ABOUT BAPUJI

Bapuji (full name: Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel, also lovingly called “Dadaji” by the younger generation) was born in 1956 in the small village of Akhaj in the Mehsana district of Gujarat. However, he spent his childhood in another village named Ambasan, also located in the Mehsana district.

In the early part of his life, he was a highly successful lawyer. Later, he devoted his life to realising the supreme spiritual truth and bringing this divine knowledge forward for the welfare of humanity. Today, this supreme knowledge serves as a guiding light for true seekers to realise their ultimate destiny. It is a blessing of the highest divinity that the present time is witnessing the rise of this supreme spiritual knowledge, guiding souls on Earth to return to their original source.

Despite being raised in a very poor family and facing challenging circumstances, Bapuji had a deep desire to transform this sorrowful and suffering world into a better place. At the young age of six, he questioned God repeatedly, asking why God remained silent about the suffering of humanity. This intense longing to end human suffering eventually led him to attain the highest level of spirituality later in life.

Even as a child, Bapuji would spend hours alone in the fields, often neglecting his own comfort. Due to poverty, he would walk barefoot without shoes or sandals, frequently getting pricked by thorns. Many times, he would stay late in the fields and, on his way back home, encounter subtle world entities. These experiences sparked his interest in communicating with subtle world souls.

Bapuji was courageous from a young age, which helped him overcome many obstacles. Alongside his studies in chartered accountancy (CA), he gave tuition classes to support himself financially. Later, he completed his Bachelor of Law (LLB) degree and became a well-known lawyer in Ahmedabad.

In 1997, he established a spiritual institution called “Vishwa Parivartak Ishwariya Vidhyalay” in Chenpur, Ahmedabad, with the mission of transforming this mortal world, filled with suffering and disorder, into an eternal divine world of immortality. Smt. Sushma Tandon, lovingly known as “Maa,” worked alongside Bapuji in this grand divine mission.

To accomplish this mission, Bapuji worked tirelessly, dedicating all his resources to this divine purpose. During that time, he would deliver continuous spiritual discourses for up to 18 hours without rest. In these discourses, he explained the highest dimensions of divine knowledge, which he realised through deep meditation and divine vision in a state of super consciousness. This knowledge goes beyond the imagination of the ordinary human mind.

Bapuji’s teachings cover a vast range of topics, including the types of celestial creators across different dimensions, the creation of our solar system, galaxy, and universe, and most importantly, the transcendental knowledge of the multiverse and realities beyond it. His knowledge is supremely profound and is intended for highly evolved seekers, referred to as “behad souls.” According to Bapuji, these “behad souls” will play a key role in transforming this mortal world into an eternal divine realm.

At present, Bapuji remains deeply engaged in intense meditation and samadhi for long hours. He does not meet anyone, as he is continuously immersed in his transcendental mission in a superconscious state.

— by Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel

Almost everyone experiences it at some point in life—a quiet feeling that something about this world is incomplete. We chase success, possessions, relationships, and achievements, believing they will bring lasting happiness. Yet even when we attain them, the satisfaction soon fades.

Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel gives this universal experience a single name: Maya. This book is a deep exploration of that one profound word—what it truly means, how it shapes our lives, and how understanding it can transform the way we see the world.

You do not need any background to read this. You do not need to know a single word of Hindi or Sanskrit. Every term is explained in plain words the first time it appears.

The book answers four questions. What is Maya? What is the Matrix? How does a soul come out of it? And what is real?

Every teaching here comes from Bapuji's own discourses. Nothing has been added. Read it slowly. Read it calmly. The truth in it is simple.

CHAPTER 1

What Is Maya?

*Bapuji was once asked a very short question. What is Maya? What is illusion?
His answer was just as short. And it opens everything that follows in this book.*

“Maya means illusion. Maya means falsehood”. That is Bapuji’s plain definition.

Bapuji then explains what the word Maya truly encompasses. Everything perceived through the physical senses belongs to Maya. Whatever can be created, changed, or ultimately destroyed is Maya. Wealth is Maya. The entire visible universe is Maya. It is not limited to material possessions alone but includes everything that appears before our eyes.

He further explains that the whole physical world is composed of the five elements—earth, water, fire, air, and ether—and these five elements themselves are Maya. Since the human body is also formed from these same elements, the body too is Maya. Extending this understanding to everyday life, Bapuji says that the television is Maya, the radio is Maya, the mobile phone is Maya, and every relationship established through the body also belongs to Maya. Nothing in the material world lies outside its scope.

An old spiritual saying captures this truth beautifully: “False is the body, false is Maya, false is this whole world.” By this, Bapuji does not mean that the world is unreal or non-existent. Rather, he teaches that it is impermanent. Maya is that which appears real, functions as though it is real, yet is destined to pass away. Its defining nature is not nonexistence, but transience.

IN SIMPLE WORDS

Maya means illusion. Maya means falsehood.

Everything the eyes can see is Maya.

The five elements are Maya. The body is Maya.

Maya is not fake. It is temporary.

In the next chapter, Bapuji gives us a simple test to recognise it.

CHAPTER 2

Whatever Ends Is Maya

How do you know if something is Maya? Bapuji gives one test.

It is so simple that a child can use it.

Maya is always Vinashi—perishable. Vinashi means that which is destined to be destroyed. Bapuji offers a simple test: Does it come to an end? If the answer is yes, then it belongs to Maya. Nothing that is temporary can be eternal.

This understanding is reflected in the ancient expression Jagat Mithya. Bapuji explains that this does not mean the world is non-existent. Rather, it means that the world of the five elements is temporary and not everlasting. Everything made of earth, water, fire, air, and ether is constantly changing. The Earth itself changes. The five elements change. The entire Brahmand (solar system) is perishable, and even the Maha Brahmand (galaxy) is perishable. Because everything here is subject to birth, change, and destruction, Bapuji calls this Earth Mrityu Lok—the realm where death exists.

The greatest illusion, Bapuji says, is that human beings mistake this changing world for the ultimate truth. Maya itself is not the truth; it has merely been accepted as truth through long habit and belief. Over time, this unquestioned acceptance becomes so deeply rooted that few pause to examine it. The problem, therefore, is not that the world changes—that is its very nature. The problem is that we mistake the temporary for the permanent, the perishable for the eternal, and Maya for reality.

