About Bapuji

Bapuji (full name: Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel, also lovingly called “Dadaji” by the younger generation) was born in 1956 in the small village of Akhaj in the Mehsana district of Gujarat. However, he spent his childhood in another village named Ambasan, also located in the Mehsana district.

In the early part of his life, he was a highly successful lawyer. Later, he devoted his life to realizing the supreme spiritual truth and bringing this divine knowledge forward for the welfare of humanity. Today, this supreme knowledge serves as a guiding light for true seekers to realize their ultimate destiny. It is a blessing of the highest divinity that the present time is witnessing the rise of this supreme spiritual knowledge, guiding souls on Earth to return to their original source.

Despite being raised in a very poor family and facing challenging circumstances, Bapuji had a deep desire to transform this sorrowful and suffering world into a better place. At the young age of six, he questioned God repeatedly, asking why God remained silent about the suffering of humanity. This intense longing to end human suffering eventually led him to attain the highest level of spirituality later in life.

Even as a child, Bapuji would spend hours alone in the fields, often neglecting his own comfort. Due to poverty, he would walk barefoot without shoes or sandals, frequently getting pricked by thorns. Many times, he would stay late in the fields and, on his way back home, encounter subtle world entities. These experiences sparked his interest in communicating with subtle world souls.

Bapuji was courageous from a young age, which helped him overcome many obstacles. Alongside his studies in chartered accountancy (CA), he gave tuition classes to support himself financially. Later, he completed his Bachelor of Law (LLB) degree and became a well-known lawyer in Ahmedabad.

In 1997, he established a spiritual institution called “Vishwa Parivartak Ishwariya Vidhyalay” in Chenpur, Ahmedabad, with the mission of transforming this mortal world, filled with suffering and disorder, into an eternal divine world of immortality. Smt. Sushma Tandon, lovingly known as “Maa,” worked alongside Bapuji in this grand divine mission.

To accomplish this mission, Bapuji worked tirelessly, dedicating all his resources to this divine purpose. During that time, he would deliver continuous spiritual discourses for up to 18 hours without rest. In these discourses, he explained the highest dimensions of divine knowledge, which he realized through deep meditation and divine vision in a state of superconsciousness. This knowledge goes beyond the imagination of the ordinary human mind.

Bapuji’s teachings cover a vast range of topics, including the types of celestial creators across different dimensions, the creation of our solar system, galaxy, and universe, and most importantly, the transcendental knowledge of the multiverse and realities beyond it. His knowledge is supremely profound and is intended for highly evolved seekers, referred to as “behad souls.” According to Bapuji, these “behad souls” will play a key role in transforming this mortal world into an eternal divine realm.

At present, Bapuji remains deeply engaged in intense meditation and samadhi for long hours. He does not meet anyone, as he is continuously immersed in his transcendental mission in a superconscious state.

Preface

“Gyan Daan Maha Daan”

(Sharing Knowledge is the Highest Charity)

Share to the maximum extent with all.

— by Bapuji Dasbrathbbhai Patel

There are questions that the modern mind cannot easily set aside. Are there other worlds besides our own? Are there other beings, other Earths, other lives running parallel to this one? Has someone, somewhere, lived a life that mirrors mine — almost the same, yet slightly different?

These questions have begun to surface everywhere. Scientists speak of the multiverse, of cold spots in space, of universes colliding. People share strange experiences of waking up in lives that no longer match their memory. The human mind, after centuries of being trained to look only at the visible world, is now beginning to look beyond it.

This book is offered as a quiet companion in that search. It does not aim to convince. It only carries forward, in clear and simple words, what Bapuji has explained in his discourses. The reader is invited to walk slowly through these pages and let understanding settle on its own.

Whether parallel universes are real, why souls travel through them, why some lives seem to overlap, and what lies far beyond our own solar system — Bapuji has spoken on all of this with great clarity, drawing from his divine vision and from the deep wisdom of the Shastras. The pages that follow are an offering of that wisdom, shared in the spirit of Gyan Daan Maha Daan.

May this bring a moment of stillness, and may the reader's own search be gently strengthened by it.

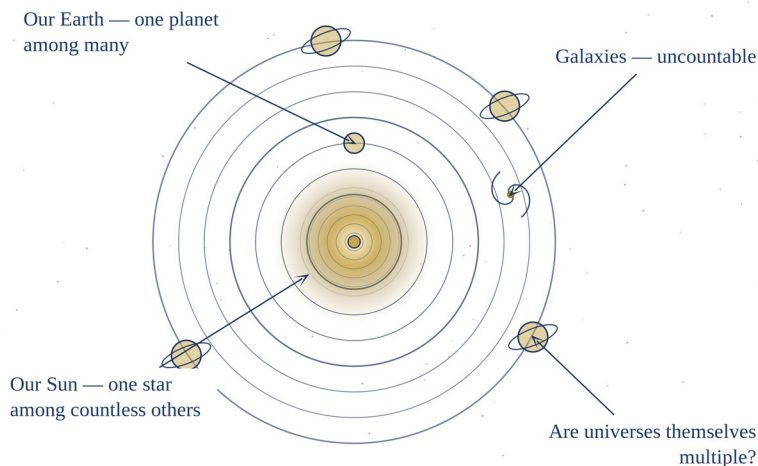

Chapter One

Do Parallel Universes Exist?

This is the question that has begun to surface in every part of the world. People are asking it openly. Scientists are studying it. Internet stories are spreading it. The question is simple, but its weight is enormous.

Do parallel universes exist?

For most of human history, this question could not even be asked. The world was thought to be one. The Earth was thought to be at the centre of everything. Anyone who suggested otherwise was ridiculed, or worse. Slowly, century by century, that limited picture began to break. The Earth turned out to be one planet among many. The Sun turned out to be one star among countless others. Galaxies turned out to be uncountable. And now, in our own time, the question has reached its next stage. Are universes themselves multiple? Are there more than one?

The picture of creation keeps widening

Bapuji's Direct Answer

Bapuji has answered this question without hesitation. According to him, parallel universes are real. They are not one or two. They are infinite. The universe we know is the smallest fragment of a creation so vast that ordinary words cannot contain it.

According to Bapuji this is not speculation. Bapuji has spoken from direct divine vision in the nirakari state — the state of pure formlessness in which the soul observes directly. In that state, he has seen parallel universe. He has seen parallel Earths. He has seen parallel souls living parallel lives. He has seen the way these creations are organised — into galaxies, into universes, into multiverses, and into still higher dimensions beyond the reach of present human thought and perception.

In our own Brahmanda — our solar system — there is one Brahma, one Vishnu, one Shankar. But across the wider creation, there are countless Brahmas, Vishnus, countless Shankars. Each governs a creation of its own, similar in pattern to ours, with its own Earth, its own people, its own slow unfolding of life.

This was already known. The Shastras of Sanatan Dharma have written of it for thousands of years. The Devi Bhagwat Puran tells of how the Devi once carried Brahma in her divine chariot to other Brahmands, where he saw other Brahmas exactly like himself with multiple heads from 10 heads to 100 heads. What was preserved in scripture for so long is now being slowly approached by science. The two streams — ancient knowledge and modern inquiry — are at last beginning to meet.

Why This Matters

If parallel universes exist, the picture of reality changes completely. Stories that float across internet are no longer impossible. The accounts of saints and yogis moving between worlds become credible in a new way. The boundaries of the soul itself need to be rethought. The reader is gently asked to set aside, for a moment, the assumption that this physical Earth is the only real place in existence.

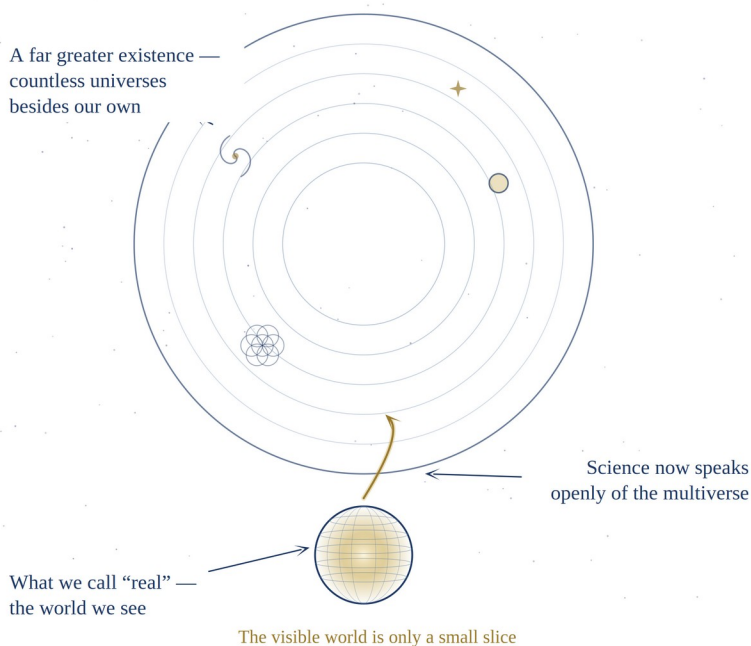

This book offers, in the simplest possible language, what Bapuji has said about all of this. Real-life cases will be examined. The mechanism by which souls cross between worlds will be explained. The hierarchy of creation — from solar systems to galaxies to universes to multiverses and beyond — will be laid out, step by step. The reader will be invited again and again, to let the inner picture of reality quietly expand.

Everything that follows rests on the answer given in this opening chapter. Parallel universes exist. They have always existed. They will always exist. Bapuji has seen them, and he speaks of what he has seen.

Chapter Two

The Question That Will Not Settle

In ordinary life, we treat the world we see as the only real one. The body we touch, the house we live in, the people around us — these feel solid and certain. Anything beyond this feels imaginary. But the more honestly we look, the more we begin to notice that what we call "real" is actually a tiny slice of something far humongous.

Modern science itself has begun to admit this. Researchers now speak openly about the multiverse — the possibility of countless universes besides our own. They speak of dimensions that cannot be touched or photographed, of forces that cannot be measured directly. The walls between physics and spirituality are slowly thinning.

Bapuji has explained this question with great patience. According to him, the universe is not single. It is one of many. Around our visible world there are subtle layers, and far beyond our solar system there are infinite numbers of other solar systems, galaxies, universes, and even worlds beyond what most people imagine.

This is not a new discovery. It is an ancient truth, returning at the right time. Shastras and Puranas in Sanatan Dharma have always spoken of multiple worlds. They speak of parallel Brahmands, of similar creations, of beings who travel between dimensions. What was once written in scripture is now being approached, slowly, by science.

B a p u j i I n s i g h t

"Pairalal Brahmaand ek samaan, Brahma ek samaan, aatma ek samaan, srishti ek samaan — sab kuch hoga."

"Parallel creations exist that are alike — alike in their Brahma, alike in their souls, alike in their entire creation. Everything will be the same."

This single sentence opens an immense possibility. If creation is not one but many, then every fixed idea we hold about ourselves and our place in it begins to soften. We are not the only ones. This Earth is not the only Earth. The story we are living may be one of many similar stories unfolding elsewhere.

