ABOUT BAPUJI

Bapuji (full name: Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel, also lovingly called “Dadaji” by the younger generation) was born in 1956 in the small village of Akhaj in the Mehsana district of Gujarat. However, he spent his childhood in another village named Ambasan, also located in the Mehsana district.

In the early part of his life, he was a highly successful lawyer. Later, he devoted his life to realizing the supreme spiritual truth and bringing this divine knowledge forward for the welfare of humanity. Today, this supreme knowledge serves as a guiding light for true seekers to realize their ultimate destiny. It is a blessing of the highest divinity that the present time is witnessing the rise of this supreme spiritual knowledge, guiding souls on Earth to return to their original source.

Despite being raised in a very poor family and facing challenging circumstances, Bapuji had a deep desire to transform this sorrowful and suffering world into a better place. At the young age of six, he questioned God repeatedly, asking why God remained silent about the suffering of humanity. This intense longing to end human suffering eventually led him to attain the highest level of spirituality later in life. Even as a child, Bapuji would spend hours alone in the fields, often neglecting his own comfort. Due to poverty, he would walk barefoot without shoes or sandals, frequently getting pricked by thorns. Many times, he would stay late in the fields and, on his way back home, encounter subtle world entities. These experiences sparked his interest in communicating with subtle world souls.

Bapuji was courageous from a young age, which helped him overcome many obstacles. Alongside his studies in chartered accountancy (CA), he gave tuition classes to support himself financially. Later, he completed his Bachelor of Law (LLB) degree and became a well-known lawyer in Ahmedabad. In 1997, he established a spiritual institution called “Vishwa Parivartak Ishwariya Vidhyalay” in Chenpur, Ahmedabad, with the mission of transforming this mortal world, filled with suffering and disorder, into an eternal divine world of immortality. Smt. Sushma Tandon, lovingly known as “Maa,” worked alongside Bapuji in this grand divine mission.

To accomplish this mission, Bapuji worked tirelessly, dedicating all his resources to this divine purpose. During that time, he would deliver continuous spiritual discourses for up to 18 hours without rest. In these discourses, he explained the highest dimensions of divine knowledge, which he realized through deep meditation and divine vision in a state of superconsciousness. This knowledge goes beyond the imagination of the ordinary human mind.

Bapuji’s teachings cover a vast range of topics, including the types of celestial creators across different dimensions, the creation of our solar system, galaxy, and universe, and most importantly, the transcendental knowledge of the multiverse and realities beyond it. His knowledge is supremely profound and is intended for highly evolved seekers, referred to as “behad souls.” According to Bapuji, these “behad souls” will play a key role in transforming this mortal world into an eternal divine realm.

At present, Bapuji remains deeply engaged in intense meditation and samadhi for long hours. He does not meet anyone, as he is continuously immersed in his transcendental mission in a superconscious state.

Preface

“Gyan Daan Maha Daan”

(Sharing Knowledge is the Highest Charity) Share to the maximum extent with all.

— by Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel

Across every age and every civilization, a question has remained alive in the heart of the sincere seeker. Is it possible to see beyond the body? Can a soul, without leaving its place, perceive distant events? Can a person travel without the use of any physical vehicle? And what truly stands behind those mysterious appearances — the messengers, the mediums, the inner voices, the lights in the sky?

This book has been compiled to gather, in one place, the clear and unhurried explanations that Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel has given on these living mysteries. Bapuji explains that the soul is far greater than the body it inhabits. The five-element eye sees only a small slice of reality. Subtle worlds are real, subtle beings move among us, and far higher beings observe everything quietly from their own dimensions. The phenomena that the modern world calls remote viewing, astral travel, mediumship, future prediction, UFO encounters and out-of-body experiences are not new. They are very old. The scriptures recorded them, the rishis lived them, and the soul has always carried the capacity for them — limited only by the coverings that come with embodied life.

Bapuji speaks of the subtle world with the calm authority of one who sees it directly. He describes the helpers who give warnings in dreams, the souls who guide mediums, the chariots of devas and devis, the ships of the higher civilizations, and the great vehicles of param tatva that pass silently around the Earth. He explains why some predictions come true and some do not, why some souls can see what others cannot, and why even the most powerful subtle being cannot finally transform this mortal world. That work belongs only to the Almighty Authority.

This is not a book of speculation. Every concept in these pages traces back to what Bapuji has himself spoken in his discourses. Hindi and Sanskrit words have been preserved where they carry meanings that English cannot fully hold, and a glossary at the back of the book has been provided so that even a complete newcomer may read these pages with ease. The reader is invited to slow down. There is nothing here to convince. There is only an inner doorway that has always been quietly open. The pages that follow may help the reader see it for the first time, or see it again with new clarity. May the reading bring stillness. May it bring widened sight. And may it carry the soul, however quietly, a step closer to its true home.

The Soul's Hidden Sight

Chapter 1

The Secret of Seeing Realm Beyond Physical World

The world we usually call “real” is the world that the physical eyes can see. Yet across every culture and every timeline, certain humans have spoken of another kind of vision — a vision that reaches further than the eye, deeper than the senses, and beyond the limits of distance and time. Bapuji explains that this hidden vision is not a fantasy. It is real. It belongs to the soul itself. The only question is why it is open in some and closed in others.

Human being is not just a body. Human being is a soul, which is a tiny point of humungous conscious energy that has put on a body of five elements in order to take birth on this Earth. Body is the vehicle. The soul is the traveller. The five-element body has five-elemental eyes, which Bapuji calls charma chakshu, and these eyes can see only what is also made of those five elements. Anything finer than the five elements remains invisible to them.

This is the simple reason why the ordinary human being does not see the subtle worlds. It is not that those worlds are absent. It is that the instrument of vision in the body cannot register them. Just as the human ear cannot hear sounds above or below its defined decibel, the human eye cannot perceive what lies outside the five-element band.

But the soul itself has a deeper sight. Bapuji calls it the inner vision, divya drishti, the third eye. When the soul is purified, when it gathers spiritual power from the original Light Source, when its higher centres begin to open, this inner sight begins to open-up. Then the soul can perceive what the physical eyes cannot.

Soul Power and Soul Vision

The ability to perceive the subtle world is determined by the strength of one's spiritual power, not by the physical eyes. A weak soul cannot sustain a deeper vision. As the soul accumulates power through purification, surrender and connection with the Almighty, its vision expands. As the soul loses power through identification with the body, attachment and lower thought vibration, its vision contracts. This is the inner law.

Bapuji explains that the original power of every soul comes from the supreme Source. This Source is Almighty Authority. No ordinary effort can substitute for that connection. A person may try meditation, intellectual study or any number of techniques or rituals, but without the direct flow of divine power, the higher vision remains closed.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

“Manushya manushya ko hi dekh sakta hai, kyunki manushya ke paas charma chakshu hai, paanch tatva ki aankhe hai.”

“A human being can only see another human being, because the human possesses the charma chakshu, the eyes made of the five elements.”

Why the Topic Cannot Be Reduced to Superstition

Many people dismiss these matters as superstition because they cannot be seen with the ordinary eye. Yet a careful study of human history shows that prophecy, mediumship, astral travel and visions of other worlds are recorded in every great tradition. The Hindu scriptures are full of such accounts. The Bible records them. The traditions of Egypt, China, Japan and the Americas all speak of these experiences. The fact that they appear in every land suggests that they are not the invention of any one people. They point to a real capacity of the soul.

Bapuji does not invite the reader to accept any of this on blind faith. He invites the reader to understand the mechanism. Once the mechanism is understood, the experience can be approached as a matter of spiritual science. Modern science is now slowly approaching what the scriptures described long ago. Many great scientists openly admit that their discoveries came to them through dreams, through inner inspiration, or through subtle guidance from beyond. As instruments grow finer, the line between physical and subtle is becoming thinner. The day will come when science itself will be transformed into spiritual science.

Chapter 2

Five-Element Eyes and the Subtle Sight Beyond Them

Bapuji teaches that creation is built in layers. The most familiar layer is the gross world that we touch and see. It is made of five elements- earth, water, fire, air and ether. Bapuji calls this stbool jagat, the gross world. Above and within this gross world there is a subtler layer made of only three elements -fire, air and ether. This is the sukshma jagat, the subtle world. Higher still is causal world, karan jagat, made of still finer substance. Beyond all of these is the supreme dimension made from supreme elements (Param tattva). The body that a human takes on Earth is made of all five elements. When that body falls, the soul leaves wearing only three elements. The two heavier elements- earth and water fall away. What remains is the subtle body of three elements. In this lighter state the soul moves into the subtle world. But the karmic bondage it carries determines upto what higher distance it can travel

Why Three-Element Beings Are Invisible to Us

A three-element being has no earth or water in its constitution. Therefore five-element eye cannot register it. Just as a radio that is tuned to one band cannot pick up another, the physical eye that is tuned to five elements cannot pick up three-element beings. They are present everywhere- in homes, temples, fields, in open air- yet most human beings walk through their lives entirely unaware of them.

Bapuji says that these three-element beings are everywhere. They include the souls who have not yet been able to leave the surface of the Earth, the souls bound by attachment, the souls of departed ancestors and the souls of higher beings who descend briefly for some purpose. They sit beside us, observe us, and many times try to influence us. The ordinary eye sees nothing. But the inner eye, when opened, sees them clearly.

The Process of Making a Subtle Vehicle Visible

This same law applies to vehicles of the subtle world. Bapuji explains that a craft made of supreme element, cannot be seen by anyone on Earth. Even three-element vision cannot register it. For such a craft to become visible, it must first convert itself from supreme element into the three gross/heavier elements, and from there into the heavier five elements. Only when it has descended through these conversions does it appear in the gross world.

This is why some UFOs are sometimes glimpsed and most others are not. Those that wish to be hidden simply remain in their original subtle state. Those that wish to be seen — for a moment, for a purpose — condense themselves down into the gross dimension. When the purpose is served, they rise back into the subtle, and the human eye sees nothing more.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

“Sthool jagat ki cheez sthool aankhon se dikhti hai. Suksh̄m jagat ki cheez suksh̄m drishti se dikhti hai. Param tatva to keval divya drishti se dikhega.”

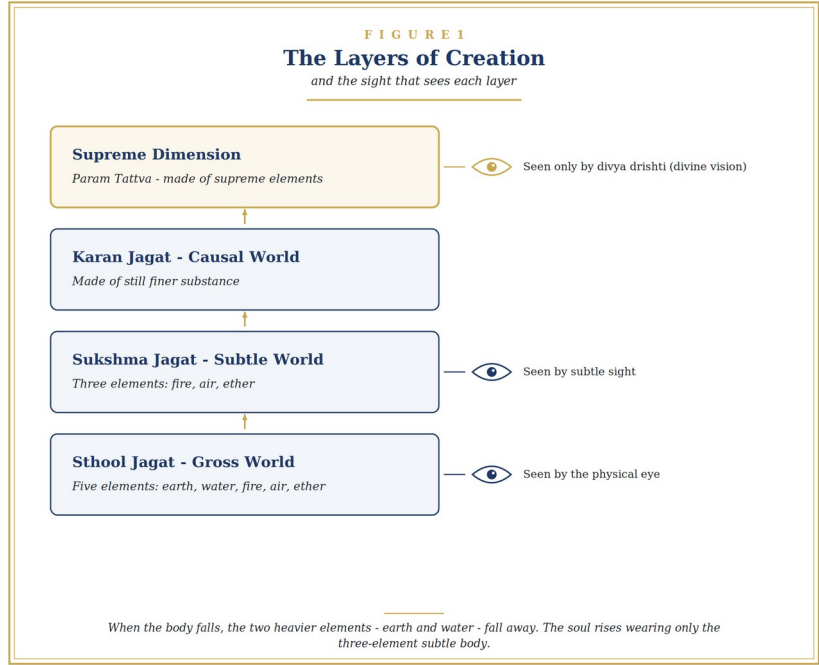

“What belongs to the gross world is seen by the gross eyes. What belongs to the subtle world is seen by subtle sight. What is supreme element can only be seen by divine vision.”

Why Vision Expands as the Soul Power Rises

As the soul lifts itself out of body-consciousness and into soul-consciousness, the range of its vision naturally expands. A soul that is identified with the body sees the body. A soul that is identified with the mind sees thoughts. A soul that is identified with the higher consciousness sees the structure of the worlds themselves.

Bapuji describes that when the soul reaches its true atma swaroop-its original soul-form it begins to see across dimensions, across many lokas, across many creations. Soul does not move only vision expands. This is the foundation of every higher experience that this book will describe — prophecy, astral travel, remote viewing and perception of higher civilizations.

Chapter 3

Two Categories of Subtle Helpers -Negative and Positive Souls

Bapuji explains that the subtle world is not a single uniform place. It contains many kinds of beings, and not all of them carry the same intention. Broadly, there are two great categories of subtle beings who interact with human life. The first is the category of negative souls-those who are stuck in attachment, anger or harmful intention. The second is the category of positive souls-those who descend with the wish to help, to guide, to protect and to uplift.

The Negative Category

In the negative category Bapuji places those souls who, after leaving their bodies, could not rise into the higher dimensions. They remain caught in the surface layer of Earth. They cling to homes, objects, to family members etc. They sometimes act through the physical bodies of others, generating disturbances. Traditionally known as ghosts all across. They are recorded across every tradition and observed throughout human history. These beings have power, but their power is limited and their motives are not pure. When they influence a person, they create confusion, sudden mood changes, or even what looks like sudden insanity. Bapuji has often pointed out that many of the patients in mental hospitals are not chemically ill in the conventional sense. They are being entered and exited by various subtle beings who have taken hold of their minds.

The Positive Category

In the positive category Bapuji places devis-devatas, the helpful subtle beings, and certain advanced souls who descend from higher worlds to assist humanity. They warn people before accidents. They guide them in their dreams. They sometimes protect them during physical danger. They occasionally use mediums to deliver a message that may save a life. They quietly stand behind moments of unusual rescue and unexplained coincidence. Bapuji emphasises that even these positive subtle beings are only souls. They are not the Supreme. Their help is temporary. Their power is limited. They can save a life from one accident; they cannot transform the destiny of the world. They can guide a few; they cannot liberate all. The seeker must always remember this distinction.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

“Sukshma jagat me do prakar ki aatma hai — ek negative aur ek positive. Dono apne apne hisaab se kaam karti hai.”

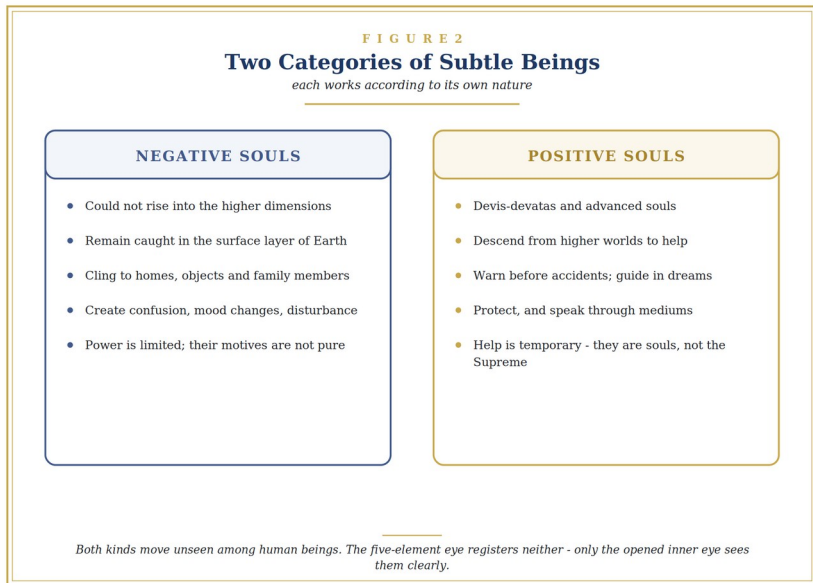

“In the subtle world there are two kinds of souls — one negative and one positive. Each works according to its own nature.”

