. Still above lies the Paramdham — the abode of supreme divine light, the world of Param Prakash. Here, time is no longer counted. Here, no being is aware of seconds, minutes, hours, or years. The beings who dwell in these higher dimensions do not even know what time is.

♦ Insight: “Jahan param tattva ki duniya hoti hai, wahan vinaash nahi hota hai.”

“Wherever the world of supreme elements exists, there dissolution does not occur.”

Time Slows as the Soul Rises Higher

One of the most fascinating revelations Bapuji gives us is this: as one rises from lower worlds to higher worlds, time itself slows down. On Earth, time moves quickly, because the five gross elements are heavy and dense. But as one ascends, layer by layer, into the finer and finer worlds, time stretches and slows.

One day of Brahma, as we have seen, is equal to one thousand Chatur Yugas of this Earth. One moment — one pal — of Maha Shiv is equal to the entire hundred-year lifespan of a Brahma. In each pal of Maha Shiv, countless Brahmands come into being and dissolve. And at the level of Param Maha Shiv, the creator of a universe, time stretches further still.

So time is not uniform across creation. Each layer runs on its own rhythm. The cycles are like wheels within wheels — smaller cycles inside larger cycles, each turning at its own pace, yet all eventually bound by creation and dissolution.

Chapter V

The Cosmic Ladder of Dissolution

If we want to truly see why time is called an illusion, we must rise above the small view of this Earth and look at the vast ladder of creation and dissolution — the pralaya cycles at every level of the cosmos. At every layer, Bapuji shows us, creation is followed by destruction. And wherever destruction takes place, time is present. This is a universal law.

Earth Pralaya — At the End of Four Yugas

On our Earth, a partial pralaya — what the scriptures call ardha pralaya — takes place at the end of every Chatur Yuga, when the four yugas — Sat, Treta, Dwapar, and Kali — are complete. This cycle repeats seventy-one times. When the full Chatur Yuga cycle has been completed seventy-one times, the entire human population of the Earth is wiped out. This great cycle is called Manvantar.

After these many Manvantars have passed, the greater pralaya occurs. The three lower lokas — Bhu-loka, Bhuv-arka-loka, and Swarg-loka — are all dissolved in the Kalpa-Pralaya. All three worlds come to an end.

Brahmand Pralaya — The Hundred Years of Brahma

When the full lifespan of Brahma — his hundred years — is complete, the entire Brahmand, our solar system, comes to its end. At this final hour, Shiv Himself enters into the sun. From within the sun, He creates the kaal-agni — the fire of time — and the entire Brahmand is burned and dissolved. This is the Maha Kalpa Pralaya of our solar system.

Now observe carefully what Bapuji is telling us. Even the Brahmand — the solar system ruled by Shiv — has a lifespan. Even the Paramdham of our Brahmand, the supreme abode within our solar system, is eventually dissolved when Brahma's hundred years are complete. Whatever has a lifespan, whatever undergoes creation and dissolution, is, by Bapuji's definition, a bhram — an illusion.

★ Insight: “Jiski aayu hai, jiska srujan aur visarjan hota rehta hai, woh sab bhram hai.”

“Whatever has a lifespan, whatever goes through creation and dissolution, all of that is illusion.”

Maha Brahmand — The Galaxy

Rising higher, we come to the Maha Brahmand — what modern science calls a galaxy, the Akash Ganga or Milky Way. Our solar system is only one tiny Brahmand within this vast galaxy. The creator of this galaxy is Maha Shiv.

Maha Shiv holds countless Brahmands within His own form. Each pore of His being, every rom rom, holds uncountable solar systems. In every single moment — in every pal of Maha Shiv — infinite Brahmands are being created and destroyed. The scriptures themselves record this truth: prati pal, moment by moment, ananta Brahmands rise and fall.

When Maha Shiv Himself comes to the end of His power, He too becomes Maha Kaal, and swallows countless Brahmands into Himself. And so, the galaxy too goes through creation and dissolution. It too is not beyond time. It too is not kaalateet — it is not beyond time.

Param Maha Brahmand — The Universe

Higher still lies the Param Maha Brahmand — the Universe, whose creator is Param Maha Shiv. This too is a realm of creation and dissolution. Universes also are created and destroyed in their own cosmic time. The Param Maha Brahmand is not eternal.

Multiverse and Beyond

Beyond the universe lie the Great Universe, and the Great Great Universe, and finally the Multiverse. Even the multiverse that we belong to — the realm of the hundred-kala creation — undergoes creation and dissolution, though on a vast and almost unimaginable timescale.

Above our multiverse lies the multiverse of two hundred kalas, above that the multiverse of three hundred kalas, and so on. Each of these higher multiverses is of finer and finer supreme elements. And at the very summit of all creation lies the Behad ki Kala ka Paramdham — the Supreme Abode of the Almighty Authority — the eternal source beyond which there is nothing.

The Cycles in Brief

- 4 Yugas (Sat Yug, Treta, Dwapar, and Kali Yug ends) = Ardh Pralaya

- 1 Manvantar = 71 Ardh Pralayas = Pralay
- 14 Manvantars = 1 Day of Brahma = 4.32 billion Earth years = Kalp Pralay (the three lokas — Swarg-loka, Bhu-loka, and Bhuvār-loka — are all dissolved)
- 1 Night of Brahma = equal duration
- 1 full day-night cycle of Brahma = 8.64 billion years
- Brahma's lifespan is 100 years — the lifespan of this Brahmand
- 100 years of Brahma = end of life of this Brahmand = Maha Kaal Pralay

This proves that time governs destruction, and therefore is itself destructible.

