About Bapuji

Bapuji (full name: Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel, also lovingly called “Dadaji” by the younger generation) was born in 1956 in the small village of Akhaj in the Mehsana district of Gujarat. However, he spent his childhood in another village named Ambasan, also located in the Mehsana district.

In the early part of his life, he was a highly successful lawyer. Later, he devoted his life to realizing the supreme spiritual truth and bringing this divine knowledge forward for the welfare of humanity. Today, this supreme knowledge serves as a guiding light for true seekers to realize their ultimate destiny. It is a blessing of the highest divinity that the present time is witnessing the rise of this supreme spiritual knowledge, guiding souls on Earth to return to their original source.

Despite being raised in a very poor family and facing challenging circumstances, Bapuji had a deep desire to transform this sorrowful and suffering world into a better place. At the young age of six, he questioned God repeatedly, asking why God remained silent about the suffering of humanity. This intense longing to end human suffering eventually led him to attain the highest level of spirituality later in life.

Even as a child, Bapuji would spend hours alone in the fields, often neglecting his own comfort. Due to poverty, he would walk barefoot without shoes or sandals, frequently getting pricked by thorns. Many times, he would stay late in the fields and, on his way back home, encounter subtle world entities. These experiences sparked his interest in communicating with subtle world souls.

Bapuji was courageous from a young age, which helped him overcome many obstacles. Alongside his studies in chartered accountancy (CA), he gave tuition classes to support himself financially. Later, he completed his Bachelor of Law (LLB) degree and became a well-known lawyer in Ahmedabad.

In 1997, he established a spiritual institution called “Vishwa Parivartak Ishwariya Vidhyalay” in Chenpur, Ahmedabad, with the mission of transforming this mortal world, filled with suffering and disorder, into an eternal divine world of immortality. Smt. Sushma Tandon, lovingly known as “Maa,” worked alongside Bapuji in this grand divine mission.

To accomplish this mission, Bapuji worked tirelessly, dedicating all his resources to this divine purpose. During that time, he would deliver continuous spiritual discourses for up to 18 hours without rest. In these discourses, he explained the highest dimensions of divine knowledge, which he realized through deep meditation and divine vision in a state of superconsciousness. This knowledge goes beyond the imagination of the ordinary human mind.

Bapuji's teachings cover a vast range of topics, including the types of celestial creators across different dimensions, the creation of our solar system, galaxy, and universe, and most importantly, the transcendental knowledge of the multiverse and realities beyond it. His knowledge is supremely profound and is intended for highly evolved seekers, referred to as "behad souls." According to Bapuji, these "behad souls" will play a key role in transforming this mortal world into an eternal divine realm.

At present, Bapuji remains deeply engaged in intense meditation and samadhi for long hours. He does not meet anyone, as he is continuously immersed in his transcendental mission in a superconscious state.

— by Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel

Long ago, in the age of the Mahabharat, a Yaksha (a being of the subtle world) stopped Yudhishthir on his path. He asked a series of deep questions about life, soul and the Divine. Yudhishthir answered each one with great wisdom. His answers were perfect for that age and time. But the world has changed. New doubts have risen in the modern mind. So these same questions have been placed once more before Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel. And Bapuji answers each one afresh, in the light of supreme knowledge.

This small book gathers those questions and their answers. Each answer is short. Yet each one holds a whole world within it.

You do not need any earlier knowledge. You only need an open heart. Question by question, a clear picture of life will form within you. You will see who you are, why you are here, and where your true home lies.

May these answers give you peace, clarity, and the sure feeling that you have understood.

CHAPTER ONE

Who Am I? — You Are the Soul

The first and greatest question

Long ago, the Yaksh stopped Yudhishthir and asked the deepest question a person can ask. He asked, “Who are you?” Bapuji answers that same question here, in a single breath.

Bapuji’s answer is simple and complete. You are the atma (the soul). You are not the body. The body is only a garment you wear. The true You lives within it. What does this soul look like? The soul is a point of pure white light. It is tiny dot like a width of single hair, yet it is your real self. The body will age and fall away one day. The soul never does.

Yaksh then asked another question to Yudhishthir. Among all things, what is truly permanent? In this whole world, what never ends?