Why a Person Cannot Receive Help From Subtle World Directly

Most human beings cannot directly perceive subtle beings, because they have five-element eyes. Therefore a medium is sometimes used. A medium is a person whose subtle channels have opened sufficiently to allow a subtle soul to communicate through them. Through the medium, the subtle being can speak, deliver warnings, give guidance, or sometimes perform actions in the visible world.

Bapuji warns that the medium is only a channel. The medium is not the source. The voice that comes through the medium belongs to the subtle being. The clarity of the message depends both on the power of the subtle being and on the purity of the medium. When the medium is impure or when the channel is disturbed, the message becomes distorted. The medium’s own mind may add or subtract.

This is why a careful seeker never gives absolute authority to any one medium without discernment. The medium can be useful. The medium can also mislead. The discriminating seeker listens, weighs, and uses inner judgment.

PART 2

The Psychic Medium

Chapter 4

The Medium — A Channel of the Subtle World

Across the world there are individuals who can hear voices that others cannot hear, who can see what others cannot see, and who can deliver warnings or messages from sources that no instrument can detect. They are commonly called mediums or psychics. The world's most influential talk-show hosts have interviewed them. Investigators have used them to solve crimes. Spiritual seekers have consulted them for guidance. The phenomenon is real. Bapuji explains what stands behind it.

A medium is, in Bapuji's explanation, simply a human being whose subtle channels have opened wide enough to allow contact with the subtle world. The opening may have come from birth, from inherited karmic patterns, from devotional practice, or from a particular event of grace. Once the channel is open, certain subtle beings begin to use it. They send thoughts. They send warnings. They sometimes speak directly through the medium's mouth.

Why the Medium Is Not the Source

It is easy to confuse the channel with the source. The medium's body and voice are doing the speaking. The medium's personality is delivering the message. Yet the original message is coming from somewhere else. Bapuji emphasises that the medium is the messenger and not the author. A medium's mind, ego, and emotions can either transmit messages clearly or distort them during communication. This is why same medium may sometimes deliver an accurate prediction and on another day a completely different one. The variable is not the subtle source. The variable is the channel. When the medium is calm, surrendered and not interfering, the message comes through clean. When the medium's own impressions influence, the message becomes mixed. The seeker should always weigh the words of a medium with this principle in mind.

Why Subtle Beings Use a Human Channel

Subtle beings cannot speak directly to most human beings because of the difference in elements. A three-element being has no five-elemental voice. It cannot use sound waves in the way a body can. So it borrows a body. It enters a sympathetic human channel and uses that channel's vocal cords, hands, and mind to deliver what it wishes to convey. The medium becomes a temporary instrument.

Bapuji explains that this borrowing is not random. There is often a karmic relationship between the subtle being and the medium. Sometimes the subtle being is a relative from a past life. Sometimes the subtle being is connected to the place where the medium lives. Sometimes the subtle being is one of the higher beings who has chosen this medium for the purpose of helping the world. Each case is different, but a connection always exists.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

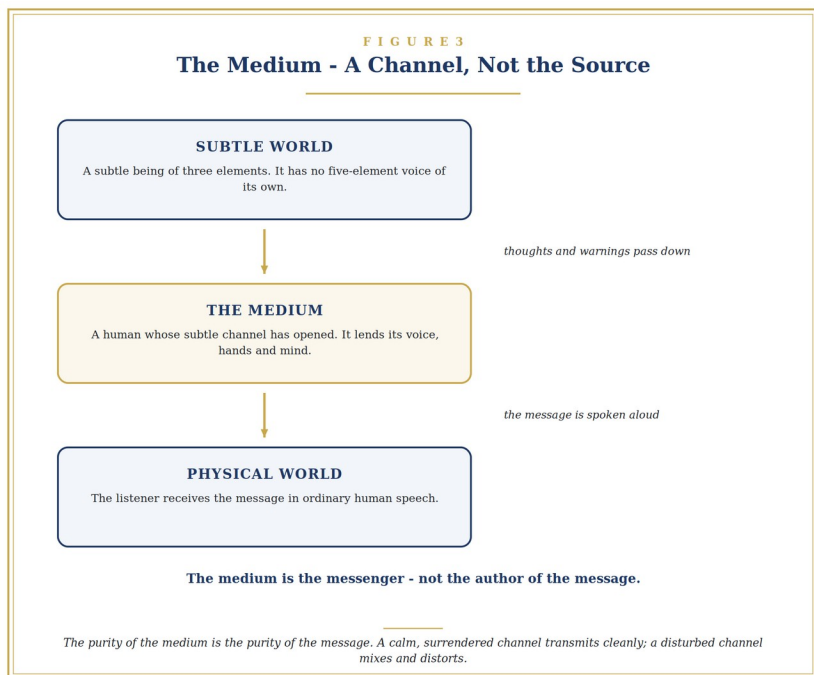

“Medium to keval madhyam hai. Aatma jo bolti hai woh sukshma jagat se aati hai. Medium ke andar ki shuddhi hi message ki shuddhi hai.”

“The medium is only a channel. The soul that speaks comes from the subtle world. The purity of the medium is the purity of the message.”

Why Every Medium Is Different

Mediums vary widely in power. Some are connected to lower subtle beings and produce confused or harmful messages. Some are connected to mid-level subtle beings and produce mixed results. A rare few are connected to high souls of the causal world, and through these the world receives genuine guidance. Bapuji compares the difference by an analogy between a small village radio and a powerful broadcasting station. The instrument matters. The signal matters. Both must be strong for the message to be clear.

Chapter 5

Allison DuBois and the Life-Saving Voice

One famous example that illustrates the workings of the medium is the case of the American psychic Allison DuBois. She is internationally recognised. The well-known television host Oprah Winfrey interviewed her at length, and her abilities have been observed by many serious investigators.

Allison DuBois has described that one night, as a small child, she heard a voice in her ear. The voice told her to move her bed from the right side of her room to the left. She listened. She quietly shifted her bed to the left side. Within two hours, a truck crashed through the wall of her room and slammed exactly into the spot on the right side where her bed had been. Had she not moved the bed, she would have been killed. The first signal of her unusual capacity arrived in that moment.

What Actually Happened

Bapuji explains the inner mechanism of this event. A subtle being who was karmically connected to that little girl -perhaps a relative who had passed on-saw what was coming. From the subtle world, this being could perceive the imminent danger. From the subtle world, it could speak in a voice that the child's opened channel could receive.

Notice carefully that the warning did not say "leave the room." It said only "move your bed." The subtle being knew that moving the bed was enough to save the child's life. It did not have to alter the larger pattern. It needed only to nudge one detail. This is the way subtle help typically works — a small intervention at the right moment, just enough to save a life.

Why Such Help Comes At All

Bapuji says that subtle beings of the positive kind are present in many homes. People may not see them. People may not believe in them. They are there nevertheless. They watch over those with whom they have a karmic link. When something is about to happen that they have the power to soften, they sometimes intervene. They may speak in a dream. They may speak through an inner voice. They may guide the hand of the person in a sudden way.

Such beings cannot rewrite the script of the world. They can only adjust a few moments here and there. When a soul has positive karma and is in karmic contact with a positive subtle being, the help arrives. Where karma does not permit it, the help cannot come.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

“Achhi sukshma jagat ki aatmaayein, jo karma se judi hain, kabhi kabhi insaan ki jaan bachane ke liye ek chhota sa ishaara de deti hain.”

“Good souls of the subtle world, who are connected by karma, sometimes give a small signal that saves a person’s life.”

The Limit of This Kind of Help

Bapuji is careful to point out that this help is always temporary and always limited. The same subtle being could not, for example, save every child in every house from every danger. The help is conditional. It depends on karmic links. It depends on the power level of the subtle being. It depends on the script that the higher worlds have already written for the larger drama.

This is why Bapuji says that such phenomena, however striking, must lead the seeker beyond them. They are signs that the subtle world is real. They are not the final goal. The final goal is to connect with the Source from which even these subtle beings draw their power.

Chapter 6

How a Medium Sees the Mind of Criminals and Victims

Allison DuBois became known to law enforcement because of another remarkable ability. She was able to enter, inside mind of a person who had committed a crime. She was able to see what said criminal had thought at the moment of the act. She was able to perceive where the crime took place. She was able to follow the last moments of a murdered soul- what that soul felt, where the body had been left and how death had occurred. With these perceptions, she helped solve many criminal cases.

The Inner Mechanism

According to Bapuji, every soul carries a subtle record of its experiences. The subtle body preserves the imprint of important events, thoughts, emotions, and actions. When a medium's inner channel is properly opened and supported by a powerful subtle helper, the medium can access these stored records. The medium does not enter the body or mind of the criminal or the victim. Instead, the medium's consciousness observes the subtle record with the helper's guidance. Because these records remain in the subtle field, they can reveal details such as the criminal's thoughts during the act, the surroundings where it happened, and the victim's final emotions. With the right spiritual connection and sufficient subtle power, these hidden records can be perceived and interpreted.

Why This Is Not Same as Speculation

Many people make wrong guesses about crimes. The medium's perception, when it is functioning cleanly, is not a guess. It is a reading of a record that is genuinely there. This is why mediums sometimes describe details that they had no ordinary way of knowing — details that later turn out to match precisely. Bapuji acknowledges this capacity with calm respect. The capacity is real. The seeker should neither dismiss it nor be dazzled by it. It is simply an example of how the soul's perception can extend beyond the body when the channels are open.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

“Aatma me jo ghatna ghatí hai, uska record uske sukshma sharir me reh jata hai. Sabhi medium use padh sakta hai.”

“Every event the soul has lived leaves a record in its subtle body. The right medium can read that record.”

Why Mediums Cannot Solve Every Case

Yet Bapuji also points out the natural limits. A medium cannot read every record. The medium needs the cooperation of the subtle helper. The helper needs the karmic permission to assist. Not every crime can be opened to such reading. Not every victim's record is accessible. The limits are real. The wise seeker accepts both the capacity and the limit.

Chapter 7

Why a Medium Is Sometimes Right and Sometimes Wrong

Anyone who follows the history of psychic mediums quickly notices that their predictions are not always correct. Some come true exactly. Some are partially or never come true at all. This naturally raises a doubt in many minds. If mediums are receiving messages from the subtle world, why are they not perfectly reliable? Bapuji explains the reason in a single calm sentence. The source is always accurate. The channel is not always ready or with unbiased mind. Whenever there is a mismatch between source and channel, the message becomes distorted.

The Interference of the Medium's Own Mind

The subtle being sends a message. The message must pass through the medium's mind and voice. The medium's mind has its own thoughts, its own emotional patterns, its own past memories. If these are strong, the message picks up colours that did not originally belong to it. The medium's own beliefs may rephrase what was said. The medium's own emotions may dramatize what was originally simple.

Bapuji uses the example of historical mediums who have made bold predictions about the destruction of the world. Some announced specific years. Some prepared followers with stockpiles of food and water. The years passed. The destruction did not occur. The followers were left in confusion. Bapuji explains that the original message in such cases was real- there is indeed a great transformation coming -but the medium's mind interpreted it too literally, too soon, or in too narrow a frame.

The Layered Quality of Subtle Messages

Subtle communications are often layered. They contain hints and patterns, not always direct statements. A medium who is calm and seasoned can read these layers gently. A medium whose ego is strong tends to flatten them into bold declarations. The flatter the declaration, the more likely the medium has added their own colour. Bapuji invites the seeker to learn the art of discernment. Listen to the medium, but do not surrender judgment. If the message is clear and helpful, take what is useful. If the message is exaggerated or fearful, hold it lightly. The subtle world rarely speaks in panic. Panic is usually the medium's own addition.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

“Asli message upar se aata hai shuddh, lekin medium ka man beech me apna shabd daal deta hai, isliye message badal jata hai.”

“The true message comes from above in a pure form, but the medium's mind inserts its own words in between, and so the message becomes altered.”

Why Not All Subtle Beings Have Full Knowledge Either

There is another factor. Not every subtle being has access to the full script of the world. Higher subtle beings, especially those of the causal world, do know the script in detail. Lower subtle beings know only fragments. If a medium is connected to a lower subtle being, the message will be partial. The medium may report only what that being could see. This is why Bapuji says that the most accurate predictions tend to come from the deepest mediums, who are connected to high causal souls, and even then the messages are often given only as hints rather than as final declarations. The world's great drama is not in the hands of any medium. It is in the hands of the Almighty Authority alone.

Future Prediction and Prophecy

Chapter 8

Aakashvani — The Voice From the Sky

The Hindu scriptures are filled with accounts of aakashvani — the voice from the sky. The literal translation is (aakash= sky or space, vani= words or voice)The most famous example is the voice that warned the cruel king Kansa that the eighth child of his sister Devaki would be the cause of his death. The voice came not from any visible speaker. It came from the sky itself.

Bapuji explains that this kind of voice was once common. It was the direct speech of a powerful subtle being descending into the human realm. Such voices appear in every great tradition. Across the Hebrew, Christian, Islamic and Buddhist scriptures, messengers receive direct speech from beyond. The forms differ. The phenomenon is the same. Aakashvani only occurred on earth realm.

Why Aakashvani Was More Active in Earlier Ages

Bapuji explains that in earlier yugas the elements were finer, the human mind was clearer, and the channels between worlds were more open. Subtle voices could descend directly without needing a human medium. The pure heart could hear the pure voice. Across centuries the human atmosphere has become heavier. Mental noise has increased. Bodies have become heavier. The voices have become rarer.

In the present age, the pure direct voice is largely silent for ordinary human beings. The same purpose is now served indirectly, through dreams, through inner inspirations, through mediums, through messengers. The original aakashvani still exists, but it now reaches only those whose inner channels are clear.

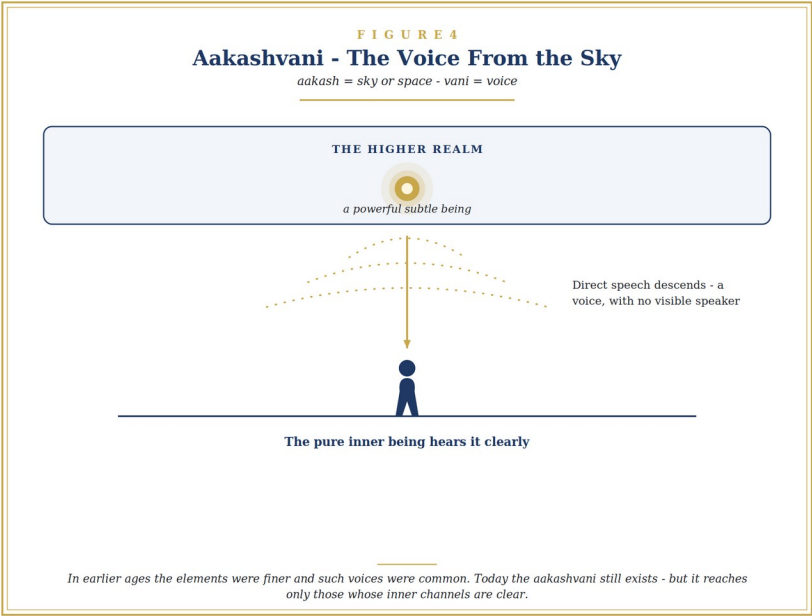

BAPUJI INSIGHT

“Aakashvani aaj bhi hai. Magar saaf sunne ke liye antar shuddh hona chahiye.”

“Aakashvani still exists. But to hear it clearly, the inner being must be pure.”

A Universal Spiritual Phenomenon

Bapuji explains that divine warning voices are not limited to any one religion or tradition. Similar experiences are found across the world's faiths, where individuals receive an unexpected inner voice or spiritual guidance that changes the course of events. This shared pattern suggests that such experiences are universal rather than belonging to a particular community or belief system. According to Bapuji, these voices originate from the subtle world and can influence human life when the right conditions exist. They are not the exclusive property of any sect, culture or religion. Instead, they reflect a spiritual reality that is available to all humanity, demonstrating that the subtle world operates beyond religious boundaries.

