About Bapuji

Bapuji (full name: Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel, also lovingly called “Dadaji” by the younger generation) was born in 1956 in the small village of Akhaj in the Mehsana district of Gujarat. However, he spent his childhood in another village named Ambasan, also located in the Mehsana district.

In the early part of his life, he was a highly successful lawyer. Later, he devoted his life to realizing the supreme spiritual truth and bringing this divine knowledge forward for the welfare of humanity. Today, this supreme knowledge serves as a guiding light for true seekers to realize their ultimate destiny. It is a blessing of the highest divinity that the present time is witnessing the rise of this supreme spiritual knowledge, guiding souls on Earth to return to their original source.

Despite being raised in a very poor family and facing challenging circumstances, Bapuji had a deep desire to transform this sorrowful and suffering world into a better place. At the young age of six, he questioned God repeatedly, asking why God remained silent about the suffering of humanity. This intense longing to end human suffering eventually led him to attain the highest level of spirituality later in life.

Even as a child, Bapuji would spend hours alone in the fields, often neglecting his own comfort. Due to poverty, he would walk barefoot without shoes or sandals, frequently getting pricked by thorns. Many times, he would stay late in the fields and, on his way back home, encounter subtle world entities. These experiences sparked his interest in communicating with subtle world souls.

Bapuji was courageous from a young age, which helped him overcome many obstacles. Alongside his studies in chartered accountancy (CA), he gave tuition classes to support himself financially. Later, he completed his Bachelor of Law (LLB) degree and became a well-known lawyer in Ahmedabad.

In 1997, he established a spiritual institution called “Vishwa Parivartak Ishwariya Vidhyalay” in Chenpur, Ahmedabad, with the mission of transforming this mortal world, filled with suffering and disorder, into an eternal divine world of immortality. Smt. Sushma Tandon, lovingly known as “Maa,” worked alongside Bapuji in this grand divine mission.

To accomplish this mission, Bapuji worked tirelessly, dedicating all his resources to this divine purpose. During that time, he would deliver continuous spiritual discourses for up to 18 hours without rest. In these discourses, he explained the highest dimensions of divine knowledge, which he realized through deep meditation and divine vision in a state of superconsciousness. This knowledge goes beyond the imagination of the ordinary human mind.

Bapuji's teachings cover a vast range of topics, including the types of celestial creators across different dimensions, the creation of our solar system, galaxy, and universe, and most importantly, the transcendental knowledge of the multiverse and realities beyond it. His knowledge is supremely profound and is intended for highly evolved seekers, referred to as "behad souls." According to Bapuji, these "behad souls" will play a key role in transforming this mortal world into an eternal divine realm.

At present, Bapuji remains deeply engaged in intense meditation and samadhi for long hours. He does not meet anyone, as he is continuously immersed in his transcendental mission in a superconscious state.

Preface

Preface

“Gyan Daan Maha Daan”

Sharing Knowledge is the highest Charity.

— Bapuji Dasbrathbhai Patel

Time travel is usually discussed as a physical possibility, but the deeper question is more meaningful: can the soul rise beyond the ordinary rules of time and experience existence at a higher level? This book is built around that question. It explores not only the idea of moving through time, but also the soul’s journey through space, karma, dimensions, memory, and power.

The real traveler is not the body. The real traveler is the atma (soul). When the soul changes stage, the relationship with time changes too. That is why time travel is not only a scientific puzzle. It is also a spiritual reality, a question of consciousness, and a matter of inner power.

This book presents a comprehensive synthesis of spiritual wisdom and cosmic theory, describing how the soul’s speed, Param Tatva (supreme elements), and karmic records influence our experience of past, present, and future. It explains why physical time travel to the past is not possible, yet transformation of the future remains achievable through spiritual awareness and purification of karma.

The knowledge discussed here also explores higher dimensions such as Brahmapuri, Vishnupuri, Shivpuri, and Paramdham, presenting a broader view of existence beyond the material universe. As humanity moves toward a future where science and spirituality converge, understanding the power of consciousness may open pathways to deeper peace, higher intelligence, and ultimately Paramshanti (supreme peace) for all souls.