So the problem is not that the world changes. The problem is that we call the changing thing permanent.

IN SIMPLE WORDS

One test tells you everything. Does it end? If it ends, it is Maya.

Even the solar system and the galaxy dissolves one day.

This earth is mrityu lok — the world of death.

The world calls Maya the truth. It is not.

So if all this is not real, what is? That is the next chapter.

CHAPTER 3

Then What Is Real?

Bapuji Shifts the focus immediately onto Creation without Death. Avinashi Creation. What is Eternal?

A person who reflects only on Maya may begin to feel that everything in existence is temporary. Bapuji therefore does not stop at explaining what is perishable; he also reveals what is Avinashi—that which is eternal and can never be destroyed. According to Bapuji’s Divine discourse, real understanding begins only when we learn to distinguish the temporary from the eternal.

Bapuji explains that the Avinashi cannot be perceived through the physical eyes because the physical senses themselves belong to Maya. It is realised through Divya Drishti—the soul’s divine vision awakened through spiritual knowledge. He also explains that after death, when the physical body falls away, the soul becomes distinct from the body.

Soul (Atma) is not the body but a conscious point of pure white divine light. This point of light is the soul’s true identity. The body is born and dies, but the soul itself is unborn, ageless, and imperishable. Body is like clothing which changes with innumerable rebirths. Since the soul is eternal, Bapuji teaches that its true home must also be Eternal (Avinashi)

He describes this eternal realm as Amar Lok, the deathless world beyond the cycle of birth and destruction. Above all the worlds of creation lies the highest spiritual realm, Paramdham—the Supreme Abode. Here, there are no material elements, no birth, no death, and no decay. It is a realm of supreme divine light where Creator and countless souls exist in their original, eternal state. As Per Bapuji’s knowledge reality is therefore defined not by what appears before the physical eyes, but by what remains forever unchanged. The eternal soul, and Paramdham alone are truly Avinashi.

IN SIMPLE WORDS

Avinashi means imperishable — never destroyed.

It is not seen by these eyes. It is seen by divine vision.

The atma is a point of pure white light. It never dies.

So there is a deathless world too — amar lok.

Real means only one thing: it does not end.

Now we can look at a word the modern world loves — the Matrix.

CHAPTER 4

The Matrix Is Maya

As modern ideas such as the Matrix become popular, many people wonder whether this world is a kind of system that traps or controls us.

Bapuji was asked this too. His answer was three words long.

Bapuji's answer was strikingly simple: "Matrix means Maya." With those three words, he connected a modern idea to an ancient spiritual truth. The term Matrix may be new, but the reality it describes has been known in spiritual knowledge for thousands of years. What many people today call the Matrix, Bapuji identifies as Maya—the invisible power that keeps souls attached to the temporary and makes the perishable appear permanent.

To understand this, Bapuji explains that creation moves through four great ages, or Yugs: Satyug, Tretayug, Dwaparyug, and Kaliyug. Each age represents a gradual change in the spiritual condition of the world. Satyug is the Age of Truth, where purity, peace, and divine consciousness naturally prevail. As the cycle progresses through Tretayug and Dwaparyug, spiritual awareness gradually declines. By the time Kaliyug arrives—the present age—ignorance, attachment, and suffering have reached their greatest intensity.

According to Bapuji, Maya does not exist in Satyug. The atmosphere there is completely positive, and souls live in their original purity. Maya begins to emerge only toward the end of Satyug. It gradually strengthens through Tretayug and Dwaparyug until it reaches its fullest expression in Kaliyug. The Matrix, therefore, is not a machine invented in modern times. It is the condition of a world that has fallen from its original spiritual state.

Bapuji also describes this Matrix in language that is easy to understand. He says that today's world is bound together by an invisible network. This network is woven from attachment, social conditioning, fear, desires, false identities, and collective patterns of thinking. Most people never see these invisible threads, yet they quietly shape how they think, what they pursue, what they fear, and what they accept as reality.

He then points to the visible side of this network with characteristic simplicity. We connect ourselves through mobile phones, social media platforms, email accounts, digital identities, and countless online links. One account connects to another, one platform to the next, until everything becomes interconnected. These technologies are not Maya by themselves, but they illustrate how easily human beings become caught in ever-expanding webs of attachment. Eventually, the network begins to feel like the whole of reality.

This is why Bapuji gives a profound definition of Gyan Daan. True Gyan Daan is not merely sharing information or increasing knowledge. It is the act of awakening souls so they can recognize the network of Maya and free themselves from it. The purpose of spiritual knowledge is not to decorate the Matrix or make it more comfortable, but to break its hold and guide the soul back toward the eternal reality of Shiv, the soul, and Paramdham.

IN SIMPLE WORDS

Bapuji's answer is short: Matrix means Maya.

Maya is absent in Satyug and strongest in Kaliyug.

Today the world is tied in an invisible network.

Giving knowledge breaks that network.

But how does this net actually catch a soul? Bapuji explains it step by step.

CHAPTER 5

How Maya Traps Soul

Maya does not fall on the body. Bapuji is very clear about this.

The effect of Maya falls on the soul.

Bapuji explains that Maya does not trap the soul through force. It traps the soul by changing the way it sees reality. The moment the soul begins to trust only the physical senses, it gradually forgets its own spiritual identity. Instead of knowing itself as an eternal point of divine light, it begins to identify with the body and the material world. Whatever the eyes can see starts to feel like the only reality, while the eternal reality of the soul, Shiv, and Paramdham fades from awareness.

Once the soul becomes body-conscious, it is naturally drawn toward everything that is Vinashi—the temporary and perishable. It begins to divide the world into "mine" and "yours." My body, my family, my wealth, my status, my success. From this sense of ownership arise attachment, comparison, fear, and endless desires. One desire is fulfilled only to give birth to another. The soul spends its entire life pursuing things that cannot last, believing they will bring permanent happiness. According to Bapuji, this is how Maya keeps the soul occupied with the temporary while it forgets the eternal.