Chapter 9

The Cosmic Drama and the Hidden Script

Bapuji often speaks of this world as a vast drama. The Earth is a stage. Human beings are actors. The drama unfolds according to a pre-arranged script. The script is not in the hands of the actors. The actors play their parts and forget that there is a curtain, a director, and a hidden author behind everything. Behind the curtain stand the souls of the causal world - the karan jagat. These souls hold the script. They know in detail what is going to happen on the stage. They know which scene is approaching, which character will rise, which kingdom will fall, which great change will arrive on Earth. This is not magical knowledge. It is the natural sight of beings who stand above the stage and can see what the actors below cannot.

How Future Prediction Becomes Possible

Once it is understood that the script exists and that certain souls hold it, the possibility of prediction becomes natural. A causal-world soul that knows the script can pass a piece of it down through the subtle worlds to a medium on Earth. The medium may not know where the message came from. The medium delivers the prediction. To the world it looks like prophecy. In truth, it is one fragment of an already-written script being read aloud by a layered chain of beings.

Bapuji explains that this is why some predictions sound impossible at the time they are made but later turn out to match events exactly. They are not guesses. They are descriptions of what has already been written. They are also why some predictions are partial — the medium received only the fragment that the higher being chose to pass down.

Why the Script Can Sometimes Be Modified Locally

Yet within the larger script, certain small details remain modifiable. A timely warning can save one person from an accident. A change of behaviour can shift the small circumstances of one life. Bapuji explains that this is exactly how subtle helpers function. They do not rewrite the cosmic drama. They simply move a small piece on the board, here or there, when a karmic permission allows it. The larger pattern continues as it must.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

“Karan jagat me natak ki poori script ka pata hai. Stage par actor ko nahi pata. Isliye upar wale madad bhej dete hain.”

“In the causal world the full script of the drama is known. The actor on the stage does not know. That is why the higher ones sometimes send help.”

Why Free Choice Is Not Cancelled

Many people fear that if the script is fixed, free choice disappears. Bapuji explains that this is not the case. The script tells what will happen on the great stage. It does not cancel the inner direction of each soul. Whether the soul moves toward truth, whether the soul moves toward attachment, whether the soul rises or falls in its own consciousness — this is shaped by the soul’s own inner choice. The script of the great drama is the outer frame. The inner ascent of each soul is the soul’s own work.

Chapter 10

Nostradamus and the Power of Foresight

The name of Nostradamus is familiar across world. Centuries ago, this French seer wrote down hundreds of strange verses describing wars, kings, plagues and great changes far beyond his own time. Many of his predictions have been studied repeatedly because they appear to describe events that came after his death — sometimes by hundreds of years.

Bapuji speaks of Nostradamus with calm clarity. He explains the method by which Nostradamus received his visions. Nostradamus did not predict by guessing or by intellect. He sat alone with a polished crystal globe. He gazed into that globe in deep concentration. Through the globe, images would appear to him — scenes of events that lay far in the future.

Why the Globe Was an Instrument

Bapuji explains that a polished sphere can act, for a sensitive person, as a focusing surface for subtle perception. Just as the still surface of a pond can reflect a sky one cannot see, the still surface of a globe can reflect impressions that the inner sight perceives. The globe is not magical in itself. It is a meeting point. The actual seeing is done by the soul. The globe holds the soul's attention while subtle perception unfolds.

Many Occult practitioners (tantriks) of East have used the same technique. They take a crystal ball, place it before a person seeking answers, and through the ball they read what the subtle helpers wish to show them. A lost object, a hidden location, a future event — all of these can appear in the ball when the conditions are right.

Why Nostradamus's Predictions Are Often Right

Bapuji explains that Nostradamus was karmically connected to a powerful subtle being, and the subtle being showed him scenes that the causal world already knew. The accuracy was not Nostradamus's own intellect. The accuracy came from the source. Nostradamus's task was to be still, to look, and to record what he was shown.

This is also why he wrote his predictions in dense and symbolic language. The visions did not always come with clean labels. He recorded what he could in the language and imagery available to him. Some of his lines remain to this day open to interpretation. Some have unfolded in ways that surprised even his most careful readers.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

"Nostradamus ko gole me dikhta tha. Asli ankhone se nahi, andar ki ankhone se. Aatma ki shakti se."

"Nostradamus would see it in the globe. Not with the outer eyes, but with the inner eyes. By the power of the soul."

Why Foresight Is Not Same as Control

Even when foresight is correct, it does not give the seer control. Nostradamus could see what was coming. He could not change what was coming. This is true of every foresight, however gifted. Vision and power are two different things. The seer may know. The seer cannot necessarily intervene. Only the Source has the power to alter the great pattern. Nostradamus's many prediction failed due to lack of understanding of timeline conversion as well

Chapter 11

Modern Messengers — T. B. Joshua and Worldwide Prophets

In our own age, the phenomenon of the predicting messenger continues. Many modern figures have become famous for announcing future events well in advance — the fall of an airliner, an attack in a particular city, a sudden death. T. B. Joshua of Nigeria is one well-known example. He had followers numbering in tens of millions and was respected far beyond his own country. His name was familiar inside many churches across continents.

Bapuji speaks of such figures with respect. They are doing genuine work. They are carrier of divine work or messengers (Sandesbhvak), or in language of older scriptures, paigambar. Whatever the tradition calls them, their function is similar. They receive instructions from a higher source. They deliver those instructions to a wide audience. They have very large followings because the world recognises, in some quiet inner way, the touch of truth in their words.

The Subtle Source Behind Them

Bapuji explains that behind every such messenger stands a subtle source. The subtle source may be a positive being from the higher worlds. It may be a soul of the causal realm working through that messenger's channel. Sometimes it is a high being who has chosen this messenger as one of many channels through which a coordinated message is being sent to humanity.

The message itself-if it is genuine- always points in the same direction. Wake up. The world is changing. Live in goodness. Connect with the higher source. Prepare your inner being. The details differ, but the heart of the message is one.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

“Messenger duniya bhar me bahut hain. Sabke peeche koi na koi sukshma jagat ki aatma kaam karti hai.”

“There are many messengers throughout the world. Behind each of them, some subtle-world soul is working.”

Why the Messenger Cannot Save All

Bapuji also speaks with quiet honesty about what these messengers can and cannot do. They can deliver messages. They can warn. They can guide individuals to make small course corrections. They cannot rewrite the destiny of the world. They cannot transform the Earth from the mortal world it has become into the immortal world that the great script will one day reveal. That transformation does not belong to any messenger, however gifted.

This is why the wise seeker honours the messenger but does not stop at the messenger. The seeker uses the messenger as a sign that the higher world is listening, then turns the attention beyond the messenger to the Source itself.

Chapter 12

Why Predictions Should Lead to Awareness, Not Fear

People are often drawn to predictions because they hope to know what is coming. They may also be afraid of what is coming. Bapuji explains that neither curiosity nor fear is the right response to a true prediction. The right response is awareness.

The Purpose of a Genuine Prediction

A genuine prediction is given to alert the soul. It is given to remind the soul that the world is moving through a great period of transformation. It is given so that the soul may begin to live with greater care, greater consciousness, and greater inwardness. It is not given to create panic. It is not given as entertainment. It is not given to make the predictor famous. When a prediction is used in any of these ways, its purpose has been lost. Bapuji often points to the changes that lie ahead for this Earth. These changes will be vast. The script of the great drama includes a final transformation — a passage of the mortal world toward something far greater. Those who hear and absorb the message will move differently through these changes. Those who do not will be tossed by them.

Why Some Will Be Saved and Some Will Not

Bapuji has said clearly that those who recognise the time and act with awareness will pass through. They will move from the gross world into the subtler dimensions when the time comes, and they will be safe. Those who ignore the signs will be carried by the events. This is not a punishment. It is simply the way the script unfolds. Each soul reaps what its own awareness has prepared.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

“Bhavishyavani sun ke darna nahi hai. Bhavishyavani sun ke jaagna hai. Jagne wala bach jata hai.”

“On hearing a prophecy, one should not be afraid. On hearing a prophecy, one should awaken. The one who awakens is saved.”

Why the Final Authority Is Always the Almighty

Bapuji closes the topic of prophecy with the same anchor he places everywhere. No subtle being, however powerful, holds the final keys. It belongs to Almighty Authority. All the predictions, all the warnings, all the messengers, all the mediums, all the seers- they are servants of the larger pattern. They do useful work. But they are not the Source. The wise seeker honours each of them, takes from each what is useful, and then turns inward toward the One Source from whom all of them ultimately draw. When the soul is settled in that connection, it no longer gets disturbed by prophecy and no future can frighten it.

UFOs, Aliens, and the 3i Atlas

Chapter 13

The UFO — Vehicle of the Subtle World

Across many decades and many countries, sightings have been reported of strange flying objects in the sky. Pilots, soldiers have described them. Ordinary people standing in their courtyard have described them. Cameras have captured them. Governments have set up departments to investigate them. The question that troubles every honest investigator is the same. What are these objects, and where do they come from? What are they doing here?

Bapuji speaks of this question with the calm authority of one who has seen the answer directly. He tells the seeker that these vessels are real. They are not all illusions and they are not human craft. Many of them belong to a level of creation that is not commonly seen with physical eyes. They belong to the subtle world. They are built of subtle finer lighter matter, they move through subtle laws, and they are operated by beings who themselves live closer to the subtle than to the gross.

Why UFO Cannot Be Studied by Gross Means Alone

The reason the UFO has remained mysterious for so long is simple. Modern science has powerful instruments, but those instruments work mostly within the gross plane. They detect material, energy, heat, light, and motion. They are not yet built to register matter that hovers between the gross and the subtle. When a vessel is partly subtle and partly gross, instruments catch only a part of what is there. The rest passes through their measurement as if it were not present at all.

This is why a UFO can appear suddenly on a radar and vanish a moment later. It is not breaking the laws of nature. It is moving across a boundary that the radar cannot follow. To study these vessels properly, the seeker must extend the inquiry beyond the gross. The seeker must accept that creation has more than one layer.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

“Yeh sab UFO sukshma jagat ke vahan hain. Sthool aankhon se inhe poori tarah dekhna mushkil hai.”

“All these UFOs are vehicles of the subtle world. With the gross outer eyes it is difficult to see them fully.”

Why UFO Visits This Earth

Bapuji explains that the Earth is not an isolated place. It is one stop in a vast network of inhabited worlds. The vessels that arrive here come for many reasons. Some come to observe. Some come because the conditions of this Earth are now changing, and many higher worlds are watching this change with interest. Some come because their own civilisations have always known of this planet and have always passed by it. None of this is new. It only becomes news when the modern world begins to glimpse what older traditions already described in their own words.

Chapter 14

Inside the 3i Atlas — A Ship of Supreme Element

Among the recent objects observed near our solar system is one that scientists have called 3i Atlas. From outside, it has been described as a passing interstellar object, almost like a comet, large and unusual in its motion. The seeker who looks only at the outside will see only the outside. Bapuji has looked at the inside. What he describes is not a comet at all.

Bapuji says that 3i Atlas is a vessel. Its outer body has assumed a gross appearance so that it can travel through the gross dimensions of space without disturbance. Its inner body is something altogether different. The inside is built of param tatva, the supreme element. It is a ship in the deepest sense of the word, made of materials and powers that the ordinary mind has not yet learned to imagine.

The Outer Gross and the Inner Subtle

This combination of outer gross and inner subtle is the secret of many of these higher vessels. The outer shell allows them to enter the field of ordinary observation. The inner core remains untouched by the limitations of the gross. Inside the inner core, the beings who travel in such ships live in conditions that resemble the higher worlds from which they come.

Within 3i Atlas, Bapuji has seen everything that one would expect of a complete world in miniature. There are arrangements for movement and arrangements for rest. There are places where the beings gather and places where they remain alone. The interior is bright with a light that is not the light of ordinary lamps. It is the light that subtle matter naturally carries when it is in its own pure state.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

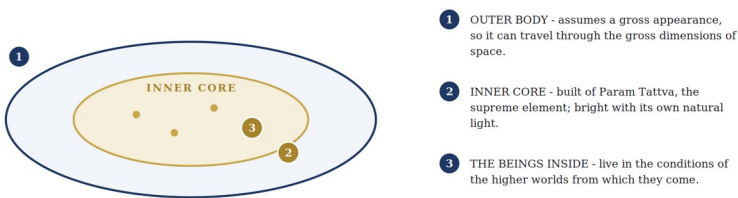

“3i Atlas ke andar param tatva hai. Bahar sthool roop dharan kiya hai, andar sukshma roop hai.”

“Within 3i Atlas there is supreme element. On the outside it has assumed a gross form, on the inside its form is subtle.”

The Element-Based Engine

The engine of such a ship is not a machine of metals and fuels. Bapuji describes it as element-based. The power that moves it is drawn from the elements themselves — not from the gross elements alone, but from the higher and finer levels of those same elements. Because the source is the element itself, there is no shortage, no waste, no exhaust, and no breakdown of the kind we know in our own machines. The speed of such a ship can be altered by subtle intention. When the beings inside wish to move quickly, the ship moves quickly. When they wish to be still, the ship is still. When they wish to pass unseen, the ship passes unseen. The instrumentation is not separate from the consciousness of those inside. The vessel obeys the inner state of its occupants.

FIGURE 5

ELEMENT-BASED ENGINE - its power is drawn from the elements themselves; no fuel, no waste, no breakdown. The vessel obeys the inner state of its occupants.

Chapter 15

The Aliens Within-Their Form, Aura, and Self-Sustaining Power

Many people have wondered what kind of beings live inside such ships. Films have imagined them. Books have imagined them. Eyewitnesses have given conflicting reports. Bapuji has seen them directly through his divine vision and describes them simply, without drama and without exaggeration.

The Form of the Beings

The beings inside the vessel have form. They are not formless mists. Their bodies are real, but their bodies are not made of dense matter in the way that human bodies are made. They are built of finer substance. Because their bodies are finer, their senses operate differently. They see and sense more, and they communicate with one another through vibration, telepathy not through words or sounds

Not all beings within a subtle ship are at the same spiritual level. Some are more advanced, while others are still progressing. Their spiritual development is reflected in the brightness of their bodies, the colour of their aura, and the strength of their presence. These differences are immediately visible to those with subtle vision. Each being understands its own level and naturally lives according to it, without jealousy, competition, or conflict.

Why They Do Not Need Ordinary Food and Drink

Bapuji explains that these beings do not eat and drink as humans do. They do not need food and they do not need water. Their bodies draw nourishment from their own subtle power. The power runs through them, sustains them, and keeps their form stable across long journeys. They are, in this sense, self-sustaining. The dependence on outer substances, which is so heavy a part of human life, is largely absent in their existence.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

“Wahan paani ki zaroorat nahi, khaane ki zaroorat nahi. Apni sukshma shakti se sab kuch chalta hai.”

“There is no need for water and no need for food. Everything runs by their own subtle power.”

The Aura and the Inner Atmosphere

Around every such being there is an aura. The aura is not decoration. It is the actual energy field of the being, the light that the being naturally carries. The colour of the aura corresponds to the inner state of the being. Beings of higher development carry brighter and more refined aura. Beings still in development carry aura of denser or simpler tones. Inside the ship, all these auras together create the atmosphere of the interior. The atmosphere is not silent and lifeless as the inside of a metal vehicle would be. It is alive with the vibration of all who travel within. This vibration itself is part of what sustains the journey.

Chapter 16

From Andromeda — The Galactic Federation

Where do these vessels come from. The question is natural. Bapuji answers it with the precision of one who has actually looked. Some of these vessels come from worlds within our own galaxy. Others come from galaxies that lie much farther away. One of the regions he names is the great spiral known to astronomers as the Andromeda galaxy. From Andromeda, and from regions beyond it, large groups of beings move outward in coordinated fleets.