Every Layer is Bound by Its Own Time

The final truth is clear. At every level of creation — solar system, galaxy, universe, great universe, and even most multiverses — creation and dissolution occur. And wherever creation and dissolution occur, time is present. Time may flow fast or slow. Time may be reckoned in hours or in epochs so vast that we cannot name them. But wherever there is srujan and visarjan, there time exists. Wherever srujan and visarjan do not exist, there time does not exist.

Now the question naturally arises: is there truly any place in all of creation where creation and dissolution do not occur? Is there truly any realm where time simply is not? Bapuji's answer is a resounding yes. And to that answer we shall soon come, in a later chapter where Bapuji describes what he himself saw with his divya drishti — the Timeless World.

Chapter VI

How Different Religions Bound Time

One of the deep questions a seeker may ask is this: why have so many religions, over the ages, tried to bind time? Each religion has given its own prediction. Each has said that time will end in a certain year, in a certain century, after a certain age. Each has spoken of a great transformation, a final day, a new world to come.

Bapuji gently explains that all these predictions come from the same source, though the traditions that received them were different. The great souls who brought spiritual wisdom to this Earth across the ages did not all share the same origin. Many of them, by their inner nature, carried within them the awareness of higher realms — of vast worlds far above this one. Each carried the knowledge that belonged to the world from which his soul had descended.

Great Souls Carrying the Knowledge of Higher Worlds

Such souls are not common souls of this Earth. They are elevated souls whose inner nature is connected to higher dimensions of creation. Some carry within them the awareness of higher galaxies; some carry the awareness of higher universes; some carry the awareness of still greater realms beyond. Each such soul, when it descends to this Earth, brings with it the inner knowledge of the world from which it has come, and the timeframes natural to that world.

Each such soul, in its own way, has shared the same essential intuition: a time will come when dissolution will occur. A time will come when transformation will happen. A time will come when the divine will descend and lift souls upward into a higher world.

Across different spiritual traditions, this same essential intuition has appeared in many forms. In some traditions it is spoken of as a final day when a divine light will descend to the Earth and souls will be carried upward. In some it is spoken of as the coming of a higher realm of peace and bliss. In our own Sanatan tradition, we speak of the coming of Swarg — the golden age. With deepest respect for every tradition, all these descriptions, in their own beautiful way, point toward the same essential reality: that a great world transformation is to occur.

Why Each Religion Bound Time Differently

Different elevated souls, carrying the awareness of different higher worlds, naturally spoke in terms of different timeframes — because each was familiar with the cycles of the world from which his soul had descended. What is a long cycle to one may be a short cycle to another. This is why different traditions have measured time in such different ways.

In our Sanatan Shastras, for example, time is placed within the framework of the four yugas — Sat Yug, Treta Yug, Dwapar Yug, and Kali Yug. Kali Yug alone is said to last four lakhs and thirty-two thousand years. Dwapar is double this. Treta is three times. Sat Yug is four times. The full Chatur Yuga together comes to forty-three lakhs and twenty thousand years.

So here too, time has been counted. Here too, time has been bound in a framework of cycles. And the very fact that it has been counted and bound proves that it is finite. Whatever can be counted, whatever has a beginning and an end, whatever is wrapped up in cycles — that is part of the world of illusion.

♦ Insight: “Jinki ginti hoti hai, woh sab illusion hai.”

“Whatever can be counted — all of that is illusion.”

The Scriptures Spoke of the Earth, Not of the Worlds Beyond

Sanatan scriptures have done great service to humanity. They have called the world of five elements maya. They have called this Earth jagat mithya. They have spoken of Brahmapuri, Vishnupuri, Shivpuri, and the Paramdham. They have even hinted at ananta koti Brahmands — infinite solar systems. They have said that prati pal — moment by moment — uncountable Brahmands come into being and dissolve.

But the deeper worlds — the causal worlds, the supreme subtle worlds, the multiverses, the worlds of higher kalas, and the Behad ki Kala ka Paramdham — these were not written down in the ancient scriptures. These have come forward now, for the first time, through Bapuji.

The scriptures revealed that the gross world of five elements is maya. But even the higher realms above — Brahmapuri, Vishnupuri, the Paramdham of our Brahmand — are also bhram — illusion, because they too are bound by the lifespan of Brahma's hundred years. When Brahma's lifespan is complete, even these higher worlds are dissolved.

The True Direction for the Seeker

This is why Bapuji again and again turns our attention in a different direction. Every tradition, in its own way, has shared a portion of the truth. Many elevated souls have spoken of great transformations. But the ultimate truth is to go beyond time itself. The goal of the soul is not to be reborn in a better age within the same cycle. The goal of the soul is to step out of the cycle altogether — to become kaalateet — to move beyond time.

Buddhi ko samjho — tumhe kaalateet jaana hai.

Make the intelligence understand — you have to go beyond time.