Bapuji explains that attachment to Maya also weakens the soul's moral judgment. In the race to acquire perishable things, people become willing to lie, deceive, cheat, or harm others to protect what they believe is theirs. The fault does not lie in wealth or possessions themselves, but in the soul's mistaken belief that lasting peace can be found through them. Maya convinces the soul to seek permanence in what is, by its very nature, impermanent.

Why does the soul become so blind to its own reality? Bapuji explains that when the soul enters the material world, it becomes covered by the five elements—earth, water, fire, air, and ether. This covering acts like a sheath over the soul's original awareness. Hidden beneath this covering, the soul forgets its true identity and begins to experience itself merely as an ordinary human being. From that point onward, it accepts only what the physical senses reveal, while the spiritual dimensions of existence remain beyond its perception.

Bapuji then offers a profound reminder: what the physical eyes perceive is only a tiny fraction of reality. The visible world is not the whole of existence; it is only the material layer of creation. The eternal realms, the soul, and the Supreme Light cannot be perceived through ordinary vision. They are realised through Divya Drishti—the awakened spiritual vision that develops through true knowledge and inner experience.

Maya also does not appear in the same form to every individual. One person may be trapped by wealth, another by relationships, another by power, recognition, pleasure, or fear. The form changes according to the soul's weaknesses, but the purpose remains the same—to keep the soul attached to the temporary and separated from its eternal nature.

According to Bapuji, Maya gains power only when the soul becomes spiritually weak. A strong soul remains established in spiritual knowledge and remembers its true identity in every situation. A weak soul remembers the knowledge for a while and then forgets it when faced with worldly attractions or difficulties. That moment of forgetfulness creates an opening, and Maya enters. It does not require great strength to bind the soul; it requires only a single gap in awareness. The more constant the soul's remembrance of its true nature, the less power Maya has to influence it

Maya acts on the soul, not on the body.

The soul gets caught in perishable things and in “yours and mine”.

Then desire grows, and the soul lies and cheats to feed it.

Five elements cover the soul like a coating, so it forgets itself.

Maya catches the soul that walks in knowledge only sometimes.

But who spread all this in the first place? Bapuji answers that next.

CHAPTER 6

Who Spreads Maya?

One question is bound to come. If Maya is everywhere, who is spreading it?

Bapuji answers this directly, and his answer has two halves — an outer one and an inner one.

The Spread of Maya Through the World

Look at the world today and see how widely Maya has spread. Everywhere people pursue wealth, possessions, status, and material success. Bapuji explains that Mayavi means "belonging to Maya"—that which appears attractive on the outside while drawing the soul further away from its true spiritual nature.

Who spread this Maya? Bapuji says it was spread by the Asuras. An Asura is a soul whose nature has become dark, selfish, and deeply attached to Maya. He explains that, long ago, many souls of this Earth descended into the seven lower worlds. There they became Asuras, and today they have returned again in human form.

Bapuji is careful to explain that such souls are found both in the subtle world and in the gross world. Therefore, this is not merely a story about visible human beings. Much of what influences the world operates from behind the visible screen.

How Maya Finds Its Way Into Human Life

He then explains how this influence works. Such souls distribute Maya to those whose nature matches their own. Here, Maya refers to money, position, power, possessions, and everything the worldly mind constantly pursues. These things are given, and in return, work is taken from those who receive them. According to Bapuji, this is the arrangement.

How is such a person selected? Bapuji says these souls read the Aura—the field of light surrounding a person. If that field has become dark and negative, the person is chosen. Negative souls are then placed within that individual, and from that point onward, their work begins through that person.

This is why Bapuji gives a very clear measure for judging wealth. The question is not how much wealth a person possesses, but how it has been earned. Wealth acquired through falsehood, deception, taking what belongs to others, cruelty, or wrongdoing is Mayavi wealth. The mark of Maya is not the amount of wealth but the manner in which it is obtained.

Bapuji also explains why the great dissolutions of creation take place. Ardh Pralay, Pralay, and Kalp Pralay occur to bring an end to the Maya spread by the Asuras.

The Inner Covering of Maya

Bapuji then turns to the deeper, inner dimension of Maya. Around every soul is a covering, which he calls the Avaran. He makes a brief but profound statement: the covering itself is Maya.

What is this covering made of? Bapuji explains that it is the mind. Maya resides in the mind, the intellect, and the Sanskars—the soul's inner nature.

When these two aspects are understood together, the picture becomes complete. Souls of Asuric nature spread maya outwardly, but it can enter only through the inner covering that already exists within a person. No external force can bind a soul whose inner field is pure. That is why Bapuji never asks us to fight Maya outside. He teaches us to purify the mind, intellect, and sanskars within, for that is where Maya gains its hold.

IN SIMPLE WORDS

Maya as wealth was spread by souls of dark nature — the asuras.

They exist in the subtle world and in this world too.

They give money and position, and take work in return.

Wealth earned by falsehood, by taking from others, or by cruelty is mayavi wealth.

But the real doorway is inside — the covering over the soul is itself Maya.

Next, Bapuji explains why this bargain can never pay.

CHAPTER 7

Why Maya Can Only Give Sorrow

People do not stay in Maya because they love suffering. They stay because they expect happiness.

Bapuji says that this expectation is the mistake.

Bapuji gives Maya two more names. Maya means deep darkness. Maya means sorrow and pain. He calls it an ocean. Go deep into Maya, and what you receive from it is sorrow.

Then he states it as a fact of history. Nobody has ever become happy by enjoying Maya. Not one person. Not in any age. He also gives a measure for this world. In mrityu lok there is one per cent happiness. The remaining ninety-nine per cent is sorrow. That is the honest ratio of the place we live in.

Where does even that one per cent come from? It comes when a person remembers the Supreme from the heart. For that short while, peace is felt. Then the mind returns to its old habits

Bapuji also warns about the shape modern life is taking. High luxury, display and show do not bring peace. Such a life feeds the ego instead. Today I have this. He does not have that. The ego keeps growing. It can grow around anything. The body. Money. A degree. A house. Land.

All of it pulls the soul deeper into matter. And in matter the soul receives sorrow, never happiness.

The reason is simple. As long as the intellect stays fixed on material things, the mind can never be still. So he asks for the opposite. Live simply. Stay natural. Do not become clever and crooked.