Overview

This book explores:

- Whether time travel is truly possible
- What science says about a time machine
- What happens near the speed of light
- Why the physical world has limits
- How vayu yaan and ancient travel systems are understood
- Why some souls are star children, Saptarishis, or Brahmarishis
- How the yogi rises beyond body-consciousness
- How thought, sankalp, karma, and awareness shape the future

PART ONE

The Question of Time Travel

Chapter I

What Time Travel Really Means

Time travel is not only about moving from one date to another. It also means moving from one realm to another, one level of consciousness to another, and one identity to another. A soul that becomes subtler does not merely move in time; it changes its relationship with time itself. In that state, the body is no longer the master, and the soul becomes the true traveler.

A machine can imagine movement. The soul can live it. This is why time travel cannot be reduced to an experiment alone. It must be understood as a transformation of state, power and perception.

Chapter II

Can Science Make a Time Machine?

Science often imagines a time machine as a way to travel into the past or future. In theory, it explores the idea that time may bend under special conditions. But according to Bapuji's gyan, the biggest limitation lies in the very foundation on which science is working — sthoor tatva (gross physical elements).

Bapuji clearly explains that if a human-made machine, built from physical matter, tries to travel at or near the speed of light, a fundamental transformation will occur. The moment such a machine approaches extreme speed, the sthoor tatva which make up the body of the machine — like earth (mitti) and water (jal) elements — will be unable to sustain themselves. Due to intense friction and energy, they will convert into agni tatva (fire element). In simple words, the machine will not remain in its original form — it will burn, disintegrate, or transform into energy.

This means:

- A physical aircraft or time machine cannot survive at such extreme speeds
- The structure itself breaks down due to elemental limitations
- The journey cannot continue because the medium itself gets destroyed

So even if science reaches the speed of light, it does not mean successful time travel. The vehicle itself becomes unstable.

Bapuji further clarifies that the real issue is not just speed — it is the composition of the vehicle. Anything made purely of sthoor tatva is bound by limitation. It cannot cross into higher dimensions or subtle realms. Even if it travels fast within a solar system, the moment it tries to go beyond into subtler dimensions, it cannot sustain itself.

To go beyond this limitation, Bapuji explains that a different type of structure is required — one that is not purely physical. A vehicle must be composed of subtler elements like vayu tatva (air element), akash tatva (space element), and higher energetic principles. Only then can it withstand extreme speeds and cross dimensional boundaries.

This is where Bapuji gives the example of ancient vayu yaan — such as the one used by Ravana. That vehicle was not made of gross physical matter like modern machines. It was formed through sankalp shakti (power of thought) and operated at the speed of the mind. Because of this, it could travel across lokas (dimensions) without being destroyed.

This reveals a very deep difference:

- ◆ Modern science — works on physical matter — limited by destruction at high speed
- ◆ Ancient spiritual science — works on subtle elements — capable of multidimensional travel

Bapuji also explains that even if science dreams of exceeding the speed of light, it cannot do so with current physical technology. To cross that threshold, the medium itself must evolve into a higher elemental structure. Only then can speeds beyond light be sustained — and even then, it becomes a form of spiritual science, not material science.

So the final understanding is very clear: a time machine made from physical matter may be imagined, but it cannot truly function for higher travel. At extreme speed, it will either transform, burn, or collapse. The limitation is not in the idea of time travel — the limitation is in the level of matter being used.

That is why Bapuji shifts the focus from machines to the soul. Because the soul, when empowered and transformed, does not burn at speed. It does not break under pressure. It does not remain bound by stbool tatva. The real traveler is not the machine — it is the atma.

Chapter III

Can We Go to the Past or the Future?

The past can be seen as record. The future can be shaped by present power. But the past cannot simply be rewritten as if it never happened. What can change is the present stage of the soul, and that change creates a different future. That is the deeper law of time.

Going to the future is not just about moving forward in a calendar. It is about becoming the kind of soul that belongs to that future. If the soul remains weak, the future remains weak. If the soul becomes powerful, the future changes too.