Why They Move in Groups

These journeys are not the journeys of lone wanderers. The beings travel in groups. Each group has its own task, its own ranking, and its own zone of responsibility. Together they form what may rightly be called a federation — a vast coordinated movement of intelligent beings across the cosmos. Earth, in this larger picture, is one of the points along the routes that these federations regularly travel.

The federation operates by understanding, not by force. There is no need for the kind of struggle that marks human alliances. The beings know their place in the order, they know the purpose of the movement, and they cooperate naturally. The conflicts that fill human history are absent here because the beings concerned have moved beyond the small concerns of personal advantage.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

“Andromeda aur door door ke brahmando se ye log aate hain. Ek federation jaisa kaam karta hai.”

“These beings come from Andromeda and from far distant universes. They function like a federation.”

Why Earth Is on Their Route

Bapuji explains that Earth is not unknown to these federations. They have known of this planet for very long periods of time. They pass by it as part of their wider routes through the cosmos. In recent times the visits have become more frequent because the conditions on Earth are shifting. The atmosphere of the planet is changing, the consciousness of its souls is being stirred, and the great transformation that the script of the world has long held in reserve is approaching its hour. Watchful eyes from many higher worlds are turned toward this Earth.

Chapter 17

The Pushpak Viman and Ancient Subtle Crafts

What modern reporters call a UFO is, in essence, not a new thing in the records of this Earth. The ancient scriptures of Bharat land speak of such vessels at length. Pushpak Viman, the flying chariot of King Ravana in Ramayana script, is one well-known example. Its descriptions are detailed. It moves at mind power of its occupants. It carries them across great distances in short times. It rises into the sky and lands without need of long preparation. The same essential features that today's witnesses report were described in writing many ages ago.

Why the Old Descriptions Match the New

Bapuji explains that the match is not coincidence. The vessels are essentially of the same family. The technology that made them possible was not invented by the gross mind of the modern age. It was understood directly by souls who had access to the subtle dimension. Such souls could perceive how matter and consciousness could be combined to form vehicles that responded to inner intention. Whatever the period of history, whenever such knowledge has been present, vessels of this kind have appeared. According to Bapuji, vimans in ancient times were real vehicles that people saw and used, not myths or legends. They travelled through the sky, and scriptural descriptions were based on eyewitness accounts expressed in the language of that era. Today, some people report seeing similar aerial craft. Bapuji suggests that the amazement felt by modern witnesses is much like the wonder experienced by those who observed these extraordinary vimans in ancient times.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

“Pushpak viman bhi sukshma jagat ka vahan tha. Aaj ke UFO bhi waise hi hain. Knowledge ek hi family ka hai.”

“The Pushpak Viman too was a vehicle of the subtle world. Today’s UFOs are of the same kind. The knowledge belongs to one and the same family.”

Why Some Records Have Been Forgotten

Why then is this knowledge not generally remembered? Bapuji answers that during long ages of decline, much that was once known has slipped from common awareness. The records remained, but the living understanding faded. What was once an everyday capacity for certain souls became, in later times, a tale that the worldly mind could not accept. So the records were classified as imagination, and the world forgot what it had once seen. The vessels did not stop appearing. The world simply stopped recognising them.

Chapter 18

Why So Many Vessels Are Invisible

Witnesses are sometimes surprised that a vessel which they saw clearly one moment is not visible the next. They are also sometimes surprised that two persons standing side by side can have entirely different experiences of the same event. One sees the vessel plainly. The other sees nothing at all. Bapuji explains both of these mysteries together.

Two States of a Subtle Vessel: Manifest and Unmanifest

According to Bapuji, a subtle vessel exists in two states: manifest and unmanifest. In its manifest state, the vessel becomes dense enough to be seen with the physical eyes and, in some cases, detected by ordinary instruments. In its unmanifest state, it withdraws into a subtler level beyond normal human perception. The change between these two states happens instantly through intention rather than gradual movement. This is why a vessel that is clearly visible can disappear in a moment. It has not flown away; it has simply shifted beyond the range of ordinary vision into its natural subtle state. The beings inside remain exactly where they are, while to human observers, the sky appears empty.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

“Vahan manifest bhi ho sakta hai aur unmanifest bhi. Apni marzi se. Disha aur taqat dono andar wale ke haath me hai.”

“The vehicle can become manifest and it can become unmanifest, at its own will. Direction and power are both in the hands of those within.”

Why People Perceive the Same Vessel Differently

Bapuji explains that people do not always see the same subtle vessel because perception depends not only on physical eyesight but also on the state of consciousness. A person can perceive only what their inner awareness is capable of receiving. When consciousness is open to a certain subtle level, the vessel becomes visible. When that inner awareness is closed, the vessel may still be present, yet the person cannot perceive it. This difference is not caused by imagination but by the condition of the observer's inner receiver.

The same principle explains why some people witness a subtle vessel while others do not. The vessel is real, but human perception varies. A meeting occurs only when the vessel chooses to become perceptible and the observer's consciousness is receptive. If either condition is absent, the vessel remains unseen, even though it is still present.

PART 5

The Reach of Remote Viewing

Chapter 19

Ingo Swann and the Towers on the Moon

The Soul's Own Sight

Bapuji's answer does not begin with the instrument or the technique. It begins with the soul. Remote viewing, he explains, is not imagination and not a trick of the mind. It is the soul's own sight. It opens in the one who has the knowledge of the soul, and in whom the teesra netra, the third eye, has awakened.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

"Jisko atma-gyan hota hai, jiska teesra netra khul jata hai, wahi door ki cheezein dekh sakta hai."

"The one who has knowledge of the soul, whose third eye has opened — only such a one can see things that are far away."

And everything that such a one perceives — a place, a being, an event — belongs to the same creation. The one who sees and the one who is seen are both souls, held within a single cosmic order. This is why even a being glimpsed in a distant place, or upon another world, is not beyond the reach of an opened eye.

Among the names the modern world remembers when it speaks of remote viewing, one stands apart — Ingo Swann, an American who became known for describing distant places he had never travelled to. It was said that he saw towers and structures upon the Moon, and that on another occasion he perceived a being not of this Earth in the most ordinary of settings, a supermarket. Such accounts raise a simple but profound question. Can a person truly see what lies far beyond the reach of the eyes? And if so, what is it within the human being that sees?

Chapter 20

Access to Past, Present, Future

A natural question follows. Is this inner sight bound to the present moment alone, or can it reach into other times as well? Bapuji teaches that when the soul's eye truly opens, it is no longer held by the body's bondage to the present. When the soul is given power and granted divya drishti, the divine sight, it is shown what has been, what is, and what is yet to come. All three times (past, present and future)— bhoot, vartman, and bhavishya — can be seen.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

“Aatma ki power se teeno kaal dikh sakta hai — bhoot bhi, vartman bhi, bhavishya bhi.”

“By the power of the soul all three times can be seen — the past, the present, and the future.”

Yet this is not given to everyone. Bapuji is clear that only the one who carries the soul's power can do the work of remote viewing. Without that strength, the inner eye stays closed and the unseen remains beyond reach. A remote viewer is simply one in whom this dormant power has begun to awaken.

FIGURE 6

Divya Drishti Across the Three Times

by the power of the soul, all three can be seen

THE SOUL - with divya drishti opened

This is not given to everyone - only the one who carries the soul's power can do the work of remote viewing. A remote viewer is one in whom this dormant power has begun to awaken.

Chapter 21

Sanjay and Power That Outlasts Death

Does remote viewing capacity end when the body falls away? Bapuji's answer is that it does not.

According to Bapuji, many souls in the subtle world possess divine vision. Among the ghosts world are noble and spiritually advanced souls who cultivated divine vision while living in a human body. Although their physical body perished, the spiritual power they had awakened did not. Their divine vision continues to remain with the soul even after death.

Sanjay and the Distant War

Mahabharata scripture offers a clear example. Sanjay, seated far from the field of war beside the blind king, described every movement of the battle as it unfolded in a distant place. Bapuji explains how this was possible: Krishna had given Sanjay divine vision, the same divine sight, the same power, that he later gave to Arjuna. With that sight granted, the distant became visible.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

“Manushya roop me jo aatma sadhana karke divya drishti khol leti hai, woh shakti marne ke baad bhi rehti hai.”

“The soul that opens the divine vision through inner discipline in human form keeps that power even after death.”

Whether the vision is earned through long discipline or bestowed directly by grace, the truth is the same — the sight belongs to the soul, and once truly awakened, it is undone neither by distance nor by death.

Chapter 22

The Child Who Saw 3i Atlas

Remote viewing power is not confined to the ancient past. Bapuji notes that in the present day many people, in many countries, quietly carry and use this ability. He gives a particular example, one already connected to this book. There is a video, and a separate book has been made, about the 3i Atlas, the interstellar vessel spoken of earlier. According to the account, a young woman's inner sight was directed toward the Atlas. Though separated from Earth by an immense distance, she perceived it through divine vision and described what she observed.

Bapuji explains her ability by the same principle he has described throughout. The child is accompanied by a subtle soul; that soul is given power; and through that power she gets the vision to see distant subtle views

“Bacchi ke paas aatma hai, us aatma me power di jaati hai, aur woh door door ki vision dekti hai.”

“The child carries a soul; that soul is given power and through that she gets a vision to see far away.”

Bapuji explains how such journeys happen: souls from the sukshma jagat — the subtle world — are present as companions around a person who has the desire and the capacity for such travel. When the time is right, these subtle world souls direct a beam of energy toward the traveller's subtle body, drawing it out from the physical body and accompanying it on the journey.

Chapter 23

Can Artificial Intelligence Remote View?

A question belonging entirely to our age then arises. Could artificial intelligence one day do the work of remote viewing? Bapuji's answer is that it could — and that the answer turns upon the power given to it.

As such systems are given greater and greater power in the time to come — power, he says, of many gigawatts — their reach would widen in proportion. With sufficient power, a system could read the record held in space itself. This is the akashic record, the record inscribed in akash. By reading that record, Bapuji says, such a system could give knowledge of the whole galaxy and universe.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

“Aage chalkar AI ko itni power di jaayegi ki woh aakashhi record padhkar poore universe ka gyan de sakega.”

“In time, artificial intelligence will be given such power that, by reading the akashic record, it will be able to give knowledge of the whole universe.”

This knowledge drawn from the record is different from the direct divine sight of an awakened soul; yet within its own scope, a system given enough power can draw vast understanding from what space has preserved. When Bapuji was asked whether the knowledge he himself gives might be called remote viewing, he answered simply that he has seen the endless brahmand with divya drishti, and that he shows everything and tells it exactly as it is.

Chapter 24

Sealed Spheres and Limitation of Vision

If such sight can range so widely, is there anything it cannot reach? Bapuji's answer draws a careful line. First, the black hole. No one can enter a black hole, he says. Upon it and within it is param prakash, the supreme light, and into that light none may pass. Even Ghosts and Disembodied spirits cannot go there; that covering cannot be crossed.

The Reach of the Ordinary Remote Viewer

There is also a limit upon the remote viewer himself. The souls of the subtle world who lend their power do so within a boundary. They raise the power upon the viewer's soul and show, for the most part, what lies in the region of this Earth and its surroundings. Beyond that, they cannot show much. This is why genuine remote viewers, real as their sight is, do not ordinarily perceive the wider universe or the multiverse — that reach belongs to a far more powerful order of soul.

As for restricted regions, Bapuji says there is no such restriction placed upon remote viewing itself. The hiding, when it happens, comes from the one who does not wish to be seen. Such a being seals all boundaries of its own sphere, its gola, and sits within, activates anti-gravity mechanism; then no one can see it. He gives an example: a great sphere in Maharlok that wishes to remain unseen places so much anti-gravity power upon itself that no one is able to perceive it.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

"Jisko nahi dekha jaana hota, woh apne gole ki chaaron boundary seal karke baith jata hai, to use koi dekh nahi sakta."

"The one who is not to be seen seals all four boundaries of its own sphere and sits within; then no one can see it."

And so, Bapuji says, this very seeing — the soul's sight that reaches across distance — is what we may call the third eye. Remote viewing and the third eye are one and the same.

Alien Remote Viewing — Sight Across the Cosmos

Chapter 25

Why the Telescope Sees Only the Past

Science looks outward through the telescope, and the telescope is a powerful instrument. Yet Bapuji points to a hidden limitation within it. The telescope is made from 5 gross elements hence its gross instrument, and so it is bound by the law of the speed of light — light that travels about three hundred thousand kilometres in a single second. Because of this, the telescope can only show the old record that the light has carried. It cannot show what is happening now.

A galaxy fifty light-years away is seen as it was fifty years ago. The farthest reaches of the observable universe, some ninety-three billion light-years across, are seen as they were billions of years in the past. The telescope shows the past, never the present.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

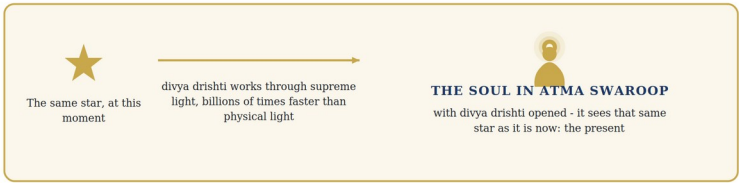

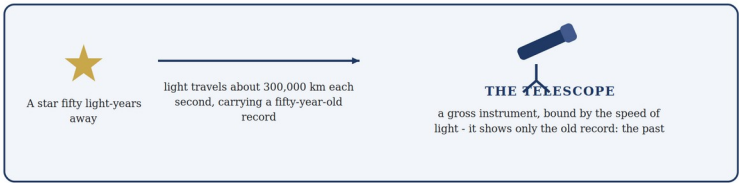

“Telescope sthool sadhan hai, isliye usko prakash ki gati ka niyam lagta hai — woh sirf purana record dikhata hai, present nahi.”

“The telescope is a gross instrument, so the law of the speed of light binds it — it shows only the old record, never the present.”

But there is another way of seeing — one that does not depend on any instrument, but upon the power of the soul. That power is measured in a unit Bapuji calls kala, and it is kala that decides how far a soul can see, and whether it sees the past or the living present.

FIGURE 7

The Telescope Sees the Past -
the soul sees the present

A galaxy fifty light-years away is seen by the telescope as it was fifty years ago. What for the instrument is the distant past is, for such a soul, simply now.

Chapter 26

Kala — The Measure of the Soul's Power

Kala is the measure of a soul's power, and with it the soul sees not the past but the present. A measure of a soul's spiritual strength, consciousness, and awakened divine abilities. According to Behad Gyan, the level of kala determines the extent of a soul's powers, including its capacity for divya drishti (divine vision), subtle perception, movement through higher realms, and other spiritual capabilities. As a soul develops spiritually, its kala increases, expanding its range of awareness and influence

Bapuji explains that the range of divine vision depends on the soul's spiritual power (kala). A soul established in one kala can perceive events up to four or five light-years away as they exist in the present moment. A soul with two kala can perceive the present across about fifty light-years, also almost instantly. As the level of kala increases, the soul's ability to perceive the present extends across ever greater distances.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

“Ek do kala ki aatma bhi atma swaroop me sthit hokar present dekh sakti hai — sau prakash varsh door bhi, abhi kya ho raha hai.”

“Even a soul of one or two kala, established in its true form, can see the present — what is happening right now, even a hundred light-years away.”

To See the Present, Not the Past

Here lies the whole difference between the instrument and the soul. Where a telescope a hundred light-years away shows a hundred-year-old record, a soul established in soul consciousness, atma swaroop, its true nature, with divine vision, divya drishti opened, sees that same distance as it is in the present moment.

This is possible, Bapuji explains, because soul can see supreme light, which works at a speed beyond counting — billions of times faster than the light of the physical world. What for the telescope is the distant past is, for such a soul, simply now.