The one who lives a simple life can be happy. That is Bapuji's plain conclusion. And there is a moment when every soul finally understands this. It is the moment of death.

At that time the soul remembers: all this was Maya. None of it is coming with when body dies

IN SIMPLE WORDS

Maya means darkness. Maya means sorrow.

Nobody has ever become happy by enjoying Maya.

This world holds one per cent happiness and ninety-nine per cent sorrow.

Show and luxury only feed the ego.

At death the soul sees the truth: none of it comes along.

Many think Maya ends above the earth. Bapuji shows that it does not.

CHAPTER 8

Maya, Mahamaya and the Worlds Above

Where does Maya exist? Most people would say: only here, on earth.

Bapuji's answer is much larger, and it surprises almost everyone.

In its gross form, Maya exists on earth. That part is easy to see. But it does not stop there. Bapuji takes us upward, world by world.

Take swarg lok, the third world above the earth. The souls living there also had Maya. Their bodies were not of five elements. They were made of three — ether, air and fire. Even so, they got caught. When a soul enjoys pleasure without limit, its power drains away. Then that soul falls. It becomes a human being again.

Bapuji gives a boundary line for Maya. Wherever the air element is present around the soul, Maya is present. By that measure, Maya reaches up to Brahmapuri, a high world far above swarg lok.

Above that lies Vishnupuri, also called Vaikunth. And there, he says, there is Mahamaya. Mahamaya means great illusion. In Vaikunth it does not appear as sorrow at all. It appears as immense happiness. The soul enjoys that supreme happiness — and gets caught in it.

Read that again, because it is the deepest point of the chapter. Even great happiness can be a trap. When the soul finally tires of it, it moves higher, to Shivpuri, where peace is found.

Bapuji states the limit plainly. In this Brahmand, Maya reaches right up to the Paramdhaam. Now the difference between the two words. Bapuji says there is no real difference at all.

Call it Maya or call it Mahamaya — it is the same thing at a bigger scale. What changes is the load. As gross means and gadgets keep increasing, Mahamaya keeps increasing. More matter means more of the world sinking into matter.

More souls trapped in mrityu lok. That is why he says it in one line. Earlier there was Maya. Now it has become Mahamaya.

One more point, and it is a humbling one. Even a great soul who takes a body of five elements comes under this law.

Inside five elements, that soul also functions as a human being. The covering does not spare anyone.

IN SIMPLE WORDS

Maya is not only on earth.

Deities in swarg lok were caught by it too.

In Vaikunth it appears as great happiness — that is Mahamaya.

In this Brahmand, Maya reaches up to the Paramdhaam.

Maya and Mahamaya are the same thing at different sizes.

If Maya is everywhere, someone must have made it. Bapuji tells us who.

CHAPTER 9

Where Did Maya Come From?

It is easy to treat Maya as an enemy sent from outside.

Bapuji removes that idea in a single sentence.

Maya Begins in the Mind

Bapuji explains that Maya did not come from somewhere outside creation. It came into being through the actions and thoughts of souls themselves. Nothing exists without a cause or a purpose, and Maya is no exception. To understand how it arose, he begins not with the material world, but with the inner workings of the soul.

According to Behad Ka Param Gyan, every soul possesses three inner faculties: Mann (mind), Buddhi (intellect), and Sanskar (impressions or inner nature). The mind creates thoughts, the intellect judges and decides, and the sanskars store the accumulated nature and tendencies of the soul. It is through these three faculties that the soul experiences and shapes creation.

Bapuji explains that when the mind begins to think, a process of manifestation begins. The soul moves through three states. First is Nirakari, the formless state of pure light. From there it enters Akari, the subtle state, and finally Sakari, the physical state. These are three successive conditions of the soul, each representing a gradual movement away from its original formless nature and a corresponding decrease in soul power. Thought comes first; the visible world appears afterwards. In this way, the five-element world that we experience as Maya is formed through the thinking of souls.

The Three Gunas and the Condition of the World

Bapuji then explains that the quality of the mind determines the quality of life. He introduces the concept of the three Gunas. A Guna is a quality or state of consciousness that influences the thoughts, nature, and actions of the soul. As these qualities change, the condition of both the individual and the world changes with them.

He describes three principal states: Sato, Rajo, and Tamo. A Sato Pradhan state is one of purity, lightness, balance, and spiritual strength. Rajo Pradhan represents the intermediate stage, where purity begins to decline and worldly activity and desires increase. Tamo Pradhan is the state of spiritual darkness, heaviness, and ignorance, in which Maya exerts its greatest influence.

Bapuji illustrates this with a simple rule from everyday life. If the mind is good, the body is good. A Sato Pradhan mind produces a Sato Pradhan body. As the mind becomes increasingly influenced by Maya, it gradually moves toward the Tamo Pradhan state, and the body reflects the same condition.

He then extends this principle to the entire world. As the minds of souls became Tamo Pradhan, the atmosphere itself also became Tamo Pradhan. Consequently, human bodies and the world they created reflected the same decline in purity.

Purifying the Mind Ends Maya

Bapuji concludes with a message of hope. If the condition of the world has changed because the minds of souls have changed, then the process can also be reversed. When minds become pure again, the atmosphere becomes pure, and the world is transformed along with it.

For this reason, Bapuji places great emphasis on mastering the mind. He teaches that the first step is to understand what the mind should become and then to bring it under conscious control. Maya was created through the thoughts of minds, and therefore it can be dissolved only through the purification of those same minds.

IN SIMPLE WORDS

Maya was formed because of souls themselves.

The mind comes first, then the subtle form, then the body.

A good mind makes a good body.

All minds became heavy, so the whole atmosphere became heavy.

If minds become pure, the world becomes pure.

There is also a very personal face of Maya. That comes next.

CHAPTER 10

Maya Is Your Own Karma Account

Sometimes Maya does not look like a shop or a screen.

It looks like your own life, going wrong for no visible reason.

Bapuji gives "another dimension of Maya". Every action leaves a record. One day that record comes and stands in front of the soul. When it does, the soul suffers. And most people react in the same way.