To become kaalateet means to reach a world where there is no bondage of time, no counting of time, no time at all. That is the direction in which the soul must travel. That is the ultimate destination.

Chapter VII

The Soul Can Change Its Time

Time is Not a Deity

A common question asked about time is this — who controls time? Is time under the rule of some deity? Is there a god of time, a devata who sits somewhere and governs the flow of hours and years?

Bapuji answers this question with clarity. Time is not a deity. In ancient times, there were deities who ruled the elements — a deity of air, a deity of water, a deity of fire — and human beings performed yajnas and havans to honour them, giving them power. But time itself is not of this nature. Time has no presiding deity in that sense.

Time is, in fact, automatic. It has been built into the structure of creation itself. Brahma carries out the role of creation. Vishnu carries out the role of sustenance. Shankar carries out the role of dissolution. Within this cosmic arrangement, time simply flows as part of the mechanism. It is a feature of the mortal world, not a deity that can be worshipped or placated.

Time on Earth is Decided by Karma

On Earth, the time of each human being — his lifespan — is decided according to his karmas. One person receives fifty years. Another receives sixty. Another receives eighty. Each life is allotted its own measure of time, based on the account of actions the soul carries.

In this sense, every human being on this Earth walks under the same great rule: his time is bound to his karma. And the gift of the human birth is this — that in this body, a soul has the power to change its karma, and therefore to change its time.

When the World Changes, the Age Changes

Bapuji gives a very important teaching about the relationship between the collective thinking of human beings and the age in which they live.

The yugas — Sat, Treta, Dwapar, Kali — do not simply arrive because of some external calendar. They arrive because of the state of human minds. Kali Yug comes because human thinking becomes negative, divisive, and filled with quarrel. When disputes begin in the name of religion, when anger and hatred spread through society, when the mind of humanity turns dark, Kali Yug takes hold.

And in the same way, if the thinking of all humanity were to change tomorrow, the yuga would also change. If the whole atmosphere were filled with the vibration of Param Shanti, the atmosphere itself would transform. The Kali Yug would fall away, and Sat Yug would dawn once again.

♦ Insight: “Manushya bhi soch se hi Kali Yug laata hai, aur parivartan bhi aatmaaon ki soch se aata hai.”

“Human beings themselves bring Kali Yug through their thinking, and transformation also comes through the thinking of souls.”

Stopping Time on Earth is Impossible

Some seekers ask: can time be stopped? Can time be halted on this Earth? Bapuji answers very plainly — on this Earth, stopping time is impossible. As long as the five elements continue, as long as the Sun rises and sets, as long as bodies are born and bodies die, time will continue to flow.

Dharti par samay ko rokna asambhav hai.

To stop time on Earth is impossible.

But while time cannot be stopped, time can be transformed. The world of five gross elements can be transformed into a world of supreme elements — param tattvas, param akash, param vayu, param agni. If the five gross elements themselves are transformed, then this mrityu lok becomes an amar lok. And where an amar lok exists, time no longer has the same grip. Where there is no decay, there is no time.

This is the great hidden possibility of the soul. The soul, if it gains sufficient knowledge and sufficient power, can lift itself out of the clock that governs this mortal plane. This is what is meant by transforming one's time.

The Soul Can Travel Beyond Its Own Time

Through deep spiritual effort — through purusharth — a soul can rise beyond the boundaries of its current world. According to one's karmas and the power gathered within one's own atma, one can travel to higher lokas, higher galaxies, and even higher universes. When a soul rises to a higher world, the time of this Earth no longer binds it. The soul has, in effect, moved beyond its own time.

When the soul is lifted into a higher dimension, the laws of that higher dimension begin to govern it. If the soul reaches the level of a galaxy, then the time of the galaxy applies. If the soul rises further to a universe, then the time of that universe applies. And if the soul rises all the way to a realm where time does not exist, then the soul itself becomes timeless.

Time is Precious — Make It Fruitful

Precisely because time on this Earth is limited, it is supremely valuable. Bapuji says clearly that on this Earth, in this human birth, time is extraordinarily precious. And in this present moment, time is even more precious, because the age is on the edge of transformation. A new world is being prepared. Everything is about to change.

So do not waste this time. Wake up. Stand up. Make your time fruitful. Recognise the signs of transformation in the world around you. Turn inward. Acquire the supreme knowledge. Establish yourself in your true form as the soul. Connect with the Almighty Authority. This is the true use of the time that has been given to you.

♦ Insight: “Jaago, utho, aur samay ko safal banao.”

“Wake up, arise, and make your time fruitful.”

Chapter VIII

The Power of Kala

Kala — The Measure of a Soul's Power

To understand how a soul can rise beyond time, we must first understand the measure of its power. In Bapuji's teachings, the power of a soul is measured in kala. Kala is a spiritual unit of power — similar to how, on Earth, we measure electrical power in watts.

The more kalas a soul carries, the greater the distance it can travel, and the higher the world it can reach. A soul with two kalas has a certain power. A soul with ten kalas has greater power. A soul with sixteen kalas has the power associated with a universe. And far above these levels lie the souls of hundred kalas, two hundred kalas, three hundred kalas, four hundred kalas, and thousand kalas — the behad souls — whose power is immense beyond imagination.