Bapuji answers same questions here without pause. Only the soul is permanent. Only the soul stays, always. Everything else comes and goes. The soul alone remains.

And what is impermanent? Yaksh compared it to a drop of water resting on a lotus leaf. It sits for a moment, then slips away. Bapuji’s answer is clear. In this life, everything is impermanent. This is a perishable world — a world that must one day end.

Homes, wealth, name, even the body itself — all pass. Only the soul does not pass. So hold this first truth gently. You are not the body that fades. You are the soul that stays.

IN SIMPLE WORDS

You are not the body. You are the atma — the soul.

The soul is a point of pure white light.

Everything in this world ends one day.

Only the soul is permanent.

In the next chapter, Bapuji answers another great question. Does the Divine exist, and what is its true form?

C H A P T E R   T W O

Does the Divine Exist?

Ishwar and the Almighty

Every honest heart asks this one day. Is there a Divine power behind all this? Yaksh asked it too in his interaction with Yudhisthir. Bapuji's answers here are short, but they open a vast sky.

Bapuji answers at once, Divine exists. And here, he says, is the proof. You exist. The Brahmand (the solar system) exists. The Maha Brahmand (the galaxy) exists. The Param Maha Brahmand (the universe) exists. Even the multiverse exists. All this order and vastness is itself the proof. God exists.

The next question followed by Yaksh was about Divine's form. Is the Divine male, or female? What form does it hold?

Bapuji answers gently keeping in mind modern times and age. There are many kinds of creation, each one different. So the true Divine is nirakar (formless). It is beyond male and female. That form is formless. Bapuji continues that it is the original one — the one the ancients called Parabrahma Parameshwar (the Supreme, formless Divine). To experience it is not easy. Even to understand it is hard. Yet it is real.

Yaksh's curiosity continues to ask an intriguing question to Yudhisthir, what does Divine do? What is his nature of work? Bapuji considerably answers this in modern times--- God watches over the entire creation. Through Brahma, creation takes place; through Vishnu, it is sustained; and through Shankar, dissolution takes place. The vast cycle of creation, sustenance, and dissolution unfolds according to the Supreme Authority's order.

Then came a bold question: “Who created God?”

Bapuji takes the answer beyond the ordinary understanding of God. Shiv was created by Mahashiv, and Mahashiv by one higher still. Go higher, and higher, and higher—until the search reaches the Supreme, the Almighty Authority, the ultimate source of all.

Then Yaksh asks the final question: “Who, then, created the Almighty?”

Here, Bapuji's answer is clear. The Almighty is Swayambhu—self-existent. Anyone never created it. There is no one above it who could have created it. The Almighty simply is.

This leads to one final question: Who is truly wise?

Bapuji gives the answer in a single line: The one who knows the Almighty is truly wise.

IN SIMPLE WORDS

God exists. All this vast creation is the proof.

The Divine is nirakar — formless, beyond male and female.

The Almighty was never created. It is self-existent.

To know the Almighty is true wisdom.

In the next chapter, Bapuji explains why we are born at all, and why life holds sorrow.

Karma, Birth, and Destiny

Why we are born, and why there is sorrow

If the soul is eternal, why does it take birth? And why is there so much pain in life? Yaksh asks these profound questions. Bapuji's answers point to one fundamental law: the law of karma—the law by which our actions bring corresponding results.

Yaksh then asks, “What is the purpose of life?”

Bapuji gives a direct answer: The purpose of human life is to attain the Almighty. That is why we have received this human birth. Everything else is part of the journey; this is the ultimate destination.

Then comes another question: “What is the cause of birth?”

Bapuji explains that birth and death are not separate. They form one continuous cycle. To take birth is to enter this cycle, and the soul remains caught in it because of the bonds created by its own karma.

Yaksh asked why there is sorrow in the world. Bapuji's answer is honest and clear. The soul suffers by its own account of karma. What we send out returns to us. Our own past actions shape what we now feel.

Then came a tender question. “Why did God create suffering?”

God did not create suffering, says Bapuji with clarity and compassion. He made a beautiful cosmos. But as creation unfolded, some souls slowly lost soul power and fell to lower dimensions. Gradually those divine soul became human. And it is by their own wrong actions / thoughts that they now taste both joy and sorrow. The fault does not lie with the Divine.