They blame the Divine. Why did you make this world? What was in your mind? Bapuji says the real reason is different. There is no knowledge. The world is sitting in the darkness of not knowing. Then he explains why the mind cannot stay steady even when a person wants it to.

The record of actions is stored in the karan sharir — the causal body, the finest body of the soul. As long as that record is there, it keeps disturbing the mind. And a disturbed mind runs back into Maya.

So the record has to be cleared. For that the soul needs power. Where does power come from? It comes from love for the Supreme Father.

Bapuji puts it in four words. Unconditional Love for supreme father itself is power. Then he adds a warning that is easy to miss. The connection must not leak. If even a part of the heart remains attached to bodily relationships, the full power will not come down. Without power the causal body is not charged. Without that spiritual power, the mind continues to wander under the influence of Maya.

This is also why Maya seems to strike some people harder. It catches the one who keeps changing his mind. Bapuji ends this teaching with a hard sentence, spoken kindly.

If you will not change yourself, time itself will become your teacher. And Maya will use a stick.

IN SIMPLE WORDS

Maya also means the account of your own actions.

That record sits in the causal body and disturbs the mind.

Clearing it needs power, and power comes from love for the Supreme.

Even a small leak in that love stops the power.

If you do not change yourself, time will teach you.

One part of Maya is so close that nobody suspects it — time itself.

CHAPTER 11

Time Is Also an Illusion

We measure our whole life by time. So we assume time is solid.

Bapuji says time is an illusion too, and he shows it with ordinary facts.

Time Is Also Maya

Bapuji teaches that Kaal means time, and he gives it another profound definition. Time itself belongs to Maya because it is constantly changing. Throughout Behad Ka Param Gyan, he repeats one simple principle: whatever does not remain in the same state is Maya. Since time is always changing, it too is part of Maya.

To make this clear, Bapuji points to several familiar examples. First, consider the clock. The way we measure time today depends on clocks, yet clocks are human inventions. Second, look at the Earth itself. Time is not the same across a single planet. One country experience one hour while another experiences a different hour, simply because of lines drawn on a map. If time were one fixed and unchanging reality, it would be identical everywhere. It is not.

Bapuji then extends this principle across the entire cycle of creation. The length of a day changes from one Yuga to another. The size of the Earth changes. Human lifespan changes. The atmosphere changes, and so do the five elements. Since time itself varies according to place, age, and level of creation, it cannot be eternal. It belongs to the changing world of Maya.

He goes even further by explaining that time is different in the higher realms as well. Every Brahmand has its own measure of time, while the Maha Brahmand follows another. In other words, every level of creation operates according to its own experience of time.

Becoming Kaalateet

If Kaal means time, then to remain bound by time is to remain bound by Maya. Bapuji therefore gives the seeker a higher goal: to become Kaalateet—beyond time.

According to Bapuji, a soul becomes Kaalateet when it becomes Nirakari, firmly established in its original form as a point of pure divine light. At that stage, the soul rises above the wheel of time and the illusion created by constant change.

However, Bapuji also explains that a soul still bound by the account of its own actions cannot become Kaalateet. As long as karmic bondage remains, the soul continues to move within the cycle of time and Maya. Only the Supreme Father of the Unlimited has the power to free the soul from this wheel.

Bapuji concludes by drawing a clear distinction between knowledge and ignorance. Remaining trapped in the wheel of time is not true knowledge. True knowledge is to become free from it.

IN SIMPLE WORDS

The clock was made by man.

Time is different in different countries, ages and worlds.

Whatever keeps changing is Maya — so time is Maya.

Kaalateet means going beyond the wheel of time.

Getting out of that wheel is real knowledge.

Which brings us to the one tool Bapuji trusts above every other.

CHAPTER 12

Knowledge Breaks the Network

If Maya is a net, what cuts it? Not effort alone. Not fear.

Bapuji answers with one word -gyan, which means spiritual knowledge.

Knowledge Begins with Right Recognition

Spiritual Knowledge is the first subject. Everything else in spiritual life stands on it. Bapuji often returns to a teaching that echoes Shri Krishna's own words in the Bhagavad Gita. Bapuji explains that spiritual realization is not attained merely through chanting, rituals, or penance. It comes through true spiritual knowledge (Gyan) that awakens the soul and transforms its consciousness. When that knowledge matures into direct realization and complete devotion to the Supreme Father, the soul comes to know Him as He truly is.

Then he gives the simplest definition of the word. Gyan means recognition. Recognition of what? Of yourself, of the Creator, and of the whole structure of creation. And knowledge does something very specific. It shifts your identity.

Before knowledge, the thought is: I am the body. After knowledge, the thought is: I am the soul. The moment identity shifts, perception shifts. You stop seeing the world through fear. Bapuji describes the order of change. First fear goes. Then stability comes. Then Paramshanti — supreme peace.

How Knowledge Ends Karmic Bondage

Knowledge also works at a deeper level than most people expect. Everyone says knowledge burns past actions. Bapuji asks a better question. How is action made in the first place? An action becomes binding through two things. Ignorance, plus body consciousness.

So if the idea “I am the doer” ends, no new binding action is formed at all. That is the real power of knowledge. It does not only burn the old. It shuts the machine that makes the new.

Knowledge also brings vairagya — a quiet detachment from perishable things. Bapuji is blunt about this. If you do not listen to knowledge, detachment will not come.

From Knowledge to Transformation

And listening once is not enough. He asks for Vichar Sagar Manthan—churning the ocean of thought. It means sitting with what you have heard until it becomes your own. He gives a beautiful exercise for beginners. Go out at night. Look at the stars.

Ask four questions. Who made them? Why? When? How?

Even this much thinking would change a person. But Maya has trapped people so badly that thinking itself has stopped. So the way out begins where it always begins. First knowledge. Then Yog, connection with the Supreme. Then Seva, selfless service. Then Dharna, living what you have understood.

IN SIMPLE WORDS

Knowledge is the first subject of spiritual life.

Gyan means recognition — of yourself and of the Creator.

It changes your identity from body to soul.

Then fear goes, stability comes, and Param Shanti follows.

Knowledge does not just burn old actions. It stops new ones from forming.

Now the practical question. How do you live in Maya without drowning in it?