How Far a Soul Can Travel

The reach of a soul depends entirely on its kalas. Bapuji gives a very clear measure:

- A soul with ten kalas can travel up to the level of the galaxy.
- A soul with twenty kalas can travel up to the level of the universe.
- A soul with hundred kalas can travel up to the multiverse.
- A soul with two hundred kalas can travel into the multiverses of two hundred kalas.
- A behad ki kala ki atma — a soul of infinite kala — can travel all the way up to the Behad ki Kala ka Brahmand, the creations of limitless power.

In this way, the reach of a soul is not determined by the body or by any external force. It is determined solely by the power held within the atma itself.

How a Soul Gains Kala

How does a soul acquire kala? How does a soul become powerful enough to rise into the higher dimensions?

The answer is given by Bapuji with great tenderness. The soul receives kala through Behad Gyan — the supreme knowledge of the infinite of the infinite. When a soul takes in this supreme knowledge, when it establishes itself in its true atma-swaroop, when it connects its remembrance to the Almighty Authority and draws power down from Him, then the soul begins to gain kala.

First must come the knowledge — the soul must understand who the Almighty Authority is. Then the soul must accept itself — that it is not the body, that it is a point of divine light, that it is a soul with eternal power. The soul must understand the vastness of the Behad — the infinite world of creation. When this understanding has entered the intelligence, then the flow of kala into the soul can begin.

♦ Insight: “Pehle Behad ka gyan hoga, phir aatma me Behad ki kala aayegi.”

“First the Behad knowledge arises, then the kala of the Behad begins to enter the soul.”

The Soul Can Become the Supreme Soul

The ancient wisdom declares: Atma so Paramatma — the soul can become the Supreme Soul.

“Shivo Hum, Shivo Hum” — I am Shiv, I am Shiv. “Abam Brahmasmi” — I am Brahm.

These are not empty words. They are pointers to the truth that the soul, through acquiring behad gyan and by remembering the Almighty Authority, can rise to the level of its creator. The soul can reach Brahm. The soul can reach Shiv. The soul can ultimately reach the Almighty Authority Himself — the Great-Great-Great Grandfather of the soul, the supreme source of all creation.

Whichever Creator/Paramatma a soul remembers with all its love, with that being the soul eventually merges. Whichever Creator/Paramatma a soul meditates upon with yog, from that being the soul draws power. And at the end, the soul reaches the very presence of the one it has adored. This is the eternal law of the journey home.

Chapter IX

The Timeless World Seen in Divya Drishti

We now come to the most precious chapter of this book. In this chapter, Bapuji shares what he himself saw through his divya drishti — his divine inner vision. Once, while he was deep in this inner state, he made a sankalpa — an affirmation — that the neighbouring multiverse should become visible to him. And in that moment, the veil lifted, and Bapuji was able to observe a multiverse that is our nearest cosmic neighbour.

What he saw there is what we now call the Timeless World. Let us listen to his description slowly, for every detail reveals a truth far deeper than the words can carry.

Nothing of This World Exists There

The first and most striking observation Bapuji makes is this — nothing of this world exists there. Whatever we know on this Earth, whatever we see and touch here, whatever forms we are familiar with — none of it is found in that timeless world.

There are no human beings of the kind we know. There are no devtas (deities) in the way we conceive of them here. There are no danavas or asurs (evil beings), no angels, no messengers. The shapes and forms of this Earth — the rivers, the mountains, the plants, the animals, the colours, the fragrances we are used to — all of these belong to the world of five gross elements. None of them exist in that distant multiverse.

The very elements of that world are different. There, it is the world of param tattva — the world of supreme elements. Everything is made of these supreme elements, and everything carries their subtle, luminous quality.

Since Its Creation, No Dissolution Has Ever Taken Place

This is the heart of what makes this world timeless. From the moment it was created, no dissolution has ever taken place in that multiverse. There has been no visarjan, no pralaya, no destruction. Whatever was created at the beginning has continued to exist in its supreme quality.

Only one subtle change has occurred across the vast stretch of its existence — the quality of the param tattvas has experienced some slight change. When creation first took place, the quality of the supreme elements was at its very highest. Slowly, over immense periods, a small change in that quality has crept in. But the master of that multiverse, who is of hundred kala power, continuously maintains the atmosphere of supreme elements everywhere, through his own power. Wherever a small decline begins, he restores it with his inner strength.

♦ Insight: “Jab se srujan hua, tab se wahan kabhi bhi visarjan nahi hua.”

“From the moment of creation, there has never been any dissolution there.”

No Counting of Time, No Awareness of Time

Because there is no dissolution, there is no time. And because there is no time, no one in that world even knows what time is. Time is not counted. Time is not experienced. Time is not a concept.

The beings there have no idea what hours, days, years, or ages are. They have never lived within the rhythm of birth and death. Time simply is not a feature of their existence.

And remember what Bapuji has told us: where dissolution occurs, there time is known. Where dissolution does not occur, there time is unknown. This timeless multiverse is an eternal example of the second half of that law.

The Smallest Unit is a Universe

In the structure of that world, the smallest unit of creation is a universe. In our own multiverse, the smallest unit of creation is a Brahmand — our solar system. Above it lies Maha Brahmand, the galaxy. Above the galaxy lies Param Maha Brahmand, the universe. In our cosmos, the Brahmand is the small unit, and the universe is a larger layer.