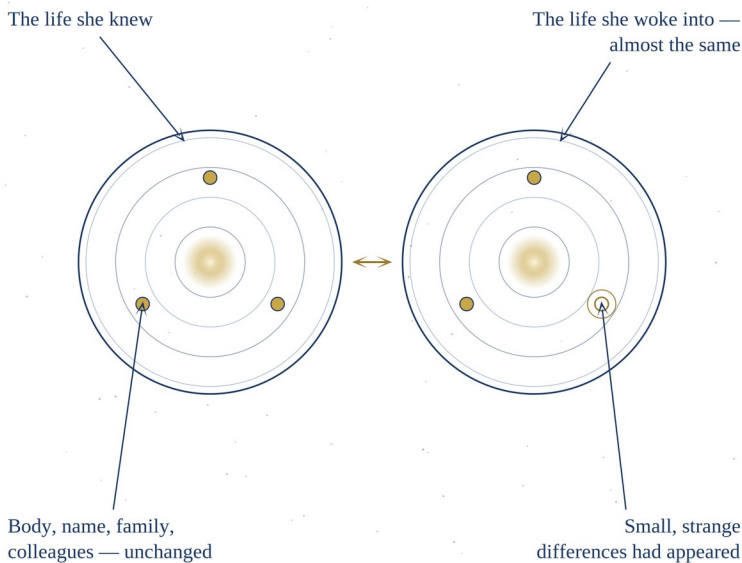

The chapters that follow do not attempt to prove this. They simply present what Bapuji has said decades ago. Some readers will recognise these truths immediately. Others will need time. Both are welcome. The aim is not belief, but a quiet expansion of understanding.

Chapter Three

A Story That Defies Explanation

There is a story that has travelled widely on the internet. It concerns a Spanish woman named Lerina Garcia. She is reported to have gone to sleep one night in her ordinary life, and to have woken up the next morning into a life that was almost — but not exactly — her own.

Her body was the same. Her name was the same. Her family was the same. The colleagues at her workplace were the same. But her job designation had changed. Small, strange differences had appeared in her surroundings. Things that should have been familiar were slightly off.

One life, and a life almost like it

She began searching for an explanation. She visited doctors. She underwent every kind of medical test she could think of. Nothing was wrong with her body. Her mind was sharp. There was no illness, no injury, no breakdown. And yet she could not understand what had happened.

This kind of story raises a question that science cannot easily answer. If she had truly come from another universe, what happened to the original Lerina Garcia who lived on this Earth? Where did she go? How can two slightly different versions of the same life suddenly switch?

Bapuji's Explanation

Bapuji has spoken about such incidents directly. According to him, these are not works of fiction. They are real events, but their explanation lies not in the physical world. It lies in the sukshma jagat — the subtle world.

All around our Earth, there are subtle layers of existence. They are similar to our own world, yet slightly different. In these subtle layers, there are villages and cities and people that closely resemble those on Earth. The geography is similar. The relationships are similar. Only small details vary from one layer to another.

Souls travel between these layers. When a soul from a parallel layer of existence enters into the body of a person on Earth, the experience can feel exactly like what Lerina described. Suddenly, the world looks slightly different because the soul looking at it is not the same soul that fell asleep. The memories of two slightly different lives begin to merge, and the person cannot tell which life is the real one.

Sometimes, instead of one soul entering another body, a soul is briefly carried by rays into a parallel layer and shown that world. When such a soul returns, it carries the memory of a life that does not match the one it remembers. The body is unharmed. The mind is undamaged. But the inner experience has been deeply disturbed.

B a p u j i I n s i g h t

"Yahaan ki aatmaaon ko vo rays maar ke utha ke doosri layers mein le jaate hain."

"Souls from this Earth are taken by rays and carried into other layers, where they are shown a world like this one."

This is why the doctors found nothing as published in the report. The disturbance was not in the body. It was in the soul's brief crossing into a layer that is not normally accessible. From the outside, everything appeared normal. From the inside, everything had quietly shifted.

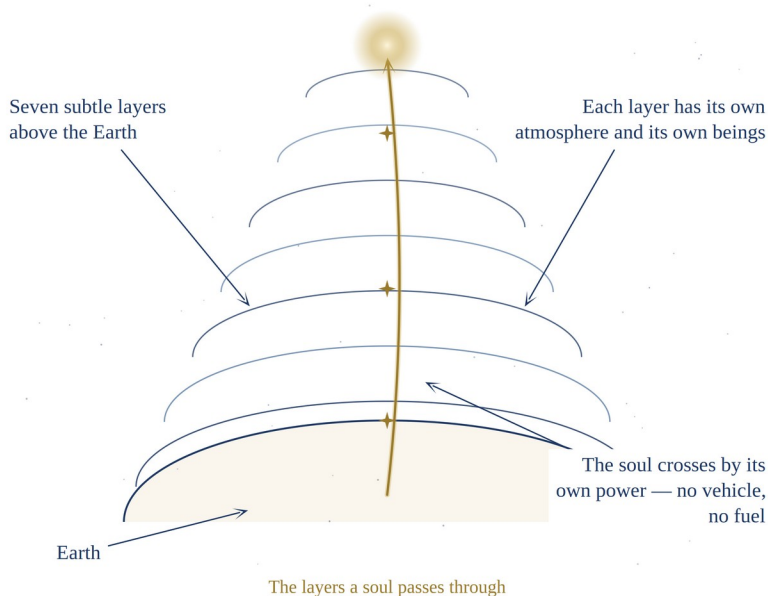

Such incidents are not rare in the deeper sense. They have been happening for many ages. Today they reach the public because of the internet. In earlier times they would happen quietly, and very few would ever hear about them.

Chapter Four

How Souls Cross Between Worlds

To understand how souls move between worlds, the first step is to set aside the idea that the soul is bound to the body. The soul is not the body. The body is a vehicle. The soul is the conscious energy that drives the vehicle, and it has the capacity to travel far beyond what the body can.

Around our Earth, there are many subtle layers. Bapuji has often referred to seven layers above the Earth, but within each of these layers there are further sub-layers. The total number of dimensions is far greater than what can be easily counted. Each layer has its own atmosphere, its own beings, and its own set of conditions for life.

Souls move between these layers. Some are residents of one layer. Others are visitors. Still others are travellers from much farther away — from other solar systems, from distant galaxies, from universes beyond ours, and even from greater dimensions of creation. All of these souls are present in the subtle layers around our Earth.

When a soul from one layer wishes to enter another, it does not need a vehicle. It does not need fuel. The movement happens through the power of the soul itself. The greater the soul's power, the greater the distance it can cover, and the more layers it can pass through.

Three Possibilities

Bapuji has explained that when a soul from a parallel layer comes into contact with a soul on Earth, three things can happen. The first possibility is that the visiting soul enters the body of a person on Earth. The Earth-bound soul does not leave entirely, but the visiting soul shares the body for a short period and looks at the Earth through that body's eyes. During this time, the person feels strangely different but does not know why.

The second possibility is that the visiting soul sends rays of its own thought-energy into the Earth-bound soul. Through these rays, it transmits the memories and impressions of its own world. The Earth-bound soul then experiences strange recollections — places it has never been to, faces it has never seen, lives it has never lived. These are not hallucinations as explained by Bapuji. They are real impressions from another layer of existence.

The third possibility is that the Earth-bound soul itself is gently lifted, briefly, into another layer. The rays of a more powerful soul carry it across. There, it sees a world that looks almost like the one it knows, but with small differences. When it returns, the memory of that crossing remains.

B a p u j i I n s i g h t

"Vo aatma usi aatma mein pravesb kar jaati hai, ya ray maar ke doosri duniya ki baatein merge karaati hai."

"Either the soul enters into another soul, or it transmits rays to merge the experiences of another world into it."

This is the deeper mechanism behind the stories that surface from time to time. They are not random. They are not the imagination of disturbed minds. They are real movements of consciousness across dimensions that the average person on Earth cannot ordinarily perceive.

The Connection That Pulls

There is one important point to note. Such crossings are not entirely accidental. There is usually a connection between the souls involved. The visiting soul has some kind of karmic bond — perhaps from a far earlier time, perhaps from another life, perhaps from another dimension altogether — with the soul on Earth. It is this connection that draws the two souls together across the layers.

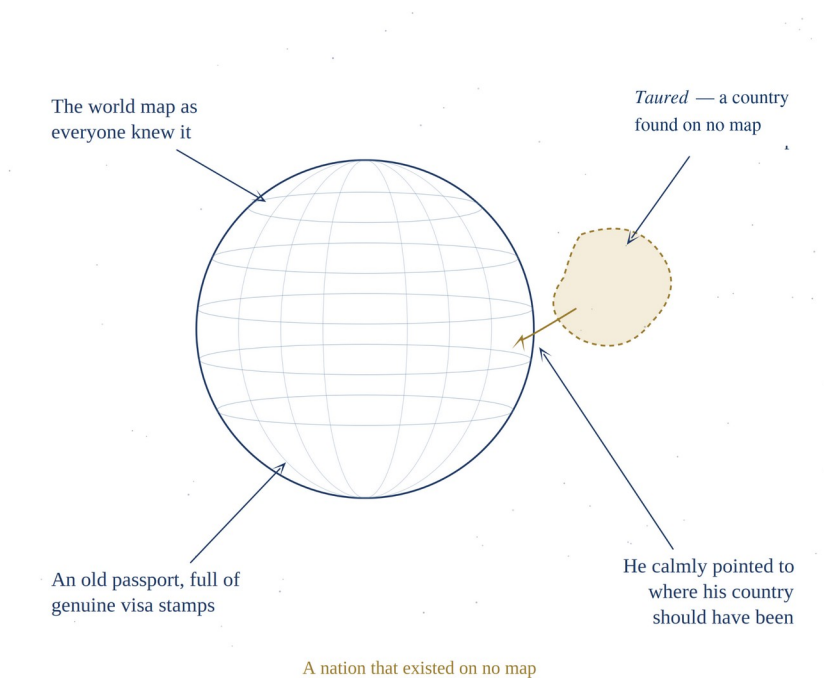

Without such a connection, the crossing would not happen. The vastness of creation does not allow random meetings. Every encounter, even at this subtle level, has its own quiet reason. This is one of the silent laws of the deeper world.

Chapter Five

Man from a Country That Did Not Exist

In 1954, a man landed at Haneda Airport in Tokyo. He had arrived on a regular commercial flight. When he reached the customs counter, the officials began checking his documents, and something strange came to their attention.

At first, the man spoke in French. Then he switched to Japanese. He moved between languages with ease. When his passport was examined, the officials saw that it had been issued by a country named Taured. They had never heard of such a country. They opened their atlas. Taured did not appear anywhere on the map of the world.

The man calmly pointed to a country on the map and said that the place he came from used to be called Taured. The passport was old, well-used, and full of visa stamps from many countries. There was even a stamp showing that he had previously visited Japan. The Japanese visa records confirmed that he had indeed entered Japan before.

The officials were unsure what to do with him. They placed him in a hotel for the night, intending to question him further the next morning. Two security officers were posted outside his door. The next day, when they entered the room, the man had disappeared. His documents — held by the airport authorities, kept under careful supervision — had also vanished. There was no trace of him left anywhere.

How Could This Happen

This story has puzzled investigators for many decades. A man cannot simply enter a country with a passport from a place that does not exist. He cannot vanish from a guarded hotel room. His documents cannot disappear from a secure office. According to the widely circulated account, all of this is said to have happened.

Bapuji has spoken about such cases. According to him, when a being from a higher dimension descends into the world of five elements — moving from the avyakt (unmanifest) to the vyakt (manifest) — it takes on a form that resembles a human being. It can carry the records and documents of its own world. To us, those records appear strange because the place they come from cannot be found on our maps. But for the being itself, those records are perfectly real.