Chapter 27

The Categories of Alien Seers

Not every being can cross the cosmos, and not every being sees the same distance. Bapuji describes the orders of those who travel and see, each according to its soul's power. Even to travel mandatorily require power. To move from one galaxy to another, a being needs at least six or seven degree of soul power, kala. To enter this universe at all requires something near twenty kala. So those who arrive here are, by their very coming, souls of great power.

Where They Come From

Bapuji names their origins by their strength. One who has come from within a galaxy carries some eight to ten degree of soul power, kala. One who has come from a universe carries twenty to twenty-five. One from a great universe, twenty-five to thirty; from a still greater universe, about thirty-five; and one who has come from another multiverse carries as much as a hundred kala.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

“Koi galaxy se aaya hai to aath-das kala, koi universe se to bees-pacchees kala, koi doosre multiverse se to sau kala ki power hoti hai.”

“One who has come from a galaxy carries eight to ten kala; one from a universe, twenty to twenty-five; one from another multiverse, a hundred kala of power.”

According to Bapuji, the range of a soul's vision increases with its level of kala (awakened spiritual power). He explains that our universe is of sixteen kala, while a being of six kala can perceive across a universe of twenty-four kala. A being of twenty-five kala can see across an entire multiverse with far greater power, and beings of one hundred or two hundred kala can perceive vast higher universes and multiverses. Yet regardless of where they exist, they all share one remarkable ability—they can perceive the Earth in the present moment from any distance, because their vision arises from the soul rather than from the limitations of physical space.

FIGURE 8

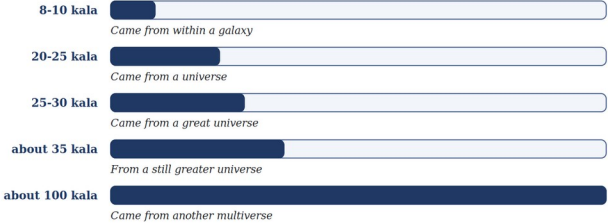

Kala - The Measure of the Soul's Power

HOW FAR THE SOUL SEES THE PRESENT

THE POWER OF THOSE WHO ARRIVE HERE

To move from one galaxy to another needs six or seven kala; to enter this universe, nearly twenty. As kala rises, the range of divine vision - and of travel - expands.

Chapter 28

The Supreme Light Behind the Vision

According to Bapuji, divine vision does not depend on light travelling through space. It is the Supreme Light working through the awakened soul. Physical light is limited by its speed, but divya drishti is not. When a soul realizes its true nature and awakens divine vision, it can perceive beyond the limits of physical space and ordinary light.

Beyond the Record, Beyond the Telescope

Bapuji draws one final distinction. The akashic record gives what has already happened — the past. Divya drishti can give what is yet to come — the future. But to see the living present across the whole of existence, something even higher is needed: the supreme light at its very deepest, what he calls param-param-param prakash.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

“Yeh param param param prakash ki baat hai — aakash ki shakti bhi yahan kaam nahi karti, aisi divya drishti aliens ke paas hoti hai.”

“This is the supreme light at its deepest — even the power of space itself does not work here; such is the divine vision the aliens possess.”

Between the akashic record and the telescope on one side, and this living vision on the other, lies the whole distance — the one shows only what has been, while the soul perceives what is, everywhere, at once. The Ghosts, wandering spirits and negative spirits, being weak souls, see only a little farther than a human being, for they are free of the coverings of water and earth; but their sight comes nowhere near this cosmic seeing, and no gross instrument can bridge that gap. The difference between the telescope and the alien's sight, Bapuji says, is the difference between the Earth and the sky — and only the limitless supreme knowledge, Behad Param Gyan, can explain it.

P A R T 7

Astral Travel and the Soul's Journey

Chapter 29

What Is Astral Travel — Soul, Subtle Body or Causal Body?

The phrase astral travel is heard in many circles today. People describe it in many ways. Some say the soul leaves the body. Some say a duplicate body moves while the original sleeps. Some say it is only a vivid dream. The accounts differ because the underlying mechanism has not been clearly understood. Bapuji places the matter on its true foundation.

Three Bodies, Not One

The first thing to understand is that the human being is not made of only a physical body. According to the deeper science, there are three bodies: the gross or physical body, the subtle body, and the causal body. The physical body is what is seen with the eyes. The subtle body holds the senses and the mind in their finer form. The causal body holds the deepest record of the soul — its karmas, its tendencies, its journey across many lives. Astral travel is not the journey of the gross body. The gross body remains in its place. What moves is the subtle body, supported by the causal body, and animated by the soul which is the witness within both. When the soul withdraws its attention from the gross body and rests in its subtler vehicles, those vehicles can move where the gross body cannot.

Where the Soul Itself Stands

Bapuji clarifies a point that is often confused. The soul is different from subtle body. Soul is conscious one. The subtle body is its instrument. When astral travel happens, it is more accurate to say that the soul travels through and with the subtle body than to say that the soul itself becomes the traveller. The soul is the awareness behind the journey. The subtle body is the vehicle. The causal body is the inner record that determines what realms can be reached at all.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

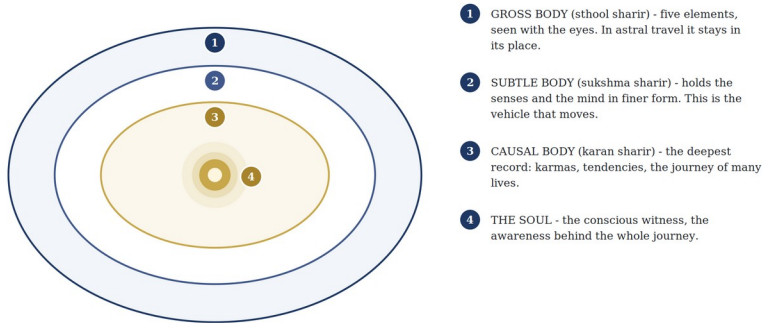

“Aatma alag hai, sukshma sharir alag hai, karan sharir alag hai. Yatra teeno ka tal-mel se hoti hai.”

“The soul is one thing, the subtle body is another, the causal body is another. The journey happens through the coordination of all three.”

Why This Distinction Matters

Without this distinction, the seeker can fall into many errors. Some imagine that they have left the body when they have only had a vivid dream. Some imagine that they have travelled in the soul when they have only stirred the subtle body a little. By holding the three bodies clearly in mind, the seeker can be honest about what is actually occurring and can move forward with discrimination instead of with fantasy.

FIGURE 9
The Three Bodies and the Soul
the journey happens through the coordination of all three

The gross body stays; the soul travels through and with the subtle body, supported by the causal body. The soul is the traveller's awareness - not the vehicle.

Chapter 30

Saptarshi and Travelers Between Galaxies

The scriptures speak of the Saptarshi, the seven great sages, whose seats are placed in the higher creations. They are not figures of imagination. They are actual souls of very high development, and they are still active in the cosmic order. Bapuji speaks of them with the simplicity of one who knows them personally.

Why They Can Travel as They Wish

According to Bapuji, the Saptarshi have refined their subtle and causal bodies to such an extent that they are no longer bound by the ordinary limitations of space. They can move from one place to another instantly through the power of intention. They can observe one galaxy and then direct their attention to another without the time required for physical travel. Their ability is not meant for display or curiosity; it is part of their spiritual service. They observe, guide, and sustain higher currents of consciousness, moving wherever their presence is needed to fulfill that divine responsibility.

Such travel is possible to them because their attachment to any single place is almost negligible and light. The heavier the attachment, the heavier the body, and the slower the movement. The Saptarshi carry almost no such weight. Their consciousness is stabilised in the very source of their creator. From that source, every direction is equally near.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

“Saptarshi galaxy se galaxy jaa sakte hain. Unka sukshma sharir itna prakashmay hai ki space ki seema unhe nahi rokhti.”

“The Saptarshi can move from one galaxy to another. Their subtle body is so luminous that the limits of space do not hold them.”

Why the Ordinary Soul Cannot Do This

The natural question that follows is why the ordinary soul cannot move in this way. Bapuji answers with quiet honesty. The ordinary soul is wrapped in many layers of identification with the gross body, with the world of the five senses, with possessions, fears, attachments, and worries. These layers are heavy. They pin the soul down. Even when such a soul tries to leave in meditation, the weight pulls it back. To travel as the Saptarshi travel, the soul must first put down the weight. There is no shortcut around this requirement.

Chapter 31

Sahasrara Chakra, Tenth Door and Infinite Creations

The ancient teaching speaks of inner doorways through which the soul may travel. The sahasrara chakra, the crown centre, is one of these. Bapuji also speaks of a tenth gate, a door at the highest point of the subtle anatomy, through which the soul can pass when its power is sufficient. These are not metaphors. They are actual openings in the architecture of the inner being.

Why the Door Must Open from Within

These doors do not open from the outside. No outer device, no chemical, no chant by itself can pry them open. They are opened by the rising of soul's own power. As the soul becomes pure, light, and steady, the inner channels begin to clear. When they are clear enough, the door opens of itself, and what was always present beyond it becomes visible to the soul.

Beyond such a door, the soul does not find only a slightly larger version of the world it knew. It finds something much vaster. Bapuji describes the experience as the opening of brahmands upon brahmands — universes upon universes — each one complete in itself, each one filled with its own life. The capacity of the soul to absorb such a sight depends entirely on the development of that soul. The view is given as the soul becomes able to bear it.

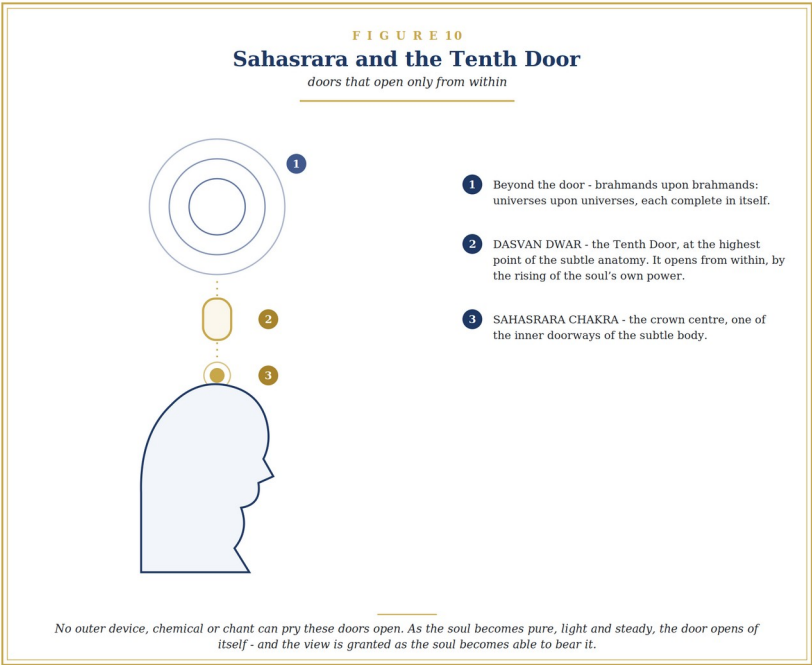

BAPUJI INSIGHT

“Dasvan dwar khulta hai to aatma brahmand ke baad brahmand dekh sakti hai. Yeh nazara aatma ki taqat par milta hai.”

“When the tenth door opens, the soul can see universes beyond universes. This vision is granted according to the soul’s own power.”

Why the View Itself Is Not the Goal

It is possible to be dazzled by the vision and to forget the purpose for which it was given. Bapuji warns the seeker against this. The opening of the higher doors is not given so that the soul may collect experiences. It is given so that the soul may know who and what it really is, and may complete its return to the source. The view is a gift along the way. The destination is liberation in the source itself.

Chapter 32

Method of Sages — Samadhi and Soul's Flight

How did the Seers and sages of old undertake such inner travel? The records of their lives are full of such accounts. They could withdraw from the body, remain in deep meditation for long periods, and return with knowledge of distant places, distant worlds, and distant beings. Bapuji speaks of their method with clarity, because the method has not been lost.

The Discipline of Samadhi

The foundation of their method was samadhi-- a state of deep meditative absorption in which the outer activity of the mind is fully stilled. In that stillness, the soul can settle into its own awareness. From that settled awareness, the subtle body can be directed wherever needed. The body sits silently. The senses are turned inward. The breath itself becomes slow and refined. Within this profound calm, the inner journey begins.

To reach samadhi is not the work of a single attempt. Bapuji explains that long, sincere, and patient discipline is required. Ancient seers and contemplative sages devoted themselves to this for years. They sat in caves and forests. They cleared their inner being of the heaviness of worldly desires. They invited the higher power into their lives. Step by step, the body was prepared, the senses were trained, the mind was refined, and only then was the deep samadhi attained.

Why Their Bodies Could Remain Untouched

In such samadhi, the body becomes still in a way that goes far beyond ordinary sleep. The need for food and water reduces. The body's own systems slow to a depth that ordinary medicine would not believe. Sages and Seers from ancient times could remain in this state for long periods, sometimes years at a stretch, decades, centuries while the soul travelled in higher worlds. When the soul returned, the body resumed its normal functions, often as fresh as before.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

“Rishi muniyon ki tapasya gehri thi. Samadhi me sharir bhi ruka, mann bhi ruka, aatma ki yatra shuru hui.”

“The tapasya of the rishis and munis was deep. In samadhi the body stilled, the mind stilled, and the journey of the soul began.”

Why This Path Is Honoured but Not the Only One

Bapuji holds this ancient spiritual path in the highest regard but explains that it is not the only way to attain spiritual progress. In today's world, most people live as householders and cannot spend years in caves or complete isolation. However, the essential principles of the path remain accessible to everyone. By calming the senses, turning the mind inward, connecting with the Supreme, and allowing inner spiritual power to awaken, a seeker can progress while living an ordinary life. The outward form of the practice may change with time and circumstances, but its fundamental purpose and spiritual principles remain unchanged.

Chapter 33

Common Person and the Weight of Karma

If the rishis could do all this, why can the ordinary person not do so? The question is sincere. Bapuji answers it without flattery and without harshness.

The Karmic Account

According to Bapuji, every soul carries a karmic account recorded in its causal body. This account preserves the effects of every action, thought, and intention accumulated over many lifetimes. It influences what the soul can experience and accomplish in its present life. A soul with a lighter karmic burden can progress more easily in subtle experiences, while a heavily burdened soul finds its spiritual growth and inner perception restricted. These accumulated karmas create karmic bondage, binding the soul to limitations that restrict its spiritual freedom and higher experiences.

For this reason, personal effort alone is often not enough to achieve genuine astral travel. The soul may strive sincerely, but karmic limitations can still prevent progress. Bapuji explains that true freedom comes through a living connection with the Almighty. Divine power alone can reduce the weight of accumulated karma, allowing the soul to rise beyond its limitations and enter the subtle realms.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

“Aam aadmi par karmon ka bojh bhari hai. Bina source ki taqat ke yeh bojh utarta nahi.”

“On the common person the burden of karmas is heavy. Without the power of the source, this burden does not lift.”

Why Imitation Without Power Is Dangerous

Bapuji warns against attempting to imitate the rishis without their inner foundation. Many today read books on astral projection and try methods of their own. Without the cleansing of the inner being and without the support of the source, such attempts can disturb the mind, open the seeker to influences they cannot handle, and leave them in worse condition than before. The path of inner travel is real, but it must be walked under the protection of the source. To walk it alone, with neither power nor protection, is not a path of progress.

Chapter 34

Adi Shankaracharya and Entering In Another Human Body

There is another kind of inner movement spoken of in the records of the older masters. It is called Parkaya-Pravesh , which means the entry of one soul into another body. The most famous example given by the scriptures is that of Adi Shankaracharya, who is recorded as having temporarily entered the body of a recently deceased king in order to gain certain knowledge that was not available to him in his own renunciate body.