But in that timeless multiverse, the smallest unit is itself a universe. Even the smallest unit of creation is of the scale of a universe of supreme elements. And then there are great universes, and great great universes. A single multiverse there is about ten to twenty times larger than our own multiverse. And beyond a single multiverse, there are even further great, great great, and still greater multiverses — extending into configurations so vast that the mind cannot hold them.

A World With No Separation

Bapuji then draws attention to something deeply touching — something that speaks not of cosmic size, but of the inner quality of that world.

There, you will not find the quarrels that exist here. There, you will not find the conflict between husband and wife that exists on this Earth. There is only one purush — one supreme male energy — and only one prakriti — one supreme feminine energy — that has always been together, from the moment of creation to now.

The purush brings forth his own beloved prakriti out of himself, directly from within. And everywhere in that world, the purush holds the prakriti before him, places her ahead, honours her through his own inner expression. Through the prakriti alone the purush carries out the subtle motions of that world. There is no struggle, no dispute, no separation.

Forms That Change Every Moment

The beings of that world are not formless in the way the beings of our own Paramdham are. That world is an akari world — a world of subtle forms. And yet, the forms there are not fixed as our human forms are fixed.

Bapuji observed that the forms of those beings change every single moment. The roop and rang — the form and colour — transform continuously. Every moment, every subtle instant, a new combination appears. Unlike our own forms here, which remain more or less the same from day to day, the forms there are in a continuous play of supreme beauty.

A World of Music, Fragrance, and Colour

The atmosphere itself is filled with music. The very supreme divine air — the param vayu — of that world carries music within it. One does not need to play any instrument in order to hear a melody. The music is already present within the atmosphere.

And the music is endlessly varied. Every soul hears whichever music it wishes to hear. Two lakh, two lakh beings may be moving through the supreme air at once, and each may be hearing a different music of its choice. Not a single sound has to be produced externally — the variety lives within the air itself.

The same is true of fragrance. Whichever fragrance a soul desires to experience, that fragrance appears and flows. And the colours — Bapuji says that world is a world of colours. Uncountable combinations of colours shimmer everywhere. Beautiful subtle groves, made not of gross matter but of param tattva, rise in shimmering splendour. The groves there are nothing like the groves of this Earth. They are formations of the supreme elements, glowing with the quality of their source.

No Birth, No Death, No 84 Lakh Yonis

In that world, there is no birth and no death. There is no cycle of 84 lakh yonis — the eighty-four lakh species through which souls on this Earth pass. There are no such births. There are no human yonis there. The arrangement of life is completely different. The souls of that world are of an entirely different quality and live under entirely different laws.

Everything of this Earth — birth, death, species, yonis, quarrels, elements, decay — everything is absent there. Only the supreme exists. Only the eternal exists. Only the timeless exists.

♦ Insight: “Jahan param tattva ki duniya hai, wahan samay nahi hota.”

“Where the world of supreme elements exists, there time does not exist.”

A Glimpse of True Amar Lok

Our own scriptures have used the word amar lok — the world of immortality. Vishnupuri, in our Brahmand, has been called amar lok. Vaikuṇṭh has been called akṣhay dham, the abode that does not decay. But Bapuji reveals that these names, as applied within our own Brahmand, are not ultimate. Even Vishnupuri is dissolved when the lifespan of Brahma comes to an end. Even the Paramdham of our Brahmand dissolves. Even the Maha Paramdham of the galaxy eventually dissolves at the level of Maha Shiv.

The true amar lok — the true, final, unchanging immortal world — is this timeless multiverse that Bapuji has described. Here, since creation, there has been no dissolution. Here, the soul is not subject to time. Here, the supreme peace of the original divine state reigns.

This is the world toward which the soul must turn its gaze. This is the world that lies beyond every cycle, beyond every counting, beyond every clock. This is the true direction of the soul's longing.

Chapter X

The Almighty Authority and the Path Home

Bapuji now turns the seeker's attention gently but firmly toward the ultimate destination. Knowing that the timeless world exists is the first step. Longing to reach such a world is the second. But the true key lies in understanding who resides at the very summit of all creation — and how the soul connects with Him.

Behad Gyan is the First Requirement

To travel to any timeless world, the soul needs knowledge. Not ordinary knowledge, but Behad Gyan — the supreme knowledge of the infinite of the infinite. Without this knowledge, the soul cannot rise.

What is Behad Gyan? It is the knowledge of the Almighty Authority. It is the knowledge of the vastness of creation. It is the knowledge of the self as an eternal soul, of the Behad Vishwa — the infinite world — of the Behad ki Kala — the infinite power — and of the Behad ki Kala ka Brahmand, the creations of limitless power where the Almighty Authority resides in His incorporeal form in the Highest Paramdham.

Bapuji gives us the order in which this knowledge must be taken in. First, know yourself. You are not the body. You are the soul. The soul is the one that moves the body. The soul is the origin of everything in one's life. Establish yourself first in this atma-swaroop.

Then, know the Almighty Authority. Know the Behad Vishwa. Understand how vast the creation truly is. Understand that it extends up to the Behad ki Kala ka Brahmand, and that at the very summit lies the Almighty Authority in His incorporeal form, in the Highest Paramdham.