“What, then, is destiny?” Yaksh asks.

Bapuji gives a simple answer: Destiny is the result of our own karma. It is not something imposed upon us from outside. Our destiny is shaped, step by step, by our own actions and the account of those actions.

Yaksh then asks, “What is the cause of misfortune?”

Bapuji's answer is clear: Our own karma is the cause. The difficulties and unfavourable circumstances we experience arise from the results of our past actions.

Then comes the question: “What is good fortune?”

Bapuji gives a deeper answer. True good fortune is to become gyan swaroop—the embodiment of knowledge. It is to know the true Self, to attain Self-Realisation. This inner awakening is the highest fortune a person can attain.

I N   S I M P L E   W O R D S

The purpose of life is to attain the Almighty.

Birth and death are one wheel; karma keeps us turning in it.

We suffer by our own past actions, not by the Divine's will.

Destiny is made from our own karma.

Self-realisation is our truest good fortune.

In the next chapter, Bapuji explains the great power that keeps the soul asleep — Maya.

CHAPTER FOUR

Maya and the Five Vices

The great illusion that keeps the soul asleep

Something keeps the soul from seeing the truth. It is present, yet it is not real. Bapuji, like the ancient sages, recalls it one name — Maya. This chapter is about that illusion, and the vices it breeds.

Yaksh asked a riddle. What is it that exists, and yet does not exist? Bapuji answers in one word. That is Maya (illusion). It seems to be here. But once you are established in soul-consciousness, its hold is dissolved. Then, for you, it no longer exists.

“So what, exactly, is Maya?” Yaksh asked. Bapuji makes it simple. Whatever perishes — that itself is Maya. Every passing, breakable thing belongs to it. Maya is the world of things that do not last.

Yaksh asked about attachment. What is it? Attachment means Maya, says Bapuji. To be caught in illusion, to cling to what fades — that clinging is attachment.

“And intoxication — what is that?” Yaksh asked. Bapuji answers plainly. It is the intoxication of Illusion- Maya. To be drunk on passing things is the only real nasha (intoxication).

Then a sharp question. “Who is a thief?” A thief, says Bapuji, is one who falls under Maya. Such a person is caught in the five vices. These are kaam (lust), krodh (anger), lobh (greed), moh (attachment), and ahankar (ego). These five quietly rob the soul of its peace.

Yaksh asked, “Who is asleep even while awake?” Bapuji answers. The one trapped in vices, who gives sorrow to others, is asleep even with open eyes. Such a person walks and talks, yet the soul within has not woken. Those lost in ego and vice live in just this way.

One question remains. Why does a person not love everyone? Because he is ignorant, says Bapuji, and so he is bound by illusion- Maya. When the soul does not know itself, it cannot love all. Knowledge alone can open that door.

I N   S I M P L E   W O R D S

Maya is illusion — it seems real, but it does not last.

Whatever perishes is Maya. Clinging to it is attachment.

The five vices — lust, anger, greed, attachment, ego — rob the soul.

One trapped in vice is asleep even while awake.

We fail to love all because we do not yet know the soul.

In the next chapter, Bapuji explains what happens to such a soul after death.

CHAPTER FIVE

Beyond Death

Hell, karma, and the subtle world

What happens when the body falls? Does the soul simply vanish? Yaksh touched this mystery, and Bapuji answers with steady calm. Death is not the end — it is only a turning.

Yaksh asked, “What is narak (hell)?” Bapuji answers in one line. To suffer is narak. Wherever a soul is in deep pain, that itself is hell. It is a state, more than a place.

“After death, who gives the soul its torment?” Yaksh asked. No one gives it from outside, says Bapuji. After death, the soul itself suffers by its own karma. In the sukshma (subtle) world, it may wander as a bhoot or pret (a ghost or spirit). Its own past actions become its own path.

Here Bapuji opens the truth a little wider. When a person dies, the sanskar (the deep impression of the soul) does not change at the moment of death. If that character was full of vice, the soul carries the same restlessness into the subtle world. There it wanders, unsettled, as a spirit.