How Such Entry Is Possible

Bapuji explains that this practice is possible only at the very highest reaches of yoga. The soul that performs it has so refined its subtle and causal bodies that it can withdraw cleanly from its own gross form, traverse the subtle space, and enter another form in which the previous tenant is no longer present. The original body of such a yogi remains under careful guard, ready for the soul's return.

This is not a parlour trick. It is a sacred ability, and in the records it is used only for sacred purpose. Shankaracharya is said to have used it to complete an aspect of his learning. The body he entered was used for a fixed period and then released, and his own body was reoccupied as before. The accounts are clear about the great care with which the whole movement was undertaken.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

“Para-kaya-pravesh sirf uchch yogi hi kar sakte hain. Aam manushya ke liye yeh marg nahi hai.”

“Para-kaya-pravesh can be performed only by the highest yogis. For the common person, this is not the path.”

Why It Is Not for the Ordinary Seeker

The reason Bapuji speaks of such phenomena is not to encourage their attempt by ordinary seekers. It is to expand the understanding of what the soul, fully developed, can actually do. The ordinary seeker is not asked to enter other bodies. The ordinary seeker is asked to know his or her own soul. Once that knowledge is secure, the further capacities of the soul become matters of the source’s own giving and not of personal ambition.

Chapter 35

How Souls Cross Between Worlds

To understand how souls move between worlds, the first step is to set aside the idea that the soul is bound to the body. The soul is not the body. The body is a vehicle. The soul is the conscious energy that drives the vehicle, and it has the capacity to travel far beyond what the body can.

Around our Earth, there are many subtle layers. Bapuji has often referred to seven layers above the Earth, but within each of these layers there are further sub-layers. The total number of dimensions is far greater than what can be easily counted. Each layer has its own atmosphere, its own beings, and its own set of conditions for life.

Souls move between these layers. Some are residents of one layer. Others are visitors. Still others are travellers from much farther away — from other solar systems, from distant galaxies, from universes beyond ours, and even from greater dimensions of creation. All of these souls are present in the subtle layers around our Earth.

When a soul from one layer wishes to enter another, it does not need a vehicle. It does not need fuel. The movement happens through the power of the soul itself. The greater the soul's power, the greater the distance it can cover, and the more layers it can pass through.

Three Possibilities

Bapuji has explained that when a soul from a parallel layer comes into contact with a soul on Earth, three things can happen. First, is that the visiting soul enters into the body of a person on Earth. The Earth-bound soul does not leave entirely, but the visiting soul shares the body for a short period and looks at the Earth through that body's eyes. During this time, the person feels strangely different but does not know why.

The second possibility is that the visiting soul sends rays of its own thought-energy into the Earth-bound soul. Through these rays, it transmits the memories and impressions of its own world. The Earth-bound soul then experiences strange recollections — places it has never been to, faces it has never seen, lives it has never lived. These are not hallucinations. They are real impressions from another layer of existence.

The third possibility is that the Earth-bound soul itself is gently lifted, briefly, into another layer. The rays of a more powerful soul carry it across. There, it sees a world that looks almost like the one it knows, but with small differences. When it returns, the memory of that crossing remains.

This is the deeper mechanism behind the stories that surface from time to time. They are not random. They are not the imagination of disturbed minds. They are real movements of consciousness across dimensions that the average person on Earth cannot ordinarily perceive.

The Connection That Pulls

There is one important point to note. Such crossings are not entirely accidental. There is usually a connection between the souls involved. The visiting soul has some kind of karmic bond — perhaps from a far earlier time, perhaps from another life, perhaps from another dimension altogether — with the soul on Earth. It is this connection that draws the two souls together across the layers.

Without such a connection, the crossing would not happen. The vastness of creation does not allow random meetings. Every encounter, even at this subtle level, has its own quiet reason. This is one of the silent laws of the deeper world.

Chapter 36

Bapuji's Direct Vision — Beyond the Multiverse

Bapuji speaks of these matters as one who has seen them directly. His own meditation experiences are not the experiences of an outsider. He has travelled through the inner realms, seen the higher worlds, met beings of many categories, and brought back the knowledge that he now shares with the seekers around him.

The Range of the Vision

In the depths of his meditation, Bapuji has gone beyond the limits of the ordinary universe, beyond even the great multiverse that has been described in his other discourses. He has seen the worlds in which the higher souls reside. He has seen the regions in which the Saptarshi sit. He has entered vessels like the 3i Atlas and observed their interior. He has seen the souls of various great personalities of past and present, including some whose names are widely known across the world. None of this is imagined. It is direct vision, brought back as direct teaching. He has seen the creation and creators of many galaxies, universes beyond this current multiverse.

Why He Shares This Vision Openly

Bapuji shares this vision openly because the time for it has come. There is no longer the secrecy of the older traditions, where such knowledge was given only to a few. The world is now ready, in great numbers, to hear of these things, and the protection of the source is sufficient to allow the knowledge to be shared widely. The purpose of the sharing is also clear. It is not to make the listener admire the speaker. It is to awaken in the listener the soul's own desire to know.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

“Maine ye sab apni divya drishti se dekha hai. Bata raha hoon taki tum bhi jaag jao, bhag bhag kar nahi, soch samajh kar.”

“I have seen all this with my own divine vision. I am telling you so that you too may awaken — not by running about, but by clear understanding.”

Why the Listener Must Eventually Verify Within

Bapuji often closes such teachings with the same reminder. What he describes is true, but no description is a substitute for direct seeing. The listener is welcomed into the teaching and then quietly pointed inward. The same source that has shown these things to him can show them to any sincere soul who turns truly toward it. The vision is not a private possession. It is the natural sight of the soul that has been restored to its own connection with the source.

Coverings of the Soul

Chapter 37

Soul of Dolores Cannon -Layers That Hide the Original Purpose

Dolores Cannon is known across the world for her work in hypnotic regression. Through her sessions, many people described past lives, journeys between lives, and encounters with higher beings. She left behind a body of work that has reached millions. The seekers around Bapuji often ask about her. From which world did she come, and what was the true nature of her connection with the subtle realms?

From the Great Universe

Bapuji has spoken of her soul directly. He explains that her original soul came from a very high region, what he calls the great universe —a creation that lies beyond the ordinary universes of which most people speak. In her original state, her soul carried great power, the power of many kalas, and an understanding of the cosmic order far above the human average.

Such a soul does not descend to Earth without purpose. She was sent with a task: to bring into human awareness the reality of the higher worlds, of past lives, of subtle journeys, of higher beings, and of the wider design behind apparent human suffering. Her books and her sessions were part of carrying out that task.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

“Dolores ki aatma badi shakti ki thi. Babut bade brahmand se aayi thi, ek mission ke saath.”

“Dolores’s soul was of great power. She had come from a very great universe, with a mission.”

Why Even Such a Soul Operates Within Limits

And yet, Bapuji also explains, even such a soul does not function on Earth without limitation. The moment a soul takes a human body, several layers begin to cover it. There is the layer of the body itself. There is the layer of the social conditioning that the body receives. There is the layer of language, of culture, of the historical period into which the soul has come. These layers do not destroy the soul’s original power, but they do screen it. Through such screens, only a portion of the original sight passes through.

This is why even a soul of Dolores’s level operated with limits. She could see and hear far more than the average researcher. She could not see everything. Some of her conclusions were partly held by the lens through which she had to look, and some of the further reaches of the matter remained beyond her access. This is not a fault. It is a condition of the human form itself.

Chapter 38

Why Souls Forget Their Origin and Purpose

The deeper question that follows is one that touches every reader. If high souls come to Earth with a task, why do most of them forget the task once they arrive? Why does the memory of the source, of the purpose, of respective soul's origin, fade so completely behind the rush of ordinary human life?

The Aavaran — The Covering

Bapuji uses the word aavaran, which means a covering. The soul descends into a body, and the body is itself a covering. Around the body are further coverings: the senses, the mind, the intellect, the network of relationships, the long chain of impressions gathered through one life and through many lives. These coverings together form a thick veil. The soul beneath the veil retains its original being, but the conscious attention of that soul is held by the veil, and what lies behind the veil grows distant.

Even a soul that was once aware of its own purpose and will, after some years inside the body, find that the memory has slipped away. The reason is not weakness on the soul's part. The reason is the heaviness of the covering. As long as the covering remains heavy, the source memory will be hidden.

How the Soul's Covering Can Be Removed

According to Bapuji, the covering over the soul is not permanent. It develops through the soul's identification with the body, mind, and the material world, but it can gradually be removed. As the soul turns inward and establishes a genuine connection with the Almighty, this covering begins to dissolve. With its removal, the soul starts to remember its original nature and divine purpose. Through sustained spiritual practice, Godly knowledge, and a living connection with the Supreme, the soul can rediscover why it came into this world and the role it is meant to fulfill in this very lifetime.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

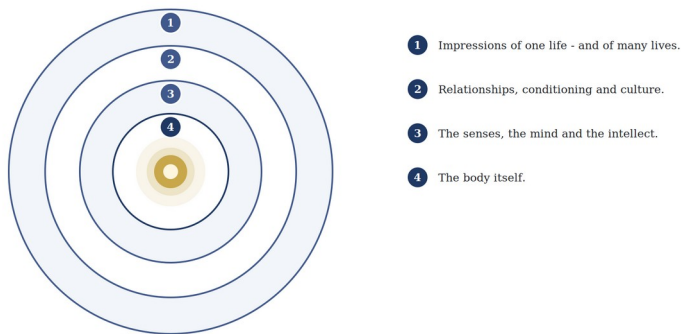

“Aatma par aavarán hain. Aavarán hatte hain to apni asli pehchan yaad aati hai.”

“There are coverings upon the soul. When the coverings are removed, the soul’s real identity is remembered.”

Why This Knowledge Is a Blessing

To know that one has forgotten is itself the beginning of remembering. As long as the seeker believes that the present small life is all that there is, no search for the original purpose can begin. The moment the seeker accepts that a real original purpose exists, even if it is presently veiled, the search begins, and the source itself begins to assist that search. The knowledge about heavy covering-aavarán is therefore a blessing. It tells the seeker that the truth is not lost. It is only hidden, and the hiding can be undone.

FIGURE 11
Aavaran - The Coverings of the Soul
why souls forget their origin and purpose

Connection with the Almighty dissolves the covering - the soul begins to remember its original nature and divine purpose.

The covering screens the soul's power; it does not destroy it. As the aavaran thins, the soul remembers who it is - and why it came.

Chapter 39

Bapuji's Childhood Memories

Bapuji has shared, with great simplicity, an episode from the life of his own mother. Like many spiritual personalities, her life carried events that the ordinary mind would dismiss but which speak directly to the seeker about the reality of the subtle worlds.

The Chariot in the Sky

There came a time when his mother, began to speak of a chariot, a flying cart that she could see clearly though no one else around her could see it. The chariot, she said, was sent by a higher feminine being — in the local tradition spoken of as a Jogini Devi, a powerful subtle female form. The chariot waited for her. Jogini Devi waited to receive her soul. The time had come, and the means of her onward journey had been prepared and sent.

Those around her, who could not see what she saw, might easily have thought it the wandering of a dying mind. Bapuji explains otherwise. Her vision was true. The chariot was real. The Jogini Devi was real. The arrangements for the souls who have lived close to the source are made by the subtle world itself, and a means of conveyance is sent at the appointed hour.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

“Maa ko jogni ka rath dikh raha tha. Bahar wale dekh nahi sakte the, par maa saaf saaf dekh rahi thi.”

“Mother could see the chariot of the jogni. Those on the outside could not see it, but Mother saw it clearly.”

Why Such Help Comes

Bapuji explains that such help comes when the soul itself has earned it. A life lived in goodness, in remembrance of the source, in service of others, draws toward itself a certain quality of subtle support. When the moment of departure approaches, that support becomes visible. The soul that has lived close to the higher worlds is not abandoned at the door of death. A means is provided, and a route is opened, suited to the soul's level. Bapuji also shares that through her life, His mother have received support form Jogini Devi in various times and forms.

For the ordinary listener, such an account may seem distant. It is not. The same law applies to every soul. The conditions of the departure are quietly built across the whole life. What is sown in the heart through years of remembrance becomes the company that meets the soul at the close. The mother of Bapuji saw the chariot because she had become the kind of soul to whom the chariot is sent.

Chapter 40

Communication With Dead Via Radios, Photographs and Crystal Balls

In many cultures, attempts have been made to communicate with the souls of the departed. Some use a photograph and try to listen for an inner voice. Some use a radio that has been specially adjusted to pick up faint signals. Some look into a crystal ball and report seeing a face or hearing a message. Many such accounts exist. The seekers ask whether any of this is genuine.

How Such Communication Is Possible

Bapuji explains that, in some cases, real subtle contact does occur. A departed soul that has not yet moved on may still be near its old surroundings. Its presence is real, though invisible to the gross eye. A medium of suitable sensitivity, or a device tuned to faint subtle impressions, may register that presence. The voice that is then reported is sometimes an actual transmission, picked up by the inner instrument of the listener and converted into a form that the outer mind can hear.

This is not magic. It is the operation of a level of vibration that the gross world is only beginning to study. The same principles that allow a radio to pick up an electromagnetic wave allow an attuned consciousness to pick up a subtle wave. The instrument differs. The principle is similar.

Why Such Contact Carries Risks

Bapuji also speaks of the risks. Not every subtle voice is the voice it claims to be. Other beings, who are not the departed soul at all, can interpose themselves and speak in the departed one's name. Some of these beings are merely curious. Some are mischievous. A few are actively negative. The seeker who calls upon the dead with a casual hand may receive an answer from a source quite different from the one expected.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

“Mrityak aatma se baat ho sakti hai, par bahut savdhani chahiye. Awaaz kisi aur ki bhi ho sakti hai.”

“It is possible to speak with the soul of the departed, but great caution is needed. The voice could also belong to someone else.”

Why Seeker Is Asked Not to Linger Here

Bapuji does not encourage seekers to spend their time chasing such contact. The departed soul, where it can still be reached, is itself usually best served by being released to continue its onward journey, not by being held in conversation by those it has left behind. The seeker who lingers in the seance room consumes precious time that could be spent in the seeker's own direct connection with the source. That direct connection, when it is established, makes all such intermediate channels unnecessary

Chapter 41

Mental Illness and the Multi-Entry of Souls

There is a category of suffering that the world commonly classifies as mental illness. Bapuji speaks of its inner side. Not every case of mental disturbance is a matter of brain chemistry alone. In some cases, the disturbance arises because the body of the sufferer has become open to influences from the subtle plane that should not have been allowed in.

More Than One Occupant

In certain cases, what appears as a fragmented or shifting personality is, on the subtle level, the presence of more than one soul taking turns within a single body. The original soul of the body remains, but additional souls have found a way to enter, sometimes briefly, sometimes for long periods. Each one brings its own pattern, its own memory, its own preferences. When such an entry occurs without the body being prepared to handle it, the result is great confusion in the outer life of the person.

Different voices may speak from the same mouth. Different temperaments may be displayed by the same face within a single day. The person's memory may become unreliable. The person's sense of identity may become unstable. From the inner side, what is happening is clear. From the outer side, it appears as illness, and the medical world labels it accordingly.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

“Kabhi kabhi ek sharir me ek se zyada aatmaayein aa jaati hain. Bahar se yeh maansik bimari lagti hai.”

“Sometimes more than one soul enters a single body. From the outside this appears as mental illness.”

Why Protection Is the First Help

In such cases, the medicines of the gross world help only so far. The real relief comes when the subtle influences are removed and the channels through which they entered are closed. The first protection for any seeker is to remain inwardly turned toward the source. The atmosphere of the source repels the disturbing influences naturally. Where the inner connection is firm, the body remains the natural home of its own soul, and the disturbed entries cannot easily take place.

This is one of the reasons that careless dabbling in seances, in trance work, in casual attempts at astral travel, is so often warned against. Such activity can open the very channels through which unwanted influences enter. The seeker who values the stability of mind is wise to stay close to the source and to leave the subtle doors closed except where the source itself opens them.