The Almighty Authority is the Great Great Great Grandfather

Who is the Almighty Authority? Bapuji places this in the simplest terms. He is the great great great grandfather of the soul.

We understand that the soul has a father — the Paramatma, which at the level of a Brahmand is Shiv. Above Shiv is Maha Shiv, the creator of a galaxy. Above

Maha Shiv is Param Maha Shiv, the creator of a universe. These are all supreme creators, each producing and watching over their own souls.

But far beyond all these, at the very source of every stream of creation, sits the Almighty Authority. He is not the father of the soul — He is the great great great grandfather. He is the creator of the greatest creations, the creator of the Behad ki Kala ka Brahmand. From Him flow the Maha Shivs, the Param Maha Shivs, and all the higher creators beyond them.

And — Bapuji emphasises — this Almighty Authority is unique. He is only one. There is no second like Him. He is the supreme source of all power in all worlds.

Become Atma-Swaroop and Remember Him

How does the soul connect with such a being? Bapuji gives a simple, luminous instruction.

Atma-swaroop banakar Almighty Authority ko yaad karo.

Become established in the soul-form, and remember the Almighty Authority.

This is the essence of the practice. Sit in the awareness of the self as a soul — a point of pure conscious light. And in that state, turn the attention toward the Almighty Authority, who resides in the Highest Paramdham. This is true yog — true connection.

When such remembrance is established, power begins to flow. The atma begins to draw in Param Prakash — supreme divine light. The soul begins to become satopradhan once again. The kalas of the Behad begin to enter the atma. And gradually, very gradually, the soul begins to rise.

Request the Supreme Father for Power

Bapuji tells the seeker to make a humble request of the Almighty Authority. Speak to Him in the heart. Ask Him — fill my soul with power. Fill my soul with Param Prakash. Fill my soul with the behad ki kala of the supreme light.

Such a request, made from the deepest place within, is never unheard. The Almighty Authority is like a supreme sun of divine light. His light is of the subtlest and highest quality — far beyond the gross, the subtle, or even the supreme subtle. He is the sun of Param Prakash. His radiance cannot be given by anyone else.

So turn to Him. Build a relation with Him. Know that He is your great great great grandfather. Know that you have come, across many generations of creation, from Him. And now, at last, you are returning.

Knowing, Accepting, Meditating

The three steps Bapuji gives are very simple:

1. Know Him — Usko jaano.
2. Accept Him in your heart — Usko maano.
3. Remember Him — Usko yaad karo.

When these three are present in the life of a soul, the soul's own atma begins to gather the kala of the Behad. The soul's power begins to rise. And in time, the soul is carried upward to the very presence of the one it has held in its remembrance.

♦ Insight: “Jisko yaad karoge, uske paas chale jaoge.”

“The one you remember — to that one you will at last arrive.”

Chapter XI

From Jeev to Shiv: The Journey of the Soul

In this final chapter of the main book, we bring together everything that has been revealed, and see how the journey of a single soul unfolds — from its bound state as a jeev on this Earth, all the way to its ultimate destination in the Timeless World of the Almighty Authority.

The Soul as Jeev

When souls fall from higher levels of creation and take on physical bodies in the five-element world — pulled downward by desires that could not be controlled — they become what the scriptures call jeev. The word jeev is used to describe a soul that has forgotten itself, a soul living in ignorance, a soul behaving almost like an animal, bound by its body and its instincts.

This is the condition in which the ordinary human being lives today. The soul has forgotten that it is a divine point of light. The body has become heavy. The intelligence has become inert. The mind has become clouded. And the soul wanders in the cycle of birth and death, unable to see the way out.

Why Purusharth Is Essential

The only way out of this bondage is through purusharth — true spiritual effort. Bapuji repeatedly tells the seeker that the path is not automatic. The soul must apply itself. The soul must take the knowledge, hold it firmly in the intelligence, and turn the face of its remembrance toward the Almighty Authority.

When this purusharth is steady and sincere, a remarkable thing begins to happen. The soul, step by step, passes through the lokas. From Bhu-loka, the soul rises to Bhuvar-loka. From Bhuvar-loka to Swarg-loka. From Swarg-loka through Mahar-loka, Jana-loka, Tap-loka. From Tap-loka to Brahmapuri. From Brahmapuri to Vishnupuri. From Vishnupuri to Shivpuri. And at last, the soul enters the Paramdham — the incorporeal world of pure divine light.

Becoming Nirakar — Formless

In the Paramdham, the soul becomes nirakar — formless. It enters the state of pure soul-consciousness, the state of Param Prakash. All karmas are shed. The soul stands in its karmateet condition — beyond the law of karmic bondage in any plane of creation.

In this state, Bapuji tells us something astonishing. The soul becomes Shiv samaan — like Shiv himself. It has become the Shiv of its own being. It has realised the incorporeal state of its creator. And from this state, if the atma holds sufficient power, it can move further still — to the centre-point of the galaxy, to the presence of Maha Shiv. From there, to the centre of the universe, to Param Maha Shiv. From there, to the Great Universe, to the Great Great Universe, and onward into the multiverses.

♦ Insight: “Jeev se Shiv ban gaya.”

“From a jeev, the soul has become Shiv.”