The languages such a being speaks do not need to be learned in the ordinary way. Souls from higher dimensions often travel together in groups. Each soul in the group may know a different language of Earth. When one soul comes down into a body, the other souls of its group remain connected through subtle rays. Through these rays, knowledge flows. The being can speak French in one moment, Japanese in the next, and any other language as required, because the connection to its group remains intact.

B a p u j i I n s i g h t

"Avyakt duniya se vyakt mein aakar aisa passport lekar aaya — uske saath kai aatmaayein hoti hain, alag-alag dharti ke language jaanne waali."

"He came from the unmanifest world into the manifest world carrying such a passport, and many souls travel with him — souls who know the different languages of this Earth."

As for the disappearance, Bapuji has said that for a being of that level, vanishing is not difficult. The body it had taken was not made of dense earthly elements alone. It still retained much of its subtle nature. To dissolve back into that subtle state — and to take its records with it — requires only a single act of will. The hotel room, the documents, the entire trace, all of it dissolves at once.

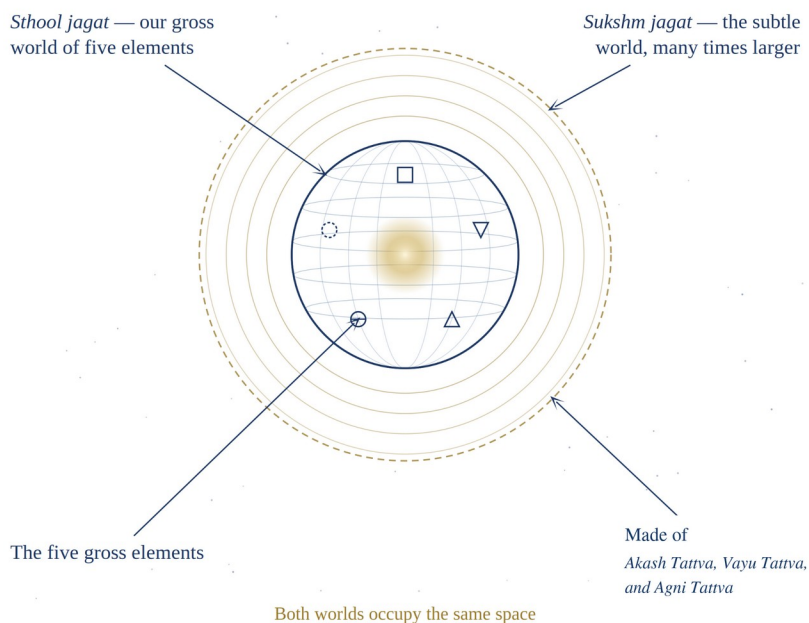

Such events are not new. They have happened on Earth from very ancient times. The difference today is that they are recorded, photographed, written about, and shared. In earlier ages, such an event might have happened in a remote place and been quietly forgotten. The modern world cannot forget. It documents everything, and through that documentation, the strange truths of deeper reality are slowly being brought into common awareness.

Chapter Six

The Hidden World Beside Us

The world we see with our eyes is only a small portion of what exists. Bapuji has explained that beside our gross physical world (stbhoor jagat) of five elements — there is a far greater world that cannot be seen which is (sukshma jagat) subtle world. The subtle world is many times larger than the physical world, and it is intimately connected to it.

The subtle world is not somewhere else. It is right here, surrounding the Earth, occupying the same space we walk through every day. The reason we cannot see it is simple. Our physical eyes are made of gross elements. They can only register what is also made of gross elements. The subtle world is composed of finer elements — These are composed of Akash Tattva (ether), Vayu Tattva (air), and Agni Tattva (fire) in their refined forms. These do not reflect light in a way our eyes can capture. Hence the subtle world remains invisible to us, even though it is immediately present.

Mirrors of This World

One of the most remarkable features of the subtle world is its similarity to the gross one. Bapuji has said that whatever exists in the sthool jagat also exists in some form in sukshma jagat. There are villages there. There are cities. There are temples and ashrams. There are rivers and mountains. The subtle landscape mirrors the gross landscape, though with finer textures and a different quality of light.

Bapuji Insight

"Jo sthool duniya mein hai, vo sukshma duniya mein bhi hai."

"Whatever exists in the gross world also exists in the subtle world."

This is why so many of the temples on Earth have a corresponding form in the subtle realm. The famous Somnath temple, for example, was first built in the subtle world by the Moon God before its physical version came into physical form, as explained by Bapuji in his discourse. Many holy places have this dual existence. The pilgrimage that one undertakes physically is also being undertaken, in a parallel form, in the subtle dimension.

Great saints, sages have always known this. They have spoken of seeing temples that no one else could see, of meeting beings that no one else could perceive. When such a soul travels in the subtle dimension, it is shown the parallel landscape. From a distance, it can appear as if such souls are royalty in the subtle world — kings or great lords — because of the spiritual stature they carry there.

Why Modern People Cannot Perceive It

If the subtle world is right beside us, why does the average person never glimpse it? Bapuji has answered this clearly. Human soul on Earth has fallen into a heavy state. It is wrapped in many layers of gross elements. It is weighed down by countless desires, by anger, by attachment, by the constant noise of the senses. In such a state, the inner perception is dulled.

In ancient times, when the human soul was lighter and purer, the subtle world was not so distant. Sages and yogis could open their inner vision and see what lay beyond. Today, this capacity has greatly weakened. It has not been lost. It is only buried beneath the heaviness of modern life. With knowledge, with stillness, with the quiet practice of soul-consciousness, the inner eye can be reawakened.

Until that reawakening happens, the subtle world remains only a few feet away — and yet entirely unseen. This is one of the great quiet truths of human existence on this Earth.

Chapter Seven

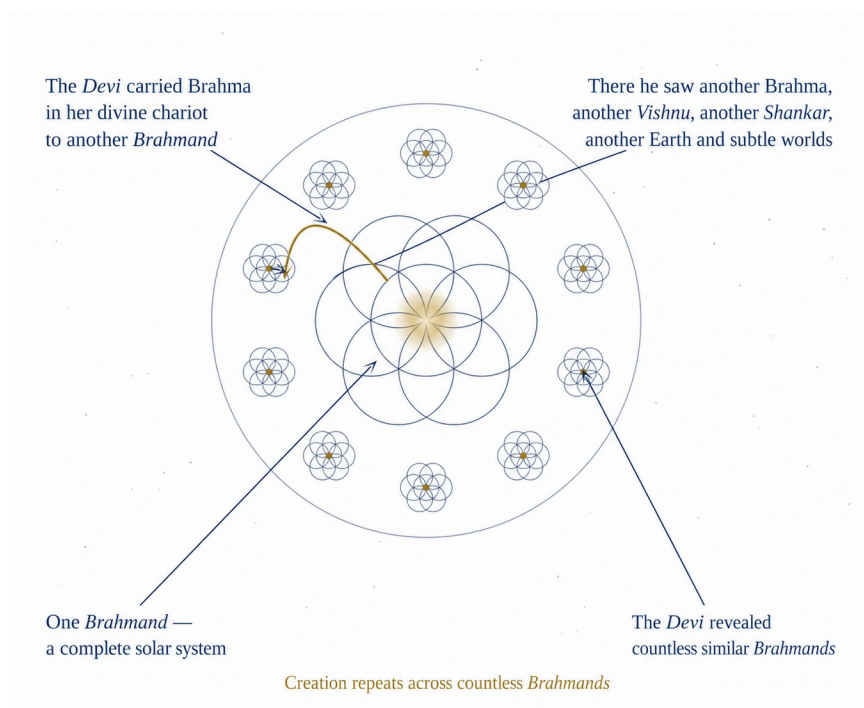

Wisdom of Ancient Scriptures

The idea of parallel universes is not new. It has been written about in the Shastras of Sanatan Dharma for thousands of years. Long before modern science began to discuss the multiverse, the ancient sages had described it. They wrote of infinite Brahmands, of beings who travel between them, and of the divine forces that govern them all.

The Story of Brahma's Pride

There is a beautiful account in the Devi Bhagwat Puran. The Brahma of our solar system once developed a deep pride. He thought to himself that there was no one like him, that he alone was the creator of all that existed. He believed that he had made the entire universe with his own power.

To remove this pride, the Devi — the divine feminine force — gently invited him into her chariot. She took him on a journey across creation. In her chariot, Brahma was carried to another Brahmanda. There he saw something that astonished him. He saw another Brahma, exactly like himself, performing the same duties. He saw another Vishnu, another Shankar, another Earth, another set of subtle worlds. The entire creation he had thought belonged only to him was repeated again, intact. Devi did not stop there. She showed him another Brahmand and many more. Each one had its own Brahma, its own Vishnu, its own Shankar, its own creation. Each was complete in itself. Brahma's pride dissolved. He understood that he was not the only creator. He was one creator among innumerable others, all performing their duties under a higher divine order.

B a p u j i I n s i g h t

"Aise anek Brahmaand Devi ne Brahma ko dikhaaye, pairalal Brahmaand ek samaan, sab kuch ek samaan boga."

"The Devi showed Brahma many such Brahmands, parallel creations that are alike in every way."

This account is not a metaphor. Bapuji has stated this clearly. It is a real event recorded in the scriptures. Devi was teaching a real truth — that creation is infinite, that there are countless Brahmands, and that within each one the same kinds of divine beings carry out the same kinds of work. This is the spiritual foundation of what modern science is now beginning to call the multiverse.

What Scriptures Quietly Held

Many such truths have been preserved in the Vedas, the Puranas, and the Shastras. They were not written as myths. They were written as records of what the great seers had perceived in deep meditation. The language is sometimes symbolic, and over the centuries the meaning has often been forgotten. But the original knowledge has remained.

Today, with the help of modern instruments, science is rediscovering these truths in fragments. It is finding evidence of multiple universes. It is mapping the structure of galaxies. It is searching for life on other planets. Each new discovery quietly confirms what the ancient texts had said long ago.

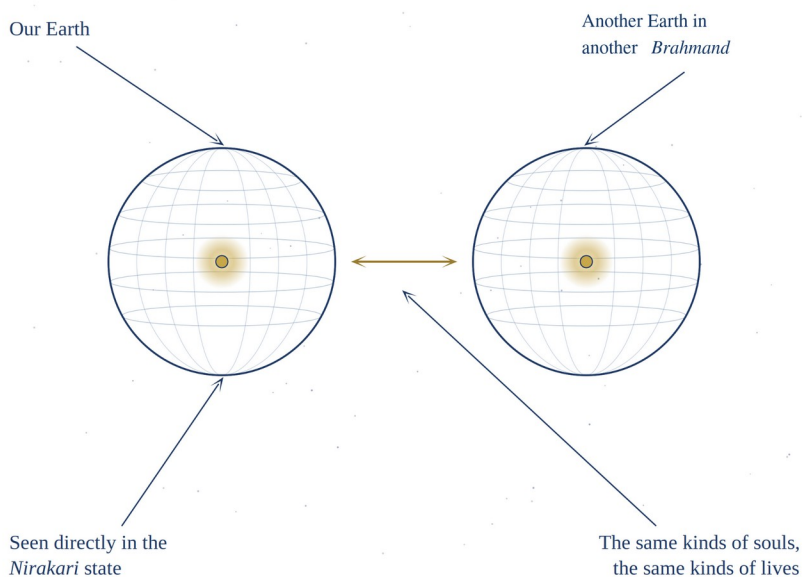

Bapuji has often pointed out that the wisdom of Sanatan Dharma is not religion in the narrow sense. It is a record of supreme knowledge. It contains what the human soul will need in every age. The reader who approaches it with patience finds, again and again, that the deepest truths of the cosmos have already been preserved within it.