CHAPTER 13

Living Within Maya Yet Becoming Maya-Jeet

Bapuji never tells anyone to leave the worldly duties and run away to a forest or mountains.

One instruction comes back again and again in his discourses.

Living in Maya While Remaining Above It

Bapuji gives the seeker a remarkable goal: live in Maya, yet become Mayajeet. Mayajeet means the one who has conquered Maya. He is also honest about how difficult this is. Household life itself is Maya. To remain in the household and still become Mayajeet is the greatest tapasya (austerity).

So what does a person actually do? Bapuji lists it simply.

Stay in Atma Gyan—the knowledge of the self. Stay established in soul consciousness, not body consciousness. Make effort for the soul's progress. This effort is called Purusharth. Keep away from the company of those completely lost in Maya. Company leaves its colour on you. Always remain in Gyan and Yog. Yog means connection with the Supreme. That connection is not decoration. It is the power supply of the soul.

Keep the intellect fixed on Paramdham. Remember where you are going. Bapuji says that when the intellect remains there, the pull of desire loses its grip.

He also gives a rule about expectations, and it is refreshingly direct. Expect nothing from Maya. Maya will give you nothing but a slap. Keep no expectations from anything limited. Be happy with whatever comes.

Rising Beyond the Inner Forms of Maya

There is an inner side to this work too. It concerns the three qualities of nature—*Bhavatit, Gunatit, Karmatit. Bapuji says these three qualities are a form of Maya. The one who goes beyond all three is Mayajeet.

Let us understand these three qualities in brief in this chapter

- Bhavatit: Beyond feelings and emotions. A state in which the soul transcends all material attachments. Without any worldly emotions.

Bapuji clarifies that strong emotion is itself a kind of Maya. Decisions taken under the influence of emotion turn out wrong. Therefore, he asks the seeker to remain in a steady state.

- Gunatit/ Nirgun: Nature around the pure soul is a mixture three characters/qualities such as “Satva”, “Rajo”, “Tamo”. This is pure soul conscious state or incorporeal state of soul.
- Karmatit / Karmatit Awastha: Beyond karma; a state in which the soul is free from the bondage of past actions. A state beyond karmic influence

The Complete Meaning of MayaJeet

Now Bapuji makes an important clarification th/at shows how carefully he uses spiritual terms. Even Mayajeet is not the final word, he says. Wherever creation and dissolution still takes place, Maya is still present.

So what does Mayajeet ultimately mean? It means the imperishable Supreme Knowledge. It means knowledge of that which exists beyond Maya altogether. When a soul becomes Mayajeet, one more attainment follows naturally. It becomes Jagatjeet—the conqueror of the world. Then it reaches the goal for which it came into this creation.

IN SIMPLE WORDS

Do not run away. Live in Maya and win over it.

Stay in self-knowledge, in yog, and in good company.

Keep the intellect fixed on the Paramdhaam.

Expect nothing from Maya.

Go beyond the three qualities and beyond emotional waves.

There is a surprising thing that happens to such a soul.

When Maya Runs Behind You

Most people believe that a spiritual person must stay monetarily poor or away from worldly possessions.

Bapuji describes something quite different

When you become established as a soul consciousness completely , worldly possessions/ success/ relationships etc starts coming after you. Bapuji describes these as Maya as well. In earlier chapters we learnt that our soul journey is to become establish in soul-consciousness not run after Maya . when one becomes Maya-jeet, that's when maya (worldly things) starts following. Here Maya means wealth and prosperity. It comes, and it comes in plenty.

The reason is not luck. Such a soul develops a natural attraction. Souls with physical body /without body begin to come near , looking for peace- supreme peace. And such soul consciousness beings gives them knowledge instead of advice.

People look at such a person and say, "See how much Maya he has. He is a great man. He possesses everything. He has become so important in the eyes of the world."

But the soul sees the situation very differently. It knows exactly what has come into its life, and it knows its own true nature. It is not deceived by the outward appearance of greatness.

Using Maya for the Welfare of the World

Then Bapuji gives permission that many seekers never expect to hear. A spiritually awakened soul does not have to reject Maya altogether. It can make the right use of Maya by directing it toward the welfare of the world rather than toward itself.

Bapuji says that such souls do nothing for their own benefit. Whatever comes to them is dedicated to the good of others. They serve with humility, wisdom, and without expectation. They seek nothing in return.

At first, very few people understand such a life. Those who remain absorbed in Maya cannot easily recognize a person who has risen above it. Yet vibrations speak more powerfully than words. Gradually, people begin to feel that this soul genuinely desires the welfare of all. One by one, they come forward, and the work naturally continues to grow.

Bapuji closes this teaching with a strong statement. Only a soul that becomes mayajeet while living in Maya can serve the world. The one still tied by desire cannot free anybody else. That is why the inner work comes first.

IN SIMPLE WORDS

When a soul becomes established in the self, wealth often comes to it.

The soul knows what it is, so it does not get caught.

It can use Maya rightly — for the world, not for itself.

Such souls keep no expectation from anyone.

Only one who wins over Maya can truly help others.

One question remains. Where is this journey finally going?

The Way Back to the Real World

Every book about illusion has to end somewhere real.

Bapuji ends where he always ends — at home.

The Soul's Original Home Is Peace

The soul's original state is Param Shanti—Supreme Peace. That is why every soul keeps searching for peace. It is not searching for something new; it is searching for its own original condition. Peace cannot be bought. Bapuji says it plainly: peace is not for sale in any market. So the return journey begins with a simple first step: know yourself. Bapuji repeats this before everything else.

Ask the three questions he continually gives: Who am I? Where have I come from? Why have I come?

When a soul knows itself, it also comes to know its Creator. The moment self-knowledge arises, the hold of Maya begins to weaken. The soul finally understands where it is standing. This is Mrityu Lok, the world of death. It is not the immortal world. Therefore, the soul naturally turns toward the immortal world.

That immortal world is Paramdham, the realm of Supreme Light and Supreme Elements. Reaching it is not a matter of belief. It is a matter of spiritual power within the soul.

The Path Back to Paramdham

Bapuji then repeats the same four steps in their proper order.

- Gyan—receive spiritual knowledge.
- Yog—establish a connection with the Supreme.
- Seva—serve selflessly.
- Dharna—live what you have understood in your daily life.