Only a Behad Soul Can Make the Full Journey

Bapuji makes something very clear here. Not every soul can make the full journey in a single effort. The full journey, all the way up to the Behad ki Kala ka Paramdham, can only be made by a behad ki atma — a soul of the infinite, carrying the kala of the infinite.

A soul of limited power can reach up to the galaxy, or the universe, or perhaps the great universe. But only souls of the Behad can reach all the way to the Supreme Abode of the Almighty Authority. This is why Bapuji speaks again and again to the behad ki atma — calling those souls, awakening them, preparing them.

The souls that have come to this Earth from far-off galaxies, from higher universes, from the great great universes — these are the souls capable of making the full return. When such a soul hears Bapuji's Behad Gyan, a recognition stirs within it. The soul begins to remember what it truly is. The atma begins to carry the record of its origin. Slowly, all of this becomes clear in the soul's own inner knowing.

The Transformation of the Atma, the Transformation of the World

Bapuji reminds us that transformation of the world begins with transformation of the atma. Each soul that wakes up adds its vibration to the atmosphere. Each soul that holds Param Shanti in its being radiates Param Shanti outward. When enough souls hold this vibration, the very atmosphere of the Earth begins to change. And when the atmosphere changes, the yuga changes. Kali Yug falls away. Sat Yug returns.

This is why the present time is so precious. This is why Bapuji calls so urgently to the behad souls. A world transformation is at hand. The five elements themselves are preparing to shift. The mortal world is preparing to become, for a time, an immortal one. And those souls who have awakened to Behad Gyan will be the instruments of this transformation.

♦ Insight: “Vishwa parivartan, aatmaaon ki soch se aata hai.”

“World transformation comes through the thinking of souls.”

The Final Word

So here stands the full teaching, gathered in one place. Time is an illusion — a feature of the mortal world, a feature of every realm where creation and dissolution continue. But there exists a timeless world — a multiverse where since its creation, no dissolution has ever occurred, where time is not counted, where time is not even known.

The soul can reach such a world. The soul can become kaalateet — beyond time. But for this the soul must gather the kala of the Behad, through Behad Gyan and through deep remembrance of the Almighty Authority, whose abode lies in the Highest Paramdham of infinite power.

So, beloved seeker — know yourself. Know that you are a soul. Know the Almighty Authority. Know the vastness of the Behad Vishwa. Connect your remembrance to the supreme source. Spread the vibration of Param Shanti. Do not waste this precious human birth. The time of transformation has come.

Param Shanti.

Glossary

The following glossary contains the essential Hindi and Sanskrit terms used throughout this book. These definitions have been drawn from the canonical spiritual glossary established in Bapuji's book Life in Multiverse. Each term is given a short, simple explanation so that any reader — even one coming to Bapuji's teachings for the first time — can follow the ideas with clarity.

Akari — A subtle form, not a physical form — a form created from energy. When a soul loses some of its energy through sankalp, it assumes a subtle form of supreme elements.

Atma — The soul — a point of conscious energy. This is the true self. We are not the body, but the soul. The pure state of the soul is divine light form.

Avyakt — The invisible subtle and supreme subtle world of creation.

Behad Gyan — The supreme knowledge of the Almighty Authority and His boundless infinite creation. This is the ultimate knowledge — not written in any scripture before, the knowledge of creation beyond the multiverse.

Behad ka PM / Behad ka Baap — The Supreme Father — the Almighty Authority. He is the most powerful supreme soul in the infinite creation, the controller of the Behad ki Duniya, the source of power of all creations. He is unique, only one.

Behad ki Atma — A soul of infinite power, composed of Param Prakash and Param Maha Tattva. These are the behad souls who will play a key role in transforming the mortal world.

Behad ki Duniya — The infinite, boundless world of creation, whose size and power cannot be measured. This is the infinite-of-the-infinite realm.

Behad ki Kala ka Paramdham — The supreme abode of the highest dimension of creation, whose power is immeasurable and infinite. This is the abode of the Almighty Authority.

Bhakti Marg — The path of devotion. The soul surrenders before its Ishta Dev and continuously chants the glory of that deity until its final goal is realised.

Bhavatit — Beyond feelings and emotions.

Brahmand — A solar system. Our own Brahmand is the solar system in which the Earth is located.

Dharana — The final stage of Behad Gyan and Yog. Through regular diligent practice, the soul transforms its sanskar and realises its true divinity as pure soul consciousness in incorporeal form.

Gunatit / Nirgun — Beyond the three qualities of nature (satva, rajo, tamo). This is the pure soul-conscious, incorporeal state of the soul.

Guru — A spiritual instructor who shows the soul the right path, leading it from darkness to light.

Gyan Marg — The path of knowledge. The soul acquires knowledge about its creator and continuously contemplates until the supreme destiny is realised.

Had ki Atma — Common souls of lower power, whose composition goes up to the element of ether or the supreme ether, without Param Prakash at their core.

Incarnation / Avatar — A cell of a supreme soul or a higher-dimensional soul, sent to carry out specific work on Earth. It carries less energy than a roop.

Ishta Dev — The favourite or chosen deity a devotee worships throughout his life.

Ishwar — The master or owner of creation — the incorporeal Shiv.

Jeev — A soul that, due to uncontrolled desires, has fallen into a physical body in lower creation. The ignorance of its true nature makes the divine soul live like a jeev.