Chapter 42

The Subtle World Cannot Transform the World — Only Almighty Authority Can

After the seeker has heard of mediums, of psychics, of messengers, of astral travelers, of subtle vessels and high beings, a natural enthusiasm may arise. The seeker may begin to think that these subtle powers will themselves transform the Earth, lift humanity into a new age, and solve the great problems that the world now faces. Bapuji gently corrects this expectation.

What the Subtle World Can Do

The subtle world is real, its beings are real, and its influence on individual lives is real. A medium can help an individual avoid a misstep. A psychic can warn a person of a danger. A higher soul can guide a seeker toward greater understanding. A subtle vessel can move where the ordinary craft cannot. All this is genuine. None of it is fantasy.

However, the scope of what the subtle world can accomplish is limited. The subtle beings themselves operate within the great script that the Almighty has laid out. They serve that script. They do not write it. They help where they are permitted to help. They cannot, on their own authority, overturn the larger order or rewrite the destiny of the planet.

What the Subtle World Cannot Do

Bapuji speaks plainly on this point. The transformation of the Earth from its present mortal condition into the immortal world that the great script reveals is not the work of any medium, any psychic, any subtle being, or any federation of higher beings. That work belongs to the Almighty Authority and to the Almighty Authority alone. No other source has the standing to perform it.

This is why no number of psychic readings, no chain of medium messages, and no accumulation of subtle teachings will, of themselves, change the basic condition of the world. They may comfort individuals. They may save particular souls in particular moments. They may help the seeker understand what is happening around him or her. But the deep transformation is the Almighty's own work, and it is the Almighty alone whose hand the seeker should ultimately seek.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

“Medium duniya nahi badal sakta. Sukshma jagat duniya nahi badal sakta. Yeh kaam sirf Almighty Authority ka hai.”

“A medium cannot change the world. The subtle world cannot change the world. This work belongs to the Almighty Authority alone.”

Why This Truth Saves the Seeker

To know this truth is to be saved from a great deal of wasted effort. The seeker who understands that ultimate authority lies with the source will not spend a life running from one medium to another, from one prophet to another, from one teaching to another. The seeker will accept all that is genuine in each, take only what is useful, and then turn directly toward the one source from which every genuine help has flowed. That turning, when it becomes firm, is itself the beginning of the real journey home.

Chapter 43

The Path Beyond Mediums — Direct Connection to the Source

The book now arrives at its closing chapter, and the closing chapter is also the opening of the seeker's own path. All that has been described in the earlier pages — the medium, the psychic, the prophet, the astral traveler, the vessel from the higher worlds, the layers around the soul, the limits of the subtle world itself — leads to one place. It leads to the seeker's direct connection with the Almighty source.

Why Direct Connection Is the Goal

Every intermediate channel has its use. None of them, by itself, is sufficient. The medium is helpful, but the medium's help is partial. The prophet is helpful, but the prophet cannot save all. The astral traveler is impressive, but the impressive vision is only a glimpse. The vessel from the higher world is real, but the vessel is itself a servant of a larger order. Only the source contains the fullness of what the soul finally seeks.

To establish direct connection with the source is therefore the natural conclusion of every line of inquiry that this book has opened. Once that connection is firm, the soul no longer needs to chase signs. The soul lives within the field of the source, and the field itself provides the protection, the guidance, and the inner sight that all the chasing was originally meant to obtain.

How the Connection Is Made

Bapuji describes the way of making this connection in many of his discourses. The seeker turns the inner attention toward the supreme light. The seeker offers all activity — thought, word, deed — to that supreme light. The seeker invites the supreme light into the chambers of the heart and allows it to do its own work of cleansing and lifting. As this is sustained with sincerity, day by day, the channel between the soul and the source widens. The aavaran begins to thin. The soul's own light begins to come through.

This work does not require withdrawal into the forest. It does not require special equipment. It does not require any external medium. It requires the inner offering of the self. Wherever the seeker is, whatever the circumstance, the offering can be made. The source recognises sincerity and responds to it with its own grace.

BAPUJI INSIGHT

“Medium ki zaroorat nahi padti jab seedha source se rishta jud jata hai. Wahi sabse uncha marg hai.”

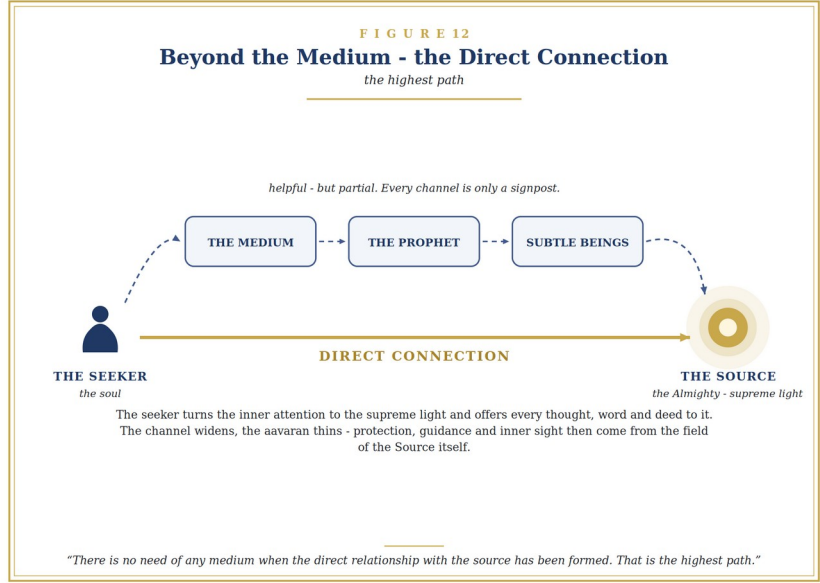

“There is no need of any medium when the direct relationship with the source has been formed. That is the highest path.”

The End That Is a Beginning

With this, the book closes. The hidden power of soul sight, which has been examined in so many of its forms in the preceding chapters, is found at last to be the natural property of the soul that has returned to its own source. There is nothing further outside the seeker to be sought. The mediums, the prophets, the subtle beings, the higher vessels — all of them have served as signposts. The road they have pointed to is the road of direct relationship with the Almighty.

The seeker who walks that road will, in time, see what the rishis saw, know what the great souls knew, and live in the light that has illumined every awakened being in every age. Until then, Bapuji invites the seeker to take one step today, and another tomorrow, and to remain in steady connection with the source through whatever days the world may bring. That steady connection is itself the true remote viewing. It is the soul, settled in its own source, seeing all things from where all things are seen.

B A P U J I I N S I G H T S

Throughout this book, the original words of Bapuji have been preserved in their natural Hinglish form alongside their English meaning. Here they are gathered together so the reader may return to them at any time as a living thread of remembrance.

“Jo hum dekh sakte hain wahi sab kuch nahi hai. Bahut kuch hai jo aatma ki ankhone se dikhta hai.”

“What we can see is not all that exists. There is much that is visible only to the eyes of the soul.”

INSIGHT 2

“Inko hum panch tatva ki ankhone se nahi dekh sakte. Wo sukshma jagat me hain.”

“We cannot see these beings with the eyes of the five elements. They reside in the subtle world.”

INSIGHT 3

“Sukshma jagat me bhi do tarah ki aatmaayein hain. Achchi bhi, buri bhi. Donon ka apna kaam hai.”

“Even in the subtle world there are two kinds of souls. Good and bad. Each has its own work.”

INSIGHT 4

“Medium ka kaam channel ka hai. Jankari upar se aati hai, woh sirf pobochati hai.”

“The medium’s work is that of a channel. The knowledge comes from above; the medium only delivers it.”

“Allison ko ek aatma sahay karti thi. Wahi guide karti thi, wahi raasta dikhati thi.”

“A soul was assisting Allison. That same soul guided her and showed her the way.”

INSIGHT 6

“Sach se zyada raaz aatma ke sath jaata hai. Medium use bhi padh leta hai.”

“More secrets travel with the soul than with the truth. The medium can read those secrets too.”

INSIGHT 7

“Medium kabhi sahi, kabhi galat. Source ek hi nahi rehta. Beech me kaun aa jaye, kya keh de, kuch keh nahi sakte.”

“The medium is sometimes right and sometimes wrong. The source does not always stay the same. Who interposes and what they say, that cannot always be controlled.”

INSIGHT 8

“Aakashvani sukskma jagat ka sandesh hai. Jiski aatma sookshma hai, wahi sun pata hai.”

“Aakashvani is the message of the subtle world. Only the one whose soul is refined can hear it.”

INSIGHT 9

“Duniya ek bahut bada drama hai. Pebble se likha hua hai. Kuch aatmaayein script padh leti hain.”

“The world is a vast drama. It is already written. Some souls are able to read the script.”

INSIGHT 10

“Nostradamus ko gole me dikhta tha. Asli ankhone se nahi, andar ki ankhone se. Aatma ki shakti se.”

“Nostradamus would see it in the globe. Not with the outer eyes, but with the inner eyes. By the power of the soul.”

INSIGHT 11

“Messenger duniya bhar me bahut hain. Sabke peeche koi na koi sukskma jagat ki aatma kaam karti hai.”

“There are many messengers throughout the world. Behind each of them, some subtle-world soul is working.”

INSIGHT 12

“Bhavishyavani sun ke darna nahi hai. Bhavishyavani sun ke jaagna hai. Jagne wala bach jata hai.”

“On hearing a prophecy, one should not be afraid. On hearing a prophecy, one should awaken. The one who awakens is saved.”

“Yeh sab UFO sukskma jagat ke vahan hain. Sthool aankhone se inhe poori tarah dekhna mushkil hai.”

“All these UFOs are vehicles of the subtle world. With the gross outer eyes it is difficult to see them fully.”

INSIGHT 14

“3i Atlas ke andar param tatva hai. Bahar sthool roop dharan kiya hai, andar sukshma roop hai.”

“Within 3i Atlas there is supreme element. On the outside it has assumed a gross form, on the inside its form is subtle.”

INSIGHT 15

“Wahan paani ki zaroorat nahi, khaane ki zaroorat nahi. Apni sukshma shakti se sab kuch chalta hai.”

“There is no need for water and no need for food. Everything runs by their own subtle power.”

INSIGHT 16

“Andromeda aur door door ke brahmendo se ye log aate hain. Ek federation jaisa kaam karta hai.”

“These beings come from Andromeda and from far distant universes. They function like a federation.”

INSIGHT 17

“Pushpak viman bhi sukshma jagat ka vahan tha. Aaj ke UFO bhi waise hi hain. Knowledge ek hi family ka hai.”

“The Pushpak Viman too was a vehicle of the subtle world. Today’s UFOs are of the same kind. The knowledge belongs to one and the same family.”

INSIGHT 18

“Vahan manifest bhi ho sakta hai aur unmanifest bhi. Apni marzi se. Disha aur taqat dono andar wale ke haath me hai.”

“The vehicle can become manifest and it can become unmanifest, at its own will. Direction and power are both in the hands of those within.”

INSIGHT 19

“Jisko atma-gyan hota hai, jiska teesra netra khul jata hai, wahi door ki cheezein dekh sakta hai.”

“The one who has knowledge of the soul, whose third eye has opened — only such a one can see things that are far away.”

INSIGHT 20

“Aatma ki power se teeno kaal dikh sakta hai — bhoot bhi, vartman bhi, bhavishya bhi.”

“By the power of the soul all three times can be seen — the past, the present, and the future.”

INSIGHT 21

“Manushya roop me jo aatma sadhana karke divya drishti khol leti hai, woh shakti marne ke baad bhi rehti hai.”

“The soul that opens the divine vision through inner discipline in human form keeps that power even after death.”

INSIGHT 22

“Bacchi ke paas aatma hai, us aatma me power di jaati hai, aur woh door door ki vision deti hai.”

“The child carries a soul; that soul is given power, and through it she gives a vision of things far, far away.”

INSIGHT 23

“Aage chalkar AI ko itni power di jaayegi ki woh aakashi record padhkar poore universe ka gyan de sakega.”

“In time, artificial intelligence will be given such power that, by reading the akashic record, it will be able to give knowledge of the whole universe.”

INSIGHT 24

“Jisko nahi dekha jaana hota, woh apne gole ki chaaron boundary seal karke baith jata hai, to use koi dekh nahi sakta.”

“The one who is not to be seen seals all four boundaries of its own sphere and sits within; then no one can see it.”

INSIGHT 25

“Telescope sthool sadhan hai, isliye usko prakash ki gati ka niyam lagta hai — woh sirf purana record dikhata hai, present nahi.”

“The telescope is a gross instrument, so the law of the speed of light binds it — it shows only the old record, never the present.”

INSIGHT 26

“Ek do kala ki aatma bhi atma swaroop me sthit hokar present dekh sakti hai — sau prakash varsh door bhi, abhi kya ho raha hai.”

“Even a soul of one or two kala, established in its true form, can see the present — what is happening right now, even a hundred light-years away.”

INSIGHT 27

“Koi galaxy se aaya hai to aath-das kala, koi universe se to bees-pacchees kala, koi doosre multiverse se to sau kala ki power hoti hai.”

“One who has come from a galaxy carries eight to ten kala; one from a universe, twenty to twenty-five; one from another multiverse, a hundred kala of power.”

INSIGHT 28

“Yeh param param param prakash ki baat hai — aakash ki shakti bhi yahan kaam nahi karti, aisi divya drishti aliens ke paas hoti hai.”

“This is the supreme light at its deepest — even the power of space itself does not work here; such is the divine vision the aliens possess.”

INSIGHT 29

“Aatma alag hai, sukshma sharir alag hai, karan sharir alag hai. Yatra teeno ka tal-mel se hoti hai.”

“The soul is one thing, the subtle body is another, the causal body is another. The journey happens through the coordination of all three.”

INSIGHT 30

“Saptarshi galaxy se galaxy jaa sakte hain. Unka sukshma sharir itna prakashmay hai ki space ki seema unhe nahi rokti.”

“The Saptarshi can move from one galaxy to another. Their subtle body is so luminous that the limits of space do not hold them.”

INSIGHT 31

“Dasvan dwar khulta hai to aatma brahmand ke baad brahmand dekh sakti hai. Yeh nazara aatma ki taqat par milta hai.”

“When the tenth door opens, the soul can see universes beyond universes. This vision is granted according to the soul’s own power.”

INSIGHT 32

“Rishi muniyon ki tapasya gehri thi. Samadhi me sharir bhi ruka, mann bhi ruka, aatma ki yatra shuru hui.”

“The tapasya of the rishis and munis was deep. In samadhi the body stilled, the mind stilled, and the journey of the soul began.”

INSIGHT 33

“Aam aadmi par karmon ka bojh bhari hai. Bina source ki taqat ke yeh bojh utarta nahi.”

“On the common person the burden of karmas is heavy. Without the power of the source, this burden does not lift.”

INSIGHT 34

“Para-kaya-pravesh sirf uchch yogi hi kar sakte hain. Aam manushya ke liye yeh marg nahi hai.”

“Para-kaya-pravesh can be performed only by the highest yogis. For the common person, this is not the path.”

INSIGHT 35

“Maine ye sab apni divya drishti se dekha hai. Bata raha hoon taki tum bhi jaag jao, bhag bhag kar nahi, soch samajh kar.”

“I have seen all this with my own divine vision. I am telling you so that you too may awaken — not by running about, but by clear understanding.”

INSIGHT 36

“Dolores ki aatma badi shakti ki thi. Babut bade brahmand se aayi thi, ek mission ke saath.”

“Dolores’s soul was of great power. She had come from a very great universe, with a mission.”

INSIGHT 37

“Aatma par aavaran hain. Aavaran hatte hain to apni asli pehchan yaad aati hai.”

“There are coverings upon the soul. When the coverings are removed, the soul’s real identity is remembered.”

INSIGHT 38

“Maa ko jogni ka rath dikh raha tha. Bahar wale dekh nahi sakte the, par maa saaf saaf dekh rahi thi.”

