About Bapuji

Bapuji (full name: Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel, also lovingly called “Dadaji” by the younger generation) was born in 1956 in the small village of Akhaj in the Mehsana district of Gujarat. However, he spent his childhood in another village named Ambasan, also located in the Mehsana district.

In the early part of his life, he was a highly successful lawyer. Later, he devoted his life to realizing the supreme spiritual truth and bringing this divine knowledge forward for the welfare of humanity. Today, this supreme knowledge serves as a guiding light for true seekers to realize their ultimate destiny. It is a blessing of the highest divinity that the present time is witnessing the rise of this supreme spiritual knowledge, guiding souls on Earth to return to their original source.

Despite being raised in a very poor family and facing challenging circumstances, Bapuji had a deep desire to transform this sorrowful and suffering world into a better place. At the young age of six, he questioned God repeatedly, asking why God remained silent about the suffering of humanity. This intense longing to end human suffering eventually led him to attain the highest level of spirituality later in life.

Even as a child, Bapuji would spend hours alone in the fields, often neglecting his own comfort. Due to poverty, he would walk barefoot without shoes or sandals, frequently getting pricked by thorns. Many times, he would stay late in the fields and, on his way back home, encounter subtle world entities. These experiences sparked his interest in communicating with subtle world souls.

Bapuji was courageous from a young age, which helped him overcome many obstacles. Alongside his studies in chartered accountancy (CA), he gave tuition classes to support himself financially. Later, he completed his Bachelor of Law (LLB) degree and became a well-known lawyer in Ahmedabad.

In 1997, he established a spiritual institution called “Vishwa Parivartak Ishwariya Vidhyalay” in Chenpur, Ahmedabad, with the mission of transforming this mortal world, filled with suffering and disorder, into an eternal divine world of immortality. Smt. Sushma Tandon, lovingly known as “Maa,” worked alongside Bapuji in this grand divine mission.

To accomplish this mission, Bapuji worked tirelessly, dedicating all his resources to this divine purpose. During that time, he would deliver continuous spiritual discourses for up to 18 hours without rest. In these discourses, he explained the highest dimensions of divine knowledge, which he realized through deep meditation and divine vision in a state of superconsciousness. This knowledge goes beyond the imagination of the ordinary human mind.

Bapuji’s teachings cover a vast range of topics, including the types of celestial creators across different dimensions, the creation of our solar system, galaxy, and universe, and most importantly, the transcendental knowledge of the multiverse and realities beyond it. His knowledge is supremely profound and is intended for highly evolved seekers, referred to as “behad souls.” According to Bapuji, these “behad souls” will play a key role in transforming this mortal world into an eternal divine realm.

At present, Bapuji remains deeply engaged in intense meditation and samadhi for long hours. He does not meet anyone, as he is continuously immersed in his transcendental mission in a superconscious state.

Preface

Gyan Daan Maha Daan

(Sharing Knowledge is the Highest Charity)

This work is shared freely. Please share it widely with all seekers.

In a world filled with astrologers, fortune-tellers, and self-proclaimed prophets, humanity continues to seek answers about the future from those who themselves operate within limited frameworks of knowledge. People turn to planetary readings and ancient predictions, not realising that the very framework through which these predictions are made belongs to a smaller cosmic understanding than what the present moment now calls for.

This book presents the spiritual teachings of Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel as compiled by the Paramshanti Team. Within the framework of Behad Gyan — the knowledge of the limitless realm — Bapuji explains why the older systems of astrology, planetary worship, and prophecy belong to the understanding of a single brahmand, and why the new world that is taking shape requires an entirely new foundation of knowledge.

This book is not about rejecting the past. The earlier teachings served their purpose in their own time and are honoured for what they offered. Bapuji's teaching is that the path forward lies in knowing the self — the atma — and through that self-knowledge, connecting with the limitless Supreme Father beyond all boundaries.

Chapter One

The Limits of Prediction

In the coming times, you will witness that the framework of planetary prediction will not be sufficient to explain what unfolds. The forecasts produced through traditional readings of planetary positions belong to a single-brahmand understanding, while the events about to take place arise from a much larger behad structure of creation that has not previously been mapped.

Beyond astrologers, there have been many well-known prophets and seers throughout history. Figures such as Nostradamus made numerous predictions about future events. Yet many of these prophecies have not unfolded in the way their interpreters expected. The language in which Nostradamus wrote was so obscure that no one can truly read or interpret it with certainty. Despite this, people continue to invoke his name and attach their own predictions to it.

The fundamental reason for this gap is simple: the general public has not yet been given access to the deeper knowledge. People walk in the shadow of agyan — spiritual ignorance — and, within that condition, turn to those who claim authority over planetary movements and celestial events. But these traditional authorities themselves operate within a limited framework that is not equipped to explain what is about to unfold.

Astrologers continue to prescribe rituals and remedies, including Nav Chandi Havans and other fire ceremonies which served their purpose in their own time and continue to be respected. Bapuji explains, however, that the cosmic conditions which once allowed these invocations to bear their traditional fruit have shifted in this transitional cycle, because the great souls connected with those ceremonies have themselves descended into human form.

Chapter Two

Planetary Worship in the Transitional Cycle

The thirty-three koti (categories of) deities that were traditionally invoked during fire ceremonies respond, in this transitional cycle, in a different way than the texts describe. Bapuji explains that the great souls connected with these celestial roles have themselves descended into human form on this earth. The planetary energies and celestial entities that people have long worshipped continue to be deeply respected, but the channel through which they once responded has shifted within the present cycle.