Jeevan Mukti — Freedom from all karmic accounts, with complete knowledge of one's creator. The soul exists eternally in the blissful state of its creator.

Kaalateet — Beyond time. A state in which there is no bondage of time, no counting of time, no time at all.

Kala — A spiritual unit of power within a soul or supreme soul. Just as electrical power is measured in watts, the power of a creator or soul is measured in kala.

Karan Sharir — The causal body — the storehouse of a soul's karmic records. Cleansing the karan sharir is essential to controlling the mind.

Karmatit — Beyond the law of any karmic account or bondage in any plane of creation.

Loka — A layer or dimension of creation within a Brahmand, galaxy, or universe. In our Brahmand: Bhu-loka (Earth), Bhuvar-loka, Swarg-loka, Mahar-loka, Jana-loka, Tap-loka, and so on.

Maha Brahmand — A galaxy. Our own Maha Brahmand is the Milky Way.

Maha Shiv — The incorporeal creator of a galaxy (Maha Brahmand). He resides in the supreme abode of the galaxy — the Maha Paramdham.

Mukti — Freedom. In this knowledge, mukti means the stage when the soul no longer exists in creation — it dissolves into its creator.

Nirakar — The formless, incorporeal state of a soul — the true divine state of divine light. This is the highest stage of a soul.

Param Maha Brahmand — A universe — the larger structure within which galaxies are contained.

Param Maha Shiv — The incorporeal creator of a universe (Param Maha Brahmand). He resides in the supreme abode of the universe.

Param Maha Tattva — Supreme great element. The divine brilliance that radiates around Param Prakash, from which param tattvas are formed.

Param Prakash — Supreme divine light. The energy of a soul in its incorporeal form, measured in terms of kala. This is the state of pure soul consciousness.

Param Purush — The Akari Shiv, Akari Maha Shiv, or Akari Param Maha Shiv — the first creation of the incorporeal supreme creator in any dimension. He is the Supreme Male Energy, existing always with his companion Shakti.

Param Shanti — Supreme peace. The original state of the soul when it is first created, in pure divine incorporeal form of supreme light. Every soul seeks to return to this state.

Param Tattva — Supreme element. Just as a nucleus is finer than an atom, param tattva is finer than tattva. The energy of a param tattva is far greater than that of a tattva.

Paramatma — The Supreme Soul — the creator of souls. In its true formless divine light form, a soul with tremendous power can create other souls through sankalp. Shiv, the creator of a Brahmand, is called Paramatma.

Paramdham — The supreme abode — the highest dimension of creation within a solar system, where Shiv, the creator, resides. It is the topmost layer of incorporeal divine light within a Brahmand.

Peedi — Generation of creators or supreme souls. The first generation (peedi) creator is of 101 kala, the second is of 201 kala, and so on upward — up to 21 peedi, 101 peedi, 1001 peedi, 11001 peedi, and higher still.

Pralay — The process of dissolution of a creation.

Purana — A part of Hindu literature describing the ancient wisdom of divinity through stories of creation.

Purusharth — Spiritual effort — self-enquiry and meditation carried out to understand the science of the soul.

Roop — A clone of a soul, created by a supreme soul from its own energy through sankalp. It reduces the original power of the supreme soul.

Sakari — The physical form — the body of five gross elements that a soul takes when its energy further reduces.

Sanatan Dharm — The eternal religion — the one religion present from the beginning of creation of this Brahmand, also known as Adi Sanatan Dharm.

Sankalp — An affirmation — the thought or determination generated in a soul. The higher the kala, the greater the power of sankalp.

Sanskar — The character of the soul — the record in its causal body. The mind of a soul acts according to its sanskar.

Seva — Selfless service. In Behad Gyan, the highest form of service is to share this supreme knowledge for the benevolence of souls, and to spread the vibrations of Param Shanti in the atmosphere.

Shakti, Maha Shakti, Param Maha Shakti — The counterpart energies of Shiv, Maha Shiv, and Param Maha Shiv respectively. Shiv first creates an Akari Shiv, who then creates his counterpart Shakti, and together they carry forward creation.

Shastra — A Hindu scripture where spiritual matters are discussed.

Shiv — The incorporeal creator of a solar system (Brahmand). He resides in the Paramdham of the solar system.

Spandan — Vibration — the effect that arises from sankalp. The sankalp is the cause; the spandan is the effect that radiates out into the atmosphere.

Tattva — Element. This visible world is composed of five tattvas — earth, water, fire, air, and ether. Tattva in spiritual language is finer than element in the scientific sense.

Vikarma — A sin — a wrong action committed by the soul.

Visarjan — Immersion or dissolution. Here refers to the ending phase of creation, where everything returns back toward the original supreme state (Param Tattva / Paramdham).

Vyakt — The visible world of five gross elements.

Yog — True connection with the Almighty Authority. When a soul, after acquiring behad gyan, immerses in deep love for its creator and forgets the physical world, that stage is called yog. (Note: Bapuji uses the term Yog, not Yoga.)

Yuga — An age within the earthly time cycle. The four yugas — Sat Yug, Treta Yug, Dwapar Yug, Kali Yug — together form one Chatur Yuga, which repeats until the final Maha Kalpa Pralaya.