Bapuji explains the law of karma with great care. When a soul performs grave sinful karmas, its inner soul power declines. In earlier ages, such a soul could descend through the 84 lakh yonis—the 8.4 million forms of life, including animal births. This was the earlier system.

But, Bapuji explains, this system has gradually changed. A soul does not fall to a lower stage because of the actions of just one or two births. Its stage declines only over pro-longed period of time. The process is always gradual, never sudden.

There is also a provision of mercy within this law. When a soul leaves the body in ignorance, it is given another birth—a new opportunity and a new character. It gets a chance to change itself. If it uses that opportunity and turns toward knowledge, it can rise again. But if it refuses to change and continues to strengthen and spread its faults, it remains bound to the cycle of birth and death.

I N   S I M P L E   W O R D S

Hell is a state more than a place — to suffer is narak.

After death, the soul reaps its own karma; none torments it from outside.

If the inner character does not change, the soul wanders as a restless spirit.

Heavy wrong actions lower the soul's power, but only over a very long time.

Every soul is given fresh chances to change and rise.

This leads to Bapuji's greatest message in these questions. The world is never changed by war. It is changed only by knowledge.

CHAPTER SIX

War Never Changes the World

Only knowledge, never war, can change the world

---

The questions of Yaksh were first asked in the age of the Mahabharat. So Bapuji was asked about that great war itself. His answer carries the very heart of this knowledge — and it is a message of peace. A great war was fought, long ago, on a vast field. After it ended, did the world truly become better? Bapuji answers honestly. War never brings true change upon the earth.

He explains why. In that ancient war, weapons of terrible power were used — Bapuji compares them to the atomic weapons of today. A single arrow could break into thousands. The very air and atmosphere were harmed. Great destruction fell upon all sides. And what of the souls who died there? Whoever fell — even the mighty — died in a state of ignorance. Their inner character was not corrected by dying. So their souls were not uplifted. The body was lost, but the soul did not rise.

This is why Bapuji says, plainly, that a physical war has no real meaning. It ends bodies. It does not change hearts. The world looks no wiser after the smoke clears.

Then where is the real battle? The true war, says Bapuji, should be between knowledge and ignorance. That is the only war worth fighting. Souls must be transformed from within — and only knowledge can do that work.

Bapuji gives the seeker a great and simple truth. You are the soul. And the soul is its own friend, and its own enemy. No one else binds you; no one else frees you.

He goes further, with hope. Do noble deeds, and from a mere soul you can rise to become one with the Supreme. Only knowledge changes the sanskar (the soul's character). And only through changed souls does the world itself change.

After that great war, a mighty yajna (a sacred fire offering) was performed to bring peace to the land. Such rites may bring comfort, Bapuji notes. But the deeper question always remains — what became of the souls? Their true peace, too, waits upon knowledge.

So this is the answer for our age. Not the sword, but the light. Not war, but knowledge. This is how the world will truly change.

I N   S I M P L E   W O R D S

War ends bodies, but it never changes hearts.

Those who die in ignorance are not uplifted by dying.

The only real war is between knowledge and ignorance.

You are the soul — your own friend, and your own enemy.

The world changes only when souls change, and only knowledge can change a soul.

In the next chapter, Bapuji shows the way of inner victory — mastering the mind, and ending fear.

CHAPTER SEVEN

The Inner Victory

Mastering the mind, ending fear, loving all

Knowledge must become practice. So Yaksh asked how a person wins the inner battle. It is a battle over the restless mind, over fear, and over sorrow. Bapuji's answers form a quiet path anyone can walk.

Yaksh asked for the secret of happiness and peace. Bapuji answers. Let go of moh (attachment), and become established in your own true self — the soul. Peace is not found outside. It is found the moment you rest in the soul.

“How can one control the mann (the mind)?” Yaksh asked. Bapuji gives one key. To master the mind, you must become atma swaroop — established as the soul consciousness. When you truly know you are the soul, the mind grows still on its own.

Yaksh asked what one should think about, day and night. Stay as the soul, says Bapuji, and remember Paramatma (the Supreme). Let that remembrance be your steady thought, morning and night. This is the simplest practice, and the deepest.