Chapter Eight

Identical Parallel Universes

One of the most fascinating aspects of the parallel universe teaching is the idea of identity. In the Shastras, it is said that across parallel creations, there is not only similarity of structure but similarity of beings. The same kinds of souls, the same kinds of forms, the same kinds of lives repeated across countless worlds.

This means that somewhere, in another Brahmand, there is another Earth. On that other Earth, there are other people. Among those people, there may be one whose face is similar to yours, whose name is similar to yours, whose life resembles yours, with only small variations. The same is true for every soul. Each of us has, in some sense, parallel versions of ourselves living parallel versions of our lives.

Likeness repeated across creations

This is not a wild speculation. Bapuji has confirmed it directly from his own divine vision. When he enters the Nirakari state — the state of pure soul-consciousness without any form — he has perceived these things clearly. He has stated that across the many Brahmands, similar identities, similar villages, similar cities, similar sequences of events all exist. Everything that happens in one place is, in some form, also happening in another.

B a p u j i I n s i g h t

"Pairalal Brahmaand ek samaan — Brahma ek samaan, srishti ek samaan, gaaon ek samaan, sab kuch ek samaan hoga."

"Parallel Brahmandas are alike — alike in their Brahma, alike in their creation, alike even in their villages. Everything will be the same."

Why Things Repeat

The reason for this repetition lies in the nature of creation itself. Each Brahmand is created by one Shiva who has a particular soul-power. When many Shivas of similar power create their own Brahmands, the resulting creations resemble one another. The patterns of creation are not random. They follow certain laws. The same kinds of laws produce the same kinds of worlds.

It is the same way that a single seed of a particular tree, when planted in many fields, produces trees that look very similar. The pattern carried in the seed determines the form. The Shivas who create Brahmands are all rooted in the same divine source. Their creations naturally resemble one another. Only the small details — the specific events, the precise outcomes — vary.

What This Means for the Soul

This teaching softens many of the fears that the human soul carries. It tells us that the present life is not the only stage on which the soul exists. It tells us that the choices we make are part of a much larger pattern. It reminds us that the loneliness we sometimes feel is an illusion — for in countless parallel forms, similar souls are walking similar paths.

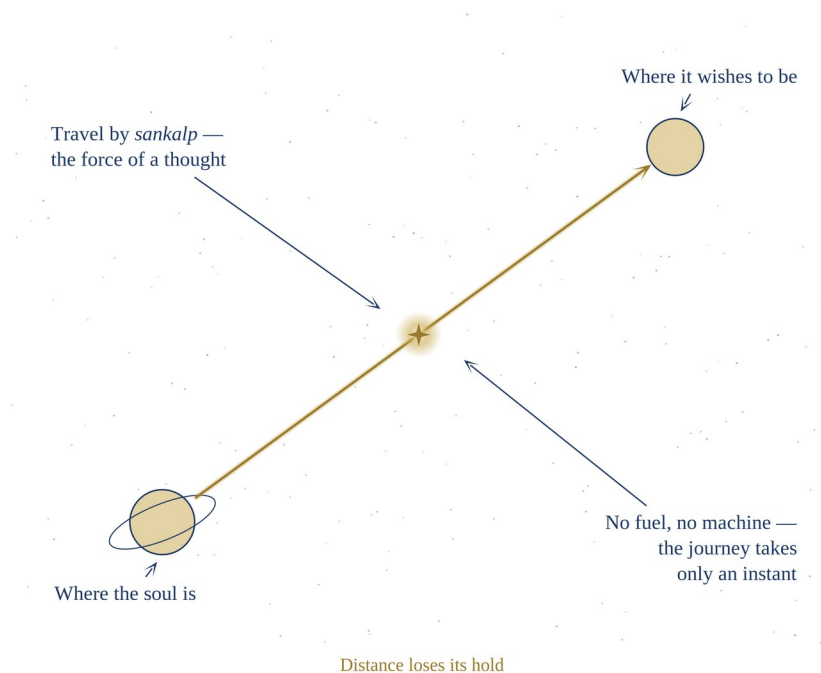

It also tells us that the journey of the soul is far longer and far richer than we imagine. The soul has been moving across these dimensions for unimaginable periods of time. It has lived in many worlds, taken many forms, and forgotten most of what it has been. To remember even a fragment of this larger journey is, in itself, the beginning of awakening.

Chapter Nine

Travel Beyond Distance

In the physical world, distance is a great obstacle. A spacecraft from Earth has not yet been able to cross even our own solar system. The fuel required to travel between stars is unimaginable. The fastest signals we can send — radio waves and light — take years to reach even the nearest stars.

In the subtle world, distance behaves very differently. Souls there do not depend on fuel. They do not depend on machines. They travel by the power of sankalp — by the simple force of a thought. Where a powerful soul wishes to be, it is. The journey takes only an instant.

The Practice of Kashi Karavat

Bapuji has spoken of an old spiritual practice known as Kashi Karavat. In ancient times, certain seekers who wished to attain Shivpuri — the higher subtle abode of Lord Shiva, they would go to Kashi to lay down their physical body in a particular way, and leave it behind. The soul, freed from the body, would not need to travel through ordinary space. In a single moment, it would appear in Shivpuri.

The distance involved is not small. Bapuji has explained that Shivpuri, in our solar system, lies at a distance of around ninety-four trillion kilometres from the Earth. Light itself, travelling at three hundred thousand kilometres per second, would take many years to cover such a distance. And yet a soul in the right state of consciousness covers it in a single moment.

B a p u j i I n s i g h t

"Vahaan se aatma ek pal mein Shivpuri mein pragat ho jaati thi."

"From there, in a single moment, the soul would appear in Shivpuri."

The Reason Distance Falls Away

Why does distance behave this way for the soul? Bapuji has explained that distance, as we know it, is a property of the gross world. It is bound to the five elements. Where the five elements thin out, where supreme elements take over, the rules of distance no longer apply. The subtle dimensions are governed by laws of consciousness, not by laws of physical space.

In Shivpuri and in the dimensions like it, there is no need for vehicles. The soul itself is the vehicle. The greater the soul-power, the farther and faster it can travel. A soul of one kala can cross another solar system in a fraction of a second. A soul of higher kala can move through entire galaxies in similar time. At the highest levels, even the boundaries of universes pose no obstacle.

This is why the deities and great beings of the Shastras could move so freely between worlds. Narad Muni could appear in Vaikuntha one moment and on Earth the next. The devis and devtas could descend to bless devotees and return at will. These were not poetic exaggerations. They were descriptions of how the higher soul travels.

The Relevance for Today

In our present condition on Earth, the soul has lost almost all of this capacity. Wrapped in the heaviness of five elements, weighed down by karma, lost in the noise of desires, it can scarcely move within its own body, let alone across dimensions. But the capacity has not been destroyed. It has only been buried.

As the soul gradually purifies itself through knowledge and meditation, the older capacities begin to return. At first they appear as flashes of intuition. Then as moments of inner stillness in which something far greater is briefly sensed. Eventually, with sustained effort, the soul begins to remember what it once was — and what it can again become.

Chapter Ten

Multiple Versions of Ourselves In Parallel Universe

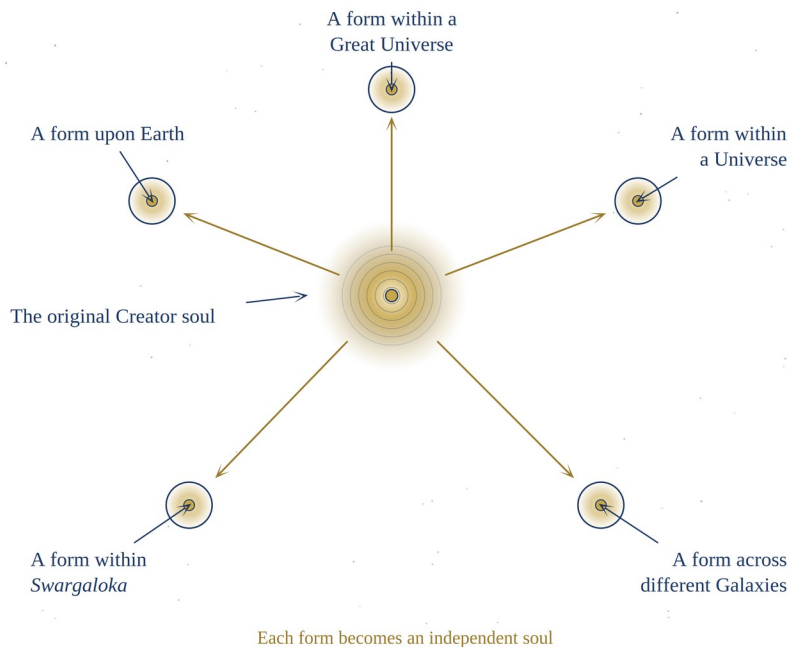

One of the most fascinating questions raised by the concept of parallel universes is whether multiple versions of the same person can exist simultaneously. If they do, are they all connected? Do they share the same destiny, or does each have its own independent life and free will? According to Bapuji, the reality is far more profound than the common interpretation of parallel universes.

The Creation of Multiple Forms Across the Cosmos

Bapuji explains that souls travelling through distant Great Universes and even Great-Great Universes often create numerous forms during their vast cosmic journey. As they pass through different realms, they establish separate manifestations in various dimensions.

A soul may leave:

- One form within a Great Universe.
- Another within a Universe.
- Another across different Galaxies.
- Another within Swargaloka (the Heavenly Realm).
- Yet another upon Earth.

Initially, these forms originate from a single Creator soul. However, over time, each created form develops into an independent soul with its own existence.

Does Every Version Have Free Will?

Shri Anant asks whether each of these created forms possesses its own independent free will.

Bapuji confirms that once a created form becomes an individual soul, it no longer functions as an extension of its Creator. Instead, it becomes completely independent, making its own choices and following its own karmic journey. In other words, although these souls may share a common origin, they do not share a common destiny. Each soul exercises its own free will and accumulates its own karmic experiences.

What Happens If One Soul Attains Liberation?

An important question naturally follows: if one of these souls achieves liberation or spiritual freedom, does that automatically liberate all the other forms that originated from the same Creator?

Bapuji explains that it does not.

Every created soul remains completely independent. The liberation of one soul has no automatic effect on the others. Each must progress through its own spiritual evolution and attain liberation through its own efforts.

Why Does the Creator's Power Gradually Decrease?

Bapuji further explains that every act of creation distributes the Creator's spiritual power.

For example, a highly evolved being possessing 20 or 25 Kala (degrees of spiritual power) gradually shares that power through successive creations. As more independent souls are created, the original Creator's power becomes increasingly distributed among them.

By the time these souls descend into the human world, they may retain only 5, 7, or 10 Kala, making them ordinary human beings rather than highly powerful spiritual beings.

How Souls Forget Their Origin

As these souls continue their journey through the material world, they gradually become influenced by Asuric (demonic or negative) tendencies. Over time, they lose awareness of their true spiritual nature. Eventually, they forget not only their divine origin but even the Creator from whom they originally emerged.

According to Bapuji, this pattern repeats throughout creation. Creator beings generate countless independent souls and allow them to continue their own journeys. As ages pass, many of these souls become so absorbed in worldly existence that they no longer remember who their original Creator was or where they truly came from.