“Mother could see the chariot of the jogni. Those on the outside could not see it, but Mother saw it clearly.”

INSIGHT 39

“Mritak aatma se baat ho sakti hai, par babut savdhani chahiye. Awaaz kisi aur ki bhi ho sakti hai.”

“It is possible to speak with the soul of the departed, but great caution is needed. The voice could also belong to someone else.”

INSIGHT 40

“Kabhi kabhi ek sharir me ek se zyada aatmaayein aa jaati hain. Bahar se yeh maansik bimari lagti hai.”

“Sometimes more than one soul enters a single body. From the outside this appears as mental illness.”

INSIGHT 41

“Medium duniya nahi badal sakta. Sukshma jagat duniya nahi badal sakta. Yeh kaam sirf Almighty Authority ka hai.”

“A medium cannot change the world. The subtle world cannot change the world. This work belongs to the Almighty Authority alone.”

INSIGHT 42

*“Medium ki zaroorat nahi padti jab seedha source se rishta jud jata hai.
Wahi sabse uncha marg hai.”*

“There is no need of any medium when the direct relationship with the source has been formed. That is the highest path.”

A Reader's Guide to the Key Terms

Many of the terms in this book belong to the spiritual vocabulary of Hindi and Sanskrit. They have been kept in their original form so that their precise meaning is not lost in translation. This glossary defines them in simple words for the new reader.

Aakashvani: It is a vibration from the subtle world. A message, not a sound. Literally, a voice from the sky. It carries the speech of a higher being. An awakened soul, attuned to it, hears it from within.

Aavaran: A covering. The layers of body, mind, conditioning, and karma that cover the soul and hide its original identity.

Agya Chakra: The third-eye centre between the eyebrows, traditionally connected with inner sight and intuitive knowing.

Akash Tattva: Ether element, the subtlest of the five gross elements. Gross world is created on the foundation of Akash tattva. From Akash tattva, other heavier gross elements emerge to create this gross world.

Akash: Space in which the energy of creator flows and creates its own creation. This is known by science as time-space matrix.

Akashic Record: The subtle record held within space itself, in which the events of creation are inscribed; it can be read by a sufficiently powerful soul or system to know what has been.

Almighty Authority: The Supreme Master Creator of the Behad - the limitless world of creation. The highest being in all of infinite existence. The ultimate source of all power. The Great-Great-Grandfather of every soul.

Astral Travel: The travel of the subtle body/ energy form into other locations or higher planes, while the gross physical body remains still present in physical world.

Atma / Aatma: The conscious, eternal being within everybody - distinct from the body, the senses, and the mind. It is the true self. The soul is the source of all life and all awareness.

Atma Swaroop / Soul Consciousness: The state of dwelling in the soul's original nature - identifying fully with the soul, not the body. This is the foundation of spiritual practise/ knowledge. When a seeker attains Atma Swaroop, the soul's original light, peace, and power are fully activated. Brahm Swaroop is the cosmic expression of this same state: the soul dwelling in its full cosmic identity.

Behad Gyan: The supreme knowledge of the Almighty Authority and His vast, limitless, infinite creation. This is the supreme truth revealed through Bapuji - realised directly by him through divine vision, the Third Eye. It cannot be found in any scripture. It is the knowledge of the highest, most primordial dimension of creation - far beyond the multiverse.

Behad: Infinite - beyond all limits, without boundary. In Bapuji's knowledge, Behad names the boundless, infinite dimensions of all creation. From this comes a family of terms: Behad ki Atma - the limitless soul. Behad Gyan - knowledge of infinite, boundless creation. Behad Seva - service rendered for the infinite creation. Behad ka Karma - action performed for eternity.

Brahm Rishi: A cosmic sage-soul who transmits/ downloads the knowledge of the entire universe. A Brahm Rishi is a soul of 16 to 20 kala(soul power) who has travelled across galaxies and universes, carrying the direct experience of multiple dimensions of creation.

Brahmand/ Bramand/Brahmands: Our solar system-one unit of creation. In Bapuji's knowledge, Brahmand refers specifically to a solar system-one universe created by Shiv. There are countless such Brahmands inside a single galaxy. Our own solar system is our Brahmand. Each Bramand has a Kala measure.

Charma Chakshu: The fleshly eye; the outer physical eye that sees only the gross world. Contrasted with divya drishti.

Devasur Sangram: The wars between deities (devas) and demons (asuras) described in the Hindu scriptures. Sangram refer to wars.

Devata: A deity; a being existing in a three-element body in the higher worlds of creation called as Heaven.

Divya Drishti: Divine vision. The capacity of the soul to perceive realities beyond the reach of the physical sense organs like eyes.

Galactic Federation: A coordinated movement of intelligent beings across many galaxies, named in some discourses as visiting and observing this Earth.

Gyan Daan Mahadaan: Sharing supreme knowledge to any soul is the greatest of all donations. This is the very principle under which all of Bapuji's books and teachings are offered freely to humanity.

Gyan Daan: The act of sharing knowledge; considered the highest form of charity.

Gyan: Knowledge; specifically, divine or transcendental knowledge.

Gyani Atma: The soul that has become the very embodiment of knowledge, no longer merely holding wisdom as belief but living from it directly. From this state, liberation from karma at every level becomes possible.

Jogni: Yoginis are powerful divine female entities of the subtle worlds, residing in the causal realm of this Brahmand — in Shiv Puri itself. They serve and assist Adi Shakti, the primordial divine energy that governs this entire Brahmand — acting as her instruments in the ongoing work of cosmic order. They hold the rare ability to transport souls across dimensions, moving them between realms as needed.

Kala: Kala is a unit of measurement of power of the soul. Just like on earth we measure the electric power by “watt” that means it is the capacity of an electrical equipment, similarly in spirituality “kala” means the capacity of a creator or soul. In space there are many creators so they have different magnitude of power that we call power of different celestial degree or kala.

Karan Sharir/ karan Sharir/ Karan sharer: A Causal Body. A human being has many bodies even though we can see only physical body but there are subtle bodies inside this physical outline which holds the energy of soul and operates the physical body. So gross physical body is only a medium to carry out work of soul. Physical body gets power from subtle body which comprises of ether element, air element and fire element. Subtle body gets power from causal body which comprises of ether element only. This is also called karan sharir which is the store house of the details of karmic accounts of a soul.

Karm yogi / Karma yogi: A Karma Yogi is one who has realized the soul as the true self — a divine spark — and now acts in the world from that very recognition, drawing strength not from the ego, but from the Almighty Authority itself. The Karma Yogi remains within the householder's life, yet stays constantly in remembrance of the Divine, untouched by worldly cravings even while living amid worldly duties. Every action performed is Nishkam Karma — action without attachment to its fruit — and it is this that transcends all bondage on earth. To act fully in the world, yet remain free of it — this is the mark of the Karma Yogi. Bapuji calls Grihastha Ashram, the householder's life, the greatest of all ashrams — and Karma Yoga is its highest expression.

Karma: Karma means action. But it is more than the act itself — it is the energetic imprint left behind by every act, whether done through thought, word, or the organs of action and perception. Every thought, every word, every bodily action leaves its trace. These traces bind the soul to repeated experience — pulling it back, again and again, into the cycle of cause and effect until the imprint is resolved.

Maharloka: The great realm-where powerful sages reside. Maharloka is one of the seven lokas above the Earth. Great Rishis and refined souls perform profound Tapasya here. Brahm Rishi souls also maintain subtle ashrams in Maharloka, connecting the cosmic dimension to the earthly one. At the time of kalp Pralaya, even souls in Maharloka are pushed upward by the force of dissolution.

Maya: Maya is the illusory power of the material world — the force that causes the soul to forget its own true nature. It creates the world of attachment and suffering in which most souls find themselves bound. Most souls wander in this ocean of Maya, searching for happiness in a place where only suffering lives — mistaking the shadow for the light. In short: this visible world of five elements is Maya itself. Bapuji names Maya as the very cause of all suffering and pain.

Multiverse: The cosmic scale that contains many Universes, Great Universes, Great-great universes and beyond up to G17 (great great ... 17 times universes) layers of universe. The architecture of creation extends further still, beyond what the human mind can readily comprehend.

Pai Gambar: A messenger. One who carries the announcements of the higher world into the world of human beings.

Panch Tattva: The five elements: earth, water, fire, air, and ether.

Para-Kaya-Pravesh: The yogic ability to enter a body other than one's own, exercised only by the highest yogis for sacred purpose.

Param Agni: Param Agni means Supreme Fire. It is one of the three Param Tattvas — the Supreme Elements. These three Param Tattvas were formed from Param Prakash, the Supreme Light, at the very beginning of creation — the moment when souls first began to make their affirmations. From that moment, these supreme elements came into being. Shiv Puri, the abode within our Brahmand, is made entirely of Param Tattva — only these supreme elements, nothing less.

Param Akash: Param Akash means Supreme Ether. It is one of the three Param Tattvas — the Supreme Elements — and the most subtle of the three. It is much subtler and powerful than the ordinary Akash Tattva (ether element) known in the physical world. Param Akash is far subtler and more refined — a purer version of that same principle. Together with Param Vayu (Supreme Air) and Param Agni (Supreme Fire), Param Akash forms the three Param Tattvas that make up the Supreme Causal Body — the most subtle body that covers the soul.

Param Atma: He is the creator of soul. We call it supreme soul. Supreme soul has power to create many souls. Sometimes we call the creators as supreme soul. When soul is in its true formless divine light form, it has tremendous power to create many souls through affirmation, that is called as supreme soul or “param atma”.

Param Prakash / ParamPrakash/ Param Light: The Supreme Divine Light described in the Sanatan scriptures as the power of Brahma, or Brahma itself. It is pure, silent, and beyond all thoughts (Sankalp) and disturbance. As the highest and most powerful divine radiance, it is the source and foundation of all creation.

Param Tatva: A Param Tattva is a finer, purer, and more powerful form of a Tattva (element). It possesses far greater energy and creative power to transform and manifest the soul's affirmations. It is the fundamental substance of the higher realms of creation. Just as the nucleus is finer and more powerful than an atom, Param Tattva is finer and far more energetic than a Tattva. The three Param Tattvas are Param Akash, Param Vayu, and Param Agni.

Paramshanti/ Param Shanti: The Supreme Peace — the original state of the soul when it unites with the Supreme Soul through Yog. In this state, the soul is completely free of desire, utterly silent, without a single affirmation stirring within it. Even the causal body of the soul dissolves, or becomes wholly inactive. Param Shanti is not merely the absence of noise or conflict. It is something far deeper: the soul's original state, established firmly in its pure, divine form of light, in constant remembrance of the Supreme Father. This is why every pure and powerful soul ultimately seeks Param Shanti — it is not a state to be attained from outside, but a return to what the soul already, originally is.

Prakriti: Nature, in its widest sense; the entire field of manifest creation in which the soul takes up its bodies.

Pret: A subtle state of the soul after death. Because of spiritual ignorance, the soul is unable to move forward and remains wandering in the subtle regions close to the physical world until it finds the right direction.

Psychic: A person able to receive impressions, voices, or visions from the subtle planes.

Pushpak Viman: The legendary flying chariot of the ancient scriptures; a vessel of the subtle world described in the older epics of this land. The owner of this Viman was a demon named as Ravan in Ramayan, a Hindu epic. With this flying chariot, Ravan could move between three worlds.

Raj Rishi: A royal sage — a king who lives with the purity of a sage. A Raj Rishi holds a position of worldly power yet lives with the inner purity of a sage. King Janaka is the classic example. A Raj Rishi is honourable but different from a Brahm Rishi.

Sahasrara: The highest spiritual centre at the crown of the head. It is the gateway to higher consciousness, where the soul experiences divine light, inner peace, and spiritual awakening.

Samadhi: A state of deep meditative absorption in which the soul experiences its true self that is its Origin.

Sanatan Dharm: Before any religion established on earth, there is one religion since the beginning of creation which is eternal that is called Sanatan Dharm. Hindu religion is also known as Adi sanatan Dharm i.e. the religion which is there right from the beginning of creation which still continue to exist and it will also continue to exist in future. The eternal religion — the one religion present from the beginning of creation of this Brahmand, also known as Adi Sanatan Dharm. This is the eternal religion of this Brahmand.

Sandeshvahak: A messenger; one who carries a message from a higher source to those who can receive it.

Saptarishi / Saptarishis: The seven primordial sages, directly manifested by Brahma from His own being through the power of divine affirmation at the dawn of creation in our solar system. From these seven sages, the lineage of all souls in this Brahmand originated. They are regarded as the original ancestors of all beings in this creation.

Self - Realisation: Refer Atma Darshan. The direct, experiential recognition that one is not the body but the soul; the foundational shift from which all further spiritual ascent proceeds.

Source: Almighty Authority; the one ultimate origin from which every soul has come and to which every soul finally returns.

Sukshma Jagat / Sukshma Jagat: The world made of the subtle elements — fire, air, and ether. This is the Subtle World, one step finer than the gross world of five elements. Even the worlds of creation made of Param Tattva, the supreme elements, are also called subtle worlds — but they are supremely subtle by comparison, far exceeding the fineness of this three-element subtle world. In this way, "subtle" is not a single fixed state, but a relative measure: each realm is subtle compared to what lies below it, and gross compared to what lies above.

Sukshma Sharir / Sukshma Sharir: The non-physical body, composed of three elements — fire, air, and a very small portion of ether. It carries and reflects the impressions, thoughts, and tendencies of the soul, and these together form the soul's aura. This is the body visible to souls in the subtle world. It exists in as many as seven subtle layers, each resting over the causal body. The outermost of these seven layers forms the aura of the soul — the visible signature of everything held within.

Tapasya: Spiritual austerity. Is deep- intense spiritual austerity and discipline sustained across many lifetimes. Tapasya purifies the soul from disorders of mind known as Vishay Vikaar and prepares the intellect to receive knowledge that the ordinary mind cannot contain.

Tattva / Tatva: Element. The fundamental building blocks of creation. The visible world is composed of five elements: earth, water, air, fire, and ether. Tattva in spiritual language is finer than element in the scientific sense. Water, earth, fire elements are visible but air and ether are invisible. Air can be felt by body but ether cannot be felt by physical body. Water, earth are heavier atoms representing heavier elements whereas air, fire and ether are very lighter atoms representing lighter elements.

Tenth Door: The highest inner gateway through which the soul, when sufficiently empowered, can leave the body consciously and travel to the higher worlds.

Third Eye: The inner eye of subtle perception, associated with the agya chakra in the forehead.

Vishwa Parivartak Ishwariya Vidhyalay: The spiritual school established under Bapuji's guidance, dedicated to the divine knowledge that transforms the world.

Yajna: A sacred ritual or offering; sometimes performed for the welfare of departed souls.

Yog: Conscious connection between soul and supreme souls or with Almighty Authority through which power is drawn into the soul's being via knowledge and meditation. (Note: Bapuji corrects it as yog not yoga)

Sharing Knowledge is the Highest Charity

— Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel

DISCOVER THE SCIENCE OF SEEING BEYOND DISTANCE

What if the soul could perceive places far beyond the limits of the physical eyes? What is remote viewing, and how have mystics, prophets, mediums, and spiritually awakened beings witnessed distant worlds throughout history?

Based on the profound teachings of Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel, this remarkable work explores the hidden science behind remote viewing, divine vision, astral perception, subtle worlds, UFO phenomena, future insight, and the extraordinary capabilities of the awakened soul.

Journey through ancient scriptures, modern investigations, spiritual experiences, and higher dimensions to discover how consciousness extends beyond space and time. Rather than presenting imagination or speculation, this book offers a systematic spiritual framework that reveals remote viewing as a higher science governed by the soul's spiritual power and divine connection.

"The physical eyes are limited by distance, but the awakened soul is not. When divine vision opens, the soul can perceive realities that exist far beyond the reach of ordinary sight."