There is also one service that Bapuji asks of everyone who understands this knowledge. Spread the vibration of Paramshanti. Think it. Speak it. Let it radiate from your life.

And share the knowledge. Bapuji says that Gyan Daan, the gift of spiritual knowledge, is the greatest charity of all.

Remember Who You Truly Are

Bapuji offers a message of hope for the present age. The curtain of Maya is slowly lifting from the world. More and more people are beginning to search for the Supreme Truth.

The essence of this entire book can be expressed in one simple truth: this world is Maya, but you are not. You are a point of pure divine light, temporarily wearing a body made of the five elements.

Learn who you truly are. Stay connected with the Supreme. Live simply. Serve quietly. The illusion of Maya cannot hold a soul that has remembered its true self.

IN SIMPLE WORDS

The soul's first state is Param Shanti — supreme peace.

That is why every soul searches for peace.

The first step is to know yourself.

Then follow the four steps: knowledge, yog, service, and living it.

The illusion cannot hold a soul that has remembered itself.

GLOSSARY

Every Hindi and Sanskrit word used in this book is explained here, in the simplest words possible.

Akari: This is subtle form of a soul. This is a form created by energy. This form is not visible to our physical eye as it is in subtle form. Soul assumes a subtle form made of supreme elements. This subtle form is called “Akari”.

Amar Lok: The immortal world; a realm of supreme element where physical death does not exist. a state of existence beyond birth and death.

Asura: A soul whose thoughts, actions, and nature have become governed by Maya, body-consciousness, ego, attachment, anger, greed, lust, jealousy, and other negative tendencies. Such a soul lives contrary to spiritual knowledge and obstructs truth, righteousness, and the soul's progress toward Paramdham. Bapuji explains that every soul is originally pure. No soul is created as an Asura. As souls descend into the material creation and become increasingly influenced by Maya, they gradually lose their original divine qualities. When negative sanskaras begin to dominate, the soul acquires an Asuric nature.

Atma / Aatma: The soul. The conscious, eternal being within everybody. Distinct from the body, the senses, and the mind. . It is the true self. The soul is the source of all life and awareness.

Atma Swaroop / Soul Consciousness : the state of dwelling in the soul's original nature. Is the state in which one fully identifies with the soul rather than the body, this is the foundation of spiritual practise/ knowledge. When a seeker attains Atma Swaroop, the soul's original light, peace, and power are fully activated. Brahm Swaroop is the cosmic expression of this same state: the soul dwelling in its full cosmic identity.

Avinashi: Eternal. Means that which can never be destroyed, dissolved, transformed, or cease to exist. It is beyond time (Kala), beyond the five elements (Panch Tatva) and beyond the cycle of creation and destruction.

Bhavatit: Beyond feelings and emotions. A state in which the soul transcends all material attachments. Without any worldly emotions.

Brahmand: Solar system.

Brahmapuri: The abode of Brahma; a celestial realm within the solar system

Buddhi: Intelligence- the faculty of understanding. Buddhi is the intelligence or discerning faculty of the soul. When refined and oriented toward the eternal seed-form, allows the soul to read its own inner records of its journey and ascend. The higher the soul's purity, the clearer the buddhi.

Dharana: Living the knowledge. When knowledge and yog are practised steadily, the soul's nature changes and true divinity appears.

Divya Drishti: Divine vision. The capacity of the soul to perceive realities beyond the reach of the outer eyes. The inner sight that sees what the physical eyes cannot.

Gunn/ Guna/ Gunas: The subtle qualities or forces that shape human nature, consciousness, behaviour and spiritual condition. A person's thoughts, actions, and spiritual condition are influenced by different gunas. Creation and human nature traditionally have three guna—"Satva" means Purity, peace, wisdom, balance. Sattva uplifts the soul toward higher consciousness. Sato Pradhan souls tend toward meditation, wisdom, self-control, kindness, spiritual growth. "Rajo" means Activity, desire, restlessness, ambition, Rajas keeps the mind outwardly engaged in worldly pursuits. "Tamo" is dark or ignorance that means soul is in deep slumber, its actions are directionless. A state dominated by darkness, inertia, and negativity; the lowest quality of the soul. Tamas pulls consciousness downward. Satva=Satvik Rajo=Rajasik Tamo=Tamasik

- Sato: The quality of purity. The soul holds a good feeling for everyone.
- Rajo: The quality of restless activity. The soul wants to get and control the things around it.
- Tamo : The quality of darkness and dullness. The soul acts without direction

Gunatit/ Nirgun: Nature around the pure soul is a mixture three characters/qualities such as “Satva”, “Rajo”, “Tamo”. Means beyond all these qualities of nature which is otherwise known as Nirgun means “No quality of nature”. This is pure soul conscious state or incorporeal state of soul.

Gyan: Knowledge; specifically, divine or transcendental knowledge

Gyan Daan Mahadaan: The donation of knowledge as the greatest of all donations. The principle under which all of Bapuji’s books and teachings are offered freely to humanity.

Gyan Daan: The act of sharing knowledge; considered the highest form of charity

Jagat Mithya: The material world is temporary, perishable and constantly changing. It appears real, functions as a real world, and serves a purpose, but it does not possess eternal existence. Therefore, it is called Mithya—not because it does not exist, but because it is not everlasting.

Jagatjeet: The conqueror of the world. A soul that has won over

Maya naturally rises to this stage.

Kaal: Time. In Bapuji’s teaching, to be caught in time is to be caught in Maya.

Kaalateet: Beyond time. Stepping out of the wheel of time, and so out of illusion.

Karmatit / Karmatit Awastha: Beyond karma; a state in which the soul is free from the bondage of past actions. A state beyond karmic influence, when negativity is burned and the causal body becomes fully charged. The soul has got freedom from all karmic bondages

Lok/ Loka/ Lokas/ Lok: A dimension or layer of existence. Loka means world or realm. The layered regions through which souls descend and ascend on their cosmic journey. Within every Solar-System there are 14 lokas- layers of creation at different energy levels. Above the Earth there are seven: Bhu-loka, Bhuvār-loka, Swarga-loka, Maharloka, Janaloka, Tapaloka, and Satyaloka. Beyond these are Brahmapuri, Vishnupuri, Shivpuri and Paramdham.