This, Bapuji explains, is one of the fundamental processes governing the vast cosmic cycle of creation.

Chapter Eleven

The Hierarchy of Parallel Universes

Bapuji has often explained that the cosmos is not one vast undifferentiated space. It has structure. It has layers. Each layer has its own creator, its own laws, its own dimensions. To understand parallel universes, it helps to begin with this larger picture.

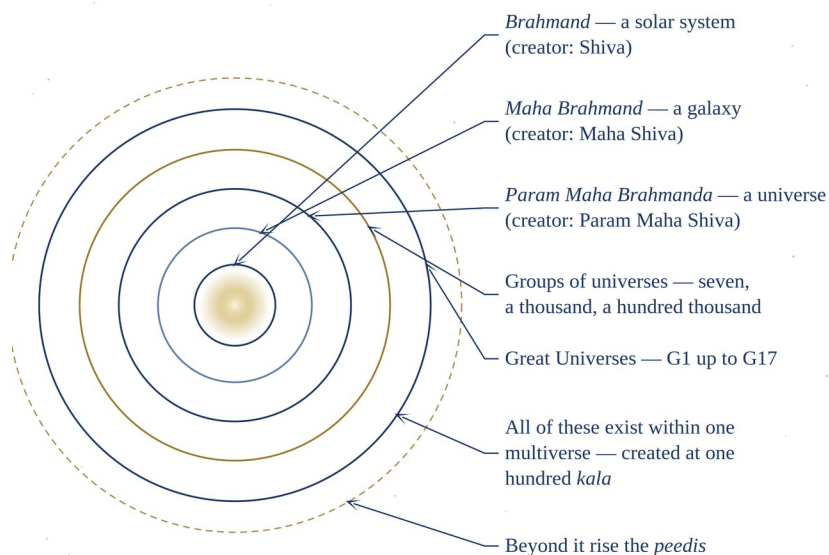

The smallest unit of cosmic creation is the Brahmand — what science calls a solar system. Our Earth, our Sun, our planets, and the seven layers above and below the Earth together form one Brahmand. Its creator is Shiva. There are countless Brahmands in existence.

Many Brahmand together form a galaxy, the Maha Brahmand. Its creator is Maha Shiva. Many galaxies together form a universe, the Param Maha Brahmanda. Its creator is Param Maha Shiva. So far, this much is also being approached by science.

Beyond the Universe

Above the universe, there are dimensions that science has not yet glimpsed. There are groups of universes — collections of seven, of a thousand, of a hundred thousand, of unimaginable numbers. Each such group has its own master. Bapuji has referred to certain great teachers and saints whose souls came from the level of seven universes, and to others who came from the level of a thousand universes or a hundred thousand universes.

Above these come the Great Universes, marked as G1, G2, G3, and onwards up to G17. Each higher level is a higher dimension of creation. Inside one G2, there are countless G1 universes. Inside one G3, there are countless G2 universes. Inside one G17, the count of contained universes is beyond imagination.

Each level is contained within the next

All of these — from G1 to G17 — exist within one multiverse. Our own multiverse was originally created at the level of one hundred kala. Kala is the unit of celestial creative power. The greater the kala, the greater the soul-power of the creator and the higher the dimension of the creation.

B a p u j i I n s i g h t

"Hamaara multivers sau kala ka Brahmaand hai — usmein ham minus sau kala mein baithe hain."

"Our multiverse was created at one hundred kala. We, on this Earth, are now sitting at minus one hundred kala."

Beyond the Multiverse — the Peedis

And yet the multiverse is not the end. Above one hundred kala lies the first peedi — the first generation of higher creation, of one hundred and one kala. Above that lies the second peedi, of two hundred and one kala. Above that the third peedi, of three hundred and one kala. The hierarchy continues — fourth peedi, fifth, sixth — without any end that the human mind can fix.

Bapuji has spoken of the twenty-first peedi, of the one hundred and first peedi, of the one thousand and first peedi, of the eleven thousand and first peedi, and beyond. At every level, the number of creations within is uncountable. Each higher peedi contains within it innumerable creations of all the lower peedis.

At the very highest level, beyond all numbered peedis, lies what Bapuji calls Behad ki Kala ka Brahmand — the Brahmand of infinite kala. Its power is inexhaustible. Its expanse cannot be measured. Its supreme abode, the Behad ka Paramdham, is the original home of the Almighty Authority — the one supreme creator behind all other creators. He alone is Swayambhu, self-existent, without beginning or end. All else, however vast, is his creation.

This is the structure within which our parallel universes exist. To speak of one parallel universe is, in truth, to barely scratch the surface. There are infinite parallel universes. There are infinite levels of universes. There are infinite groups within groups. The vastness is not exaggeration. It is simply the nature of creation.

Chapter Twelve

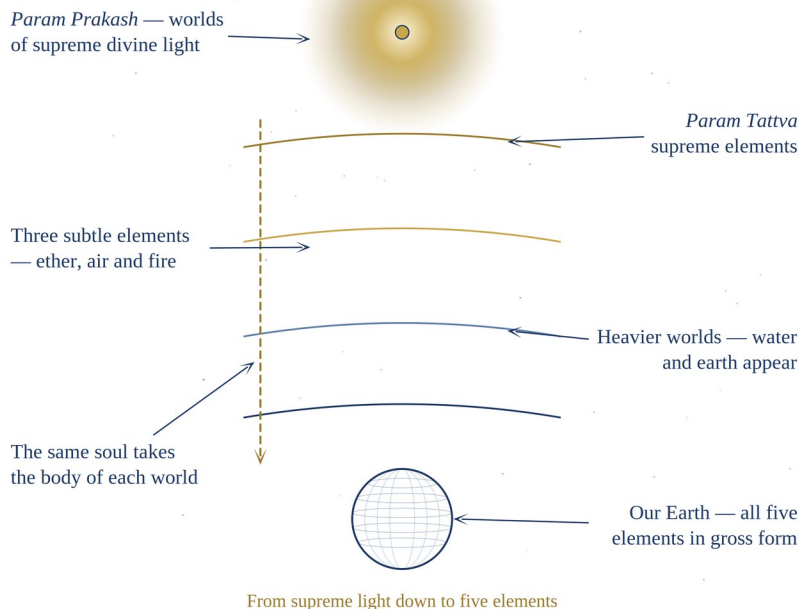

Worlds of Different Light

Not all worlds are made of the same elements. This is one of the most quietly important teachings Bapuji has given. The Earth we live on is made of five gross elements — earth, water, fire, air, and ether. But this combination is not universal. It is, in fact, unusual. Most worlds in creation are made of much finer substances.

From Supreme Divine Light to Five Elements

At the highest dimensions of creation, there are worlds made entirely of Param Prakash — supreme divine light. The beings there are themselves made of supreme light. Their bodies are not bodies in the way we understand the word. They are radiant forms of pure consciousness. Below this come worlds of Param Tattva — supreme elements, finer than the elements we know. Then come worlds of three subtle elements — ether, air, and fire. Then come the heavier worlds, where water and earth elements appear.

Our Earth lies at the bottom of this scale. It is made of all five elements in their gross form. The two heaviest elements — water and earth — dominate. This is why the body on Earth feels so heavy, why movement requires so much effort, why memory is so dim, why the soul forgets its own nature so easily.

Bapuji Insight

"Kahin Param Prakash ki duniya hai, kahin Param Tattva ki duniya hai, kahin tattva ki duniya hai — har duniya alag alag prakash ki, alag elements ki bani hui hai."

"Some worlds are made of supreme light, some of supreme elements, some of subtle elements. Each world is made of a different kind of light, a different combination of elements."

Different Bodies, Different Forms

Because the elements differ, the beings differ as well. In a world of supreme light, the beings are luminous points of consciousness. In a world of three subtle elements, they have a definite subtle body. In worlds of denser elements, they have heavier bodies. The colour, the shape, the size, the abilities — all of these vary according to the world.

The same soul, as it travels from a higher world to a lower one, takes on whatever body matches the new environment. There is an old saying preserved in the Shastras: yatha pinde, tatha brahmande; yatha brahmande, tatha pinde — as is the body, so is the cosmos; as is the cosmos, so is the body. The body always reflects the dimension in which the soul is presently located.

This is why the souls who arrive on Earth from much higher dimensions become so unrecognisable to themselves. A soul that was once made of supreme light now finds itself wrapped in five elements. The original radiance is buried under heaviness. The original memory is covered by countless layers. The being that walks the Earth has forgotten who it once was.

Power and Speed Vary Too

Along with the body, the powers of the soul also change. The ability to manifest with a single thought, the ability to move across vast distances in a moment, the ability to know without being told — all of these are clear in the higher worlds and very dim on Earth. The capacity of sankalp shakti, the power of affirmation, depends on the soul-power. The greater the soul-power, the more directly thought becomes reality.

On Earth, this power is almost entirely dormant. We think a thousand thoughts a day, and almost none of them manifest. In higher dimensions, even a single thought, made with full clarity, manifests instantly. This is the difference between a world of five elements and a world of supreme light.

Knowing this softens many things. It softens the despair that arises when life on Earth feels too heavy. It reminds us that the heaviness is not the soul's true condition. It is only the condition of the world the soul has fallen into. With knowledge and effort, the original lightness can be slowly recovered.

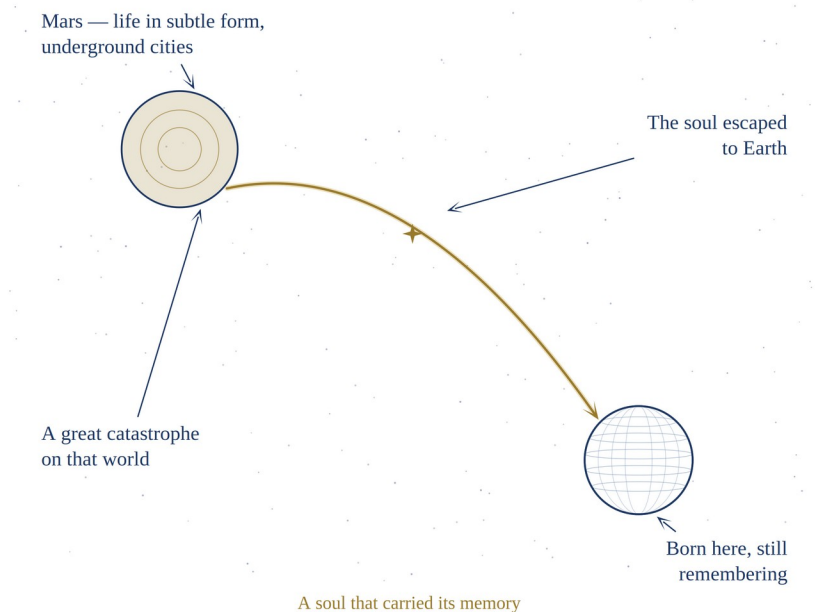

Chapter Thirteen

The Boy Who Came from Mars

In the early 2000s, a young boy in Russia began to attract attention. From an unusually early age, he spoke of things no child should know. He spoke of life on Mars. He spoke of breathing carbon dioxide. He spoke of underground cities, of nuclear devastation, of pyramids in Egypt that were connected to ancient Martian civilisation.

Scientists who interviewed him were astonished. The detail and accuracy of his descriptions could not be explained by anything he might have read or heard. He seemed to remember things he could not possibly have learned. People began to call him the boy from Mars.