Future events do not fully exist yet. However, future possibilities may be perceived through:

Intuition > dream experiences > subtle world interactions > influence of higher souls > karmic probability patterns

Some individuals who claim to see future may actually be:

experiencing symbolic dreams > influenced by subtle beings > interpreting subconscious recordings

Thus future predictions may reflect possibilities, not fixed outcomes.

Chapter IV

Can History Be Undone?

History can be known, understood, and remembered, but it cannot be erased. The record of the past already exists. It is stored. It is complete. That is why the past is not something to fight with; it is something to understand.

Bapuji reconfirms that these recordings exist in multiple layers with human beings:

Mind (Man), Intellect (Buddhi), Sanskar (impressions), Causal body, Subtle body

These layers store karmic records similar to data storage. Just as a recorded movie cannot be changed after filming, past events cannot be altered.

However, past events can be observed through:

Yogic vision, Deep meditation, dream state, soul memory access

The real work is not to undo history, but to use present awareness to shape a different future. Once the soul understands karma, the past becomes a lesson rather than a chain.

PART TWO

How Time Works

Chapter V

Time, Space, and Speed

Time never works alone. Time, space, and speed move together. In one realm, a moment can feel long. In another realm, a long period can pass differently. This is why the same soul can experience different worlds with different clocks.

On Earth, even time zones differ by location. But in higher realms, the difference becomes much deeper. Once the soul enters another level of existence, it enters another rhythm of time.

Chapter VI

What Happens Near the Speed of Light?

Physics says that when an object moves closer and closer to the speed of light, time behaves differently for that object. Time slows relative to outside observers. This is one reason scientists discuss time travel through extreme speed. But this still remains within the physical universe. It does not automatically give freedom from karma, body-consciousness, or the soul's deeper limitations.

A body cannot simply escape its own structure by moving fast. The stbool tatva still bind it. Even if science imagines extreme speed, that speed is still inside the physical cage. The soul's journey beyond time requires something deeper than velocity. It requires power, awareness, and stage.

Chapter VII

Gravity, Observation, and the Limits of Science

Science studies reality through gravity, motion, measurement, and observation. It can calculate patterns and predict behavior. But it is still limited by the instruments it uses. The deeper subtle world is not fully visible to such tools.

Observation itself is important. The observer does not remain separate from reality. Consciousness participates in reality. This is why science reaches a boundary where instruments stop, but awareness continues.

Chapter VIII

Wormholes, String Theory, and the God Particle

Science also imagines wormholes, string theory, and the God particle as signs that reality is subtler than it appears. A wormhole is imagined as a shortcut through space-time. String theory suggests that matter may be built from finer structures than ordinary particles. The God particle points toward a fundamental principle underlying creation.

These ideas are important because they show that science itself is reaching toward the edge of the visible world. Yet even these models are only partial. They point toward mystery, but they do not fully explain the soul, the source, or the higher order of existence.

Bapuji explains that advanced beings may not require wormholes. They use direct travel through Param Tatva pathways. Such travel may occur through: consciousness powered movement supreme element vehicles (param yaan).

PART THREE

The Soul as a Time Traveler

Chapter IX

Time Travelers on Earth

Many souls on Earth are not here for the first time. They have traveled from stars, galaxies, and higher cosmic regions. In that sense, they are already time travelers. They came here, entered the human stage, and forgot their origin under the pressure of the physical world.

Some souls feel out of place in a purely Earth-bound identity because they carry a larger memory. Their inner feeling says, “I have come from somewhere else.” That feeling is not imagination; it is remembrance waiting to awaken.

Chapter X

Manushya as Time Traveler

The human being is not merely a body living in one timeline. The human being is a soul that has traveled through different stages and entered this world carrying a record. Because of this, manushya is already a time traveler in the deeper spiritual sense.

The body may walk on Earth, but the soul has crossed many thresholds. Human life becomes meaningful when that hidden journey is remembered. Without remembrance, the soul feels ordinary. With remembrance, it realises its real role in creation.

Chapter XI

Star Child, Saptarishi, and Brahmarishi

Not every soul has the same origin or the same role. Some are star children, carrying a wider cosmic memory. Some are Saptarishi-type souls, highly elevated and guiding by nature. Some are Brahmarishi souls, whose stage is extremely refined and powerful.