“Who can conquer the whole world?” Yaksh asked. The one who knows the Supreme and rests as the soul, says Bapuji. Such a one becomes jitendriya (a master of the senses). He rises above the pull of the five senses, and so he is never again ruled by Maya.

Then came a question about fear. How can a person be free of it? Bapuji answers with a deep, simple truth. Desire itself is a kind of ignorance. When that desire ends, fear ends with it. A soul that wants nothing has nothing to fear.

“Who, then, is truly free?” Yaksh asked. The soul that has become gyan swaroop — the embodiment of knowledge, says Bapuji. Freedom is not escape from the world. It is the light of knowledge, risen fully within.

Yaksh asked what ignorance is. Bapuji answers in a line. To be without knowledge — that is ignorance. Nothing more, and nothing less. “And who is free from all sorrows?” Yaksh asked. Those who attain jeevan mukti, says Bapuji — liberation while still living. Free within, they are no longer touched by sorrow, even here on earth.

One last question closes the chapter. What is true love? Bapuji's answer is wide as the sky. True love is to love the whole world. Wish for the welfare of every being. That feeling, held for all, is real love.

I N S I M P L E W O R D S

Let go of attachment and rest in the soul — that is peace.

Master the mind by truly knowing you are the soul.

Remember the Supreme, day and night.

End desire, and fear ends with it.

True freedom is the light of knowledge; true love wishes good for all.

In the final chapter, Bapuji answers the greatest question of all — what is the supreme truth?

CHAPTER EIGHT

The Supreme Truth

Liberation and the final goal — Param Satya

Now the questions rise to their peak. Yaksh asks about liberation itself, and about the highest truth a soul can ever know. Bapuji's final answers gather the whole book into a few shining lines.

Yaksh asked, "Who is free from birth and death?" Bapuji answers. The one who becomes gyan swaroop — the embodiment of knowledge — and rises above this perishable world. Such a soul steps out of the wheel of birth and death for good.

"What, then, is mukti (liberation)?" Yaksh asked. Bapuji answers with quiet certainty. Rest fully as the soul, and go to Paramdham (the supreme, formless abode of light). To reach that home while still living is jeevan mukti — the truest freedom.

Yaksh asked, "Who can destroy all sorrows?" Knowledge, says Bapuji. Only supreme knowledge. Not wealth, not power, not any outer thing. The end of all sorrow is knowledge alone.

And so Yaksh asked the last and greatest question. "What is the supreme truth — Param Satya?" Bapuji answers slowly, for this truth is not small. To know your own self. To become established as the soul. To know the Almighty. This is the beginning of the supreme truth.

But it does not end there, says Bapuji. It is also to know the behad (the limitless creation. To understand the secret of its beginning and its middle. To reach the karmateet state (the state beyond all karma). And then to turn outward — to help transform the world of others.

The supreme truth is to give happiness to all, says Bapuji. To wish peace for the whole world. To give knowledge freely to every soul. And to become, yourself, the very embodiment of knowledge. This — all of this, together — is Param Satya, the supreme truth.

With that, the questions of Yaksh are answered — not for one age alone, but for ours.

I N S I M P L E W O R D S

Become the embodiment of knowledge, and the wheel of birth and death ends.

Liberation is to rest as the soul and reach Paramdham.

Only supreme knowledge can destroy all sorrow.

The supreme truth is to know your self, the Almighty, and the limitless creation.

And then to give happiness, peace, and knowledge to the whole world.

EVERY DAY MEN DIE — YET EACH ONE LIVES AS IF HE NEVER WILL.

In the age of the Mahabharat, a Yaksha stopped Yudhishtir beside a still lake and asked the deepest questions a soul can ever face. Who are you? What is permanent? What is death? What is the supreme truth?

Those answers were perfect for that age. But the world has changed, and new doubts have risen in the modern mind. So the same eternal questions have been placed once more before Bapuji Dashrathbhai Patel — and answered afresh, in the light of supreme knowledge.

YOU ARE NOT THE BODY. YOU ARE THE SOUL —
A POINT OF PURE WHITE LIGHT.

Question by question, a clear picture of life forms within you: who you are, why you are here, and where your true home lies.