The world was divided. Some dismissed him as imaginative. Others took him seriously. Year by year, more and more people began to accept that what he was saying might be real. He claimed to have lived on Mars in a previous life. He claimed that his soul had escaped to Earth after a great catastrophe on that planet, and had taken birth here.

Bapuji's Confirmation

Bapuji has confirmed that this story is true, in essence, even if the surface details may vary. There was indeed a civilisation on Mars long ago. The beings there had bodies of lighter elements. There was a religious war. There was a nuclear conflict. The surface of the planet was devastated. Some souls retreated underground for survival. Others escaped to other planets, including Earth.

Souls that came from Mars to Earth, on entering the heavy atmosphere of five elements, soon forgot their origin. They took on the dense bodies of this world. The memory of where they had come from sank deep into the unconscious. But occasionally, in certain souls, fragments of that memory rise to the surface. Such souls speak of things they cannot have learned. They are remembering.

B a p u j i I n s i g h t

"Vahaan se kuch aatmaayein doosre planets pe gayin, kuch dharti pe aayin survival ke liye."

"Some souls escaped to other planets. Some came down to Earth for survival."

Mars and Beyond

Mars is not unique. Bapuji has explained that life — in its subtle form — exists on many of the bodies in our solar system. The Sun has its own beings, made of Akash and Agni elements, who are not harmed by its heat. The Moon has its own residents in three-elemental form. Jupiter, Venus, Mercury — each has its own subtle inhabitants, with their own kuldevta presiding over them. The solar system is far from empty. It is full of life. Most of that life simply cannot be perceived by physical instruments.

Beyond the solar system, the picture grows even larger. Souls from distant galaxies, from far-off universes, from great universes, and from levels beyond — many of them have come to Earth at different points. Some came as scientists. Some came as great spiritual teachers. Some came as ordinary people whose true origin remains hidden even from themselves.

The boy from Mars is one small public example of a much larger truth. Many of the souls walking the Earth today are not native to it. They have come from other worlds. They have forgotten. As the time of awakening approaches, more and more of them will begin to remember.

Chapter Fourteen

The Limits of the Material Mind

Why is it so difficult for the modern mind to accept what Bapuji says? Why do these teachings sound, to many people, like fantasy or fiction? The answer lies in the condition of the soul on Earth, and in the kind of mind that has been formed in the modern age.

From Light to Stone

Bapuji has described, with great honesty, the present state of human beings on this Earth. The original soul was a being of supreme light, with vast power and clear vision. Over countless ages, through repeated cycles of birth and death, that being has fallen far from its original state. Today, the soul on Earth is what Bapuji has called, very plainly, patthar buddhi — a stone-like intelligence.

The original soul — a being of supreme light

Countless cycles of birth and death

Now at minus
one hundred

Patthar buddhi
a stone-like intelligence

How the original vision became dim

B a p u j i I n s i g h t

"Hum to minus sau kala mein patthar buddhi ban gaye."

"We, in this minus one hundred kala state, have become stone-minded."

This is not an insult. It is a precise description. The soul has become so dense, so wrapped in heavy elements, that subtle truths cannot easily reach it. The mind has been trained for centuries to trust only what the senses report. Anything beyond the senses is dismissed as imagination. The original capacity for inner vision has fallen asleep.

History Repeats

Bapuji has reminded us that what is happening today has happened before. Two or three hundred years ago, when someone spoke about the structure of the cosmos — about there being many suns in the Akash Ganga, about the Earth not being the centre of everything — such a person was burned alive. When someone spoke of boats that would run on fire — what we now call steamships — they too were ridiculed and killed.

Galileo and others who told the truth about the heavens were condemned in their own time. The truth they spoke was unbearable to the mind of their age. Today, those same truths are taught in every school. What seemed absurd then is obvious now. This is the recurring pattern of human awakening.

Today, when Bapuji speaks of universes of different kala, of multiverses with sub-creations, of beings travelling between worlds, the same kind of resistance arises. People say he must be exaggerating. People say it cannot be real. Some leave comments on the videos asking what is wrong with him. Bapuji has remarked, very calmly, that this is not a new reaction. The world has always reacted this way to truths it is not yet ready for.

From Frog in a Well to Fish in the Ocean

There is a beautiful image Bapuji has used. A person trapped in narrow religious or scientific beliefs is like a frog in a well. The frog believes the well is the entire world. It cannot imagine anything beyond. To understand the vastness of creation, the soul must come out of the well. It must become a fish in the ocean of knowledge — the gyan saagar ki machhli.

B a p u j i I n s i g h t

"Vo kuwein ke medak hain — unko gyaan saagar ki machhli banna padega."

"They are frogs in a well. They will have to become fish in the ocean of knowledge."

This is the work of the present age. The well of narrow belief, whether religious or scientific, must be left behind. The soul must broaden its intelligence — vishal buddhi. It must look at itself and ask the deep questions: who am I, where have I come from, why am I here? Without these questions, the Behad Gyan — the supreme infinite knowledge — will remain a story. With these questions, it begins to come alive.

The limits of the modern mind are not permanent. They are conditions. Conditions can change. As more souls turn inward, as more begin to ask honestly, the heaviness will gradually lift. What sounds today like fiction will sound, in time, like the most natural truth in the world.

Chapter Fifteen

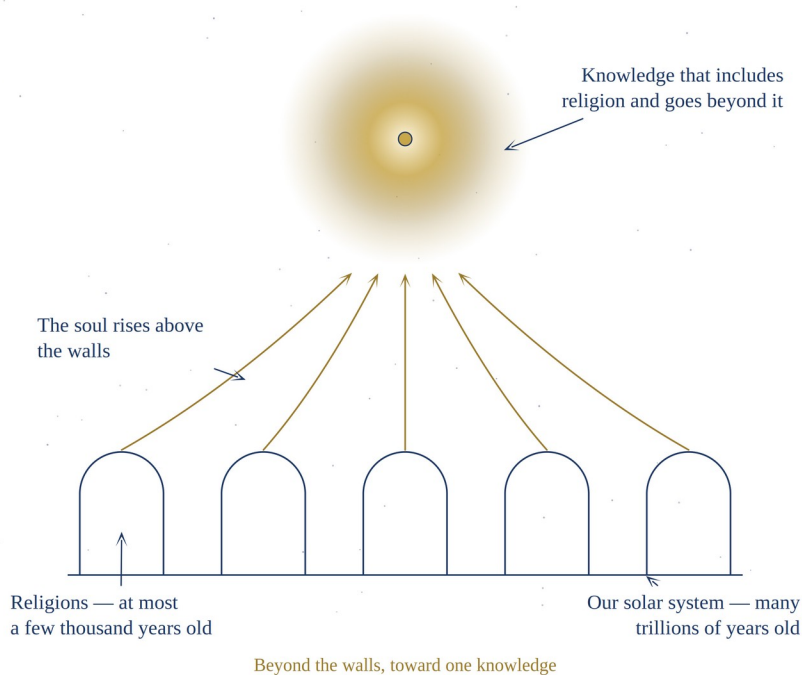

Beyond Religion, Toward Knowledge

Religion, in its outer form, has its limits. This is not to dismiss religion. The great religious traditions have given the world enormous spiritual treasure. But they have also, often, become walls. People stop within them, identify with their forms, and forget that the original purpose was to point beyond.

Bapuji has spoken about this directly. As science develops further, as humanity grows in awareness, the soul will naturally rise above the limits of religion. The questions of origin, of destination, of the structure of creation, cannot be answered by any single religion alone. They require a broader knowledge — knowledge that includes religion but also goes beyond it.

The Limitation Within

Every religion that we see on Earth today is, at most, a few thousand years old. Our solar system, by contrast, is many trillions of years old. Long before any of the present religions appeared, the soul existed, the cosmos existed, the divine creators existed, the ancient knowledge existed. To bind the truth of creation to one religious framework is to limit something that was never meant to be limited.

The Sanatan Dharma itself, in its original form, is not a religion in the modern sense. The word Sanatan means eternal — that which has always been and will always be. Sanatan Dharma is not a particular set of beliefs. It is the recognition of certain eternal truths about the soul, about creation, about the divine. These truths existed before any name was given to them, and they will exist long after every name is forgotten.

The Rise of Spiritual Science

Bapuji has said that the science of today, when seen from the spiritual perspective, is almost at zero. It has captured only the smallest fraction of reality. But this is not its final state. The science that is to come — spiritual science — will be very different. It will combine the precision of present-day investigation with the depth of inner knowledge. It will rise to a high level very quickly.

B a p u j i I n s i g h t

"Aaj ka science to zero hai bilkul — magar aane wala spiritual science bahut high level pe badega."

"Today's science is almost at zero. But the spiritual science that is coming will rise to a very high level."

This will not happen by accident. It will happen because the souls who have come to Earth from higher dimensions — many of them in scientific and creative fields — will gradually awaken. They will receive inspiration from their group souls in the subtle world. They will build instruments capable of detecting what cannot be detected today. They will write theories that draw on inner vision as well as outer measurement.

As this happens, the boundaries between religion, science, and spirituality will dissolve. The narrow frog will leave the well. The fish will swim in the great ocean. People will look back at the present age and wonder how the human mind could have lived for so long with such small categories.

Universal Knowledge

This is what Bapuji means by universal knowledge — knowledge that is not the property of any one religion, any one nation, any one school of thought. It belongs to all souls. It speaks of what every soul truly is. It speaks of where every soul has come from. It speaks of where every soul is going. Such knowledge cannot stay imprisoned in any one container. As the time of transformation approaches, it will spread quietly into every corner of human awareness.

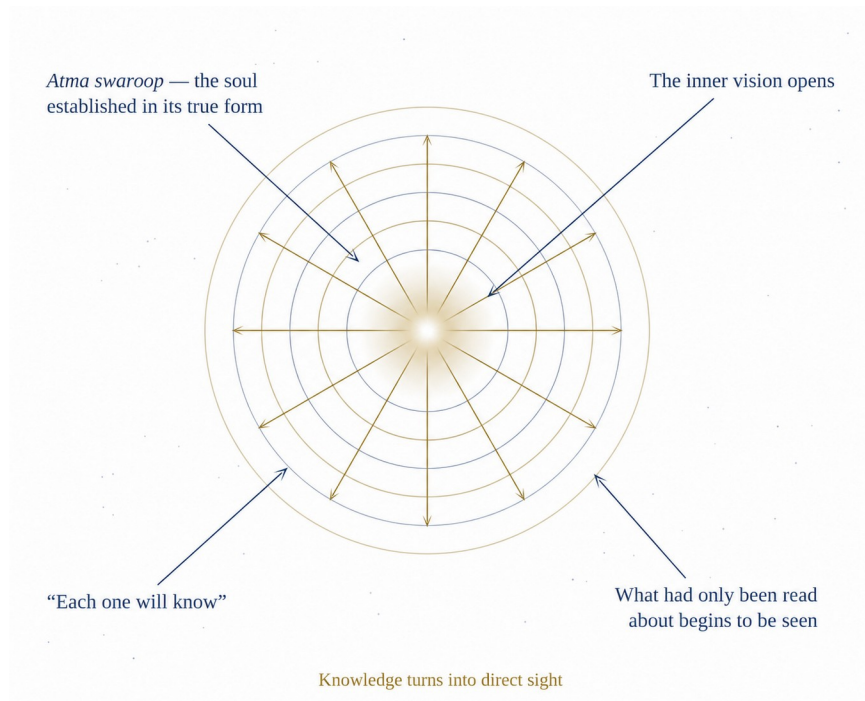

The reader of this book is, in some way, already part of this movement. To pick up such a book, to read these words with attention, is itself an early sign of the inner shift. The Behad Gyan finds its way to those who are ready. It does not impose itself. It simply waits, and at the right moment, it is found.