These categories show that souls are not identical in quality or origin. Some come with a stronger connection to higher worlds. Some carry a teaching role. Some carry a deep power to guide transformation. Their journey may appear human, but their interior story is far larger.

Chapter XII

Why Souls Forget Their Origin

The soul forgets because coverings are added. The pressure of maya, desire, attachment, and the five-element atmosphere causes remembrance to fade. The soul begins to think, “I am only this body,” even though its origin is much subtler.

This forgetfulness is not final. It is the condition from which awakening begins. The soul does not need a new truth. It needs its own original truth to return.

Chapter XIII

The Mahima of the Yogi Purush

A yogi is not only someone who meditates. A yogi is one who becomes powerful enough to move beyond body-consciousness. A yogi is able to rise above the pull of time because the yogi receives power from the Supreme and becomes subtler inside.

This is why karmatit stage matters. The yogi purush does not remain bound by ordinary action. By becoming free from binding karm, the soul gains the inner weightlessness required for higher travel.

Chapter XIV

Sthool Tatva and Their Limitations

The physical body is built from sthool tatva. These elements are useful for Earth life, but they are limited. They require food, air, rest, and environment. They age, wear out, and remain bound by gravity, time, and density.

Because of these limits, the gross body cannot cross into higher realms by itself. It cannot free itself from time. That is why time travel in the ordinary physical sense has a boundary. The body can imagine distance, but it cannot transcend its own structure without a subtler power.

Chapter XV

How a Soul Travels Beyond Space and Time

A soul travels beyond space and time when it becomes atma swaroop and receives power from the source. In that condition, the soul no longer remains stuck in the narrow logic of the physical world. It becomes lighter, clearer, and more capable of higher movement.

The real movement is inward and upward. When the soul rises in consciousness, it also rises beyond the limits that bind the body. This is the true meaning of crossing space-time.

PART FOUR

Future, Thought, and Karma

Chapter XVI

Can the Future Be Changed?

Yes. The future can change, but not by blind wish. It changes through inner transformation. If the soul changes its stage, its future changes. If the soul changes its karm, its future changes. If the soul becomes stronger, the shape of destiny changes with it.

This means that the future is not only something to be seen. It is something to be made. The soul that becomes conscious can shape what is coming.

Chapter XVII

Sankalp, Thought, and Sakar Creation

Thought is powerful when consciousness is powerful. A weak soul thinks; a strong soul creates. This is the difference between ordinary thinking and sankalp. A clear sankalp becomes force, and force becomes visible form.

This is why the future is not separate from present consciousness. What the soul repeatedly holds in awareness begins to form its world. That is why the right sankalp matters.

Chapter XVIII

Can the World's Karma Change?

The world's karma changes when the atmosphere of consciousness changes. One soul may not transform the entire world alone, but a field of awakened souls can shift the subtle environment. The outer world changes later, but the inner field changes first.

This is the spiritual law of transformation: change the consciousness, and the direction of the world begins to change with it.

Avoiding Individual Karma Through Higher Dimension Travel

According to Bapuji Some advanced yogis temporarily leave physical dimension using subtle body. They travel to higher realms until karmic impact reduces. Such examples appear in stories of Rishis and Munis. During cosmic destruction cycles (Pralaya): advanced souls shift to higher dimensions.

PART FIVE

Scriptures, Vehicles, and Cosmic Time

Chapter XIX

Ram, Ravana and Scriptural Time

According to Bapuji's knowledge (gyan), what we call “history” in scriptures is not just a sequence of past events — it is part of a cosmic system governed by karma, roles, and time-bound order. Every event that has happened, whether in the era of Ram or Ravana, is already recorded at multiple levels of the soul.

Bapuji explains that whatever has happened in the past cannot be changed because:

- Every action becomes a permanent recording in the soul
- It is also recorded in mind, intellect, sanskars, and even different layers of bodies
- The actors of that time (the souls playing roles) have already moved forward in time

This means scriptural events are not just stories — they are completed cycles of karmic execution.

That is why:

- ◆ One can see or understand the past through yogic power
- ◆ But one can never enter it physically or alter it

So Ram and Ravana are not merely characters of a finished story. They represent roles played within a fixed cosmic timeline, governed by karma and dharma. The lesson is not to change their time — but to understand how time, karma, and roles operate together.