These great souls, who once held elevated positions across the cosmos, have descended into human form in this cycle and are themselves walking the path of remembrance. Because their cosmic role is in a state of transition, the traditional pattern of invocation does not function in the same way devotees have long expected. This is not a failing of those great beings; it is the nature of this transitional moment in the larger cosmic cycle.

The entire system of astrology has come down from the previous cycle — from the earlier parat of Brahma. All these planetary frameworks belong to the previous cycle of Lord Brahma's fifty-year life cycle. The people who follow astrology today are sincere seekers who have not yet been given access to the deeper behind knowledge required to understand the transition that is now taking place.

The events that are about to unfold are of such a nature that traditional astrological frameworks are not equipped to predict them, and prophetic frameworks are not equipped to fully explain them afterwards. The older systems of understanding are simply not designed for what the new cycle is bringing.

Chapter Three

Bapuji's Perspective on the Kalki Avatar

Many people hold the belief that a Kalki Avatar — the awaited final incarnation of Vishnu — will arrive at the close of Kalyug to transform the world. This is a profound and revered belief, and it is approached here only within the framework of Bapuji's Behad Gyan.

Bapuji explains the matter as follows. According to the cycle of time as he describes it, the present Kalyug is only four thousand years old, and four hundred and twenty-eight thousand years still remain. Since the Kalki Avatar is traditionally said to appear at the very end of Kalyug, the present moment does not correspond to that arrival within this particular framework of understanding.

Within Bapuji's perspective, the transformation of the world in this transitional cycle unfolds not through a single avatar but through the awakening of behad souls into self-knowledge. The traditional account of a Vishnu incarnation belongs to the knowledge of a single brahmand — one universe — with one Brahma, one Vishnu, and one Shankar. The new Behad knowledge addresses a vastly larger structure of creation.

Readers are invited to receive this teaching as one framework among the many traditions humanity has held. The belief in the Kalki Avatar is honoured here; Bapuji's framework is offered as a complementary perspective for those who feel drawn to it.

Chapter Four

New Knowledge for the New World

The knowledge that has been widely available until now is the knowledge of a single brahmand. It tells the story of one Brahma, one Vishnu, one Shankar. It covers the fifty years of Brahma's lifespan that have been completed. It speaks of the previous parat and the one hundred and ninety-eight crore years of the current cycle. It describes Satyug, Treta, Dwapar, and Kalyug as recorded in the scriptures.

People continue to read and discuss these same accounts. They are respected as the inherited wisdom of an earlier cycle. Yet Bapuji explains that the new world taking shape requires an additional layer of knowledge that goes beyond the single-universe framework.

The new knowledge is this: to remain in atma swaroop — in the awareness of the soul — and from that state, to remember the Supreme Father of the limitless realm. This is the true yog. It is not the limited yog of the bounded world; it is the soul-union of the limitless.

The earlier ways of spiritual practice — affirming “I am Brahm,” or repeating the traditional Shiv mantras — were suited to an earlier cycle of understanding. Even the state of Maha Brahm is not the final station. Even Param Maha Brahm is not the ultimate. What is needed now, Bapuji explains, is to know and remember the Behad — the limitless, imperishable, eternal Supreme Being, the Almighty Authority.

Chapter Five

Becoming a Behad Brahm Gyani

Those who are wise will come to experience the atma swaroop — the true nature of the self. Through knowledge, they will come to understand the reality of infinite universes, infinite Brahmas, Vishnus, and Shankars. Only then will the role of Brahma, Vishnu, and Shankar within the Maha Brahmand — the great universe — become clear.

The Adi Shakti of the universe, the Maha Adi Shakti of the great universe, the structure of galaxies, the universe, the great universe, the multiverse — all of this becomes clear through Behad Gyan. Then it is understood that the great souls who are currently in human form are walking a path that planetary influences alone cannot fully account for.

A Brahm Gyani — one who knows Brahm — possesses knowledge of a single brahmand. They know the beginning, middle, and end of one universe. Beyond that, Brahm Gyan does not extend.

To go further, one must become a Behad Brahm Gyani — a knower of the limitless. This requires knowing the beginning, middle, and end of the limitless realm. For this, an additional layer of knowledge is needed; the single-brahmand framework, while complete within its own scope, does not extend to the limitless.

Everything is undergoing transformation — worldly education, spiritual education, transcendental education, and behad education. All of these are studied so that the seeker may come to understand that there exists a supreme, eternal, imperishable, sanatan knowledge — knowledge that has always existed and will always remain.

Chapter Six

The Ocean of Knowledge

When the knowledge of the limitless realm is understood by behad souls, the larger picture becomes clear. Astrology comes to be seen within its proper scope — a system suited to a single brahmand, and not, on its own, sufficient to map the unfolding behad events. The role of ghosts, spirits, and subtle entities is understood. The full connection between beings from other universes and this earth becomes apparent.

The question of how eight hundred crore human souls came to be on this earth, where they came from, why so many different religions and sects exist, and why people believe in different things — all of this comes into view through Behad Gyan.

This is not one single type of knowledge. It is a vast ocean of varied knowledge — variety gyan. Many different streams of understanding, all interconnected, all essential. One must immerse oneself in this ocean of knowledge, churn the ocean of contemplation, and only then will true understanding emerge.

For the souls of the limitless realm, the study of behad knowledge from its beginning to its end is essential. Through this study, the nature of Mahakaal is understood — who will be saved, how they will be saved, and what unfolds at the close of the cycle.

The path forward is clear: one must know oneself. Who am I? Where have I come from? Why have I come? Where must I go? When souls gain this self-knowledge, they experience both mukti — liberation — and jeevan mukti — liberation while living.