Chapter Sixteen

The Awakening of the Soul

Throughout this book, a single underlying theme has appeared again and again. The truth of parallel universes, the structure of the multiverse, the journeys of souls between worlds — none of this can be fully understood from the outside. It can only be understood when the soul itself begins to awaken to its own deeper nature.

Bapuji has been very clear on this point. The intellectual study of these teachings is helpful, but it is not enough. The full truth becomes visible only when the soul enters into pure soul-consciousness — what Bapuji calls atma swaroop. In that state, the inner vision opens. What had only been read about begins to be directly seen.

B a p u j i I n s i g h t

"Jab aatma swaroop banenge, to spasht dikhaai dega — har koi ko pata lagega."

"When the soul becomes established in its true form, everything will be clearly seen. Each one will know."

What the Awakened Soul Sees

Bapuji has described his own experience. When he enters the nirakari state — the state of pure formlessness — many things become clear to him. He has perceived directly the parallel universes, the structure of the multiverse, the existence of beings from far higher dimensions, the layers of subtle worlds, the journeys of souls. He has seen worlds of different kala — sixteen kala, twenty-five kala, one hundred kala, two hundred kala, five hundred kala, and beyond.

He has stated that these things are not difficult to see when the soul is in its proper state. They are difficult to convey only because the language of Earth is too limited. Words built around five-elemental experience cannot easily describe a world of supreme light. So much is left out. So much can only be hinted at.

Yet for those who themselves enter the nirakari state, the language is no longer needed. The vision is direct. Each soul, when it awakens, will see what its own creator is, where it has come from, what its journey has been. The records are within the soul itself. They have always been there. They have only been covered.

Each Soul's Own Discovery

This is one of the most beautiful aspects of Bapuji's teaching. He does not ask anyone to believe him. He invites the listener to verify directly, in their own awakened state. The proof he offers is not external but internal. The reader who patiently practises soul-consciousness — who turns inward, who quiets the noise of the senses, who connects in thought to the supreme creator — will, in time, see for themselves.

Some will discover that they have come from a galaxy. Some will discover that they have come from a universe. Some will discover that they have come from a great universe. Some will discover that they have come from far beyond all of this. The variety is real. The discovery is personal. No one else can make it for the soul. The soul must make it for itself.

The Sign of an Awakening Soul

How does a soul know that the awakening has begun? Bapuji has given a simple sign. The awakening soul becomes naturally drawn to Behad Gyan. It is no longer satisfied with surface explanations. It wants to know the deeper truth. It begins to ask the questions that ordinary life suppresses. It feels a growing detachment from things that once seemed important. It feels, in quiet moments, a kind of ancient familiarity with realities beyond this Earth.

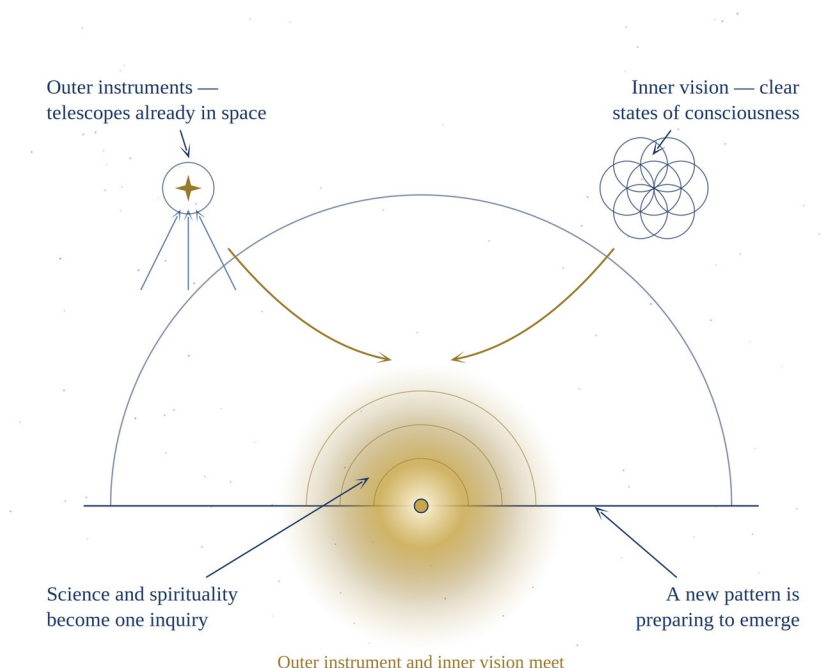

These signs are subtle. They do not announce themselves loudly. But the soul that pays attention notices them. They are the early movements of a great inner change. They are the soft beginning of what will eventually become a complete awakening into the soul's true form.

Chapter Seventeen

The Future of Spiritual Science

Bapuji has said, again and again, that the present time is the time of transition. The old patterns of human existence on Earth are coming to an end. A new pattern is preparing to emerge. The shape of that new pattern is something the present mind can barely imagine.

In the world that is to come, science and spirituality will not be enemies. They will not even be separate. They will be one inquiry, conducted with both outer instruments and inner vision. Truths that today require thousands of years of meditation to perceive will be confirmed, in time, by direct instrumental evidence. Truths that today require complex experiments will also be reachable through clear states of consciousness.

Proof Will Come

Bapuji has often pointed out that what he is saying today will, before long, be confirmed by science. Telescopes already deployed in space — capable of capturing far broader bands of light than ever before — will discover galaxies that current science does not yet know exist. They will discover the early forms of universes. They will discover patterns that match what the Behad Gyan has long described.

As proof accumulates, the ridicule will fade. People who today dismiss these teachings will, in time, come quietly seeking them. Those who today insist that only the visible is real will themselves become curious about the invisible. The shift will not happen all at once. It will happen step by step, as one discovery follows another and the picture gradually fills in.

The Role of Behad Souls

Within this great transformation, certain souls will play a particular role. Bapuji has called them behad souls — infinitely powerful souls who have come to Earth from far higher dimensions for the purpose of this very moment. There are different categories among them. At the highest level are the one hundred and eight behad souls. Then come the one thousand and eight, the sixteen thousand, and finally the nine hundred thousand. Each category has a particular capacity to grasp and to spread the Behad Gyan.

These behad souls are not separate from ordinary humanity. They walk among us. Many of them do not yet know who they are. They feel something restless within. They sense that they have come for something more than ordinary life. They are drawn to depth, to silence, to the great questions. As the Behad Gyan reaches them, the fog will lift. They will begin to remember.

B a p u j i I n s i g h t

"Aane waale samay mein babut log aapko dhoondhenge — kyunki haqeeqat to aapse pataa chalegi."

"In the time to come, many people will come searching for you, because the true reality will be known only through you."

A New Multiverse

Bapuji has spoken of something remarkable that lies ahead. The transformation that is coming is not merely a transformation of the Earth. It is a transformation of the entire multiverse. Our multiverse, currently fallen into the heaviness of physical elements, will be lifted back into a state of supreme light. The cycles of birth and death will end. The mortal world will become an eternal divine world.

This will not be the same as the periodic dissolutions and recreations that have always occurred. It will be permanent. The Almighty Authority — the supreme master creator beyond all creators — has descended into our Brahmanda in his hidden form to bring this transformation about. Souls from far across the cosmos have gathered around our solar system to witness it. This is why so many strange and unprecedented things are now happening on Earth. This is why the questions of parallel universes and multiverses have arisen now, in this particular moment of history.

A Closing Word

This book has been a small offering. It has presented a few teachings of Bapuji on the question of parallel universes. There is far more that has been said in his many discourses. The reader who feels something stirring within is gently invited to continue. To watch the videos. To read the other books. To sit quietly and turn inward. To begin practising soul-consciousness. To enter, slowly, the great ocean of Behad Gyan.

The parallel universes are real. The subtle worlds are real. The hierarchy of creation is real. The Almighty Authority is real. The transformation is real. None of this is fantasy. All of this is waiting to be discovered, by each soul, in its own time. May the reader's discovery be deep, peaceful, and full of light.

haqeeqat to aapse pataa chalegi."*

"In the time to come, many people will come searching for you, because the true reality will be known only through you."

— Chapter Sixteen: The Future of Spiritual Science

Glossary

The following terms appear throughout this book. Definitions are kept simple and beginner-friendly, drawn from Bapuji's teachings.

Aakaari — This is subtle form of a soul i.e. the form created out of energy emitted from soul. This is a form created by energy. This form is not visible to our physical eye as it is in subtle form. Soul assumes a subtle form made of supreme elements. This subtle form is called “Akari”.

Akash Tattva — Ether element, the subtlest of the five gross elements. Gross world is created on the foundation of Akash tattva. From Akash tattva, other heavier gross elements emerge to create this gross world.

Almighty Authority — The Supreme Master Creator of the Behad - the limitless world of creation. The highest being in all of infinite existence. The ultimate source of all power. The Great-Great-Grandfather of every soul.

Atma — The conscious, eternal being within everybody - distinct from the body, the senses, and the mind. It is the true self. The soul is the source of all life and all awareness.

Atma Swaroop — The state of dwelling in the soul's original nature - identifying fully with the soul, not the body. This is the foundation of spiritual practise/ knowledge. When a seeker attains Atma Swaroop, the soul's original light, peace, and power are fully activated. Brahm Swaroop is the cosmic expression of this same state: the soul dwelling in its full cosmic identity.

Avyakt — Unmanifest. Not expressed in gross material form. Avyakt refers to realms, energies, consciousness, or beings that exist beyond ordinary physical visibility. In Bapuji's teachings, it especially refers to higher spiritual consciousness, subtle existence, and realities beyond the gross material world.

Behad — Infinite - beyond all limits, without boundary. In Bapuji's knowledge, Behad names the boundless, infinite dimensions of all creation. From this comes a family of terms: Behad ki Atma - the limitless soul. Behad Gyan - knowledge of infinite, boundless creation. Behad Seva - service rendered for the infinite creation. Behad ka Karma - action performed for eternity.

Behad Gyan — The supreme knowledge of the Almighty Authority and His vast, limitless, infinite creation. This is the supreme truth revealed through Bapuji - realised directly by him through divine vision, the Third Eye. It cannot be found in any scripture. It is the knowledge of the highest, most primordial dimension of creation - far beyond the multiverse.

Behad Soul — An infinitely powerful soul made of supreme light, capable of grasping the Behad Gyan and contributing to the great transformation.

Bhu-Loka — The Earth; the mortal world of five gross elements.

Bhuvar-Loka — The first subtle dimension above the Earth; the realm of departed ancestors.

Brahma — The creator of souls within our solar system; the source through whom Shiv initiates creation. In our Bramand, Brahma created Saptarishis directly from his own being by a single thought-intent (sankalp), creating them in the Akari (form-based) stage from the very beginning.

Brahmand — Our solar system-one unit of creation. In Bapuji's knowledge, Brahmand refers specifically to a solar system-one universe created by Shiv. There are countless such Brahmands inside a single galaxy. Our own solar system is our Brahmand.. Each Bramand has a Kala measure.