Mahamaya: The great illusion. The same Maya at a larger scale, often appearing as immense happiness. Mahamaya is the deepest form of spiritual ignorance that must be overcome through true spiritual knowledge.

Mann: The mind of the soul. It is the mind that first thinks, and creation follows.

Maya: The illusory power of the material world that causes souls to forget their true nature. The world of attachment and suffering. Maya is not simply wealth or worldly objects. Maya is darkness. It is the great illusion that covers the soul's original nature. Bapuji defines Maya as the cause of all suffering and pain. The ocean of Maya is the world in which most souls wander, seeking happiness where only suffering lives.

Mayavi : A soul that is under the influence of Maya, identifying with the temporary material world and mistaking the perishable for the eternal. Such a person lives in body-consciousness, attachment, and ignorance of the soul's true nature.

Mayajeet: The conqueror of illusion. One who lives inside Maya without being caught by it.

Mithya : Unreal. Not lasting.

Mind/Mann: The first inner faculty to arise as the soul transitions from the formless to the form-based state. In the pure Param Light condition there is no Mind, no intellect, no Sanskar; the Mind appears with the very first thought-intent of the soul, and from that moment all further inner faculties unfold.

Mrityu Lok/ Mrityulok/ Mrityu loka: The mortal realm — the world of death. the soul, having descended through the higher realms, takes a body of all five elements. This Earth, this physical existence, is Mrityu Lok — the realm of death. Everything here is temporary. The purpose of life in Mrityu Lok is to use it as a crossing: to travel from Mrityu Lok to Amar Lok (the immortal realm, Paramdham). Understanding this transforms one's relationship to the world entirely.

Nirakari: The formless state of the soul, when it is pure divine light.

This is the soul's true state.

Paramdham/ Param-dham/Paramdhaam: The supreme abode- the original home of souls. Paramdham is the highest dimension within a Solar system-a world of pure divine light where the creator resides in formless form. Souls in Paramdham exist in complete peace, light, and bliss. It is the original home from which all souls come and to which the most advanced souls return. Also called Amar loka-the immortal realm. Every Creator of solar system, Galaxy, Universe, multiverses have their respective supreme abode in incorporeal form.

Paramshanti: Supreme peace. The original state of the soul, which is why every soul keeps searching for peace.

Purusharth/ Purushaarth: Sustained spiritual exertion; the prolonged inner effort by which the soul, having taken on form, gradually returns toward the formless state of its origin. Spiritual effort of self-enquiry and meditation carried out to understand the science of the soul.

Sakari: The physical form. The soul takes it when its energy falls.

Sanskar / Sanskars / Sankara / Sanskaar: Deep inner impressions or tendencies carried by the soul across lifetimes. In the pure Nirakari stage there are no Sanskars; they accumulate as the soul takes on form and acts within the realms of creation. This is character of soul which is recorded in its causal body. The mind of a soul works according to its sanskar.

Seva: Selfless service. In behad gyan, the highest service is to share this knowledge with others.

Shivpuri: The world above Vishnupuri, where deep peace is experienced.

Swarg Lok : The heavenly realm; a celestial dimension within the fourteen-tier universal structure. A higher dimension of creation above the physical world within the solar system. The third world above the earth. The bodies there are made of three elements — ether, air and fire

Tap / Tapasya: Spiritual austerity. Is deep- intense spiritual austerity and discipline sustained across many lifetimes.

Tattva: Element. This visible world is made of five elements — earth, water, fire, air and ether.

Trigunatit: Beyond all three qualities of nature — sato, rajo and tamo.

Vishnupuri / Vaikunth: The realm/ supreme abode of Lord Vishnu, below realm of Shivpuri. As the soul enters this realm, fifty per cent of the supreme elements in causal body are replaced by the three gross elements; the subtle body begins to cover the causal body at this point.

Vichar Sagar Manthan: Churning the ocean of thought. Reflecting on knowledge again and again until it becomes your own.

Vairagya: Detachment. living in the world while remaining inwardly free from excessive attachment and bondage. Freedom from worldly attachment. inner withdrawal from illusion (maya). A person may live in Grihastha Ashram and still possess true vairagya internally.

Vinashi: Perishable. That which is destroyed one day.

Vishnupuri: The world above Brahmapuri, also called Vaikunth.

Yog: Connection with the Supreme. When the soul loves its Creator deeply and forgets this physical world.

Yug / yuga/ yugas: A cosmic cyclic age. On earth time cycle repeats in the form of Yugas. First comes Satyug ,Tretayug then Dwapar-Yug and at last Kaliyug. These four Yuga combinedly known as Chaturyug at the end of which partial dissolutions occur.

Divisions of time periods on earth via Yugas

Time period on earth	Name of period
432000 years	Time period of Kali Yug (Average age of human 100 years)
864000 years	Time period of Dwapar Yug (Average age of human 1000 years)
1296000 years	Time period of Treta Yug (Average age of Human 10000 years)
1728000 years	Time period of Satya Yug (Average age of Human 100000 years)
4320000 years	Total time period of four Yugas (Kali+Dwapar+Treta+Satya) = 1 Chaturyug

“Gyan Daan Maha Daan”

Sharing Knowledge is the Highest Charity

— Bapuji Dashrathbbhai Patel

THIS WORLD IS MAYA — AND YOU ARE NOT.

WHY DOES NOTHING YOU CHASE EVER TRULY LAST?

WHAT IS THE INVISIBLE NETWORK OF FEAR, DESIRE AND FALSE IDENTITY

THAT QUIETLY RULES EVERY HUMAN MIND?

THIS BOOK REVEALS THE ANCIENT TRUTH BEHIND THE MATRIX,
HOW MAYA CATCHES THE SOUL, AND HOW TRUE KNOWLEDGE BREAKS THE NETWORK —

BECAUSE THE ILLUSION CANNOT HOLD A SOUL THAT HAS REMEMBERED ITSELF.

*“THE WORLD TAKES MAYA TO BE
THE TRUTH. MAYA IS NOT THE TRUTH AT ALL.”*