Chapter XX

Vayu Yaan and Ancient Travel Systems

Bapuji gives a very clear and powerful explanation about ancient travel systems, especially the concept of vayu yaan.

He explains that Ravana's vehicle was not made of stbool tatva (gross elements) like today's machines. If it had been, it would have burned or disintegrated at high speed and failed to cross into higher lokas.

Instead, Ravana's vehicle was:

- Created through sankalp shakti (power of thought)
- Based on vayu tatva (air element) and subtle principles
- Capable of moving at the speed of mind

Because of this, it could travel across multiple lokas (three worlds) effortlessly.

This reveals a deeper truth:

- ◆ Ancient systems were not mechanical — they were consciousness-driven
- ◆ Movement was not dependent on fuel or engines — but on inner power and subtle elements

Bapuji also emphasises that modern science, working only on physical elements, can never replicate this fully. True multidimensional travel requires transition from gross matter to subtle and higher elements.

Chapter XXI

Brahmapuri, Higher Lokas, and Different Clocks

Bapuji explains that time is not universal in the way humans think. It is relative to the loka (realm) in which a soul exists.

Just as a person going from India to another country follows that country's time, when a soul enters another loka, it comes under that loka's time system.

This means:

- Earth has its own time
- Brahmapuri has a different time
- Vishnupuri, Shivpuri, and Paramdham all operate on completely different time scales

Bapuji explains that in some higher realms, what is one second there can equal lakhs of years on Earth. This shows that time is not fixed — it changes based on the dimension, the speed and vibration of that realm, and the authority governing that realm.

So when a soul travels to higher lokas, it is not just changing location — it is entering a completely different rhythm of existence.

Chapter XXII

Brahma, Mahashiv, and the Rules of Cosmic Time

Bapuji explains that time is not random or chaotic — it is structured and governed by higher authorities at different cosmic levels. In this brahmand, time operates through Brahma's system. Even though Shiv is the master, the flow of time is structured through Brahma's cycle, and the duration of the universe is fixed according to this system.

He further explains a deeper hierarchy:

- Brahma governs time at one level
- Mahashiv governs at a much higher cosmic level
- Beyond that, time becomes so vast that human understanding cannot measure it

A very profound point Bapuji gives: a single moment at a higher level — like Mahashiv's domain — can equal Brahma's hundreds of years. Time expands as we move higher. Its speed and scale change drastically. It is always aligned with the authority of that dimension.

The final understanding is that time is not one single flow for all existence. It is a layered, governed, and hierarchical system. And the soul moves through these layers based on its stage, its power, and its karmic condition. That is why true time travel is not just movement — it is ascension through cosmic order.

PART SIX

Returning Home

Chapter XXIII

What the Soul Must Do to Travel

If the soul wants real travel, it must first rise above body-consciousness. It must become atma swaroop, gather power, and become karmatit. Only then can it leave the limits of the physical cage and enter higher movement.

This is the deep requirement of time travel: not a device, but a state. The soul must become light enough to move beyond the boundaries that bind it.

Chapter XXIV

Returning to the Source

The purpose of time travel is not entertainment. It is return. The soul has wandered, forgotten, and lived many stages. Now it must remember the source from which it came. That source is not a place on Earth. It is the home of consciousness beyond limitation.

When remembrance becomes strong, the soul stops being lost in the clock of the world. It begins its return journey. That is the highest journey of all.

Closing Reflection

Time is not only something that passes. Time is something that teaches. It binds the body, but it can also wake the soul. It creates history, but it also stores record. It seems to move outward, but its true meaning is discovered inward. When the soul becomes powerful, time stops being a prison and becomes a path. That is the real meaning of time travel.

“Gyan Daan Maha Daan”

Sharing Knowledge is the Highest Charity

— Bapuji Dasbrathbbhai Patel

Time does not limit the soul. It only limits the body.

This book explores time beyond clocks and calendars. It invites you to look deeper — where time is not just movement, but experience. Not something to escape, but something to understand.

The real journey begins within.