Brahmapuri — The abode of Brahma; a celestial realm within the universe.

Devi Bhagwat Puran — An ancient scripture devoted to the divine feminine, containing many accounts of the Maha Devi and her cosmic role.

Farishta — An angel; a being created by Brahma with a body of param tatva.

G1 to G17 — The sequence of Great Universes inside our multiverse, each higher in dimension than the one before; G1 is the lowest level, G17 the highest.

Galaxy (Maha Brahmand) — A great solar system; a collection of innumerable Brahmandas; created by Maha Shiva.

Gyan Daan Maha Daan — Sharing supreme knowledge to any soul is the greatest of all donations. This is the very principle under which all of Bapuji's books and teachings are offered freely to humanity.

Gyan Sagar — The ocean of knowledge; a metaphor for the vast expanse of supreme spiritual wisdom.

Had ki Atma — A common soul of limited power, made of basic elements; entangled in worldly affairs.

Indra — The king of the deities in Swarga-Loka; ruler of the heavenly realm.

Jeev — The forgotten soul. A divine soul that falls into physical existence through uncontrolled desire, living without awareness of its true origin — bound to instinct, cut off from its own divinity. Simply put: soul + desire = Jeev.

Jeevan Mukti — Jivanmukti is the state where the soul frees itself completely from all karmic accounts. Every covering that hid its true nature falls away, and the soul comes to know its Creator fully — not as an idea, but as direct realization. Liberation, here and now.

Kala — Kalaa is a unit of measurement of power of the soul. Just like on earth we measure the electric power by “watt” that means it is the capacity of an electrical equipment, similarly in spirituality “kalaa” means the capacity of a creator or soul. In space there are many creators so they have different magnitude of power that we call power of different celestial degree or kalaa.

Karan Sharir — A Causal Body. A human being has many bodies even though we can see only physical body but there are subtle bodies inside this physical outline which holds the energy of soul and operates the physical body. So gross physical body is only a medium to carry out work of soul. Physical body gets power from subtle body which comprises of ether element, air element and fire element. Subtle body gets power from causal body which comprises of ether element only. This is also called karan sharir which is the store house of the details of karmic accounts of a soul.

Karma — Karma means action. But it is more than the act itself — it is the energetic imprint left behind by every act, whether done through thought, word, or the organs of action and perception. Every thought, every word, every bodily action leaves its trace. These traces bind the soul to repeated experience — pulling it back, again and again, into the cycle of cause and effect until the imprint is resolved.

Kashi Karavat — An ancient practice in which a seeker would leave the body in Kashi in a particular way, sending the soul instantly to Shivpuri.

Mahakal Pralay — Mahakaal Pralaya is the Great Dissolution at the scale of the galaxy — the Maha Brahmand itself. It is the supreme dissolution, in which infinite solar systems are drawn back into Mahashiv, the creator of that galaxy — the totality of all lesser dissolutions, all lokas, all existence within that realm, absorbed back into the One from which it came. In this event, nothing ordinary survives. Only the Brahm Rishi souls — those who have attained 16 to 20 Kala — pass through untouched, standing beyond even this supreme unmaking.

Mahakalp Pralay — The total dissolution of the entire brahmand at the end of Brahma's lifespan.

Maha Shiva — The owner of a Galaxy and the supreme authority above Shiv, capable of bringing forth infinite Shivs in a single thought. A single moment of Mahashiv equals one hundred years of Brahma.

Maya — Maya is the illusory power of the material world — the force that causes the soul to forget its own true nature. It creates the world of attachment and suffering in which most souls find themselves bound. Most souls wander in this ocean of Maya, searching for happiness in a place where only suffering lives — mistaking the shadow for the light. In short: this visible world of five elements is Maya itself. Bapuji names Maya as the very cause of all suffering and pain.

Multiverse — The cosmic scale that contains many Universes, Great Universes, Great-great universes and beyond up to G17 (great great ----- 17 times universes) layers of universe. The architecture of creation extends further still, beyond what the human mind can readily comprehend.

Nirakari — This is formless state of a soul. This is the true divine state of a soul when soul is in the form of divine light. This is also called as the incorporeal state of a soul. In this state soul is termed as supreme soul. This is the ultimate stage of a soul. A formless soul of this purity is what is rightly called Paramatma and ascends directly to Paramdham.

Param Agni Tattva — The supreme fire element; finer and more powerful than ordinary fire.

Param Akash Tattva — The supreme ether element; finer and more powerful than ordinary ether.

Param Atma — He is the creator of soul. We call it supreme soul. Supreme soul has power to create many souls. Sometimes we call the creators as supreme soul. When soul is in its true formless divine light form, it has tremendous power to create many souls through affirmation, that is called as supreme soul or “param atma”.

Paramdham — The Supreme Abode — the original home of souls. Paramdham is the highest dimension within a solar system, a realm of pure divine light where the Creator resides in formless state. Souls in Paramdham exist in complete peace and bliss. It is the original home from which every soul comes, yet the return journey is not easy — it demands sustained and sincere spiritual effort. Paramdham is also known as Amarloka, the immortal realm. This pattern extends beyond a single solar system: every Creator — of a solar system, a galaxy, a universe, or a multiverse — has their own corresponding Supreme Abode in incorporeal form.

Param Maha Shiva — The creator and owner of one universe; the Param Maha Brahmand.

Param Prakash — The Supreme Divine Light described in the Sanatan scriptures as the power of Brahma, or Brahma itself. It is pure, silent, and beyond all thoughts (Sankalp) and disturbance. As the highest and most powerful divine radiance, it is the source and foundation of all creation.

Paramshanti — The Supreme Peace — the original state of the soul when it unites with the Supreme Soul through Yog. In this state, the soul is completely free of desire, utterly silent, without a single affirmation stirring within it. Even the causal body of the soul dissolves, or becomes wholly inactive. Paramshanti is not merely the absence of noise or conflict. It is something far deeper: the soul's original state, established firmly in its pure, divine form of light, in constant remembrance of the Supreme Father. This is why every pure and powerful soul ultimately seeks Paramshanti — it is not a state to be attained from outside, but a return to what the soul already, originally is.

Param Tattva — A Param Tattva is a finer, purer, and more powerful form of a Tattva (element). It possesses far greater energy and creative power to transform and manifest the soul's affirmations. It is the fundamental substance of the higher realms of creation. Just as the nucleus is finer and more powerful than an atom, Param Tattva is finer and far more energetic than a Tattva. The three Param Tattvas are Param Akash, Param Vayu, and Param Agni.

Param Vayu Tattva — The supreme air element; finer and more powerful than ordinary air.

Peedi — It is generation of creators or supreme souls. In computer world we generally speak as 1st generation technology, 2nd generation technology and so on. Similarly in case of spiritual dimension, the supreme souls are also created chronologically but here we call 1st generation creator as the lowest level like 1st “peedi” or 101 kala 2nd generation creator as the 2nd “Peedi” or 201 kala. In this way here as we go up to higher dimensions, the generation number increases that is number of “peedi” increases along with it the power of supreme soul or creator also increase. The creation is vast so there are supreme souls as well as creation at 21 Peedi, 101 peedi, 1001 Peedi, 11001 Peedi and so on.

Pralay — Dissolution; the cyclic destruction of a creation at the end of its time-cycle.

Sankalp — A divine intention or resolution of soul. Sankalp is not an ordinary wish — it is an intention charged with power of soul. As the soul’s aura grows through knowledge and Yog, the sankalpa it offers for betterment of world gradually and definitely come to fruition. When soul resolves something to do, this is called as affirmation or Sankalp. Sankalp works through Mind power which is the power of soul. So higher the kala, higher the power of affirmation.

Sanskar — Deep inner impressions or tendencies carried by the soul across lifetimes. In the pure Nirakari stage there are no Sanskars; they accumulate as the soul takes on form and acts within the realms of creation. This is character of soul which is recorded in its causal body. The mind of a soul works according to its sanskar.

Sanatan Dharma — The eternal way; the timeless body of truths about soul, creation, and the divine, present from the beginning.

Saptarishi — The seven primordial sages, directly manifested by Brahma from His own being through the power of divine affirmation at the dawn of creation in our solar system. From these seven sages, the lineage of all souls in this Brahmand originated. They are regarded as the original ancestors of all beings in this creation.

Shastra — This is a Hindu scripture where matters pertaining to soul and creations are discussed. There are six shastras: sankhya, nyay, yog, vaisheshik, Mimansa and Vedanta.

Shiva — The incorporeal creator and owner of one Brahmanda (solar system); resides in the Paramdham of the solar system.

Shivpuri — The abode of Shiv Shakti; located above Vishnupuri and below Paramdham. The realm of Shiv and Shakti- of Adi Shakti, also known as Maa Durga — from whom Brahma, Vishnu, and Shankar emerge. Shivpuri is the Mool Vatan, the homeland in which the soul first takes on the Akari (form-based) condition; here the body is one hundred per cent Param Tattva.

Sthool Jagat — The physical world made of gross elements

Sukshm Jagat — Same as above subtle world, invisible to the physical eye.

Swarga-Loka — The heavenly realm; the third dimension above the Earth, abode of the deities.

Tamopradhan — The state in which the negative quality of nature predominates; the soul becomes heavy, ignorant, and clouded.

Tattva — Element. The fundamental building blocks of creation. The visible world is composed of five elements: earth, water, air, fire, and ether. Tattva in spiritual language is finer than element in the scientific sense. Water, earth, fire elements are visible but air and ether are invisible. Air can be felt by body but ether cannot be felt by physical body. Water, earth are heavier atoms representing heavier elements whereas air, fire and ether are very lighter atoms representing lighter elements.

UFO — Unidentified Flying Object; in Behad Gyan, often a vehicle made of supreme or subtle elements used by beings from higher dimensions.

Vaikuntha — The transcendental abode of Lord Vishnu; located above Brahmaloka.

Vishnu — The divine being who emerged from Shiv-Shakti; the cosmic principle of sustenance and preservation.

Vishnu-Puri — The realm/ supreme abode of Lord Vishnu, below realm of Shivpuri. As the soul enters this realm, fifty per cent of the supreme elements in causal body are replaced by the three gross elements; the subtle body begins to cover the causal body at this point.

Vyakt — The visible world of five gross elements.

Yatha Pinde Tatha Brahmande — As is the body, so is the cosmos; as is the cosmos, so is the body. The principle that the inner and outer reflect each other.

Yog — Conscious connection between soul and supreme souls or with Almighty Authority through which power is drawn into the soul's being via knowledge and meditation.

“Gyan Daan Maha Daan”

Sharing Knowledge is the Highest Charity

— Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel

The background of the entire page is a deep blue space filled with numerous galaxies of various shapes and sizes, some with bright yellow and orange cores. Interspersed among the galaxies are several bright, jagged lightning bolts in shades of blue and white. The overall effect is a sense of vast, dynamic cosmic energy.

DISCOVER A COSMIC REALITY FAR BEYOND MODERN SCIENCE

Based on the divine teachings of Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel, this book explores profound spiritual knowledge about parallel universes, soul consciousness, subtle dimensions, multiverse structures, and realities that extend far beyond the limits of modern scientific understanding.

Blending timeless spiritual wisdom with humanity's deepest cosmological questions, this book invites readers to expand their perception of existence and discover an extraordinary vision of reality hidden beyond the physical universe.

BAPUJI'S INSIGHT

*"The universe visible to human eyes is only a tiny part of existence.
Countless parallel universes coexist simultaneously."*
